PREFACE.

In January, 1882, at the earnest solicitation of our beloved brother Dr. Ariel Ballou, since deceased, and our highly esteemed cousin, Hon. Latimer W. Ballou, I reluctantly engaged to compile and edit this work. It had been commenced long before by Ira B. Peck, Esq., and much preliminary labor and expense bestowed on it. The new proprietors negotiated for his interest therein and documentary data, obligating themselves on his requirement to include, so far as practicable, the female branches of descent along with the male lineages. I was instructed to govern myself accordingly, and pursuant to contract Mr. Peck handed over to me all his letters, papers, memoranda and beginnings. I soon found I had undertaken a laborious, complicated and tedious task. But through divine favor I have been spared to accomplish it, with the aid of numerous helpers, including my devoted wife, all of whom are entitled to my appreciative gratitude. So here at last is this huge production, a book much larger than any of us anticipated, containing more than 1200 octavo pages, over 9000 names, and numerous artistic illustrations, printed and bound in most creditable style. We trust the mechanics will receive their dues of honor as well as of cash. For myself I shall be contented with whatever awards may come. Plenty of errors and short comings will be discovered to plead for charitable allowance. But I have done my best to give satisfaction to all parties interested, and leave my performance to their judgment. Notwithstanding its huge size hundreds of Ballous remain unregistered in it, unknown or never reported to me. None of them have been intentionally ignored or slighted on my part. My chief regret is that my dear brother, the senior publisher, was called hence before the completion of his darling undertaking. But so it was ordered from above, and I reverently acquiesce. He departed this life July 15, 1887, in his 82d year, and received due funeral honors. Since then our venerable cousin, Elizabeth (Ballou) Garfield has been summoned to the immortal home, Jan. 21, 1888, in her 87th year, and several others of our kindred who hoped to behold this long promised volume. An octogenarian remnant of our great cousinhood linger a little longer on the shore of mortality to fulfill their earthly mission. Of these I am one; and now, on the verge of my 85th year, send my best benedictions along with this Family Memorial to all who may welcome it, hoping that it will impart good cheer to many and harm to none.

INTRODUCTION.

The Work, hereby introduced, is a History and Genealogy of the Ballous in America. The vast majority of these descended from Maturin Ballou, a co-proprietor with Roger Williams, the Colonial founder of Rhode Island, in his Providence Plantations. Maturin¹ appears first on record among those co-proprietors in 1646. He subscribed his name Mathurin Bellow. His descendants resolved it into Maturin Ballou. The ignorance or caprice of scribes sometimes wrote both the given and surname in various uncouth ways. His progeny have generally felt more or less curiosity to learn his nativity and pedigree, but have not yet reached complete gratification. Some approximation has been made, but the clouds have not been entirely dispersed. It has been a universal tradition through several generations, that we are of French descent. Of this there seems to be no doubt. Another tradition has always been cherished along with this, and held very sacred, that our ancestors were Huguenots. We are in danger of having this favorite legend exploded. Critical investigation finds no proof of its truth. The evidence is against it. We shall have to abandon it, however reluctantly. The very strong probability, if not absolute certainty, is, that we are the remote descendants of a Norman Chieftain, who, in 1066, came over from France into England with William the Conqueror. In the year 1884 the proprietors of this History and Genealogy commissioned Frederick M. Ballou, Esq., to visit Europe, and if possible ascertain the ancestry of Maturin Ballou, and whatever else of importance marked his embarkment for this country. The execution of that commission was reported toward the close of the year substantially as follows.—

1. That he had made an exhaustive examination of the principal matters committed to his charge, and especially the origin of Maturin Ballou—in which he had been assisted by the best genealogical talent that could be procured; that he had availed himself of exceptionally favorable opportunities and privileges; that he had corresponded with intelligent Protestant clergymen in the southern districts of France; that he had carefully acquainted himself with all the relevant documents in the Reading Room of the British Museum, in the National Library of Paris, and in English Parish archives; and that he had been prevented only by limitation of time and means from reaching demonstratively the pedigree of our Rhode Island progenitor. We can but deplore those limitations.

2. That he had satisfied himself, beyond reasonable doubt, that Maturin Ballou was not one of the Huguenots, nor in any way intimately connected with them, but was of Norman-French descent in one of the junior lineages of the Anglo Norman stock.

3. That in tracing the history of the Anglo Norman Ballous, he had found that their French ancestor, Guinebond Balou, was probably a Marshal in the army of William the Conqueror, and fought in the decisive battle of Hastings, 1066; that some of his descendants dwelt in the English County of Sussex till late in the 14th century, where they were extensive landholders, and held important Governmental offices, both in State and Church; that in later successive periods many of them settled in other counties of England and in Ireland, and held large Baronial estates there; that in England and Ireland the aristocratic Bellows have preserved an unbroken descent of domains and titles for at least 600 years; that in the English County of Devonshire, they have long enjoyed distinguished heritages and honors; that the ancient Norman Coat of Arms, with slight variation, is universal with Belles of all localities in England; and that their surname there, as here, has been orthographically various, to the extent of over a dozen spellings—Belou Ballowe, Bellou, &c., &c., but at present is most prevalently written Bellew,

4. That a striking resemblance of physical structure and complexion is plainly observable in the Devonshire Belles to the stalwartness and floridity of the old type Rhode Island Ballous, strongly indicative of hereditary kinship.

5. That our immigrant ancestor, Maturin Ballou¹, was almost certainly "the younger son of a younger son of a good family in Devonshire," England, born probably between 1610 and '20, who like all the unendowed offshoots of feudal nobility, had to seek his fortune for himself, and chose emigration to America.

At length our anxious cousin felt obliged to discontinue his researches and return home, leaving undemonstrated the pedigree he had so nearly ascertained, as also the very desirable particulars of Maturin Ballou's embarkment for this continent. He concludes his report with the following words.—"I can only express the hope that some younger and more ambitious member of the family will continue the investigation, and give to the world the full pedigree of the Belles, tracing them from their landing in England, in 1066, down through the several Counties in England and Ireland to the emigration of Mathurin Bellew from Devonshire to New England."

REMARKS.

1. Our researcher stored himself with historical corroborations, amplifications, illustrations, and genealogical tabulations, not necessary or expedient to present in this Introduction, but which will all be preserved for future reference and use.

2. On many important points his statements and conclusions coincide entirely with information long since obtained by Ira B. Peck, Esq., our pioneer in this work, through correspondence with eminent English genealogists.

3. F. M. Ballou, Esq., obtained no reliable clews or hints concerning the embarkation of Maturin¹ for America—the date, the port of departure, the ship in which he sailed, or any of the conditions under which he took passage. We know that stringent restrictions on emigration existed in those days—that many were obliged to enter themselves as servants to influential masters, though really acting on their own account—and that large numbers had to ship nominally for the West Indies who secretly intended to settle in the northern Continental Colonies. These facts complicate and embarrass inquiry into cases not otherwise clear. But whatever the difficulties in Maturin Ballou's case, all the particulars yet remain to be ascertained. And the same clouds obscure the time and place of his arrival in New England.

4. In respect to his religious faith, antecedents and associations in England, we may confidently assume that he was a radical Non-Conformist of some kind—most likely an Independent; otherwise he would never have joined Roger Williams in the Providence Plantations. Doubtless the Aristocratic Bellevs have always belonged to the Roman Catholic or to the Protestant Episcopal Church. But hosts of their junior relatives became Dissenters in the various denominations.

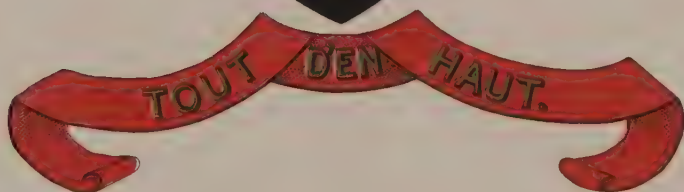

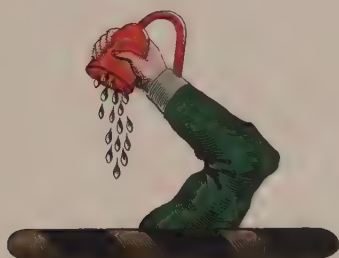

5. How the old and wide-spread tradition originated among our American Ballous North and South, that their immigrant ancestors were French Huguenots, we know not, and can only conjecture. Possibly it may have started with some early statement of those ancestors, that they held essentially the cardinal principles of the Huguenots and sympathized with them. But the notion that they fled from persecution in France, on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, which has been sometimes affirmed, is refuted by simple dates. For that Edict was revoked Oct. 22, 1685, nearly 40 years after the earliest Ballous had emigrated to America.

6. It seems proper to state that our American records furnish authentic information of only three Ballous who were contemporary immigrants to this country, viz.: Maturin, Robert and William. Of Maturin we need not here further speak. Robert was a settler and landholder in Portsmouth on the Island of Rhode Island, in 1643, but died in Boston, Mass., during the year 1668. In his Will, which was duly probated, he mentions his wife Susannah, two daughters, a son, a son-in-law, George Gardner, and grand chn., yet gives neither of his children's names, but speaks of two cousins to "be cared for"—William and Henry. These have thus far proved untraceable. The other contemporary, William, was a property owner in Boston, Mass., and also in Dover, N. H., during the years 1644, '45, and is presumed to be the same person later called Maj. William and Col. William Ballou, once an officer in the British Army. He had a long controversial struggle with his Government to obtain arrearage payment for military services, and at last had to accept a minor portion of his claims. He came over and invested his savings in Virginia lands, during the years 1651, '52. Here records cease to testify, and no more has been ascertained concerning this William Ballou. It is probable though not yet demonstrably certain, that Maturin, Robert and William Ballou were near relatives. For a time we fondly hoped to find traces of Robert's and Col. William's descent, but entirely failed. Future research may discover it. So we leave the matter to abler explorers.

Without further prologue, this expansive History and Genealogy of the American Ballous is respectfully commended to the perusal of all interested in its contents.

HISTORY OF THE BALLOUS.

Having presented, in the foregoing Introduction, all the information authentic, traditional and conjectural at our command, concerning Maturin Ballou, previous to, 1645, we next find him a co-proprietor of the Providence Plantations in the Colony of Rhode Island. Thenceforth our dependence had to be on the Records of that Colony and its constituent subdivisions for most of the data whence to deduce the history of our patriarch, his family, and early descendants. Possibly these records would have afforded us some very desirable facts now much needed, had not a considerable portion of them been lost by the sad casualties of king Philip's war. His Indian forces attacked the settlement at Providence, Mar. 30, 1676, and burnt about thirty houses. One of these belonged to John Smith, the then Town Clerk, and stood adjacent to the mill pond. The Town Records were snatched from the flames and thrown into the pond to save them. They were rescued from the water, and carried for safety to Newport. They were brought back in 1677, examined by a special committee, and reported to have lost sixty-five leaves from Book I., and twenty from Book II., besides other correlative documents. It is highly probable that those destroyed eighty-five leaves and papers contained important memoranda concerning the first settlers, their antecedents, family connections, &c. How this may have been we know not, and must be thankfully content with what was left.

We are certified that the great apostle of civil and religious liberty, Roger Williams, with five congenial associates, founded the since flourishing city of Providence, in 1636. They were soon joined by considerable numbers of kindred adventurers, and gradually opened the Providence Plantations, after honorable acquisition of territory from the Indians. With Williams at their head, they presently established a strictly democratic civil compact, which left every individual perfectly free in matters of religion, and made the majority of voting citizens supreme in civil affairs, excepting of course the sovereignty of England. Williams went to the mother country in 1643 and obtained a royal charter for his Colony, according to which it was governed until superseded in after years by one of more comprehensive scope.

The earliest recorded document of the Colony which mentions Maturin Ballou is an Agreement, bearing the names of twenty-eight persons as subscribers. This Agreement is dated "The 19 of 11 mo, 1645," which, as the months were then numbered, must, we suppose, be understood as January, 19, 1646, Old Style. The following is a copy:—

"We whose names are hereunto subscribed, having obtained a free grant of Twenty-five acres of land apiece, with the right of commoning according to the said proportion of land, from the few inhabitants of this town of Providence, do thankfully accept of the same, and do hereby promise to yield active and passive obedience to the authority of the King and Parliament [The State of England], as established in this Colony according to our Charter, and to all such wholesome laws and orders that are or shall be made by the major consent of the Town of Providence, as also not to claim any right to the purchase of the said plantations, nor any privilege of vote in town affairs until we shall be received as freemen of the said town of Providence." From a small old Record Book with brass clasps on loose leaves in the City Clerk's Office, Providence, R. I. See also in said office a Book entitled "Deeds Transcribed," p. 87*.

Among the twenty-eight signatures stands the name of Maturin Ballou, and immediately preceding it that of Robert Pyke. The original document and signatures are not extant, but the orthography of the names may be presumed to have been followed by the recorder. Maturin Ballou and Robert Pike appear to have joined the Colony at the same time, and afterwards were intimately connected till death. It will be seen, from the terms of the Agreement, that they could not enter into possession of their lands, and privileges of citizenship, till received as freemen of the Town. It is understood that they were very soon received as such. Be this as it may have been, the Colonial Records, Vol. I., p. 387, say: "At a Meeting at Warwick, May 18th, 1658, Robert Pyke and Maturin Ballue were admitted freemen." We may infer that they had, before this, been made in some sort freemen of Providence, and that this act of the Colonial Assembly enlarged their franchise, or at least confirmed it as Colonial citizens.

*It seems proper at this outset of our references to ancient Records, to say, for the information of researchers, that the Town Records of Providence, now extant, are all to be found in the City Clerk's Office; and that the Proprietors' Records are now in the care of the sons of the Hon. Judge Staples, Providence. Their father, the Judge, was long Proprietors' Clerk.

Their special intimacy became cemented by marriage, as will be seen below, and their lands were probably laid out in close adjacency, especially their home-lots. These appear to have been located on or near the little Moshassuck river, not far from the mill of John Smith, which was burned, as above mentioned, by Philip's Indians in 1676. It is supposed to have stood near the site of the present dam. This was in the northerly section of the town as originally settled. In that neighborhood Robert Pike and Maturin Ballou had their homesteads. Various parcels of out-lands are recorded to have been subsequently assigned to them in the near or more distant vicinity, as will hereinafter appear. Nothing has come down to us historically respecting their character and standing. They attained to no official dignity in the Colony, but may be confidently presumed to have been worthy persons in all their civil, social and domestic relations. We learn from the records that Pike had a wife Catherine, a daughter Hannah, a brother Conant and a sister Justina. No others are mentioned. What became of Conant Pike is not indicated. The sister, Justina, was married to Nathaniel Patten of Dorchester, Mass., where both lived and died. She survived, and died his widow in 1675, leaving a legacy of goods and money to her Providence relatives of some £20. Her brother Robert had deceased, but Mrs. Catherine, her daughter Hannah, and several of her children, the Ballous, inherited the bequest. We may now proceed to tabulate the family record of Maturin Ballou. In doing so we can give only proximate dates, but have carefully fixed these in view of all the circumstantial known facts.

FIRST AND SECOND GENERATIONS.

1. MATURIN BALLOU¹ m. Hannah Pike, dr. of Robert and Catherine Pike, prob. in Providence, R. I., between 1646 and 1649. Issue,—

2—1. John, b. prob. Providence, 1650; m. Hannah Garrett.

3 2. James, b. prob. Providence, 1652; m. Susanna Whitman, 1683.

4—3. Peter, b. prob. Providence, 1654; m. Barbary — —.

5—4. Hannah, b. prob. Providence, 1656; d. u. m. in advanced maidenhood.

6—5. Nathaniel, b. prob. Providence, 1658; d. in early manhood.

7—6. Samuel, b. prob. Providence, 1660; drowned June 10, 1669.

That the above birth-dates, though somewhat conjectural, cannot be far from the actual ones, is certain; because we have authentic data to warrant our conclusion. 1. Maturin Ballou with Robert Pike and family located in Providence as early at least as January, 1646. 2. Maturin died somewhere between Feb. 24, 1661, and Jan. 31, 1663, and of course all his children were born previous to the latter date. 3. John, his eldest son, was admitted a freeman at Newport May 1, 1671, prob. soon after he was twenty-one years of age. 4. Samuel Ballou, Maturin's youngest son, was drowned while yet a lad, June 10, 1669—as is proven by the following verdict of Inquest by a jury:—"We find, according to the evidence given in, that the lad, the widow Belloo her son, named Samuel Belloo, going into the river which runneth to the mill in Providence to wash himself, was by a providence of God drowned." See particulars in a book entitled "Deeds Transcribed" p. 455, City Clerk's office, Providence. The critical reader can calculate for himself and understand the probable proximate correctness of our given birth-dates; which it was deemed proper to place two years apart. The small river in which the lad Samuel was drowned bore the name Moshassuck. John Ballou's admission as a freeman may be found in Colonial Records B. II. under date of May 1, 1671. The death of Maturin Ballou is proximately determined by the following data. 1. He had land laid out to him as late as Feb. 24, 1661; 2, a Receipt from Roger Williams, &c., to his widow, viz.—"Providence 31, 11, '63, (so called) [i. e. Jan. 31, 1663].

Red. of y^e Widow Belleau for her payment toward Mishoasak & y^e rest of y^e inland inlargments fiftie shillings at six P pr. peny. We say reed at y^e appointmt of y^e town by us.

Roger Williams,
John Fenner."

We find no particulars concerning the death of Maturin', but presume it must have taken place while yet he was in the prime of middle age, to the great affliction of his wife, children, relatives and friends. Next the family mourned the loss of Samuel, in 1669, by drowning, and next, in youthful manhood, that of Nathaniel, probably not far from 1677 or 78. No record of the precise date has been found, and the only mementoes he left of his existence are two dateless letters—one to a brother, and one to his mother. These are thought too precious to omit. They are as follows:—

Fac Simile of Roger Williams' Receipt.

“Dear and loving brother,—

My love to thee, and all the rest, and to all that ask after me. Let this give thee to understand that I have received thy lines, and am glad to [know] that thou dost harken to my council, to think of thy latter end. Indeed, that will do the only good that thou canst seek after: and it is my heart's desire that thou mayest so do, and not put that day of salvation far from thee. I shall write no more at present, but rest thy loving brother.

Nathaniel Ballou.”

“Dear and loving mother,—

My duty is remembered to you, with my love and respects to my grandmother. Remember my love to my brother John, and to my brother James, and to my brother Peter, and to my sister—wishing all their welfare in this life, and if it may be in that which is to come also. Mother, being very weak, I have wrote a few lines to you, desiring you to consider this one thing, that there is no fleeing from the grave. For it is that which I do look for, to put off this earthly tabernacle. And when you shall hear this news, I pray thee, let not this trouble you: for I know this, that I shall have my part in the first resurrection, and shall live forever. So I bid you all farewell, and rest your dutiful son.

Nathaniel Ballou.

Brother James, I pray thee not to forget me.”

Where Nathaniel was when he wrote these letters, what were his pursuits, and why he was away from the parental home, no hint is left on record, and conjecture is useless. It would seem, from his mentioning his grandmother and not his grandfather, that the latter, Robert Pike, had gone the way of all the earth, probably sometime between 1673 and 1678. His two letters show that he was a deeply religious young man, as well as very affectionate towards his family relatives; and the last one indicates that his death was at hand. Happily he was ready to depart, and his soul anticipated with undoubting confidence a joyful entrance into immortal blessedness. We regret that no more can be told of him.

After the four surviving children came of age, the estates of their father and grandfather were legally divided between them and their mother. The following is the recorded document specifying that division:—

lony of Rhode Island & Providence Plantations in New England, and each of them leaving some estate behind them in housing, lands, goods and chattel; and whereas y^e said Matureene Belloo & y^e said Robert Pike died making no legal instrument or instruments of disposition of their said estates, by reason whereof, if not timely prevented, controverseys may arise amongst their successors concerning the said estates; therefore, for y^e preventing of all inconveniency or differences & discord which might at any time arise between y^e successors and survivors of y^e said Matureene Belloo, Robert Pike & their posterity, it is covenanted, concluded, determined & fully & jointly agreed by Hannah Belloo, widdow & Relique of y^e aforesaid deceased Matureene Belloo & daughter of y^e said deceased Robert Pike, & by John Belloo, eldest son of y^e said Matureene Belloo, and by James Belloo, son of y^e said Matureene Belloo, and by Peter Belloo, son of y^e said Matureene Belloo, and by Hannah Belloo, daughter of y^e said Matureene Belloo, all of y^e said town of Providence and collony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations in New England: that the house lot, which is in y^e aforesaid Providence, the one which belonged to y^e said Robert Pike, & also y^e house lot which belonged unto y^e aforesaid Matureen Belloo with all y^e housing on it, & y^e share of meadow which belonged to y^e said Matureene Belloo which lieth at y^e great meadow, and half y^e right of common land yet divisible upon it, reckoning so far west as y^e seven mile line*, which belonged to y^e said Robert Pike, and one quarter part y^e right which belonged to y^e said Matureene Belloo on y^e west side of y^e seven mile line, with all and every their appertances, three cows & five swine & all y^e household goods, shall belong unto y^e said Hannah Belloo, widdow, and y^e said Hannah Belloo, daughter, of y^e said Matureene Belloo, unto them and their heirs and assigns forever. And if any of said estate shall at any time be disposed of, it shall be with both their consents and approbation; and that y^e said estate of housing, lands, goods and cattle what shall be & remainders possessed of by y^e said two persons shall revert and be unto y^e longest lived of said two persons, (namely) y^e said Hannah Belloo, widdow, & Hannah Belloo, daughter, of y^e said Matureene Belloo, to their heirs and assigns for ever.

* This line was established in 1660. It runs north and south from a point supposed to be seven miles west of Fox Hill, though it actually measures more. It is now the dividing line between Smithfield, Johnston and Cranston on the east, and Seltuate, Gloucester and Burrillville on the west. It was the western boundary of the early division of Providence town lands. They subsequently divided the land on the west side of the line.

Secondly—that the sixty acres of upland in y^e 2d division & y^e share of meadow in y^e same division in y^e right of y^e said Matureene Belloo & one half y^e right of common, reckoning so far west from y^e town of Providence as y^e seven mile line, & a quarter part of y^e right beyond y^e seven mile line, & one acre of swamp land adjoining to y^e aforesaid share of meadow, & half a six acre lot lying in y^e neck between y^e land of John Brown & y^e land of Shadrach Manton, it being the west end or west half of said six acres of land, together with all and every of their appertances, to be unto y^e said John Belloo, to him & his heirs & assigns for ever.

Thirdly—that the sixty acres of land in y^e 2d division in y^e right of y^e said Robert Pike, & y^e ten acres of land in y^e said division in y^e right of y^e said Robert Pike in lieu of a share of meadow, and a piece of swampy land which was laid out in exchange from y^e new field in y^e right of y^e aforesaid Matureene Belloo, & half of y^e right of common reaching from y^e town of Providence so far west as y^e seven mile line in y^e right of y^e aforesaid Robert Pike, with what lands are divisible upon it, & one quarter part in y^e right of y^e aforesaid Matureene Belloo in y^e land beyond y^e seven mile line, & one quarter part of a six acre lot lying in y^e neck betwixt y^e land of John Brown and y^e land of Shadrach Manton, the which said quarter part of y^e said six acre lot is to be at the east end thereof, all the said lands & Common & all and every of their appertances to be unto y^e said James Belloo afore named, to his heirs and assigns forever.

Fourthly—that the ten acres of land which was bought of Samuel Whipple lying westward of y^e brook called Robbins brook & Southward from Walling's furnace, & eleven acres of swampy land lying in y^e great swamp in y^e neck, the which is both in y^e right of Robert Pike aforesaid, & also of y^e aforesaid Matureene Belloo, and half a right of Common reaching from y^e town of Providence so far west as y^e seven mile line with y^e lands yet divisible upon it in y^e right of y^e said Matureene Belloo, & a quarter part of y^e right of y^e said Matureene in y^e land beyond on y^e west side of y^e seven mile line, and one quarter part of a six acre lot in y^e neck which lyeth between y^e land of John Brown & y^e land of Shadrach Manton, the which said quarter part is to be between the aforesaid John Belloo his share of y^e six acres & y^e said James Belloo his share of y^e said six acres, to be, all and every part of the said lands & common & all & every of their appertances, unto y^e said Peter Belloo to him, his heirs & assigns for ever.

Fifthly—that in case it shall so fall that y^e aforesaid Hannah Belloo, widdow, shall stand in need of assistance with maintenance for her relief, then shall the said John Belloo & James Belloo & Peter Belloo each of them and their executors, heirs & administrators, be at equal charges for her maintenance to the end of her natural life.

Sixthly—that four written instruments be made the which shall all correspond & agree each with the other, and that each one of y^e aforesaid concerned persons shall sign and set his seal to every one of y^e said four written instruments, that any one of y^e said four written instruments shall be good to all intents and purposes for each of said persons their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns to hold and maintain their lands and estates by the which are therein contained and mentioned for each one their part, and that this instrument is one of y^e said four written instruments.

This being covenant conclusion, determination and full & joint agreement made by y^e aforesaid Hannah Belloo, widdow, John Belloo, James Belloo, Peter Belloo & Hannah Belloo, daughter of y^e said deceased Matureene Belloo; in witness thereof they do all hereunto set their hands & seals this first day of March, in y^e year one thousand six hundred eighty and five, six." See Providence Records B. II. p. 112, &c.

This is certainly a very important instrument, remarkable for its clearness and strength of specification, considering its date, and invaluable for its historic details. It puts us in possession of authentic facts respecting the early circumstances and affairs of Maturin Ballou's family almost indispensable to a fair start of their genealogy. It would seem from its silence concerning Mrs. Catherine Pike, widow of Robert, that she had followed him to the world of spirits—probably sometime between 1680 and 1685. Whether we can infer from the orthography of the name, "Matureene Belloo," anything conclusive as to the early pronunciation of it, is doubtful; though it is probable that the draftsman of the instrument, an evidently legal gentleman, gave nearly its usual phonetic pronunciation. But the scribes and clerks of subsequent date made such incongruous work of writing it and the sur-name generally, that we are only amazed at their multifarious whimsicality. We know, however, by the original letters of Nathaniel and John, sons of Maturin, that they spelled their sur-name as we now do—Ballou.

What next occurred in the experience of the family? It is probable, if not certain, that the widow Hannah Ballou and her daughter Hannah resided for several years on the original homestead in the northerly section of Providence. Meantime the three brothers, John, James and Peter, settled within a short distance of each other on their respective divisions of inherited common land in a locality then called Loquasquissuck, but now Louisquiset. This tract was then in its wilderness state, but had several attractive open meadows, created by the ancient beavers, yielding annually large crops of nutritious grasses, much needed in those days for the sustenance of cattle. It was situated only a few miles northwest of the parental homestead, in what is now the westerly part of Lincoln, between the villages of Manville on the north and Lime Rock on the south. This locality was originally in the town of Providence and included in the tract of common territory called the Outlands of Providence. In 1730 those Outlands were divided into three towns, viz.: Smithfield, Gloucester and Scituate. Thenceforth the Ballou locality of the second generation was in Smithfield. In 1871 Smithfield was subdivided so as to constitute wholly or in part four towns, viz.: Smithfield, North Smithfield, Woonsocket and Lincoln. Burrillville was set off from Gloucester in 1806. The ancient James Ballou homestead lies about half a mile westward from the village of Albion. A portion of it continues in possession of their descendants to this day.

At length the mother and daughter began to stand in need of special care from one or more of the sons. They preferred that of James, and entered into the following Agreement with him, Oct. 22, 1707:

“Whereas there are two house lots or home shares of land, each lot containing about four acres of land be it more or less, the which are situate lying and being in the town of Providence, in the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, in the Naragansett Bay in New England—lieing and being in the row of house lots whereon the town is seated, and towards the northern part of the town—the which said lots of land, one of them formerly belonged unto Robert Pike formerly of said Providence but now deceased, the other of them formerly belonged to Matureene Belloo formerly of said Providence but now deceased—The which said two house lots or home shares of land do now belong to us, Hannah Belloo, formerly wife of the sd Matureene Belloo but now his widow, and Hannah Belloo, daughter of the aforesaid Matureene Belloo, both of y^e aforesaid town of Providence, and are our proper estates, both the said lots: And whereas we, the sd Hannah Belloo, widdow of the aforesaid Matureene Belloo, and Hannah Belloo, daughter of the aforesaid Matureen Belloo, are now fallen into the care and providing for of James Belloo, of the aforesaid town of Providence, son of the aforesaid deceased Matureene Belloo and of the said Hannah Belloo, widow of the aforesaid deceased Matureene Belloo: And whereas it is requisite that the said James Belloo should be considered as with respect to his care and charges as to our providing for and maintainance so far as we are capable, and if it shall so fall out at any time with us or with either of us, that we or either of us may not be in a capacity to answer the said James Belloo as to his care, charges and disbursements concerning us or either of us, the sd two lots of land shall be under such circumstances as to make restitution unto the said James Belloo or his heirs for what he hath or may yet expend upon us or on the longest lived of us. And if at any time that any of us two persons to whom the said two lots of land do belong shall see cause to make sale of the same, the said James Belloo or his heirs shall have the first offer and refusal, he or they allowing as much for the same as any other person will give.

In witness of the premises we, the said Hannah Belloo widdow and Hannah Belloo daughter, do hereunto set our hands and seals the twenty and second day of October, in the year one thousand seven hundred and seven.

Signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of	Tho. Olney, sen. John Inman, Junr,	The mark of ~ Hannah Belloo, widow; / Hannah Belloo, daughter.

Per me Richard Waterman, Clerk."

It furthermore appears that the mother and daughter made a deed bearing this same date of October 22, 1707, whereby they conveyed to James Belloo all their right, title and interest to lands on the west side of the seven mile line, as specified in the divisional agreement hereinbefore copied. This deed, which is still extant in its original form, purports to have been recorded in "Providence Records," Book II. pp. 195 and 196, June 13, 1711, by Thomas Olney, Clerk.

Under date of Jan. 28, 1711-12, Hannah Ballou, the widowed mother, executed a deed whereby she conveyed to her son James "my two six acre lots situate and being within y^e Town of Providence & lying between land of James Brown on y^e south & the land of John Arnold on the North, and butting on y^e Town street on the west—one of which sd lots did formerly belong unto my well beloved husband, Matureene Belou deceased, the other did formerly belong to my much honored father, Robert Pike deceased—as also one half Right of common on y^e east side of y^e seven mile line. And also fourteen acres of land laid out unto me adjoining to the lands of my said son, James Belou, together with all my household stuf and other moveable Estate of what kind and nature soever." Providence Records, Book III. p. 90.

At this same date James bound himself in the penal sum of £40 to his mother "to find for and allow unto her meat, drink, washing, lodging, appariel and tendance, with all things else needful and necessary respecting both her age and times of sickness," during her whole life. Providence Records, B. III. p. 90.

Thus we find James Ballou in legal possession of all the property that had belonged to his mother and to his sister Hannah—he giving bonds as aforesaid. As his sister is not mentioned in either of these two instruments bearing date Jan. 28, 1711-12, she had undoubtedly deceased. This determines her death to have taken place some time between Oct. 22, 1707, and Jan. 28, 1711-12, which is the nearest approximation we are able to make to the date of that event.*

The foregoing arrangement appears to have been quite unsatisfactory to John Ballou, the eldest son of Maturin and Hannah (Pike) Ballou. It seemed to him that his brother James had inveigled himself into an undue share of his mother's estate, and he complained of it. He died some little time before his mother, and left his grievance to be cherished by his eldest son, John Ballou, Jr. When his grandmother had passed away, this son insisted that his uncle James should hand over to him a share of the estate, pleading that the three sons and their heirs had all been bound for the old lady's maintenance, and ought to share her property. His uncle James contended that he had borne all the care and expense of her maintenance, and that the entire estate made over to him would hardly make him whole. But John, Jr.,

*Aug. 20, 1885. Our friend John O. Austin, an expert Rhode Island genealogist, has recently discovered and communicated in part a record of the testimony given on trial of the case between John Ballou² and his uncle, James Ballou², in 1718, which reports Peter Ballou² as declaring that his sister Hannah "died fore part of January 1712." This seems to settle the date almost to a day.

brought suit against his uncle, which was tried before the "General Court of Trials" at Newport in Sept., 1718. It seems that the plaintiff lost his case. There are some peculiar and quaint papers extant relating to this case, which we cannot afford to have buried out of sight. They will repay preservation, and, as curiosities, if nothing more, demand a place in these pages. The first of these documents is a Release or discharge made by James, the uncle, to John, his nephew.

"Whereas my brother John Ballou did oblige himself and heirs to be at equal part of the expense of maintaining my mother and sister, now deceased, with me and my brother Peter, I do now therefore discharge John Ballou, son and heir of the said John Ballou now deceased, from all costs and charges which have occurred for the support of my mother & sister.

James Ballou.

Feb. 7, 1717-18."

This is only an extract from the instrument, containing the pith of its substance, but is sufficient for our purpose. It looks as if uncle James executed it to foreclose any plea on the part of nephew John, that he and others might be held liable to pay charges for the maintenance of his grandmother and aunt. But it is chiefly interesting as showing that the uncle intended to insist on no unjust claims, and more especially to us of this generation, as indicating proximately the death-dates of his mother and brother John. Another recorded document, discovered by Frederick M. Ballou, Esq., after the foregoing was written, shows that John had deceased previously to "March 4, 1714-15." Hence it is somewhat probable that the mother and her eldest son died not far apart—he during the year 1714, she early in 1715. These instruments are our only dependence for fixing their death dates. We have, however, two much more curious documents relating to this family controversy. Here is a

DEPOSITION BY DEPUTY GOV. JOSEPH JENKS.

"I Joseph Jenks, being of Lawful age, Do testify & Say, that Some years ago I was Desired by James Belev to write a Deed of Some percils of Land, which he told me his mother was minded he should have in Satisfaction for y^e Charge which he had already been at for her maintainance, As also for her further maintainance During her life, he also desired me, that when I had writ Sd Deed I would bring it up to his house & Se it Executed, & accordingly when I had writ the Deed I carried it to his house, & when I came there he Sent for his brother Peter Belen to come to his house to See the Executing of Sd Deed, he also Sent for Some persons for witnesses; & whilst the messengers were gon (which I suppose was about an hour) I fell into Discourse with the Ancient woman, James Belen's mother, & asked her Several questions—& to my thinking She answered very Rationally to them all, & as Rationally as She could have done at any time, for many years past: & amongst other discourse, I asked her if She could Remember her age. She Replied She could not, but told me that Thomas Olney had kept her age Ever Since She came to Live at Providence: for, said she, when I first came into this Town, we had discourse about our ages, & found that we were both born in one year: & he has kept my age Ever Since. So after Some Time the Messengers Returned; & Thomas Hopkins & Valentine Inman Came for to be witnesses to Sd Deed; but Peter Belen Came not—he having business which Detained him, as was said; but John Belen came & Seemed very angry, Saying that he thought he ought to have part of the Land. James Belen Replied, I do not Covet the Land, do you pay me what Charge I have been at, in keeping my mother, & Hammah, & take my mother & Look after her as Long as She lives, provided She be willing to goe with you, & Do you take the Land. John Belen Replied he would take her; but She made Answer, I won't go with you, John, what will you do with me? you can't Look after me, or to that Effect. So She proceeded to Sign the deed, being Dim Sighted She asked where She must Sign, & I guided her hand to the place & She Signed the Deed, but John Belen forbid the witnesses Signing, but they proceeded & Signed as witnesses: & I heard not one word, neither from him nor them, of the old woman's being Childish, or Incapassitated for such a business. So I took her acknowledgement of the Deed, & drew a bond wherein James Belen became bound to his mother for her maintainance During her Life, & So Returned hom: & never heard any more Stir about it untill about Six or Eight months ago: & then I heard that John Belen was Intended to Sue for the Land Contained in the fore Sd Deed, & had procured witnesses to prove that his grandmother was Childish & not Capeable of making a conveyance at the time when she sined the afore Sd Deed, & that those men which were witnesses to the Deed had given Such a Testimony: the which I much admired at; but I Remembering what discourse I had with the woman about her age, thought I would ask Mr. Olney about it, & accordingly I did, & he told me that when She came first to providence, her father, and mother, her husband and Shee kept Some Time at his father's house, in which time they had Discourse about their age, & found they were both born in one year, & he was then Eighteen years of age: So that Mr. Olney confirming the Truth of what the woman had told me at the time of her Signing the Deed, was a good Confirmation to me that I was not mistaken in Judging her to be of sound memory at that Time: & this I declare to be truth, as witness my hand this 2d of October: 1718.

Joseph Jencks.

Taken upon Engagent this 27th day of March 1719: before me
Richard Browne, Justice of peace."

The foregoing has been copied literally from a time-yellowed but well preserved original paper, handed down among other valuable documents to the descendants of James Ballou inheriting the ancient homestead. It appears to be in the hand writing of Richard Browne, Esq., who swore the deponent, excepting only the signature, Joseph Jencks, which is probably his own, as it is spelled with a c in it before the k, unlike "Jenks" at the beginning, and shows a lighter use of the pen. Joseph Jenks was a distinguished man and official functionary among the early Rhode Islanders. The deed and bond to which he refers, as having assisted to execute, bear date January 28, 1711-12; which has been shown on a preceding page. The deponent is understood to refer first to "John Belev," the elder brother of James, and last to "John Belev," the nephew. He makes neither of these Johns appear to very good advantage in comparison with James, who seems to have been a high minded, fair and just person. Hannah Ballou, the aged widow of Maturin, is shown to have been a discriminating, shrewd woman, with downright common sense and a positive will. She was not to be trifled with. This deposition gives us our best indications concerning Hannah (Pike) Ballou's age, yet is not desirably definite. Mr. Olney and she were born the same year. They were eighteen years of age when she first came to Providence. But when was that? Her parents, she and her husband dwelt for a time with Mr. Olney's father. Was she then already married to Maturin Ballou at the age of eighteen? Or is it only meant that he who became her husband lived in Pike's family? There is constructive room for conjecture; and it is a reasonable conjecture, that the Pike family, with Maturin

Ballou, may have come to Providence as early as 1644, though their land grant is dated in Jan., 1646. We have no means of settling these points. We shall assume, however, that they were living at Mr. Olney's in 1644, that Hannah Pike had not then been married, was at that time eighteen years old, and was probably married two or three years later. If so, she was eighty-five years of age or thereabouts in 1712, when she executed the deed to her son James, which Joseph Jencks wrote and took her acknowledgment of. And if so, she must have been eighty-seven or over at her death, which probably took place not far from 1714. If we have not mistaken facts in assuming that the deponent spoke first of John Ballou, Sen., and afterwards of John Ballou, Jr., then it would seem that John Ballou, Sen., must have died perhaps before his mother: i. e. during 1714, and she early in 1715, as already conjectured. This point must be left in some obscurity and uncertainty, for want of requisite explicit data.

ANOTHER KINDRED DOCUMENT

now demands consideration. It explains itself, and is literally as follows:—"Whereas there hath been: and yet is a Contention betwixt John Ballou, and his uncle James Ballou, both of Providence in the Colony of Rhode Island &c: Concerning certain Lands lying within the Township of Providence aforesaid, the which said Lands the said James Ballou purchased of his mother, Hannah Ballou, as by two deeds of Sale under her hand & seal may appear, nevertheless the said John Ballou, sence the decease of his Grandmother the sd Hannah Ballou, layeth Claim unto said land as being heir unto it: and their strife about the same is risen to such a heighth that they have had one tryal at the last General Court of tryals held at Newport in September last past, and design to have another at the next General Court of tryals there; and inasmuch as neither of the said deeds of sale do so exactly and plainly declare how much money the sd James Ballou gave for the said Lands, as they might have done, therefore some persons have taken the groundless advantage as to say the sd James Ballou obtained the aforesaid Lands of his said mother for a very small sum, if any thing, or at least nothing near the true worth thereof: Therefore the said James Ballou Earnestly desired us whose names are here under written, to give our Judgment as to the true worth of the said Lands: and also to Examine the books of the accounts of the dealing between his said mother and himself; that so it may be known for the future whether there was any wrong done in that affair or not. Now as to the aforesaid Lands our Judgment is, that at the times when said deeds were signed, all the Lands that said James Ballou holds by virtue of said two deeds, was not worth more than one hundred pounds of money: and having Examined the said books of accounts and according to the account that the said James Ballou brought and showed to us, it appeared that the said Hannah Ballou was indebted to the said James Ballou, not long before her death, one hundred & ten pounds two shillings & three pence, and if the said accounts which he showed us be really true, which we know nothing at present to the Contrary, then we reckon that the said James Ballou gave ten pounds two shillings and three pence more than said Lands were worth at that time, for he told us he gave all the debt. Signed at Providence this 26th of March 1719 by us

William Harris
Richard Browne.

Providence, March 26th 1719; Then taken upon Engagement before me Joseph Jencks, Dep^t. Gov^r."

Whether this unique document was ever used at any trial of the controversy to which it relates, we do not know. Its procurement by James Ballou seems to have been mainly designed to satisfy candid inquirers into the case, that he had done no wrong in the obtainment of his mother's lands, nor given any just cause of complaint to his contentious nephew in the matter. This was creditable to his self respect, as well as to his sense of justice. He was evidently an upright, prudent and honorable man. If his nephew was wanting in any of these qualities, for any reason, he was no exception to multitudes of kindred minds in our world. And if the Ballous of this generation take no pride in this feud of their progenitors, they may draw useful lessons from it in avoiding what is censurable on one side, and imitating what was commendable on the other. They can see that human nature was active in their ancestors, as in themselves, and treasure up the admonitions of wisdom.

Here we may close all that need be said of Maturin Ballou, his widow, Hannah (Pike) Ballou, and the three of their children who died unmarried. Maturin Ballou, our patriarch, died not far from 1661, and was buried probably in the oldest Providence Grave Yard. No lettered stone marks the spot. Samuel, his youngest son, was drowned June 10, 1669, a mere lad, and buried near his father. Nathaniel, next older than Samuel, died and was buried away from the family home; but where no record yet found informs us, perhaps about the year 1678. Hannah, the only daughter, was never married, and spent her last years with her venerable mother at the residence of her brother James Ballou, on his homestead about half a mile west of the village called Albion, in then Providence, afterwards Smithfield, and now Lincoln. She died between 1707 and 1712, the precise date unascertained. Her remains were undoubtedly buried in that brother's family cemetery. Hannah, the widow of Maturin¹, styled by Deputy Gov. Jencks "the ancient woman," died, as we have assumed, on the same premises, aged not far from eighty-eight years, and her ashes repose in the same humble cemetery. It was located only a short distance from the original home-site. There rests the dust of James Ballou², of his wife, mother, sister, and a portion of his posterity. No sculptured marble distinguishes the oldest graves from each other. It ought to be a hallowed depository to the descendants of James², and may hereafter be fitly honored with some deserved monument of commemoration.

ARRANGEMENT OF THIS GENEALOGY.

The proper construction and arrangement of this work has been a subject of considerable solicitude with the author. At first he was disposed to present its details in three General Parts, quite distinct from each other, so as to treat separately of John Ballou² and his descendants, of James Ballou² and his descendants, and of Peter Ballou² and his descendants. But on finding that the descendants of Peter² were so few as to be very disproportionate in number to those of his two elder brothers, he concluded to carry the whole along together in the order of their generations. On the advice of an experienced genealogist, he thought, for awhile, of placing the female branches of descent, wherever they forked off from the male lineage, with full family records in a compact series together from case to case. But after mature reflection, he decided to avoid such broad blocks of eccentric specification, out of the regular chronological line as this must occasion, and to let both male and female branches of descent flow along in their natural order. He has proceeded accordingly, and the reader will please seek both for male or female descendants in the regular range of successive generations; care being taken on his part to guard against obscurity and mistake. So we come next to Maturin Ballou's descendants of the SECOND AND THIRD GENERATIONS.

John Ballou² appears to have lived several years in early manhood on the Island of Rhode Island, in Portsmouth or Newport. There he was admitted a freeman in 1671. It is possible he there m. his first wife, the Hannah from whom he was separated by divorce in 1676. But this is uncertain, as he resided alternately on the Island and in Providence. All we know concerning his divorce and the grounds of it is derivable from the following Colonial record, viz.—

“At a Session of the General Assembly, held at Newport May 2, 1676, Voted: Whereas John Belou, of the town of Providence, presented his petition to this Assembly for a legal divorce from his wife Hannah Belou; the Court, upon examination of the matter, finding that from the first of their marriage they lived very discontentedly—she complaining of his insufficiency: for the reason abovesaid, and others, the Assembly doth see cause to divorce the said John Belou from all matrimonial engagements to the said Hannah Belou, and that from henceforth this Assembly doth declare him absolutely free as aforesaid.”

This looks a little like the easy-going kind of divorces, being granted mainly on account of incompatibility, with the blame charged on the wife. We cannot look behind the record into the merits of the case, and might more properly, as some will think, have ignored the whole matter, but chose rather to unveil it in the interest of truthful history, and leave its lesson of human infirmity for admonition.

The following letters from John² to his brother James (with Nathaniel's previously given) were rescued from oblivion by our pioneer in this work, Ira B. Peck, Esq., and several other long half-buried ancient documents, preserved by the resident descendants of James in their inherited patrimonial domicile. They are quaint and curious enough for careful insertion on these pages. They were written from his residence on the Island, and are as follows.—

Feb. 4, 1677. "Loving brother,—My love remembered unto thee, and my love to my grandmother, and to brother Peter, and to my neighbors. Let this give you to understand that we are all in pretty good health at this present time. I do hear that you do intend to come down shortly; and if thou dost, I would have thee see what is become of them apples which I put in the ground, and if they ban't spoiled bring them down with thee.

I rest thy brother,

John Ballou.

It would seem that it was then common to preserve apples during the winter by burying them in the ground.

Again he wrote, under date of April 1, 1678.—

"Loving brother,—My love is remembered unto thee, and to my grand mother, and to Peter. Let this give thee to understand that we are all in health at this time—thanks be to God for his mercy. I have been three times to speak to John Thornton about thy business, and yet he hath done nothing about it. [Here ensues a sentence which is unintelligible.] Mother's being warned by the Town Council was nothing else but to know whether she did intend to remain or stay longer upon the Island. Our purpose is to come up to Providence as soon as ever we can. It may be a week or a fortnight before we shall be able to come up. I would have thee not trouble thyself about fencing in any more ground this spring; because either thee or I must, this summer, if we live, go down to the bay and look after that business there. So I shall forbear at this time, hoping you are in health, and to see you before it be long.

Your loving brother,

John Ballou.

One thing more about the rest of the cooper stuff. James Clark has a great mind to have it; and if you can fetch it down for him, he will pay you anything except money. But if you can't, then send word by the next boat; but if you can, then send word what pay."

The originals of these letters, as well as Nathaniel's, have come into our possession by transmission from Mr. Peck. They are in a tolerable state of preservation, exhibit an old fashion chirography quite fair in its style, and with signatures peculiarly distinct. The above would afford good fac-similes. A few of the words and phrases puzzled my understanding, but with slight exceptions they are accurately rendered. They have a homely simplicity, but their naturalness of business detail does not detract from their value, especially in a case where we have nothing else to give us even a hint as to the domestic experiences, circumstances and pursuits of these family ancestors. We infer that John was without companionable wife or child during those days, and dwelling with his mother and sister in their temporary home. James and Peter and grandmother Pike were on their Providence plantation, with occasional business of common interest up and down the shores of Narragansett Bay.

It would seem that his widowed mother, and probably his sister Hannab, had been staying with John on the Island. Very likely they went thither, as many others did, just before king Philip's Indians attacked Providence, to escape impending danger. James, however, and his grandmother Pike, either did not flee to the Island, or had already returned to Providence. John took up his abode with the rest of the family before 1681: for he was then admitted a freeman of Providence. It seems, too, that he served in the Indian war and was wounded: for the General Assembly, at their October session in 1684, passed the following order.—“John Ballou is allowed three pounds in or as money to be paid by the General Treasurer for his cure of his wound in the late Indian war.” Later the three brothers, John, James and Peter, settled near each other on a large tract of land in the locality then called by the Indian name, Loquasquissuck, afterwards modernized into Louisquisset. This locality lies now mainly, if not wholly, in the town of Lincoln. It includes Lime Rock and the adjacent vicinity, especially north-eastward.

As specimens of antique land surveying and recording, we copy the following layings-out to John Ballou.—“April y^e 11th, 1685. Laid out in y^e right of y^e deceased Robert Pike, in lieu of land formerly laid out for a share of medow in y^e second division, now changed & laid down to common. The said land is ten acres and is now laid out, and is situate and lying and being in y^e woods commonly called Loquasquissick woods, & near unto the now dwelling house of James Belloo, about South Eastward from it, bounding on y^e Norwestern Corner with a black oak tree marked, and on y^e noreastern corner with a black oak tree marked, & on y^e southwestern corner with a black oak tree marked, & on y^e southeastern corner with a low rock ; it being northward & southward the longest ways, the breadth ways eastward and westward—y^e northern end bounding with a highway, and y^e westward side with a highway, on y^e eastern side with common, and on y^e southern end with y^e land of Henry Brown.

Laid out the year & day abovesaid by me,

Thomas Olney, sirveior.

“ By Arthur Femer, sirvair, & William Hopkins, sirvair. Several years since laid out unto John Bellow in the right of his deceased father, Matureen Belloo, for a share of meadow in the second division, ten acres of low swampy land, lieing & being in that part of Providence plantation commonly called Loquassquicks woods, & upon a small stream which runneth into the land of Edward Inman & his partners ; the which ten acres of land, not being by y^e said Arthur Femer & y^e said William Hopkins returned to y^e town to be recorded, hath, this eleventh day of April, 1685, been by me, Thomas Olney, sirveior, returned & the bounds thereof taken. It is bounded on the southeastern corner with a stake drove into the ground, the which also is a boundry of the land of Benjamin Hearnton, and from said stake to range Eastward to a maple tree marked, and from y^e said maple tree to range Northward to a black-oak tree marked, & from said black oak Northwestward to the aforesaid stream, and so up along the stream to a maple tree marked for a western corner bound ; the southern part bounding with y^e aforesaid Benjamin Hearnton's land—the western part with y^e common, and y^e eastern part with y^e common, the northern part with y^e aforesaid stream & partly with swampy land.” Other examples omitted as unnecessary.

On these and other adjacent parcels of land, comprising altogether a spacious homestead, John Ballou² and his second wife, Hannah Garrett, spent the maturer portion of their lives, and reared their family of seven children. We have found no clew to the parentage or birth-date of Hannah Garrett, but have given the authentic date of their marriage at the head of their family record. Besides what has already been given, very little of his biography has come down to our times. We have assumed, with sufficient reason that he must have d. in 1714. Of his wife's decease no information has been obtained. Nor have we any knowledge concerning their burial place; but probably it was in the near vicinity of their homestead.*

[3.] JAMES BALLOU², Maturin¹; b. in Providence, R. I., as sup. during the year 1652; m. Susanna Whitman, dr. of Valentine and Mary Whitman [alias Wightman], b. in said Providence Feb. 28, 1658; cer. July 25, 1683. Issue.—

14—1. James, b. Nov. 1, 1684; m. Catherine Arnold Jan. 25, 1714.

15—2. Nathaniel, b. Apl. 9, '87; m. Mary Lovett Dec. 7, 1716.

16—3. Obadiah, b. Sept. 6, '89; m. 1st Damaris Bartlett Jan. 5, 1717, 2d Salisbury.

17—4. Samuel, b. Jan. 23, '92; m. 1st Susannah Arnold, 2d Mary Smith.

18—5. Susanna, b. Jan. 3, '95; m. 1st John Inman June 28, 1716, 2d Richard Sayles.

19—6. Bathsheba, b. Feb. 15, '98; m. Daniel Arnold Oct. 16, 1720.

20—7. Nehemiah, b. Jan. 20, 1702; m. 1st Mary Hall, 2d Abigail Perry.

These seven chn. were prob. all b. in Loquasquissuck, since called Louisquisset, originally in Providence, R. I., later Smithfield, and now Lincoln. There James Ballou² and wife Susannah settled soon after mge., about half a mile west of Albion Factory Village on the Blackstone River, and a little northward from the farms of his bros. John and Peter. He preceded them as a settler in that locality—certain records showing that his original domicile had been erected previously to 1685. The general tract of territory bearing the Indian name of Loquasquissuck seems to have been regarded by Providence Proprietors as an eminently desirable one. For as early as 1658 they appointed a Committee to clear up a portion of its wilderness lands. It is therefore prob. that James² commenced his preparations for a home there sometime before his mge. But however this was, his first log house was early erected near where his gt. gd. son, Willard Ballou³, lived and died. His second domicile, a framed structure, stood near the same site, and the ancient well still remains. This second dwelling house was inherited by his son Samuel³, but in 1782 was superseded by his gd. son Moses⁴ with the one now extant.

On this homestead James² and wife lived out their useful and honorable lives. She belonged to one of the most respectable families of the Colony, proved herself an exemplary wife, mother and neighbor, and harmoniously coöperated with him in achieving great family success.

* Since the foregoing was written some light has been discovered. From two entries in the records of old Smithfield Town Council, under dates of October 1746 and April 1747, it appears that Mrs. Hannah was then still living in a state of helplessness, that her sons Maturin² and Peter⁴ petitioned the Council to do something in her behalf, and that Peter² was appointed her Guardian. But her death date remains untold.

We have stated on former pages the prominent position and grave responsibilities of James² in relation to his mother and only sister, their confidence in his fostering care, and how he entered into possession of their real estate. This with his own inheritance of lands from his father and maternal gd. father, Robert Pike, made him master of several hundred acres in connection with his primal homestead, or within the circuit of a few miles. To these he went on adding other tracts by purchase till he must have become the owner of well nigh a thousand in all—perhaps more. He made important acquisitions in what were then the southwest parts of Dedham and Wrentham, most of which, by re-settlement of the old Colonial lines, afterward became the northerly section of Cumberland, R. I. To understand the situation of these tracts, it should be remembered that previous to its incorporation Jan. 27, 1746, Cumberland was a triangular territory having for its hypothenuse the Blackstone River. A portion of it was long claimed as belonging to Old Plymouth Colony, and was called "Attleborough Gore." An undefined northern strip of it, over a mile in width, was claimed as originally belonging to the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, and was included in the townships of Dedham, Wrentham, &c. The revision of Colonial boundaries gave the whole area northeast of Blackstone river to Rhode Island, and the same was incorporated as the town of Cumberland in 1746.*

James Ballou² made his first purchase in this locality early in 1690. The grantor was William Avery, blacksmith, resident in Dedham, Mass. The deed is in the old fashioned verbose form. It describes the premises as containing "Forty Acres of Shruffy meadow and swampy Land, as it lieth in Dedham bounds on the easterly side of Pawtucket river, near unto a Rock called Iron Rock; on the west and Northwest side bounded with a ledge of Rocks; on the Southwest Side hilly round about it; as it is layed out, bounded and marked." The conveyance is made "for and in consideration of good and valuable payment in hand, and well and truly paid by James Ballou, of Providence, under the Government of Rhode Island in New England." The covenant concludes thus:—"And I, the said William Avery, do hereby Give Lawful seizure and possession of the aforesaid forty acres of Land, be it more or less, as it is layed out by estimation, about a mile and a half from the aforesaid River, near Wrentham bounds." Signed Jan. 13, 1690. Acknowledged Oct. 22, 1691. Recorded with Suffolk Deeds, B. 15, p. 28, &c.

*"In 1746, by a decision of George II. in Council, the 'Gore' was detached from Attleborough, annexed to the County of Providence, and named in honor of Prince William, Duke of CUMBERLAND." History of Woonsocket, p. 16.

In 1706 James Ballou² augmented his real estate in this vicinity, by purchasing of Nathaniel Ware what was technically called "one cow common right" in all the common and undivided lands of Wrentham. This "cow common right" was deeded by John Lawrence to Nathaniel Ware, both of Wrentham, May 1, 1689, and transferred by Ware to Ballou May 10, 1706. How much land was derived from this right, by subsequent divisions and layings-out, we are unable to state; but it must have been enough to make several handsome farms; for we find that James² settled his three eldest sons, James³, Nathaniel³ and Obadiah³, on homesteads largely derived from it.

April 11, 1713, he divided and conveyed all the above described Dedham and Wrentham lands and rights to these three sons, making them co-equal inheritors. The consideration was "love and good affection," "settlement and well being" &c. James² received sixty acres in Wrentham, together with one right in common lands still undivided, and one third part of the Iron Rock meadow, above described as lying in "Dedham bounds." We have all this specified in the original deed now before us. It will be found that the deeds to Nathaniel and Obadiah, of probably the same date and tenor, conveyed to them respectively land enough, in substantial value, to equal the paternal gift to James. Thus ample provision rendered convenient the settlement of these three brothers in the same neighborhood, closely adjacent to each other.

In July, 1726, James² made a gift-deed to his youngest son, Nehemiah Ballou³, of lands situated on Chepachet and Pascoag rivers in Gloucester, R. I., constituting a respectable homestead. Also, at the same time, he gave to his son Samuel³ his home farm. On the 20th of April, 1734, he made his Will. He described himself as then "being in health of body, of a disposing mind and perfect memory." His real estate had already been settled on his children, but he had some valuables left, which he parcelled out to each of his sons and daughters. Samuel was made his residuary legatee and executor. In 1741 he seems to have made another arrangement of his affairs, in relation to his personal estate, which he distributed among his children. To Samuel he made over, in legal form, most of his movable property; the consideration being "Love and good will, and the care and attention that he had received from him the past sixteen years, in providing him with maintenance in sickness and health, and what further maintenance, care and attention he might need during his natural life." In this closing settlement, he had each of his chm. give him a receipt of full satisfaction with his bestowments on them. The following is a copy of the one subscribed by James^a. The others were substantially similar.

"Smithfield, April y^e 18th A. D. 1741.

Then received of my honored father, James Bellowe of Smithfield, my full part of my said father's estate, and do hereby acknowledge myself to be herewith fully satisfied, and do hereby promise to never lay any claim to any other or larger part of my said father's estate, but do hereby acknowledge myself and my heirs to be forever barred by these presents. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal the Day and year above written.

Signed, sealed and Delivered, in presence of John Inman,
Obadiah Ballou." James Ballou (L, S)

It will be perceived that neither in his Will or later Instruments is there any mention of Mrs. Susanna, the wife and mother. She had prob. passed away during the year 1725, though the exact date has not been ascertained. Nor have we the precise death-date of James himself. We only know that it occurred soon after he had conclusively prepared for it by the settlement of his temporal affairs in 1741. So his mortal form rested, in a good old age, with that of his beloved wife, near the ashes of his honored mother and sister, in his chosen burial place, already described. That unpretentious little cemetery holds undisturbed its sacred kindred relicts, and a portion of the patriarchal homestead, at the expiration of two centuries from its implantment, still remains the heritage of lineal descendants.

James Ballou is shown, by all the indications of his record, to have been a man of superior abilities, enterprise, judgment and moral integrity. His opportunities for learning and political distinction were comparatively small, but he made the best of such as fell to his lot. He was evidently well endowed by nature, an apt student in the homely school of practical experience, a sound judicial thinker, orderly in his methods of business, a prudent economist, and a noble exemplar of virtue in all the relations of life. Though a commoner among commoners, his characteristics were those of a natural prince.

Information has been anxiously and persistently sought for the facts of this family record, formerly by Mr. Peck, and latterly by the proprietors of this work, but with poor success. We have unquestionable authority for stating that Peter² settled in Lo-quasquissuck now Louisquisset as early as 1685 or thereabouts, within a short distance from the homesteads of his elder bros., John and James; that he subdued for himself there a valuable farm; that he lost his son Peter by drowning in the Blackstone river in 1717, at the age of twenty-one years, which greatly disheartened him from prosecuting projected improvements in his lands; that he soon after sold out his homestead to one Daniel Mann; and that he subsequently settled on a farm a few miles distant, in territory that was afterwards included in Scituate, R. I., where he lived and died. There is some doubt whether we have all his chn. in the above list, but prob. all that survived early infancy. It is also uncertain whether we have numbered those given in the exact order of birth; which, however, was unavoidable in the absence of records.

By diligent research and inquiry Mr. Peck obtained much interesting biographical information concerning Peter and Barbara Ballou; though on many points less than was desirable, especially with reference to their chn. What was obtained deserves preservation, and is therefore inscribed on these pages. Besides important documents found on record, Mr. P. had the good fortune to confer with the Hon. Judge Thomas Mann, then living at the venerable age of 83, who had inherited from his ancestors the very premises originally cleared up and occupied by Peter². Judge Mann was well posted by tradition, as well as documentary knowledge, in the early history of the old settler. It had been told him that Peter Ballou² came to Louisquisset not far from 1685, perhaps earlier, about the same time that his elder bro^s. did, and took up a promising tract of the native wilderness, which had fallen to him in his division of inheritance from his father and maternal grandfather. He was an enterprising and executive husbandman, and soon commanded a respectable homestead, which he was enlarging and improving from year to year. It had valuable spots of open meadow, created by the ancient beavers, then, like similar meadows all over New England, extremely productive of nutritious grasses. He was ambitious to increase this kind of production, and planned the erection of a dam in the neighborhood for overflowing and subduing a large area of brushy swamp, from which he anticipated much profit to himself and friends. Its remains are still known in the vicinity as "Peters Dam," &c. Before it could be finished an overwhelming blow of bereavement suddenly paralyzed the ambition of the projector. Peter Ballou, Jr., his promising son, just ripening into manhood, was drowned in the Blackstone river while bathing. The family was crushed with grief, but especially the father, who had been building high hopes on his son's temporal future. His darling plans were prostrated, as well as his parental affections pierced by the deadly arrow. This was in 1717. He was so heartsick and lonesome, that he could not go on with his agricultural improvements, and soon resolved on selling out his property and seeking a new home. He did so.

He found a purchaser in his neighbor, Daniel Mann, to whom he deeded his homestead, buildings and lands, in all 80 acres—reserving only one square rod where he had buried the mortal form of his beloved son. The consideration was "the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds current money of New England," and the instrument of conveyance bore date April 7, A. D. 1718. See Providence Records B. 3, p. 136.

Daniel Mann had a brother John, with whom he exchanged farms, and who thus became the owner of the Peter Ballou real estate. That John was the grandfather of Judge Thomas Mann. There the said John, his son, and Judge Mann all lived and died. It subsequently descended into the possession of Stafford Mann, Esq., one of the Judge's sons, and a gt. gd. son of John. The Manns have always sacredly respected the grave of Peter Ballou's lamented son, and consecrated sufficient additional land to make for themselves a reputable family cemetery, well enclosed by a substantial stone and iron fence. Let the Ballous appreciate their honorable conduct.

It seems that Peter² had already bargained for a new home in the then outlands of Providence, several miles southwest of his old one, on territory afterwards incorporated as Scituate, R. I. This was the homestead of one Joseph Dalie, and contained with its appended right to common about 60 acres. It was situated entirely west of the famous "seven mile line," and the consideration paid the grantee was "the sum of three hundred and thirty six pounds current money of New England." The deed bore date the very next day after the one to Daniel Mann, viz. April 8, A. D. 1718. See Providence Deeds.

We judge from what has come down to us that Peter² enjoyed a tolerable degree of prosperity in Scituate, found his farm decently productive under good management, and prob. increased his property in real as well as personal estate. A copy of his Inventory, which Mr. Peck procured from Scituate Probate Records, shows an appraisal of 17 milch cows, 1 yoke of fat oxen, 1 yoke of working oxen, 2 steers, 2 bulls, 1 mare, 9 calves, several swine, with a general outfit of farming implements, chattels and productions to match—though a moderate sum of money; amounting in personals to £317, 2s.

When finding his death approaching, he made his Will, of which the following is a copy.—

"In the name of God, Amen. The 24th day of August Annoque Dom. one thousand seven hundred and thirty one. I Peter Ballou, of Scituate, in the County of Providence, in the Colony of Rhode Island: being very sick and weak of body, but of perfect mind and memory, thanks be given to God therefor; [omitting preamble.]

Inprimis, I give and bequeath unto Barbre, my beloved wife, one feather bed with all and singular the furniture thereunto belonging, being that bed she uses to lodge on. And I also give unto my said wife three milch cows, and to be which of the cows she shall see cause to choose. I also give my said wife one chest and one box. I also give my said wife one ewe and one lamb, to be taken out of my sheep. I also give my said wife one pair of worsted combs, and a warming pan, and a great chair. I also give my said wife two basons, two dishes, two trenchers, and two spoons. My will also is that my said wife shall have the use of which of the five rooms she shall choose in my dwelling house during the term of her natural life. I also give my said wife one pewter beaker; and my will is that my said wife shall have all the aforesaid movable things free and clear to dispose of as she shall see cause.

Item, I give unto my beloved son, Jeremiah Ballou, all and singular my lands and rights of land whatsoever and wheresoever the same may lie or be, together with all the buildings, orchards and edifices thereto belonging, to have and to hold, to him the said Jeremiah Ballou, his heirs and assigns for ever. I also give to my said son, Jeremiah Ballou, one yoke of oxen, one mare, one cow and calf, and one feather bed and bedding.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my two grand daughters, Phebe and Jerusia King, five pounds apiece, to be paid to them by my executor herein after named; and the reason why I give my said grand daughters no more is because I have already given their mother, Phebe King deceased, what portion I intended for her.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my daughter Martha Ballou two milch cows, and one feather bed and bed clothes thereunto belonging, and one chest, and one mare, and two colts.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my four children, Jeremiah Ballou, Barbarie Inman, Jemima Sprague and Martha Ballou, all the remainder of my movable estate not herein before disposed of, after my debts are paid, to be equally divided amongst them.

Item, My will further is, that my said son Jeremiah Ballou shall provide for my wife, his mother, a sufficient and suitable looking after and maintenance during the full term of her natural life.

Item, I do hereby constitute, ordain and appoint my son Jeremiah Ballou to be my sole executor of this my last will and testament, and do hereby utterly disallow, revoke and disannul all and every other and former testament wills, legacies, bequests and Executors by me in any wise before named, willed or bequeathed, —Ratifying and Confirming this, and no other, to be my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year first above written.

The mark of Peter Ballou (L S.)

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced and declared, by the said Peter Ballou, as his last will and testament, in the presence of us the subscribers—

The wordy formalities of these old fashioned Instruments are a little tedious ; but we deemed this Will worth copying almost entire, because it not only gives modern curiosity an insight to the frugal simplicity and domestic economy of a well-to-do progenitor one hundred and fifty years ago, but also affords helpful indications, otherwise wanting, respecting the family records of his chn. and grand chn. He died eight days after the date of his Will, viz. Sept. 1, 1731, a. about 77 yrs. Mrs. Barbara survived him between eight and nine years. She also made a Will, which has been found on record in Scituate, R. I. It is valuable for similar reasons to those of her husband. It is brief, and we copy it.

"In the name of God, Amen. The fifteenth day of February, in the year of our Lord 1740. I Barbary Belleau, of Scituate, in the County of Providence, in New England, being very weak of body and in perfect mind and memory, thanks be given unto God therefor: calling unto mind the mortality of my body, and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die ; I do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament ; that is to say, principally and first of all I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it, and my body I recommend to the earth to be buried decently at the discretion of my Executor, nothing doubting. I do make and appoint my beloved son, Jeremiah Belleau, to be my sole Executor.

Item, I give and dispose of my remaining cloths to Barbary Inman, and Phebe King's Two Daughters, and Jemima Sprague's three daughters, and Martha King's two daughters, each an equal share of my wearing cloths.

Item, I give unto Jeremiah Balleau, my well beloved son, my bed, bedstead and coverlid, and under bed, and my chest, and my great chair, and my pot, and warming pan, and my box. And what there is remaining is to be equall divided between Barbary Inman and my motherless grand children.

Barbary × Ballou.

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced and declared before us to be her last will and testament.

David Sprague, John Sprague, his mark 2, Priscilla × Harding.

This Will was presented, by the Executor, for probate March 7, 1739-40 ; which shows the death of the testatrix to have taken place probably within a fortnight after she subscribed her mark to the Instrument. We have not found her exact death-date. As to the Will itself, the draftsman, whoever he may have been, appears to have followed his own fancy in spelling our surname "Belleau," and in complimenting Jeremiah as his mother's "well beloved son," but giving no belovedness at all to the daughters and grand daughters. These, however, are trifles. But it is of some genealogical importance to learn that during the preceding eight years, subsequent to the death of Peter², their daughter Jemima Sprague had died, leaving three daughters, and that Martha Ballou had married, died and left two daughters. Truly Mrs. Barbara's widowhood had been eventful with sorrows.

Here we conclude what belongs exclusively to the Second and Third Generations of our Ballous. The reader will carefully observe our method of designating Generations. Thus the First and Second Generations include Parents of the First and their Children of the Second. Then the Second and Third Generations include Parents of the Second and their Children of the Third. And so on in regular succession.

THIRD AND FOURTH GENERATIONS.

These chn. are presumed to have been b. in Louisquisset, but all research to ascertain their birth-dates has been baffled. The mge.-date of the parents affords us a basis of conjecture, but the reader is left to make his own at discretion. Mrs. Naomi was a grand dr. of Edward Inman, one of the eminent Colonial Providence Plantationists. John Ballou³ was a large inheritor of his father's lands, and resided near his uncle James². His habitation was closely adjacent to what, in our later times, has been known as the "old Streeter house," about a mile northward from Lime Rock, on the Woonsocket road. The Streeter house was built for John's son, Peter¹, and was rebuilt after the modern fashion in 1861. He disposed of his real estate variously, partly by sale, and partly by gift to his children. To his son, John¹, he gave the westerly portion of his farm, between 50 and 100 acres—the gift-deed dated Jan. 26, 1738-9; Old Smithfield Records B. 1, p. 184. To his son, Peter¹, he gave one-half of his homestead Aug. 6, 1744; Ib. B. 2, p. 290.* He endowed his son, Abraham¹, with lands in Gloucester, where he settled. He seems to have been a man of respectable abilities, held several minor offices, and represented Smithfield as deputy to the General Assembly in 1739. His controversy with his uncle James has been already mentioned—not much to his credit perhaps, however excusable his intentions. Comparatively few particulars of his life have come down to us. His Will is dated Apl. 19, 1755; in which he gave his son, Peter¹, the remaining half of his homestead, and distributed his personal estate among his chn.; Ib. B. 1, p. 468. He d. Dec. 7, 1765, a. 82 yrs. 4 mos. and 12 ds. His wife's death-date has not been ascertained.

Maturin³ selected his home in the then partial wilderness about one mile west from Valley Falls, in Smithfield, on a slightly swell of land, near an admirable spring of water. There he extemporized his log cabin, felled the forest, and cleared up a valuable farm. In process of time he erected an ample framed house, whose huge oaken beams may still be seen in a portion of the renovated mansion. The site is plainly visible from the Providence & Worcester R. Road in approaching Valley Falls from the northwest. He is reported to have been a very industrious, upright, benevolent and pious man. How long he lived with his first wife we have no information. But if he was b. in 1685, as we have supposed, he must have been over 70 yrs. old at his mge. to

Mercy Cooper 1759, and she a comparatively young woman. After she had given birth to her son William, and was prospectively the mother of another child, it seems that Maturin fell dangerously sick, and deemed it prudent to make his Will. This is an interesting and valuable genealogical document, which it seems very proper to copy. It is as follows.—

“In the name of God, amen. I Maturin Belloue, of Smithfield, in the County of Providence, and Colony of Rhode Island, Yeoman; being sick and weak of body, but in perfect mind and memory, and calling to mind the uncertainty of Time in this Life, Do make and ordain this my Last Will and Testament, in manner and form as follows, viz. Principally and first of all, I recommend my soul to God who gave it, and my body to the earth to be decently Interred at the Discretion of my Executor hereinafter named. And all the worldly Estate it hath pleased God to bless me with in this Life I give and Dispose of as follows.—

Imprimis. My will is that all my just Debts and funeral Expenses be paid by my Executor, out of my movable Estate.

Item. I give unto Sarah Belloue, Daughter of my brother Peter Deceased, one good cow out of my movables.

Item. I give unto my well beloved wife, Mercy belloue, the Improvement and profits of all my Estate, both Real and personal not yet Disposed of, to bring up my child or children if she should have any more within the space of nine months first after my Decease; and in case she should have a son within the time abovesaid, then he should have a part of my real Estate hereafter mentioned; but if a daughter, then to have the sum of three hundred pounds old tenor, or movables equivalent.

Item. I give to my beloved son William Belloue my real estate to the westward of the Dam that Turns the brook near Eleazer Brown's Land, so to range southerly to the spring where Atermy Finch fetches water from.

Item. I give to my other son, if my said wife should have one within the time aforesaid, all my land or Real Estate to the Eastward of the Dam and spring aforesaid; but in case she should have none, the whole of all my Real Estate to be and remain to my said son William belloue; but in case my child or children abovesaid should Die before they Arrive to Lawful age, and without Legitimate issue, that and then my sd. Estate to be Disposed of in the following manner, viz.—

Item. I give to the heirs of Susannah Belloue, wife of Samuel Belloue, the one half of all the Estate whatsoever that her mother's sister my wife Sarah brought to me; and the other half of sd. estate to Patience brown widow. [Here the meaning is thrown into confusion by the word "sister." Whether the draftsman of the Will was in fault, or the Probate recorder, or our copyist, we know not. But we venture to guess that the original word, now standing as sister, was first, or former wife. We therefore assume the meaning to have been, that the testator's former wife, Sarah, was widow Sarah Arnold, the mother of his cousin Samuel Ballou's wife.]

Item. I give to Mary Lapham and Sarah Sprague, Daughters of my brother John belloue, and Tabitha C'empton [Kempton], grand daughter of my sd. brother John belleau by his Daughter Tabatha, the sum of thirty pounds apeace in bills of public credit Old Tenor.

Item. I give to Sarah Belloue, Daughter of my aforesaid brother Peter Deceased, all the remainder of my personal Estate whatsoever.

Item. My will is that all my Real Estate whatsoever, if need be, be sold and conveyed by my said Executor to the best advantage, still giving the first offer of purchasing the same to such of my cousins, Legatees hereafter named, as are able and willing to purchase; and that the money arising by said sale be Divided into eighteen Equal parts or shares, which I give or distribute as follows, viz.—

Item. I give to Maturin Belloue, son of my sd. brother Peter belleu, Two of the aforesaid shares forever.

Item. I give to matturein Albrough, son of my sister Abigail albrough Deceased, Two other of said shares.

Item. I give the remaining fourteen shares to the other Nine Children of my said Deceased brother, Peter belleau, and to the other four children of my sd. sister Abigail Albrough, and to my Grand Daughter Lydia brown, wife of capt. Christopher brown, To Each of them one full share forever.

Item. my will is, that if any of the Last mentioned sixteen Legatees shall Die before they arrive to Lawful age, without Legitimate Issue, that the parts or shares of the Deceased be Equally Divided among the survivors of the same stock or family.

Item. I constitute, ordain and appoint my friend christopher brown, of Smithfield aforesaid, sole Executor of this my Last will and Testament; and I do hereby utterly revoke, Disannul and Disallow all former and other wills, Testaments, Legacies and Device by me heretofore made, given or Devised ; Ratifying and Confirming this, and no other, as my Last will and Testament.

In witness and full confirmation hereof, I have set my hand and seal this third Day of April, in the Thirty Third year of his majestic's Reign, George the second, King of Great Britain &c ; Anno Domini 1760.

This Will was duly proved by the Town Council of old Smithfield, at a session held May 19, 1760. It is recorded in B. I., p. 329. And Mr. Peck made a note, over twenty years ago, at the foot of his copy, that the original was then in the possession of a widow Ballou resident on the ancient homestead. I have had no convenient opportunity to examine either the original document or the Probate Record of it. If I had made such an examination, perhaps I could have cleared up some of its obscure phraseology, and precluded the necessity of my explanation concerning his wife Sarah. Whatever exceptions may justly be taken to its orthography and style, it evinces that the testator had a good memory and kind consideration of his kindred, as also a careful ingenuity in providing for possible contingencies. The child he anticipated proved to be a son, received his name, Maturin, and inherited his real estate jointly with his elder brother William. So the contingent distribution of it among the sixteen prospective legatees was foreclosed. But it is none the less helpful to genealogical research by its numerous specifications of relationship. Maturin³ d. May 7, 1760. Mrs. Mercy, his widow, subsequently m. Jeremiah Bucklin, and with him dwelt on the farm till her two sons became of age.

Peter Ballou³ settled on what was afterwards called "Stump Hill," near a stream known as "Observation Brook," since furnishing water power to "Olney's Factory," in now Lincoln, R. I., formerly Smithfield, and originally Providence. It will interest many readers to understand that he was the grandfather of our celebrated Rev. Hosea Ballou. We have, however, but little biographical material wherewith to illustrate his character, worth, or fame. General tradition reports him to have been a very conscientious and morally exemplary man. We see what a large family he and his companion reared up in their then frontier home, and can easily imagine that their lot in life was one of pioneer toil and hard earned competence. He was a cooper by trade, and probably throve all the better as farmer by his mechanical profits. His homestead joined that of his brother Maturin³ toward the north. The principal memorial he left us is his Will, which may be found on Providence Records, B. L., p. 145, and is as follows.—

"In the name of God, Amen; the eighteenth day of April, in the year of our Lord 1754. I, Peter Ballou, of Smithfield, in the county of Providence, in the colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, in New England, cooper; now calling to mind the mortality of my body, and knowing that it is appointed for men once to Die—do make and ordain this my last will and testament; that is to say, Principally first of all I give and Recommend my soul into the hands of God who gave it, hoping, through the merits, Death and passion of my Savior Jesus Christ, to have full and free pardon and forgiveness of all my sins, and to inherit Everlasting Life; and my body I commit to the earth, to be Decently buried at the Discretion of my Executor hereinafter named—nothing doubting that at the General Resurrection I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God; and as touching such worldly Estate whereof it hath pleased God to bless me in this Life ; I Give, devise and dispose of the same in the following manner and form ; that is to say, first I will that those Debts and duties I do owe in Right or conscience to any manner of person or persons whatever shall be well and truly contented and paid, or ordered to be paid in convenient time after my Decease, by my Executor hereafter named.

Item. I give to my Eldest son, Maturean Ballou, twenty acres of Land, to be laid off to him, his heirs and Assigns, the said Maturean Ballou, to be Laid to him off the South side of my farm, joining to my brother Maturean Ballou, southerly and easterly to William Brown, and westerly with Obadiah Olney, the twenty Acres I mortgaged to the colony and took out money for him, and gave it to him, and he gave me an indemnifying bond to keep me harmless from the colony ; that is to say, he paying the gold and principle to said colony.

Item. I give to my loving wife all my movable estate, whom I likewise make my executor.

Item. I give to my youngest son, Peter Ballou, all the rest of my homestead farm, singular my lands, messuages and tenements, by him freely to be possessed and enjoyed. I do here make my Loving wife, Rebecca Ballou, and ordain her my only sole executor of this my Last will and testament, and all the profits of said farm untill my son Peter Doth come to the age of one and twenty, and then to have one half the profits of the said farm while she continueth my widow, or untill her natural Death, which ever shall happen first.

Item. I give to Rebecca Sprague ten shillings, to be in some convenient time paid to her.

Item. I give to my dafter Sarah Ballou ten pounds, and a privilege in my house while she Liveth Single.

Item. I give to my dafter Mary Olney ten shillings.

Item. I give to my dafter Hannah Bucklin twenty shillings.

Item. I give to Olney Jencks five pounds.

Item. I give to Abigail Finch five pounds.

Item. I give to my dafter Hope Bucklin five pounds.

Item. I give to my dafter Marcy Ballou twenty pounds.

I ordain my loving wife to be my sole executor of this my last will and testament, and do hereby utterly Disallow, Revoke and Disannul all and every other former testaments, wills and Legacies, bequests and Executors by me in any way before this time made, willed and bequeathed ; ratifying and confirming this, and no other, to be my last will and testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the year and day above written. Signed, Sealed, published, pronounced and Declared, by the said Peter Ballou as his last will and Testament, in the presence of us the subscribers,

Peter Ballou. [L. S.]

This Will was proved at a Town Council in Smithfield June 17, 1754. The record says.—“The said Peter Ballou, cooper, departed this life y^e 9th day of May 1754.” Mr. Peck says.—“His gravestone I found in the North Burying Ground at Providence, nearly covered by underbrush, and the letters much obscured.” *

We learn incidentally from this document, besides its fundamental facts, that his daughter Elizabeth was not living, being unmentioned; that his dr. Sarah was living in maidenhood; that his youngest dr. Mercy was living in early youth; and that probably his dr. Amey had been some time deceased. Whether the Olney Jencks mentioned was the son of Amey, or her husband, is left unindicated. We may infer from her being made sole executor, that Mrs. Rebecca, the wife and mother, was a capable, judicious, trustworthy woman. It seems that Peter⁵ was designated on Providence Records as Peter, Jr., simply, we suppose, to distinguish him from his uncle Peter³. His widow survived him till Feb. 13, 1787, almost 33 yrs.—aged 93 yrs. 9 mos. and 4 ds. They were obviously people of substance, respectability and influence among their contemporaries.

[11.] SARAH BALLOU⁴, John², Maturin¹; b. in Providence, R. I., at a date not ascertained, prob. 1692 or later. We thought at first that we had found some trace of this Sarah Ballou; but at length ascertained that we had applied to her certain facts which belonged to the life of her niece, Sarah Ballou¹, dr. of Peter³. We are now satisfied that we have no reliable trace of Sarah⁴, and must conclude that she d. at some age unmarried, if not in early infancy.

[12.] HANNAH BALLOU³, John², Maturin¹, has left no trace of her birth, life or death. It is prob. she d. in early infancy.

See First Book of Marriages Portsmouth, R. I., p. 233, and other records. The Albroughs appear to have been people of enterprise and good social standing among the colonial pioneers of R. As yet we have not the death-dates of the parents nor any family records of their descendants.

James Ballou³, as we have seen, was the eldest son of James², and the senior brother of the three patriarchs that crossed the Blackstone river from their Providence home, afterwards Smithfield, into the forest territory that became Cumberland, R. I. He was great grandfather to the writer of this volume. From him and his next younger brothers, Nathaniel and Obadiah, the whole tribe of Cumberland Ballous sprang. They are now scattered far and wide—in all a numerous host. Our three patriarchs settled near each other, and gave name to the "Ballou Neighborhood," their principal associates being the Cooks. We have already stated that James Ballou³ was endowed by his father, Apl. 1713, with some 72 acres of land in what was then the southwesterly corner of Wrentham and Dedham, but afterwards the northerly part of Cumberland, R. I. It seems that James Ballou³ had just been m. to Catherine Arnold, and it is presumed that they commenced housekeeping that very spring in a newly built log-house on the premises. Neither record nor tradition favors our curiosity with precise particulars on this point. We know that the whole general region was then in its almost wilderness state. Yet it is not improbable that settlement had been anticipated, some clearings made, and perhaps the primitive habitation erected during the preceding year. At least the Iron Rock meadow was open ground, and ready for the scythe in mowing season. It was about one fourth of a mile east of that meadow's eastern edge that the first rude domicile was located. The homestead there was first known as the James Ballou place, then as the Elder Abner Ballou estate, then as the Esq. Abner Ballou farm, then as Dea. Abner Ballou's patrimony. James³ gave it to James¹, who sold it to Eld. Abner, who willed it to his son, Abner, Esq., from whom it descended to his son, Dea. Abner, who finally sold it out of the family name. It is closely adjacent to the ancient "Ballou Meeting House," and the site occupied by that historic structure was once a fraction of the original possession. There James³ multiplied his progeny, subdued the forest, soon superseded his log-cabin with a framed house, took up new tracts in virtue of his right to common land, and expanded his domain by successive purchases. Meantime his brothers, Nathaniel and Obadiah, near him, were prospering, whilst congenial neighbors were establishing homes at no great distance around him. Baptist religion, of the Roger Williams type, took early root in the vicinage, and was devotedly fostered by the Ballous, Cooks, and other influential settlers. Reliable historic authorities, recently examined, seem to show that a Baptist Church was organized in 1732; and it is believed that James, Nathaniel and Obadiah Ballou, with their wives and adult children, were among the original members. With them were joined Josiah, Nathaniel and Daniel Cook and their wives; also a few other of the pioneer settlers. Those Cooks were descendants of Walter, one of the first proprietors of Mendon, Mass., through his son Nicholas Cook. Josiah and Daniel were sons of that Nicholas, and Nathaniel was his grandson: i. e., the son of Nicholas Cook, Jr.³, of Bellingham, the first Baptist Deacon in that town. The Cooks now under notice were settled at first in South Bellingham and South West Wrentham; but none of them dwelt more than two miles from the new church centre. Josiah Cook was the first Elder and Pastor of the church, but during 1752 his nephew, Nathaniel, was invested with the same offices, as colleague or associate Pastor.

Between 1740 and 1749, probably as late as 1745, or even later, (the precise date has not been ascertained), the church and assisting friends built, with a sturdy frame and homely finish, the edifice, still standing, after many repairs, and widely known as the "Elder Ballou Meeting House." It was first called the "Elder Cook Meeting House," from the two Elder Cooks above mentioned; but later, by reason of Elder Abner Ballou's long pastorate, it took his name. It stands near the eastern verge of Iron Rock Meadow, a short distance north of the famous Iron Rock Hill; having in front of it, on the northern slope of said Hill, the ancient Burial Ground, set apart and reserved as such by Obadiah Ballou³. On the 22d of March, 1749, James Ballou³ donated the hallowed little site on which the sanctuary had already been erected, as from the following extract plainly appears:—

"I James Ballou, of Cumberland, in the County of Providence, in the Colony of Rhode Island, in New England, Yeoman,—for and in consideration of a Meeting House, by my leave and consent already erected and built for the worship of God, by Elder Josiah Cook and several others of our brethren with him, and together with myself and some other well-wishers to us, the worship of God, and our order and discipline; Therefore I have given, granted, aliened, conveyed and confirmed, and by these presents do for myself, my heirs, executors and administrators absolutely give, grant, aliene, convey and confirm unto him, the said Elder Cook, of Cumberland aforesaid, and to his brethren in fellowship and unity with him—Baptists by profession, called the Separate Baptists, who hold the worship of God according and agreeable to what is treated on and set forth for doctrine in the Sixth Chapter of the Hebrews, called the Six Principles &c." Parcel of land donated by this instrument about "one fourth of an acre." See Cumberland, R. I., Records, B. II., pp. 121, 122.

James^a was now ripening into old age. He had stamped the impress of diligent toil on his patrimony, greatly enlarged it, raised up and married off a considerable family of chn., won himself a good reputation by many virtues, and deemed it prudent to arrange his temporal affairs for the great change approaching. Under date of October 28, 1746, he had deeded, by gift, to his eldest son, Ariel, ninety acres of land, comprising the most northerly section of his estate. Under date of March 18, 1749, he deeded, by gift, to his son James a considerable portion of his home farm, taking back for himself and wife a life-lease of the same. Of like date, and on like terms, he deeded to his son Elisha ninety acres of the easterly portion of his estate. His Will was made Jan. 3, 1764. It purports that he was "old and very weak in body, and full of infirmity, but of perfect mind and memory"—follows the usual form of his times—specifies that he had given his real estate to his three sons, as above stated—and then proceeds.—"What I have in personal estate, after my just debts and funeral charges are paid, I give and dispose of—in the following manner and form.—

Imprimis. I give and bequeath to my son James Ballou, whom I likewise constitute and ordain, with my dear wife Katherine, to be my sole executors of this my last will and testament, all my stock in a certain mare, oxen, cows, sheep and husbandry tools, notes, bonds, books, debts and money, excepting the following legacies,—that is, in money for to pay my debts and funeral charges—said James keeping two cows for my widow aforesaid yearly the term of her natural life, for her use and support during the same.

Item. I give and bequeath to my son Ariel all my wearing apparel.

Item. I give and bequeath to my son Elisha seven Spanish milled dollars, now already in his hands.

Item. I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Katherine aforesaid all my household movables, of what name or nature soever; that is in goods and household furniture, to be in her hands for her use the term of her natural life—and when she is deceased to be equally divided among her four daughters, namely Sarah, Bathsheba, Martha and Priscilla, or their heirs."

The Instrument closes with the usual annulment and disallowance of all former wills, &c. It was witnessed by Stephen Ballou, Daniel Cook, Jr., and Abner Cook. He d. Feb. 10, 1764, being at the age of 79 yrs. 3 mos. and 9 ds. Mrs. Catherine, who appears to have been a truly worthy woman, wife and mother, d. (date not found.)

Nathaniel Ballou³ settled immediately after marriage, prob. in the spring of 1717, on the tract of land given him by his father in 1713. This tract (as may be seen in the paternal deed on Providence Records, B. II. p 270) embraced sixty acres of land, lying eastward from that of James³, one right to common lands in Wrentham, and one third of the Iron Rock Meadow—twelve to fourteen acres. The bulk of Nathaniel's farm lay somewhat northeasterly of the highland, whose apex was afterwards called "Beacon Pole Hill," from its use in the Revolutionary War as an alarm signal station. On the northerly slope of this highland, it is presumable that Nathaniel³ had been preparing a rudimental home during the two or three years preceding his marriage. How much of a clearing he had made can only be guessed; but we know the location of his log-cabin. It was called, for many years, the Jillson place, and is now occupied by Eliab T. Harris. The present dwelling house, which is understood to stand nearly on the original site, is about half a mile easterly of the "Ballou Meeting House," and one fourth of a mile, in the same direction, from the residence founded by James Ballou³. There Nathaniel and Mary (Lovett) Ballou reared their seven children, enlarged their domain by new layings-out of common and by purchase, established a good moral character by exemplary lives, and finally closed their earthly career in the year 1747. Nathaniel³ was one of the first Town Council and Court of Probate, chosen by the citizens of Cumberland, R. I., after its incorporation in 1746-7, and he held that office at his decease. He d. Jan. 11, 1747-8, in the 60th year of his age; and Mrs. Mary, his widow, d. October 14, 1747, in her 51st year. Their dust reposes in the ancient "Ballou Burial Ground," where their grave stones now commemorate them. Nathaniel^s d. intestate, and his son Amariah, who was appointed administrator Apl. 20, 1748, honorably settled his estate; being conscientiously careful to make his brothers just sharers with himself.

The gift-deed to Obadiah Ballou^s from his father James^s, already referred to in connection with the deeds to his two brothers, James and Nathaniel, in 1713, is of substantially the same tenor, excepting that it conveyed fifteen acres less of upland. The right in common land and one third of Iron Rock Meadow are precisely the same. But Mr. Peck found another important deed from James² to his son Obadiah, in possession of Theodore P. Ballou of Utica, N. Y., a gt. gd. son of Obadiah, not on record, which was undoubtedly designed by the father to make his third son's gift equal to those of his two elder brothers. This supplementary deed has no where been found on record. It conveyed ten acres, and included the famous Iron Rock Hill. We intended at first to copy it entire, but have felt obliged to exclude it on account of an unexpected overplus of indispensable matter threatening to swell our volume beyond reasonable size.

We have already said that Iron Rock Hill is a natural curiosity; and here seems to be the proper place for a brief description of it. Its base cannot cover more than about five acres, and it is of oblong form, rising to a marked ridge of several hundred feet in length from north to south, with an elevation of from fifty to one hundred and fifty feet above the adjacent low lands. It connects southerly with the high lands whose apex is "Beacon Pole Hill." On the northeast it is precipitous, with a rough gulch at its base; northerly it slopes off gently into flat land; and westerly it descends somewhat steeply, but without abruptness, to Iron Rock Meadow. It is largely composed of what may be called solid iron-rock, in ledge structure, or in isolated boulders of moderate size—mainly in ledge form. The iron is amalgamated with some kind of granitic substance, in the proportion of from fifty to eighty per cent. iron. The iron is of an excellent quality, of unusual tenacity, and more or less magnetic, at least in some parts of the hill. This unique geological elevation is quite unlike any other deposit of iron within hundreds of miles around. Some unaccountable volcanic freak, in the remote past, must have thrown it up from the depths below. Large quantities of this rocky ore have been carried away, first and last, to different furnaces. But the peculiar tenacity and other qualities of the iron, and cost of transportation, have prevented any very obvious diminution of the almost inexhaustible mass.

We find that, on the 10th day of June, 1733, Obadiah Ballou, by agreement and deed of sale, conveyed to "Caleb Barker and Matthew Estes, of Hanover, in the County of Plymouth, in New England, founders, all the iron stone on his land that they should make use of, for one shilling per ton; they agreeing to build, at some convenient place near the hill containing the rock, a furnace for smelting said iron stone." See Smithfield Record of Deeds, B. I., p. 162. We never heard of any such furnace being built nearer than the one called "Unity Furnace" on Blackstone River, at the place now long known as Manville, which was a little over two miles south of Iron Rock Hill. It may be presumed that "Unity Furnace" was the one intended to fulfil the contract, and that, while it continued in operation, it used very considerable quantities of the iron stone bargained for. It appears from other records and documents, that this right to use iron stone for one shilling per ton soon passed into the hands of William Boltan, Henry Laughton, William Clarke and Richard Clarke, all of Boston. These gentlemen, for some reason, surrendered and reconveyed their interest to Obadiah Ballou unreservedly, by an instrument bearing date May 28, 1740. The original deed in possession of the family was written and acknowledged by Samuel Adams, Justice of the Peace. Since that time, so far as we know, furnace purchasers of iron stone have paid for what they carried off according to mutual agreement with the owners of the Hill, as occasion rendered convenient.

Thenceforth this Iron Rock tract of ten acres continued to be the westerly section of Obadiah's homestead, until Feb. 23, 1749-50. At that date he made a gift-deed to his son Abner of this tract, his third of Iron Rock Meadow, and a parcel of land "near the great pine Swamp so called." It must be understood that Obadiah's homestead lay south and southeasterly of his bro. James'—certainly the main bulk of it. His domicile is said to have stood on the easterly side of the road nearly opposite Iron Rock Hill, and less than one fourth of a mile southeasterly from that of James. Several years previous to 1828, the old frame house, built by Obadiah on that site, had become much dilapidated, and was known in the neighborhood as the "Sprague house." The writer recollects it well, and that a rumor prevailed, at one time, of its being haunted by the ghost of an occupant who had been carried home drunk on a plank and dropped on the floor abruptly, to die uncared for. Facts not investigated. Knight Whipple, whose wife was a gt. gd. dr. of Obadiah, came into possession of the premises and demolished the old "Sprague house" in 1817. In 1828, or thereabouts, he built the small one-story dwelling now occupying the same site.

In the gift-deed from Obadiah to his son Abner, above mentioned, are some specifications historically interesting to the Ballous, which ought to be noticed in this connection. First, the boundaries of the Iron Rock tract strike our attention, viz.—"Beginning at a Black oake tree marked, joining to the highway that goes from Unity furnace [understood to be the one at afterwards Manville] to Wrentham, on the westerly Side of Said way, which is a bound of John Casses land, and it is the Southeasterly corner of Said Land; thence running northerly, Bounded Easterly on said way, to another Highway that goes to and by the meeting house, there making a corner in the corner of Said highway; thence running westerly, Bounded northerly on the Last mentioned highway to the Land of James Ballou; thence the Same Course to Iron Rock meadow Lot; thence, bounding northerly in part and westerly in part on Iron rock meadow lot; and still westerly in part on the Land of Eleazer Metcalf and part on John Casses Land aforesaid to a burch Stump with stones about the Same—for a corner; thence running Easterly, Bounded Southerly on said Casse's land to the first mentioned Bound." Second, and more important, is the following exception to the conveyance, viz.—“Excepting about half one acre of land at the north end of the first mentioned tract or homestead farm, which is, and I do hereby except it, for a Burying place for myself and my friends and neighbors.” This was the origin of the ancient Burying Ground situated on the northern slope of Iron Rock Hill, a short distance southerly of “the Ballou meetinghouse.” There, as to their mortal forms,

“The rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep.”

It is probable that a very few bodies had already been buried there. It should be a hallowed spot to all the Cumberland Ballous and their descendants. Let it be remembered that, in 1749, James Ballou² donated the site of the Meeting House, and Obadiah Ballou³, the original site of the adjacent Burying Place.

It may be presumed that Obadiah Ballou³, before his first marriage in 1717-18, had made considerable improvements on his homestead, and was prepared, in the style of his time, for house-keeping. We have little authentic testimony concerning the characteristics of himself and two wives, but what has come down to us indicates that they acted well their parts in domestic, social and religious life. Of course they must have struggled through many disadvantages, toils and trials, but it is believed they did so exemplarily.

Obadiah disposed of his estate partly by gift-deeds, and partly by will. He deeded to his eldest son Ezekiel a farm of one hundred acres, with buildings and valuable privileges, Dec. 20, 1745. To his son Abner he gave the three several tracts already referred to Feb. 28, 1749-50. He finally made his Will Sept. 18, 1763, substantially as follows.—

"Being weak in body, but of sound mind and memory, blessed be God therefor.— * * *

I give to my dearly beloved wife Sarah Ballou the improvements, income and profits of my real estate, and also the improvements of my personal estate (money and securities for money only excepted) by her freely to be possessed and enjoyed during the term of time she shall remain my widow, and no longer.

I give to my four well beloved sons, namely, Ezekiel Ballou, Daniel Ballou, Abner Ballou, and Obadiah Ballou, twenty pounds each in bills of public credit of the said Colony old tenor, or any other money equal to said sums at and after the rate of seven pounds for every Spanish milled silver dollar, to be paid to them by my Executor hereafter named within one year after my decease.

I give to my two well beloved daughters, Esther Wilson and Zerviah Thayer, twenty pounds each, in current money as above said, and to be paid to them, their heirs, &c., by my Executor at the time above limited for the payment of my said sons.

I give to my two well beloved sons, Joseph Ballou and Benjamin Ballou, all my lands and buildings situate in Cumberland aforesaid, to be equally divided between them both, with respect to quantity and quality, to them, their heirs and assigns forever, as an estate of inheritance in fee simple, and my will farther is, and I do hereby order, that if either of my two last mentioned sons shall happen to die before he shall arrive to full age and leave no issue, then and in such case the surviving son to have and hold all said lands and buildings, given equally between them as above said, to his heirs and assigns forever.

I give to my said two sons, Joseph and Benjamin, all the remaining part of my personal estate, two thirds thereof to be equally divided between them after my decease, and the other third after the decease of my loving wife.

And I do make and ordain my said son, Joseph Ballou, sole Executor of this my last will, and my loving and trusty son, Ezekiel Ballou, aforesaid Overseer thereof, to take care and see the same performed according to my true intent and meaning."

Witnessed by Richard Sayles, Josiah Fisk and John Dexter. He d. Oct. 12, 1768, and was buried in the forementioned Ballou Burying Ground, where his grave stone may be seen, declaring the date of his death, and his age to be 79 yrs. She survived her husband, and afterwards m. Hezekiah Sprague May 8, 1767. We have already described the ancient patrimonial homestead, and stated that James² gave it to this son Samuel July 27, 1726, as also in 1741 much personal estate. On that homestead Samuel³ lived, reared his large family, and died. Nothing definite has come down to us concerning the characteristics of himself, wives and children; but from various grounds of inference, as well as general tradition, we are warranted in claiming for them a very reputable standing in society. Samuel³ made his Will Dec. 14, 1764. The following are its principal specifications:—

"I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Mary all the estate she had when we were married, and one good side-saddle, and also my will is that she have her right of dower in all my real estate according to law, and one room in my dwellinghouse to live in.

Also, I give and bequeath unto my three sons, David Ballou, Aaron Ballou and Moses Ballou, all my lands and real estate, to be equally divided between them, and to remain to their heirs and assigns for ever. But in case either of them die without lawful issue before he arrive to the age of twenty one years, then my will is that his part be divided between his two surviving brothers aforesaid. But in case two of said sons die without lawful issue before they arrive to the age of twenty one years, then my will is that the said surviving brother have two thirds of my real estate and the other third to be equally divided among my following children, namely, Jonathan Ballou, Eleazer Ballou, Patience Sayles, Samuel Ballou, Susannah Arnold, and Jemima Ballou, to be to their own free disposal.

Also, I give unto my son Jonathan the sum of five dollars, and to my son Eleazer three dollars, and to my daughter Patience Sayles six dollars, and to my son Samuel one dollar, and to my daughter Susannah Arnold two dollars, and to my daughter Jemima Ballou one dollar.

Also I give unto my grand daughter Mary Lapham the sum of three dollars, and to my grand son Stephen Whipple, and to my grand daughter Phebe Whipple three dollars each.

And also my will is that all the above legacies and my just debts and funeral charges be paid out of my movable estate, and that all the remainder of my movable estate I give in the following manner,—One third thereof I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Mary, to be to her own free disposal; and then I give one quarter part of the remainder to my son David, and the other three quarters I give to my sons Aaron and Moses, to be to their own free disposal.

And lastly, I do make and ordain my trusty friend, Thomas Lapham, Jun^r., sole executor to this my last will and testament." Closed with the usual formalities. Dated as aforesaid, and witnessed by Thomas Lapham, Joshua Lapham, Joseph Smith, and Jeremiah Smith 3d.

Samuel Ballou⁴ d. Jan. 25, 1765, and his ashes, we presume, rest in the adjacent family burial place heretofore described. His age was 73 yrs. and 2 ds.

We suppose the eldest three of these chn. must have been b. in then Providence, prob. on territory afterwards Smithfield; the others in Gloucester. It has been difficult to trace this family. No data reaches us of family characteristics and social standing; presumed to have been respectable. Smithfield records show that Daniel Arnold made his Will Dec. 31, 1770. The substance of it was as follows.—He gave to Mrs. Bathsheba one third of all his real and personal estate, excepting only his carpentry tools and a pair of steelyards: to his son Uriah two thirds of his homestead farm unreservedly, and the other third after the decease of his mother, with a tract of outlying woodland; but requiring him to provide a home and board for his sister Anna so long as she should remain unmarried: to said daughter Anna sundry bequests out of his personal estate, conditioned, however, that she should bring in no charges for her several years of domestic service in his house: to his daughters Mary Comstock, Rachel Arnold and Dorcas Cargill, three lots of land in Providence, which were described: and to his grand son Daniel, son of Uriah, certain parcels of real estate specifically described, &c. 106—4. Seth, b. June 4, '34; m. Hannah Cowen June 9, 1754.

Mrs. Mary (Hall) Ballou d. Sept. 25, 1761. Nehemiah^s m. 2d Abigail (Hall) Perry, a sister of his first wife; cer. in Gloucester July 15, 1762. No issue.

Nehemiah Ballou^s was the youngest child of James^s, and settled, about the year 1725, on the wild lands inherited by his father from his maternal grandfather, Robert Pike, west of the "seven mile line," so called. Those lands were then within the limits of Providence, but when Gloucester was incorporated in 1730, they were included therein. When Burrillville was set off from Gloucester, in 1806, they fell within the limits of that township. In 1726 James^s made a gift deed of these lands to this son. The tract conveyed is thus described: "One half right of Commonage on the west side of the seven mile line in Providence, with all the land already laid out thereon, being, by estimation, two hundred acres, be it more or less, and lieth all adjoining together, and is the land my said son, Nehemiah Belleau now dwelleth on, and lieth on the original Right of Robert Pike." It would seem that somehow Nehemiah's acres were estimated afterwards at three hundred and forty-five; for we find this number named in a quit-claim deed gives to Nehemiah by his oldest brother, James. It appears that after the death of their father, James^s, a question arose whether, under the old English law then in force, James^s, as eldest son, or his heirs after him, might not claim estate in this land. Therefore James^s honorably relinquished to Nehemiah all supposable interest therein. His quit-claim runs as follows: "Being sensible and knowing this that it was the true intent and meaning of my said father to give to my brother Nehemiah Belloue, of Gloucester, in the County and Colony aforesaid, Yeoman, the one half of that which was the original right of Maturin Bellone in the undivided lands on the west side of the seven mile line, &c. * * * Now know that I, the said James Balloue, for the settling of said lands according to my honored father's intent, do remise, release, and forever quit-claim, and by these presents, for myself and my heirs, do fully, clearly and absolutely remise, release and forever quit-claim unto him, my aforesaid brother, Nehemiah Bellone, * * all my right, title, interest and demand whatsoever * * in or to the above said half right and lands, &c." Dated April 29, 1751.

Nehemiah³ located on this tract, as has been said, about 1725, and set up his log house on the side hill, a short distance west of the Friends' Meeting house, near the road which leads from the Village of Mapleville in Burrillville, R. I., towards Chepachet in Gloucester. The exact location was pointed out to Mr. Peck several years ago by Mr. Duty Lapham, a great grandson of Nehemiah, who had received his information, when a lad, from his mother. Nehemiah, in process of time, built him a framed house, which makes a part of the domicile occupied in his life time by Mr. Duty Smith. Mr. Peck visited Mr. Smith before his decease, he being then an aged man. He said he well recollected Nehemiah Ballou, had heard him preach many times, when a boy, and proceeded to relate numerous interesting anecdotes of him. There is no doubt he earned a good reputation in his vicinage for industry, sobriety, piety and many virtues. He was a devoted Baptist, and, though not an ordained minister, often preached in his own house and the general neighborhood. Meantime he became a large landholder, a productive farmer, and an influential citizen. Not much is said of his wives, which was too apt to be the thoughtless fashion of former times in relation to even very hard-toiling and exemplary helpmeets of male worthies; but we always take for granted, in the absence of contrary testimony, that wives and mothers ought to be honorably mentioned in the family record. As Nehemiah found himself advancing toward old age, he prudently made his Will, and set his temporal affairs in order for his departure. He did this some twenty years before his decease. Its principal items are the following:—

"I give to my beloved wife Abigail one good cow and one third part of all the remainder of my personal estate, except my iron farming tackling and tools.

I give the one half of my tract of land that I have situate in Gloucester, lying on the south side of the highway and northeasterly from sucker pond, containing about fifty acres in the whole, to my daughter Uranah Mitchell during her natural life, and, after her decease, to her son Zuriel Mitchell; but if he should die before his mother without disposing thereof, then to go to his next brother; and the other half of said land I give to my daughter, Mary Cowen, to be to her heirs and assigns free and clear forever.

I give unto my son Peter Ballou twenty-four shillings in lawful money, to be paid by my executor out of my personal estate.

I give unto my son Seth Ballou all my right in Common, to him and his heirs and assigns, and also all my iron farming tackling and tools,—and I likewise give unto him one third part of all my personal estate of every sort and kind that I have not before in this my will disposed of, and the other two thirds I give to be equally divided between my aforesaid two daughters; but if either of my said daughters should happen to die before a division, then the deceased's part to be equally divided among her children.

I hereby nominate my said son Seth sole executor of this will; hereby revoking, &c." Dated March 13, 1769. Witnessed by John Steere, Jr., Samuel Phettiplace and Richard Steere. The testator d. Apl. 1, 1789, being in his 88th yr., and was buried a short distance from his domicile. Mrs. Abigail, his 2d wife, and widow, d. May 4, 1792, in her 81st year.

[21]. PETER BALLOU³, Peter², Maturin¹; b. in then Providence, afterwards Smithfield, R. I., in the locality now known as Louis-quisset, prob. about 1696, the exact date not found; drowned in Blackstone river (having gone in to bathe) during the Summer of 1717, to the unspeakable grief of his parents and their family. His dust reposes in the Mann cemetery, ground originally a part of the Peter Ballou estate. This has already been told.

[22]. WILLIAM BALLOU³, Peter², Maturin¹; same birth place as the preceding, but no birth-date found. Untraceable. Not mentioned in the Wills of his parents, and therefore presumed to have d. young.

[23]. JEREMIAH BALLOU³, Peter², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Louis-quisset aforesaid, R. I., perhaps about 1698, no date found; m. Isabella Ross, no particulars as to ptage., birth-date, or the mge. found. Issue.—

Jeremiah Ballou³ inherited from his father quite a large landed estate. He had an ample homestead in Scituate, R. I., on which he dwelt until after the death of his widowed mother. Meantime he looked up all his rights to common land which came down through his father from Maturin Ballou¹ and Robert Pike. But he seems to have been somewhat of a restless land speculator, for we find on record numerous deeds of real estate which he bought and sold in various localities. He sold his patrimonial homestead in Scituate to John Potter Feb. 26, 1746. and purchased of Thomas Cooper a handsome farm containing 106 acres in Gloucester Mar. 6, the same year. He then became a citizen of Gloucester, where prob. his two youngest chn. were b. Thenceforth he traded often in lands, here and there, but not always to good advantage. For we learn through one of his grand sons-in-law, who knew something of his history, that he finally lost nearly all his property, and became sadly broken down in his old age. He and his wife d. in Gloucester, but we have not yet ascertained their death-dates.

[24]. BARBARA BALLOU³, Peter², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Louisquisset aforesaid, R. I., perhaps before 1700; m. an Inman, supposed to have been Valentine Inman. She was alive Feb. 15, 1740, when her mother's Will was made. We regret our inability to trace her descent further.

[25]. PHEBE BALLOU³, Peter², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Louisquisset aforesaid, R. I., perhaps not far from 1700, date not found; m. James King, Jr., of Providence, Dec. 10, 1719. Issue.—

- 112—1. Phebe King, b. perhaps 1721.
 113—2. Jerusha “ b. “ 1723.

We fear no further trace can be found of this family. Peter², in his Will, dated Aug. 24, 1731, gave the above named gd. chn. five pounds each, and assigned as his reason for giving them no more, that he had previously given to their deed. mother her intended portion. So she had then been sometime dead. We awaited further information, if any could be obtained; but having waited a reasonable time, we now dismiss the family as no further traceable.

[26]. JEMIMA BALLOU³, Peter², Maturin¹; b. prob. in the locality aforesaid, perhaps not far from 1703; m. a Sprague, supposed to be David, had three dcs., and was already deceased when her mother made her Will, Feb. 15, 1740.

114—1. — Sprague.

116—3. — “

This family, too, we must dismiss as by us untraceable. If any relatives are interested, we leave to them all practicable research.

[27]. MARTHA BALLOU³, Peter², Maturin¹; b. in Louisquisset, R. I., between 1702 and 1710; m. John King, Jr., prob. 1728 to 1730. Issue, found recorded in Foster, R. I.—

117—1. Phebe King, b. Jan. 7, 1731-2.

118—2. Martha King, b. Sept. 18, '32-3.

It seems that Martha³ had deceased some time before her mother's Will was made, prob. as early as 1736 or '37. The Foster records show that John King, Jr., soon m. again, and began to have chn., by his wife Deliverance, May 10, 1738. She became the mother of five whose birth-dates are given, but need not be entered here. This family no further traced.

FOURTH AND FIFTH GENERATIONS.

[28.] JOHN BALLOU⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in then Providence, afterwards Smithfield, R. I., date not found; m. Elizabeth Phillips, dr. of Joshua Phillips of Sutton, Mass.; her birth-date and the mge. date not found. Issue.—

119—1. John, b. Apl. 3, 1743; m. Sibella Leland.

120—2. Benjamin, b. Nov. 20, '46; m. Mary Phillips Apl. 15, 1770.

121—3. Anna, b. Dec. 14, '49; m. John Whitmān.

122—4. Richard, b. not found; m. Lucy Arnold.

123—5. Abigail, b. “ m. Sylvanus Sayles.

124—6. Nancy, b. “ m. Rufus Streeter.

John Ballou⁴ settled on the land given him by his father in 1738-9; viz. one hundred acres of his home farm in Louisquisset neighborhood. His house stood about one fourth of a mile on the road south from the Eleazer Mowry place, latterly so called. Judge Thomas Mann, in his day many years ago, purchased the estate, and demolished the domicile. This was after John Ballou⁴ had sold the property. John⁴ sold several portions of his inheritance at various times, and gave the remainder to his three sons, John, Benjamin and Richard. Richard deeded his portion to Benjamin Feb. 21, 1780, and settled in the northeasterly part of Cumberland, R. I. See Smithfield Recs. B. 7, p. 298. John and Benjamin long held their portions in partnership, but divided them in 1783. Ib. B. 7, p. 413.

John^a d. May 29, 1788. He was found a corpse in a pasture, which he was supposed to be crossing on his way to visit his dr., Mrs. Streeter. He prob. d. instantly from apoplexy or some other deadly fit. Mrs. Elizabeth, his widow, survived him several years. She is said to have been a sister of Moses Ballou's first wife. She spent her old age in the family of her son Benjamin, where she d. at a date not ascertained.

[29.] ABRAHAM BALLOU¹, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Louisquisset, then Providence, later Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., date not found; m. Mary Sayles, her ptge. and birth-date not found; cer. Mar. 3, 1739, by Daniel Jenckes, Town Clerk. Issue.—

125—1. Simeon, b. May 21, 1740; m. Mary Cole Apl. 1, 1762.

126—2. David, b. not found; m. Mary Smith.

127—3. Phebe, b. “ m. John Smith Apl. 15, 1761.

Abraham¹ dwelt first after mge. in Gloucester, R. I., as long ago as 1742, on land given him by his father. Next, for a short time, he lived on an estate he had purchased in 1745, situated on the road leading from Killingly, Ct., to Providence, R. I. That estate he sold in 1747, and finally settled on a considerable tract of land he took up containing much of what became the site of Slaterville. His domicile was located on an adjacent hill, where his son Simeon afterward dwelt and died. We learn little of his history. We infer that he must have d. in middle age—no record found of his death. Mrs. Mary, his widow, long survived. She spent a considerable portion of her widowhood with her daughter Phebe Smith and husband, outliving both. She was then cared for in the home of Thomas Appleby, who had married one of her granddaughters—a dr. of Phebe and John Smith. With them she d. at an untold date, at the age of 90 yrs. or more.

[30.] DAVID BALLOU¹, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. date not found, in Louisquisset, then Providence, afterwards Smithfield, &c., R. I. No trace has been found of this David Ballou, and the supposition is that he must have d. young, or at least that he d. unmarried.

[31.] MARY BALLOU¹, John¹, John², Maturin¹; b. date not found, in Louisquisset, then Providence, afterwards Smithfield, &c., R. I.; m. Joseph Lapham, according to usage of Friends at their meeting in said Smithfield April 1, 1734, O. S. "Witnesses—John Ballou, Jr., Tabitha Ballou." Issue.—

128—1. Abner Lapham, b. not found; m. Mary Mowry May 3, 1761.

129—2. John " b. " m. Amey Bucklin June 21, 1767, by Eld. N. Cook.

130—3. Rebecca Lapham, b. not found; m. Jeremiah Bartlett Mar. 25, 1762.

131—4. Mercy Lapham, b. not found; m. — Chase.

132—5. Mary " b. " m. Robert Wilkinson Dec. 29, 1768.

134—6. Abigail " b. " m. — Meade.

The record of this family comes to us obscure and imperfect. The names of the chn. were extracted from the Will of Joseph Lapham, made in Cumberland, R. I., May 26, 1786. It is presumed that the testator was a settled inhabitant of that town, where prob. his chn. were b.—though perhaps some of them in Smithfield. Mrs. Mary is mentioned in the Will of her father Apr. 19, 1755, and in that of her uncle Maturin¹, 1760. Joseph Lapham d. in Cumberland Dec. 23, 1796. Mrs. Mary (Ballou) Lapham d. at a date not ascertained. This descent is too difficult for our tracement.

[32.] SARAH BALLOU¹, John¹, John², Maturin¹; b. date not found, in Louisquisset, then Providence, afterwards Smithfield, &c., R. I.; m. David Sprague, son of Ebenezer and Mary, b. Mar. 28, 1712-13; m. during 1730. Issue.—

135—1. Naomi Sprague, b. no more ascertained.

136—2. Lucy " b. " "

137—3. David " b. " "

Sarah Ballou Sprague¹ is mentioned in the Wills of her father and her uncle Maturin. But our biographical information concerning her and her family is extremely limited. We have not even the birth-dates of the chn. nor death-dates of the parents, and so put this branch of descent in the category—no further traced.

[33.] TABITHA BALLOU¹, John¹, John², Maturin¹; b. in the same locality as the five immediately preceding brothers and sisters, the birth-date not found; m. Manasseh Kempton of Smithfield, R. I.; mge.-date and particulars not found. Issue.—

128—1. Tabitha Kempton, b. not found; m. John Weatherhead Apl. 12, 1770.

Tabitha (Ballou) Kempton d. not long after the birth of her only child Tabitha, date not found, and we have no further information concerning her. Her husband m. 2d Sabina Paine Nov. 17, 1751, and is no further traced, except in respect to the mge. and chr. of his dr. Tabitha (Kempton) Weatherhead. These will appear in the next generation.

[34.] PETER BALLOU¹, John², John³, Maturin : b. in Louisquisset, as aforesaid, date not found; m. Alice Mowry, wid. of Jeremiah Mowry, and dr. of Joseph and Alice (Whipple) Mowry, b. June 6, 1712; cer. May 11, 1766, by Eld. Nathaniel Cook of Cumberland, R. I. No issue from this mge. But Peter had previously had born to him an illegitimate daughter by Mrs. Meribah Phillips, long his housekeeper, and who probably expected to be made his wife, but was disappointed through some breach of affection. But the father acknowledged the child his, and finally made her his principal heir. He chose freely to recognize her by the name of

139—1. Rhoda Ballou, b. date not found; m. George Streeter Oct. 30, 1774

We learn from certain records that Mrs. Meribah Phillips was seriously dissatisfied with the treatment she had received from Peter¹, and demanded better compensation than he was disposed to make her. She had rendered him fifteen years of domestic service on scanty pay—not to mention what else had happened. After much unpleasantness, they referred their controversy to three arbitrators of their vicinage: viz. Stephen Sly, Thomas Steere and Richard Steere, Esquires. They awarded Mrs. Phillips £39 in full of all demands. So the matter was settled. And if their conduct was not exemplary in getting into difficulty, they certainly might have done worse in getting out.

Peter¹ dwelt on the homestead he inherited from his father, since long known as "the Streeter place," about a mile north of Lime Rock Village in then Smithfield. He made his Will Dec. 8, 1770. See Smithfield Recs. B. 2, p. 76. Therein he gave his wife Alice all his household goods, the occupancy of one third of his lands and buildings, and £365. To his bro. John £3. To his nephew John 1 shilling. To his niece Anna, dr. of his bro. John, 15 shillings. To his nephew Richard, son of his bro. John, £3. To his nieces Abigail and Nancy, drs. of his bro. John, 15 shillings each. To his nieces Naomi and Lucy Sprague, and their bro. David, 30 shillings each. To his niece Tabitha Weatherhead £12. To his nephews Simeon and David Ballou, sons of his bro. Abraham, £30 each. To his nephew Benjamin Ballou £3. To Rhoda, dr. of Meribah Phillips, whom he says "I choose to call Rhoda Ballou," all his lands and buildings in Smithfield, estimated to contain one hundred and sixty acres, during her life, then to her legal heirs in fee simple. He d. May 2, 1777. His widow d. at a date not found.

[35.] ELCE OR ALCY BALLOU¹, Maturin³, John², Maturin¹; b. date not found, in then Providence, later Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I.; m. 1st David Arnold, son of Eleazer and Sarah Arnold; date and particulars of mge. not found. Issue.—

140—1. William Arnold, b. not found.

141—2. Lydia Arnold, b. " "

David Arnold d. Dec. 31, 1736; and the wid. m. 2d, Capt. Richard Sayles of Smithfield, son of John and Elizabeth, b. Oct. 24, 1695, as his 2d wife; cer. May 14, 1738. She is presumed to have taken her two children to her new home with Capt. Richard, under whose protection they remained till sometime after her death. That took place in 1741. She had administered on the estate of her 1st husband, under a probate appointment of Smithfield Town Council, held Apl. 5, 1736, and doubtless acted as legal guardian of her chn. till death. Capt. Richard m. his 3d wife, wid. Susanna (Ballou) Inman, Jan. 10, 1742—the two Arnold chn. and their property still remaining under his care. At length, either on his motion or that of their relations, the Smithfield Town Council took action on the case Sept. 25, 1744, and appointed Maturin Ballou³, grandfather of the chn., their guardian. Thereupon Capt. Richard delivered the two chn. and their property over to Maturin's guardianship. So say Old Smithfield Records, Council B. 1, p. 71. The descendants of Elce or Aley (Ballou) Arnold no further traced.

[36.] WILLIAM BALLOU¹, Maturin³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., in 1759; m. Mary Bucklin of Attleboro', Mass., dr. of Elijah Bucklin, b. in 1762; cer. date not found. Issue.—

142—1. Joseph, b. Nov. 18, 1783; m. Harriet Hawes in 1826.

143—2. William, b. Aug. 20, '86; m. Barbara Bucklin 1817 or 18.

144—3. Bezeliel, b. —, '92; m. Abigail Ordway Sept. 12, 1827.

145—4. Sarah, b. Sept. 23, '95; m. Moses Lunt.

- 146—5. Maturin, b. Sept. 23, '96; m. Sarah Hawkins Oct. 16, 1820.
 147—6. Mary, b. —, 1801; d. 1813, a. about 12 yrs.
 148—7. Sanford, b. May 2, 1803; m. Amey Dickerman Mar. 25, 1834.
 149—8. Almada, b. May 16, 1806; m. Samuel Riddale Sept. 12, 1853.

William Ballou¹ must have become of age and taken possession of his patrimony not far from 1781, and prob. married a year or two later. In 1783 or thereabouts his bro. Maturin¹ reached his majority, and entered into joint possession of the homestead, inherited according to the Will of Maturin². They held and managed their inheritance together, or at least without division, until the year 1800; about which time William¹ emigrated to Tunbridge, Vt. It appears that they made a small addition to the old farm of between nine and ten acres, which they purchased of their cousin Peter Ballou¹ in 1795. This purchase straightened their lines and otherwise convenienceed them. See Deeds of Old Smithfield, R. I., B. 9, p. 294. But the Will of their father was somewhat obscure in respect to the portions of land intended for the two sons, and if construed literally, made them quite unequal. Both brothers worthily desired to correct this inequality, and to share alike. They therefore executed the following Indenture.—

“This Indenture made and concluded upon this Eleventh Day of March, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and One, and in the Twenty fifth year of American Independence, by and between William Ballou of the State Vermont, late of Smithfield in the County of Providence and State of Rhode Island, yeoman, of the one Part, and Matturan Ballou of said Smithfield, yeoman, of the other Part; Witnesseth That, whereas Maturien Ballou, late of said Smithfield, Deceased father to the aforesaid William and Maturan, Did, in and by his Last Will and Testament, bearing date the Third Day of April, A. D. 1760, Give and Devise unto them, the said William Ballou and Maturien Ballou, all his Real Estate in a very unequal proportion to Hold in Severalty,—as Reference to said Will being had may more fully appear.

Now know ye that they, the Said William Ballou and Maturien Ballou, for and in consideration of the natural love and Brotherly Affection which they have and do beare to each other, as well as in consideration of all the Work and Labor which the said Maturin Ballou did upon the Said Real Estate before the Said William Ballou moved from Said Estate, as also for divers other good causes and considerations, have Mutually and Reciprocally Agreed and Covenanted, and by these presents do Mutually and Reciprocally Agree and Covenant with Each other, and for Their Respective Heirs and Assigns forever, to Have Hold and Enjoy the aforesaid Real Estate Share and Share alike, as Tenants in Common and not as Tenants in Severalty, to be Equally Divided between them their Heirs and Assigns, anything in the aforesaid Last Will and Testament to the contrary hereof in anywise Notwithstanding." Signed, sealed and delivered in legal form by the two brothers.

In presence of Samuel Thurber, Jr., and David Heaton.

We have copied this Indenture from the original, which came into possession of Mr. Peck from the family archives many years ago. We copy it because it is so creditable to the two brothers, as well as because it indicates very nearly the date at which William' removed to Tunbridge, Vt., and shows that all but the last three of his children were b. in Smithfield, R. I. This Indenture legally prepared the way for William to sell and convey his share of the patrimonial estate to Maturin; which he did on the 15th of March, A. D. 1803. We have the original Deed. As this Deed presents some important specifications which may be useful for reference, we extract the essential portions.—

"Know all men by these Presents, that I, William Ballou, of the State of Vermont, late of Smithfield, &c., in consideration of One Thousand Four Hundred Dollars, to me well and truly paid by my Brother, Maturien Ballou of said Smithfield, &c., * have remised, released, and forever quit-claimed * unto the said Maturien Ballou in his full and Peaceable possession and seizen, and to His Heirs and Assigns forever, all such Right, Estate, Title, Interest, Claim and Demand whatsoever, as I, the said William Ballou, had or ought to have in or to all the Homestead Farm which was formerly my late Hon'd. Father's, Situate, Lying and being in said Town of Smithfield, which I hold as Tenant in Common with my said Brother by virtue of a Deed of Union, Recorded in the Registry of Deeds for said Town, Book 10th, page 110, and to one other Tract or Lot of Land adjoining to the North of said Farm Lying betwixt the land of Elisha Olney and the Heirs of Ichabod Comstock, which Land I and my said Brother Purchased of Peter Ballou by any way or means whatsoever, Excepting my right of reversion to my Hon'd. Mother's Dower or Power of Thirds, which are assigned and set off to her during Life. * * *

In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this Fifteenth Day of March, A. D., 1803, and Twenty seventh year of American Independence."

MATURIN BALLOU HOUSE, STUMP HILL, LINCOLN.

[37.] MATURIN BALLOU', Maturin', John', Maturin'; b. in Smithfield, R. I., in 1760; m. Barbara Bucklin, b. in Attleboro', Mass., dr. of Elijah Bucklin, and sister of Mary, wife of William'. The dates of her birth and of the marriage not ascertained. No issue. But they adopted Maturin' [146], son of William and Mary (Bucklin) Ballou, when he was eight years of age, brought him up, and made him their heir. This adopted son who was designated in some instruments "Jr.," in others Maturin Ballou, "2d," m. Sarah Hawkins Oct. 16, 1820, us already stated.

Maturin' made a Will April 27, 1821; but in Oct. 1826, was bereaved of his wife. On account of this change in his circumstances, or for other reasons, we find that, on the 10th of Aug. 1827, he deeded his homestead of 125 acres with all its buildings to his nephew, styled Maturin Ballou 2d, for the consideration of

$1000, taking back a Life-lease of the premises. How far this transaction modified the stipulations of his Will we are unable to state. It was legally approved Jan. 1, 1831. It prescribed and provided as follows.—

“First, I give and Devise to my Beloved wife Barbary Ballou, her Heirs and Assigns, forever, one undivided Third part of my Homestead Farm, situate in said Smithfield, together with one third part of all the buildings thereon, in lieu of her Dower, upon Condition that she pay one third part of all my just debts and funeral charges. I also give her one-half part of my Household Furniture.

Secondly, I give and Devise to my Nephew Matturin Ballou, Jr., his Heirs and assigns, forever, the residue or Two thirds of my said farm, together with Two thirds of all the buildings thereon, upon Condition that he pay Two thirds of all my just debts and funeral charges. I also give him the remainder half of my Household Furniture, and all my wearing apparel.

Thirdly, as to all the rest, residue and remainder of my personal Estate, of what kind or nature soever, I give and Bequeath [it] to my said Beloved wife Barbary Ballou and to my said Nephew Matturin Ballou, to be Divided in the following manner, (that is to say), one third to my said Wife, the remaining Two thirds to my said Nephew.

Lastly, I hereby appoint and constitute my Beloved Wife Barbary Ballou and Matturin Ballou, Jr., joint Executors to this my last will and testament.” Closed in usual form, signed and sealed by testator Apl. 27, 1821, and witnessed by three persons. We observe that nothing is said in this Will of the nephew as an adopted son, and perhaps there had been no legal formality to that effect, but the general understanding always was that he was adopted, at least virtually and practically. We judge that the relationship between uncle, aunt and nephew was mutually a happy one.

Maturin Ballou⁴ and wife are represented to have been very exemplary and highly respected persons. Rev. David Benedict of Pawtucket, R. I., gave Mr. Peck an excellent report of them, as long regular attendants on his ministry, and of most worthy social standing. She d. in Oct. 1826, and he Oct. 27, 1830. Their remains repose in a cemetery in the southwesterly section of Pawtucket.

She seems to have been in her 50th year when she entered into wedlock, and from the mention made of her in the Wills of her father and uncle Maturin¹, we infer that she was held in high esteem for maiden usefulness and worth. Doubtless she was both serviceable and agreeable among her relatives during her protracted singleness, and no less so after marriage to the Angell who became her husband. No further traced.

Mrs. Lydia (Harris) Ballou was the mother of these eleven children. Nine of them were b. in the County of Providence, R. I., and the youngest two in Richmond, H. N. She was a woman of great energy, capability, and affection—a noble helpmeet and devoted companion of her husband, and an excellent mother to her chn. But she was summoned from earth life while the youngest was yet an infant and several of the next older sadly needed her tender care. She d. in Richmond, N. H., Dec. 21, 1773, a. 45 yrs. 10 mos. 15 ds. Rev. Maturin' m. 2d, Wid. Lydia Bliss of Attleboro', Mass., Sept. 15, 1774. No issue. Of this lady no characteristics have come down to us, but we presume them to have been good. Nor have we any account of her decease, but have some reason to believe it took place in 1790 or '91.

Rev. Maturin' first settled on a portion of his father's homestead in then Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I. He was a Turner by trade, and is so styled in several legal instruments. Tradition reports him to have been, for a time, a manufacturer, prob. on a small scale, of spinning wheels, such as our grand dames of former generations used for working up wool and flax. He seems to have been both a mechanic and farmer, as well as preacher, and always a hard laboring man. He became deeply religious in early life, and a devoted member of the Calvinistic Baptist church. In 1752, at the age of thirty years, he commenced preaching in that denomination, and continued in its ministry over half a century. No particulars have reached us of his early religious experiences, his call to the ministry, his preparation for it, his approbation, or induction. The Baptists of that day had no Theological Schools, Professors of Divinity, dignified ecclesiastics, or tempting salaries. They were poor, humble and unpopular, but intensely conscientious, zealous and earnest in their work. Their ministers claimed to receive their call directly from heaven, depended little on scholastic preparation, preached almost gratis wherever they found an opening, and generally bore the simple title, Elder, even after ordination. Such probably was substantially Maturin Ballou's experience as a Baptist minister. In 1754 he removed to Pawtucket, where he built him a dwelling house and perhaps a mechanic shop; preaching there and in the general vicinity with more or less regularity. Mr. Peck, in 1862, found that domicile, with a small later addition, still standing on a corner at the junction of Main and North Union Streets. This locality with a large part of Pawtucket, was then embraced in Providence, but in 1767 was incorporated as North Providence. In 1759 Rev. Maturin and Lydia his wife deeded this Pawtucket real estate, for $1400, to William Jenckes of Cumberland. See No. Providence Records, B. 1, p. 324. He had already sold the land willed him by his father to his brother Peter^l. Date of deed Oct. 13, 1758. See Smithfield Recs. B. 4, p. 330. He next removed to Scituate, R. I., to that part of the town afterward incorporated as Foster. There he purchased a small homestead of one James Seamans, April 20, 1759, on which he wrought diligently for the support of himself and family—ministering to the people of that vicinity on the Sabbath without salary, and attending numerous funerals with little but thanks for his services. He remained in Scituate till 1767.

About that time a general interest had sprung up in the County of Providence in favor of emigration to Richmond, N. H., where considerable tracts of new land were offered for sale at temptingly low prices. Many farmers in Smithfield, Glocester, Cumberland and the neighboring towns, who had large families growing up to need homes, or who otherwise desired to better their circumstances, made haste to purchase those Richmond, N. H. lands, where small outlays would secure ample homesteads. Among the emigrants were several families of Ballous. Rev. Maturin joined the movement. He sold that part of his homestead, described as lying on the "west side of the road," for £33-3s., to his brother-in-law, Squire Bucklin, the husband of his sister Hopestill; date Aug. 12, 1767. See Scituate records, B. 6, p. 583. The same day he and his wife deeded to Christopher Colwell for £79-6s., the remainder of their farm, lying "on the east side of the road." B. 5, p. 714.

On the 8th of Oct. ensuing he bought of Jacob Bump, in the northeasterly section of Richmond, N. H., Lot 13 in Range 4, containing 80 acres mostly uncleared land, for which he paid £15. There the family forthwith settled, and there amid toil and privation, he pursued his ministry to a handful of new settlers. He was among the first, if not the very first, to preach the Baptist gospel in New Hampshire. He soon gathered a Baptist church in his section of Richmond, over which he was formally ordained as pastor in the year 1770, and continued to officiate successfully until 1778. Afterwards he preached more or less frequently in the surrounding region till near the period of his decease—completing a ministry of about fifty years. We have understood that he would never receive any stipulated compensation for his ministerial services—being conscientiously scrupulous against it. Whether he took this position on the ground of principle, or from a sense of unworthiness, or both, we are not informed. Somewhat of the latter is probable; for he is said to have been a remarkably diffident, humble, modest and unassuming, as well as devoutly faithful man. Whatever the ground of his scrupulosity on this point, it largely augmented his necessity for manual toil and economic frugality; for he had a numerous family to provide for, and to launch on the voyage of life. And, though blessed with a most efficient helpmeet, his heart, hands and head must always have been under a constant strain. One result was, his children grew up under privations which would now by many be deemed almost intolerable; but which, nevertheless, compensatively preserved them from enervating influences, and gave them vigorous, executive constitutions. There are much more deprecable calamities than homely fare, coarse garments, and toughening industry. Those children had parents to love, revere and be thankful for. Both father and mother are reputed to have been eminent for tender affection and wholesome discipline toward their offspring. Besides their worthy daughters, they reared no less worthy sons. Four of those sons became more or less distinguished preachers; viz. Benjamin, for many years a Baptist, but finally a Universalist; Maturin, who lived and died in the Baptist ministry; David, first a Baptist, and then for many years a Universalist minister; and Hosea, the youngest, renowned as a champion of Universalism wherever Universalism is known. Among their grand children, the same denomination makes honorable claim to Revs. Moses Ballou, Hosea Faxon Ballou, and Massena B. Ballou. Among their great grandsons, that denomination has on its roll of distinction Rev. Hosea Ballou 2d, the first among his ministerial brethren to receive the title D. D. and first President of Tufts college; also his two bros., Revs. William S. and Levi Ballou; also Rev. Russell A. Ballou and Rev. James H. Ballou, in other lines. These seem to be uncommonly rich findings for the Universalists to derive from one Calvinistic Baptist mine.

Rev. Maturin¹ is described as a man of large and commanding presence, stalwart for labor, an adroit horseman even down to old age, and a man of prudential, as well as executive accomplishment. He is said to have been a plain spoken, earnest, and sometimes eloquent preacher, as judged by the old-time standard of his denomination. The town of Richmond honored him with several positions of official responsibility, and he descended into the vale of old age haloed with reverential esteem. His son Nathan appears to have had the fostering care of his declining years, in the bosom of whose family he calmly gave up the ghost. The records show that he gave Nathan his homestead by deed Nov. 12, 1791, and took of him a life-lease back for his maintenance. See Recs. of Cheshire Co. at Keene, N. H., B. 19, p. 144, and B. 20, p. 502. As his 2d wife's name does not appear in these instruments, we conclude that she must have passed away some little time previously to Nov. 12, 1791. We were somewhat surprised to learn that the plain headstones in the graveyard where the remains of himself and two wives repose present only their naked initials, "M. B. and L. B.," without a word or date. And of his death we have been unable to find any more specific date than 1804.

We have sought in vain for information concerning these parents, their chn. and descendants. Our researchers report only what appears above. We must therefore relegate them to the limbo of the untraceable.

[44.] AMEY BALLOU¹, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. in then Providence, soon after Smithfield, and now Lincoln, R. I., Sept. 5, 1727; m. a Mr. Jencks, and they may have had issue. It seems pitiable that our researchers could find no trail of the family, and no clew whereby to thread them downward. We regret it, but must abandon them to the obscurity which is to us impenetrable.

These chn. were all b. in Smithfield, now Lincoln, on the paternal homestead, a portion of which Peter¹ inherited, and another portion of which was sold to him by his bro. Rev. Maturin in 1758. We are poor in desirable matter for a biographical sketch of this Peter Ballou. We are further informed only that he grew tired of his native home, sold it out about the year 1797, purchased a farm in Brimfield, Mass., and settled thereon, which he occupied until his decease, sometime during 1815, aged about 78 yrs. Mrs. Elsie, his wid., went to reside with her youngest dr., Elsie Pierce, in Monson, Mass., where she did not live out the year 1815. They were pious Baptists.

[48.] MERCY BALLOU', Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., at a date not found; m. Elijah Bucklin, particulars not found, and had at least one daughter—Chloe Bucklin. She m. Anthony Dyer of Providence, and had Mahala, Otis and Martha. We found these facts among Mr. Peck's pencilled memoranda, somewhat out of season for convenient tracement and numbering, and therefore pursue the descent no further. Mercy¹ was the 11th and youngest dr. of Peter³, and he left her £20 in his Will, she being then unmarried.

These nine chn. were all born on territory now Cumberland, R. I., before or after its incorporation as a town. The moral and social standing of the family was good. Uriah Jillson² was a large landholder and successful husbandman. He was also an intelligent citizen and entrusted with many municipal offices in the early days of Cumberland; such as Valuator of real estate, Town Sergeant, Grand Jurymen, Town Treasurer, Justice of the Peace, &c. He d. intestate Sept. 16, 1781, and his estate was settled by his widow and eldest son, as joint administrators. 194—10. Selah, b. May 17, '64; m. Saul Scott May 13, 1781.

The first two of these ten chn. were b. on territory then known as Wrentham, Mass., and the other eight on the same territory after it was known as Cumberland, R. I. Ariel Ballou¹ settled, lived, and died on a homestead given him by deed of his father, James², already mentioned, bearing date Oct. 28, 1746. This patrimonial estate, with considerable subsequent enlargements by purchase, is situated about a mile northerly from Iron Rock Hill and the ancient Ballou Meetinghouse, lying partly in Cumberland and partly in the extreme southwesterly part of Wrentham, Mass., as the State line was finally established. It descended to Ariel³ and from him to his son Alfred⁶, recently deceased, whose heirs now inherit it. It is the same on which the writer of this volume was born and spent the early part of his life.

Ariel¹, wife and family sustained a respectable standing among the middling interest class of their rural vicinage. He himself was an upright, industrious, economical, orderly and peaceable citizen—unambitious of political distinction and popular display, but a good exemplar of substantial usefulness, and several times accepting positions of official responsibility as a townsman. He was a supporter of the Six Principle Baptist ministry of his locality, but we have found no record of his church membership, though it is probable he stood in that relation. We find Mrs. Jerusha, his wife, unmistakably enrolled in the company of Christian professors, and several of her children. A very severe sickness in middle age, with perhaps improper use of mercurial medication, greatly impaired the subsequent activity, health and comfort of Ariel¹. His lower limbs were so sadly crippled that for many years he was unable to walk, and could only be moved about in an invalid's chair. He died before our birth; but we have heard our father relate that when grandfather desired to get out of doors and witness the farming improvements being made, his chair had to be slung carefully on hay-poles, and borne with him in it by two men into the field. There quietly seated, he could enjoy a view of operations going on till ready to be carried back to his sitting room. When he found himself disabled from the management of his homestead, he is understood to have divided it by gift-deeds between his two sons, Duty and Ariel, Jr., taking life-leases back for the support of himself and wife. But a fatal casualty bereaved him of his son Duty in 1783, just as he was getting started in the business of life with a wife and three little children. A tree, which he was felling, in some manner lodged, rebounded and struck him to the ground—so injuring him that he lived only a short time. This calamitous event very naturally rolled a dark wave of affliction not only over his widow and chin., but also over his aged parents and other near relatives. At length Ariel¹ deemed it prudent to prepare for his own departure, by making his Will; which duty he performed June 12, 1786. The following are its only important testamentary specifications.—

"I give to my loving wife Jerusha, whom I likewise constitute, make and ordain my sole Executrix of this my last Will and Testament, the one third part of the improvement, profits, and income of all my real estate, and all the improvement of my personal estate, during the full term of her natural life, except what is hereafter given to my beloved son Ariel Ballou.

I give to my well beloved son, Ariel Ballou, Jr., all my farming utensils and wearing apparel, and also all my part of a tract of land lying in said Cumberland, containing about six acres in the whole undivided, and is the Chestnut Island so called: to him the said Ariel Ballou, Jr. his heirs and assigns forever in fee simple, on the express condition, that the said Ariel Ballou, Jr., pay the following legacies to my six daughters, and my grandson, called by the name of George Staples.

I give to Jerusha Cook, Chloe Aldrich, Catherine Sayles, Eunice Sayles, Esther Braley, and Selah Scott, twelve pounds, to be equally divided (or forty shillings each) among them all.

I give to my beloved grand son George Staples fifteen pounds.

I give to my beloved grand children, the children of my son Duty, deceased, fifteen shillings; and to the children of my daughter, Jemima Rounds, fifteen shillings, —and lastly my mind and will is, that what shall be remaining of my stock of cattle and household goods, after the payment of my just debts is paid out of the same, and at the death of my said loving wife, be equally divided between my aforesaid six daughters." The usual closing revocation of all former wills, and attestation of witnesses—who were Lucyna Ballou, Otis Whipple and Samuel Scott.

The testator d. April 16, 1791, and his remains rest with those of his kindred in the Ballou Burying Ground, where his grave is marked by a plain headstone with a simple commemorative inscription. He d. in the 76th year of his age. Mrs. Jerusha, his widow, survived him over five yrs. She made her Will Sept. 29, 1795, devising small legacies to her son Ariel and several of her gd. chn., but the bulk of her property, consisting of personal effects, to her daughters—the same named in her husband's Will—to be equally divided among them; constituting her son-in-law, Saul Scott of Bellingham, Mass., her Executor. The witnesses were Samuel Scott, Joseph Swift, and Samuel Scott, Jr. Her gravestone in the Ballou Burying Ground bears this inscription.—“In Memory of Mrs. Jerusha, Relict of Mr. Ariel Ballou, who died October y^e 14, 1796, in the 74th year of her Age.”

[57.] BATHSHEBA BALLOU¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in then Wrentham, Mass, afterwards Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 26, 1717; m. 1st Michael Keith, ptge., birth-date, &c., not ascertained; cer. Jan. 27, 1742, by William Arnold, J. P. Issue.—

195—1. Mary Keith, b. prob. 1744; m. Joseph Swift Dec. 6, 1764.

196—2. Esther Keith, b. prob. 1746; m. Asa Thompson Mar. 8, 1764.

We have sought in vain to learn the parentage, birth-date, residence and occupation of Michael Keith. We suppose he must have had his home in Attleboro' Gore, Smithfield, or one of the neighboring towns. We conjecture he must have d. not far from 1746. However this may have been, we find that his widow, Mrs. Bathsheba¹, m. 2d, Elisha Newell, Dec. 25, 1748, cer. by Job Bartlett, J. P. This Elisha Newell was b. in Roxbury, Mass., Mar. 21, 1713, being 4th in descent from Abraham Newell; thus—Elisha¹, Jacob², Jacob³, Abraham⁴. Elisha was a widower when he m. Bathsheba¹. His 1st wife was Susanna Ballou¹, dr. of Obadiah², a cousin of Bathsheba, by whom he had 2 sons—all which will appear in its genealogical order. Issue.—

197—3. Martha Newell, b. Aug. 6, 1749; nothing ascertained.

198—4. Elisha Newell, b. May 14, '51; m. Phebe Smith Sept. 9, 1779.

199 5. Bathsheba Newell, b. Dec. 22, '53; m. Samuel Scott, Jr., Feb. 7, 1773.

200—6. Jason Newell, b. Jan. 22, '57; m. Sarah —+—.

201—7. Patience Newell, b. Jan. 19, '59; m. William Whitely in 1779.

These chn. were all b. in Cumberland, R. I., on the parental homestead. That homestead was situated on the old “Rehoboth Road,” so called, which came down from Mendon through South

Bellingham, over the high land, and onward to Cumberland Hill. It was afterwards known as the Silas Clark place, and is now owned by Albert A. Smith. It was crossed by the State line, lying partly in Cumberland, and partly in Bellingham, Mass. Elisha Newell^a and wife held respectable standing in the old fashioned farming community. He seems to have closed his earthly career in the prime of middle age. His Will may be found on Cumberland Recs. B. 4, p. 260, bearing date Feb. 16, 1762. He gave the use and improvement of all his real and personal estate to his wife, for maintenance of the chn., till the youngest son should become of age. Then the real was to be equally divided between his four sons, Aaron and David by his 1st wife, and Elisha and Jason by his 2d. Special bequests were made to his three drs., and the two step-drs., Mary and Esther Keith, were to have what property came from their father with their mother on her second marriage. He d. Apl. 14, 1762, aged a little over 48 yrs. Certain records inform us that Mrs. Bathsheba, in her second widowhood, was baptized Aug. 12, 1764, and became a member of the Six Principle Baptist church in her native vicinage. We learn but little more of her subsequent life, and are unable to state where or when she died. After the youngest son became of age, the homestead was divided, and at length passed out of the family possession.

Martha (Ballou) Cook and her husband had their homestead about a mile north of Cumberland Hill on the road leading to Wrentham, and the same distance south of the Ballou Meetinghouse. Their domicile stood only a few rods from the Darius Cook house, latterly owned by Orlando Vose. Nathaniel became a conspicuous man both in secular and ecclesiastical affairs, especially in the latter. Besides being an industrious and thrifty farmer, and also often a trusted municipal official, he was for many years colleague pastor with his uncle Josiah Cook² of the Six Principle Baptist church that worshipped in what was first called the "Elder Cook Meetinghouse," and afterwards the "Elder Ballou Meetinghouse." It would be interesting, if we had the requisite authentic data, to present the history of that church. But both records and traditions are very scanty.* We know, in general, that from 1639, when the Baptist church in Providence was instituted, the oldest in America, the Baptist denomination was actively propagated by its ministry in the Colony of Rhode Island, in the adjacent parts of the Plymouth and Massachusetts Colonies, and indeed, before long, in all the Colonies. But Providence was eminently a radiating centre. Swansea became another smaller but vigorous one as early as 1663, and Rehoboth soon swarmed with adherents. Nearly all the preaching among the early Rhode Islanders was Baptist; and the border settlements, too, were sprinkled with converts—Attleborough and its Gore, Wrentham, Bellingham, &c. The Ballous were hereditarily believers, or at least favorers, of the Baptist faith and order. And the Cooks, in the branch under notice, furnished many ready disciples. Nicholas³ in Bellingham was the first Baptist Deacon there, as early as 1737. His brother Josiah, before mentioned, soon joined him, as did several of his own sons—among whom was Nathaniel. Meantime the multiplying inhabitants of the "Ballou neighborhood," so called, had become ripe for instituting public worship. All attempts to ascertain when the people of that neighborhood began to hold religious meetings, receive baptism and prepare for building their Meetinghouse, have failed as to the exact dates.† As already stated in connection with the family record of James Ballou⁴, we know that the Meetinghouse had been erected when he deeded the site on which it stands March

* Backus, Vol. 3, p. 99, in list of churches in 1795, says "Cumberland church was organized in 1732."

Benedict says "the first Baptist church in Cumberland was organized in 1732."

And Richard Knight, in his History of the Six principle Baptists, pub. in 1827, says "it appears that this church was formed in 1732, in the full faith and practice of the Six principles of Christ's doctrine and that Elder Josiah Cooke was the first pastor therein that we have any account of."

† The Seitate church was organized in 1725, a meeting house was erected the year following and a deed of the land was given several years after. Showing that though the pioneers of that day were "men of deeds not words," they were slow in writing or recording them.

22, 1749. The Burying Ground was also provided for by Obadiah Ballou about the same time. These known facts warrant us in assuming that, whenever the church may have been organized, the Meetinghouse was built but a short time before. We need not repeat much of what we said on this topic in the connection above referred to. Josiah Cook was virtually, if not nominally, the first pastor of this Baptist flock; and his nephew Nathaniel was soon formally associated with him as joint pastor. They were officially entitled Elder in those days. The earliest document of that Cumberland church, believed to be now extant, bears date 1753, and distinctly recognizes these two Elder Cooks as in joint pastoral charge of it. And so they continued until near the time of their respective deaths—which took place within about a year of each other. Elder Josiah was b. in 1691, and d. in 1774, aged 83 years. It is understood that he frequently preached for some twenty years, subsisting himself as a diligent farmer, wholly unsalarized. Of his performances in public we have no testimonials. He probably became superannuated some few years before his decease. Tradition testifies that Elder Nathaniel was much the superior of his uncle in pulpit eloquence and funeral services. He preached often and regularly, attended many funerals, and solemnized numerous marriages. In fine, he was a popular and influential man in all his public and private relations. He, too, was uncompromisingly opposed to clerical salaries, and to all coercive support of public worship—things in that day considered inseparable. And he was eminently capable of providing for himself and large family by secular occupations. But he was cut off from mortal life in the ripeness of middle age and usefulness. He d. Apl. 17, 1773, just 11 days over a year before his uncle, Elder Josiah, being then aged 54 yrs. 7 mos. 2 ds. His son, Nathaniel, settled his estate as administrator. The memorial headstone of his grave may be found in the Ballou Burying Ground, with this inscription.—“In memory of Nathaniel Cook, Eldr. of y^e First Baptist Church in Cumberland. He died Apr. 17, 1773, in the 55th year of his Age.”

Mrs. Martha⁴, his widow, survived him over 30 years. The late Ariel Cook, Esq., of Woonsocket, R. I., who lived to be between 95 and 100 yrs. old, was her gd. son. He had a vivid recollection of her in his extreme old age, and, in conversation with Mr. Peck, spoke with great veneration and tender affection of her excellent qualities, especially in her domestic relations. All tradition gives her a good name for sound sense and Christian virtues. She was undoubtedly a congenial companion and helpmeet of her husband while he lived, and a most exemplary widow during the many years of her survival. Her grave-stone, by the side of her husband's, simply commemorates her thus.—“Mrs. Martha Cook, Relict of the Rev. Nathaniel Cook, died July y^e 15, 1803, in y^e 83d year of her Age.”

James Ballou⁴ and wife were capable, enterprising and worthy persons. He was the favorite son of his parents, and settled down with them on their homestead hereinbefore described as near the Ballou Meetinghouse. He was made a freeman of the new town of Cumberland, R. I., Apl. 19, 1749, and became an active citizen. There he and his wife remained till after his parents had passed away. There all their chn. were born, and some of the senior ones became old enough to form matrimonial connections. But at length emigration seemed desirable, and almost a necessity for so large a family. Richmond, N. H., was attracting settlers from Rhode Island, and land there was selling at moderate prices.

* We have since learned on good authority that two older sons, James and John, d. young.

BALLOU MEETING HOUSE, CUMBERLAND, R. I.

BALLOU MEETING HOUSE. INTERIOR.

The result was, that James' sold out his homestead of one hundred and twenty acres to his cousin Abner Ballou (pastor of the Six Principle Baptist church) and prepared for his removal to a new home. His deed to Abner bears date Oct. 4, 1774. See Cumberland, R. I., Records. He had previously sold to the same grantee sundry small pieces of land in the near vicinity. The next year, 1775, James' settled in Richmond, N. H., where then, or not long after, he bought land enough, in eighty acre lots, to give all his seven sons eligible farms, as it were in a row. Those farms occupied a spacious swell of soil, now called "Ballou's Hill," but for a long time known as the "Ballou Neighborhood"—like that in Cumberland, R. I., from which the emigrants came. There James and Tamasin Ballou spent the remainder of their earthly days with their children and grand chn. around them. They were professed Baptists from their youth—certainly he was one, belonging for many years to the church in his native vicinage. But between 1760 and '65 he and nearly a dozen other members of that church became deeply interested in the revivalism of the "New Lights," then so called—a marked peculiarity of whose movement was to hold frequent meetings in private houses for prayer, exhortation and the singing of hymns. Those meetings encouraged the laity to pray, exhort and sing as they felt moved, without the sanction of the organized churches and their pastors; which caused many schisms throughout the country. James' was an active leader in such meetings. The Six Principle Baptist church, its pastors and staid members, remonstrated with the offenders, admonished them, and finally denounced them as disorderly schismatics. The Cumberland church were rigid opposers of singing in religious meetings, of free lay exhortations, of communion with unimmersed professors, and indeed of this whole New Light movement. So there was a serious breach of fellowship between the parties, to the detriment of both. After settling in Richmond, N. H., where two Baptist churches were planted in different parts of the town, designated as the East and West societies, James' affiliated with the West church—which was the more liberal of the two. But here a new trouble broke out in a freak of spiritual wifery, whereby a considerable number of the members became infatuated, insomuch that several discarded their old wives and took new ones. They called the former "old flood wives," and their new ones "spiritual wives." These fanatics selected a new wife for James, whereat he became so disgusted that he quit the church forever, and resolved to be a christian on free ground, according to his own highest convictions. The spiritual wife contagion soon died out, after the desolation of a few families; but James' returned no more to the Baptist fold. After much investigation he settled down in the faith of final universal restoration, and became one of its outspoken advocates in occasional public meetings. His grandson, Russell Whipple of Richmond, N. H., now some time deceased, in one of his letters to Mr.

Peck, thus characterized him.—“My grandfather Ballou was a strictly honest, straight-forward, conscientious man.” We have no doubt that he was, and that his wife Tamasin was of like worthy character. After the foregoing had been some time written Frederick M. Ballou, Esq., our special researcher in behalf of this Work, visited Richmond, N. H., made fresh inquiries for data, and examined the County Records in Keene. He thus brought to light many additional facts, some of which were quite unexpected. One of these was the 2d mge. of James¹. It seems that Mrs. Tamasin d. Apl. 25, 1804, and that her aged husband m. 2d, Mrs. Huldah Carpenter, wid. of Joseph Carpenter, June 19, 1806. Of her nothing further was ascertained. He had long before disposed of his real estate among his sons by gift-deeds, and retained but a small amount of personal. This he bequeathed by Will May 7, 1792. This Will was probated after decease, and his estate settled by his son-in-law, Nathan Harkness. He d. Elisha Ballou¹ settled on the patrimonial estate of 90 acres, deeded to him by his father March 18, 1749. This estate was the easterly section of James Ballou's¹ homestead, and the present writer believes it to have been owned, in his youth, by Joseph and James Jencks—it having been divided into two farms. Elisha¹ was admitted a freeman of Cumberland in 1752, and was a prominent citizen. He seems to have had a military turn of mind and to have held a commission in the British service of those times. We learn this from a brief entry on the town records of 1756. But what his official grade was is not indicated. Prob. not above that of captain. When the American Revolution had developed itself, he went zealously into the Continental Army and d. in the service at Yellow Springs, Pa., in Nov. 1777. His estate was administered on and settled under legal authority, by his son-in-law, Israel Wilkinson of Smithfield. Mrs. Hepzibah, his widow, who was a sister of Rev. Abner Ballou's wife, survived him some 27 yrs., and d. in Mendon, Mass., June 30, 1804, aged 73 yrs. 6 mos. and 18 ds.

This is the nearest date to their mge. we have been able to find. We naturally expected to learn that they were m. in Cumberland, R. I., the bride's home, and by Elder Nathaniel Cook, the groom's elder brother, then in the early stage of his pastorate. But we were disappointed; nothing of the kind appears on record. We have not inquired just where in Bellingham William and Priscilla (Ballou) Cook dwelt, but suppose it must have been in the southerly section of the town. Sometime between 1770 and '75 they removed to Richmond, N. H. It is not unlikely they emigrated thither not far from the time Priscilla's brother James Ballou' did, perhaps a little earlier. All their chn. excepting Nicholas and Elizabeth, appear on Bellingham records. These two youngest were recorded in Richmond, N. H. We therefore infer that one or both of these were b. there. We have no information concerning the characteristics and life experiences of Priscilla' and husband, but judging from their respective heredities we may safely presume that their moral and social standing was good. He d. in 1790. Dec. 6, 1792, she m. 2d, Simeon Chamberlain of Royalston, Mass., where we lose her.

David Cook² is understood to have been a bro. of Elder Josiah, b. prob. in then Mendon, in the easterly part of now Blackstone, Mass. No personal characteristics of him or his wife have reached us. Doubtless a worthy and quiet pair. The husband's name appears on a subscription paper of 1771 for repairing the Meeting-house, and no where else in connection with the Baptist church in Cumberland, except on his grave-stone in their Burying Ground. It is not improbable that he and his wife were members of that church, but uncertain. Their grave-stones show that she d. Amariah¹ left an honorable life-record, so far as we have found it traceable. When his father d. intestate his landed property, as the old English law stood, fell legally to him as the oldest son. But he had too noble a soul to see his two bros., Noah and Stephen, go landless to his advantage. So, becoming administrator on the paternal estate, he forthwith executed deeds to Noah and Stephen, for considerations of "brotherly affection," making them equitable sharers with himself. See Cumberland Recs., B. 1, p. 1. He retained for himself the patrimonial domicile and its immediately surrounding acres, and continued to dwell there till all his children had been born, and he had laid his second wife in the grave. Mar. 13, 1771, he sold out his homestead to his relatives, Reuben and Asa Ballou, sons of his cousin Ezekiel¹. See Cumberland Recs. It was afterwards purchased by his cousin Rev. Abner Ballou and descended from him to his grandson, Col. Welcome Jillson. It is now owned by Eliab T. Harris. Not long after selling out, sometime before 1775, Amariah¹ removed with his children to what was then called Partridgefield, Mass., afterwards Peru, where he settled, but lived only three or four yrs. In respect to the deaths of his 2d wife and himself, we have depended on a letter written to Mr. Peck in 1855 by Dea. David

Mrs. Abigail (Razee) Ballou lived worthily and usefully to see all these 11 chn. grow up to man and womanhood. Then, she departed this life Sept. 10, 1794, in the 69th yr. of her age. Noah¹

m. 2d Abigail Cook, wid. of Daniel Cook, Jr., of West Wrentham, Mass., whose maiden name was Blackmore; cer. July 7, 1796, by Elder Abner Ballou. No issue. Noah Ballou' had his homestead in the southeasterly section of the "Ballou neighborhood," easterly from "Beacon Pole Hill." Its soil was mostly rugged and stubborn, with minor portions of strong feasible meadow and pasture, and plenty of good orchard ground. The old domicile was demolished many years ago. But the dwelling house, built a generation since by Lucina Weatherhead, occupies precisely the same site. In his declining days he deeded the northeasterly portion of it to his sons Ziba and Eliel. This was subsequently owned by Chad Mason. The southeasterly portion he deeded to his son Noah, Jr., who established thereon a goodly home. The main residue was given to his son Oliver, who cared for him in his old age. In process of time Oliver' exchanged this old homestead with Welcome Weatherhead for one on the Providence road, a mile or two below Cumberland Hill. Noah' was a very religious man, a devoutly constant reader of the Bible, a scrupulous attendant on public worship, and an exemplary professor of Baptist Christianity. The headstone of his grave in the Ballou Burying Ground bears the following inscription.—"In Memory of Noah Ballou, who died March 20, 1897, in the 79th year of his age. He had been a member of the Baptist Church 39 years." His 2d wife and widow d. Sept. 18, 1898, aged 65 years.

Sarah (Ballou) Pickering and her husband dwelt on a comfortable homestead in So. Bellingham, Mass., on the "old Rehoboth Road," so called, about half a mile northerly from what has long been known as the "Crooks place." The premises are now owned by Asahel Mann. They were of reputable standing among the commoners of their vicinity. He was an old-fashioned shoemaker, as well as farmer, and both filled up the measure of mortal life with substantial usefulness. Their remains repose in the "Scott Burying Ground," about a mile north of their living residence. Whether any lettered stones mark their graves we have not been informed, nor ascertained their death-dates from any record.

Ezekiel¹ was endowed by his father, Obadiah², with an ample homestead on the Wrentham road, extending from his cousin Stephen Ballou's land northerly half a mile on said road. His domicile was a low, one-story, old-fashioned structure, which the writer well remembers as owned and occupied by Capt. Otis Ballou, a gd. son of Ezekiel. It stood three fourths of a mile northeasterly from the "Ballou Meetinghouse," and is believed to have been demolished by Elias Ballou, son of Capt. Otis, in 1840. Ezekiel¹ and his wife belonged to the plain farmer class, of whom nothing remarkable has come down to us. In his old age he gave his lands by deed to his sons, with perhaps life-lease retentions for the maintenance of himself and wife. He made his Will Apl. 13, 1787, ordering the disposal of his personal estate as follows.—To his wife the use of one half for life; to his sons Jesse, Levi, Reuben and Asa, one crown, or six shillings and eight pence each, in addition to the lands already given them; and to his three married daughters, Amey Gaskill, Anna Brown, and Joanna Carpenter, one half, and after their mother's death, her half. Oliver Carpenter executor, Mendon, Mass. He d. June 5, 1789, a. about 71 yrs. Mrs. Joanna, his widow, d. Jan. 16, 1797. For Will see Cumberland Recs., B. 6, p. 177.

Daniel Ballou¹ settled in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., about 1747. It seems that his father, Obadiah⁴, endowed him, at that time, with 112 acres of land. See Gloucester Records, B 1, p. 368. Whether any additions were made by purchase we do not learn. This farm is situated in Burrillville about two miles south from the village of Pascoag. It is now owned by Job Ballou, a gt. gd. son of Daniel¹. There lived and d. Daniel¹, his son Joseph², and

Rev. Abner, or “Elder” Abner Ballou, as he was uniformly styled after he entered the gospel ministry, was a man of very considerable celebrity throughout his general vicinity. His educational and literary privileges were of the scantiest measure. His boyhood and youth knew little else than privation, coarse fare and hard work, in comparison with the experiences of our generation. But he was endowed with a strong physical and mental constitution. All his natural capabilities were above the common average, and he was trained up to moral rectitude. His religious sentiment was also highly susceptible, and predisposed to early exercises. At what age he entered into decisive religious experiences we have no information; but as his grave-stone certifies that he had been 51 yrs. a member of the First Baptist church in his native vicinage, he must have joined it in 1755, when he was in his 30th yr. He may have been a convert some yrs. prior to that date. The same monumental stone tells us that he had been pastor of the First church 35 yrs. But we are left somewhat in doubt as to when that pastorate commenced or ended. No extant records enlighten us on these points. The presumption, however, is that it ended at his death in Jan. 1806, or perhaps some little time before. We know that Elder Nathaniel Cook d. in 1773, and Elder Josiah Cook in 1774. They were his joint predecessors in office, and it is not probable that his own pastorate commenced sooner than 1775, though he may have then preached more or less for several yrs. and even been ordained. This seems quite certain, from the recorded fact that at least one marriage was solemnized by him in 1772. The Providence Gazette of Jany. 11, 1806, has the following obituary notice: "Died at Cumberland on the 4th inst. the Rev. Abner Ballou in the 81st year of his age. He had been a member of the Baptist church in that town 51 years and Pastor of the church about 35 years, and attended to the duties of his sacred office regularly till within a few weeks of his death, evincing by the whole tenor of his life the steadfastness of that faith which he professed." Tradition does not report him to have been an eloquent preacher, yet an earnest, solid and influential one in his denominational sphere; and he must have been a successful pastor, considering all his circumstances. For it should be understood that, like his pastoral predecessors and associates of kindred churches, he was uncompromisingly opposed to school-made and hireling ministers, as also to all other support of the pulpit than free will offerings. Of course he depended mainly on the labor of his own hands and the prudential management of his property for worldly thrift. And in this line of activity he was successful. His father in 1750 had given him a decent start in landed endowment (forty acres), and he had the ability to increase his estate several fold.

JAMES BALLOU HOUSE, CUMBERLAND, R. I.

Indeed, he got the reputation of being an uncommonly shrewd manager of pecuniary affairs. In lands and personal estate he became what, in those times, was deemed respectably rich.

In his pastoral office he solemnized many marriages, and ministered at funerals throughout a wide circuit. As to his ecclesiastical relations we find that in 1774 the Cumberland church was represented in the yearly meeting of the Six Principle Baptist churches, then just formed by the churches in the north part of the State and churches in the adjoining towns in Mass'ts. The first Baptist church in Providence and the first Baptist church organized in Newport, were Six Principle Baptists. On the removal of Brown University from Warren to Providence, a division took place in the first Baptist church in consequence of the omission by Presdt. Manning (then pastor of the church) of the ceremony of "laying on of hands" on the reception of members into the church. At this time Rev. Mr. Winsor and brethren withdrew and formed a new church in Johnston. The Baptist church in Newport voted to join the Warren Baptist association Sept. 5, 1801. In the yearly meetings from 1774 till 1798 Rev. Abner Ballou met as delegates from other churches, Rev. Samuel Winsor, Rev. Reuben Hopkins, Rev. John Winsor, Samuel Mitchell, Thos. Manchester, James Whitman, William Bowen, Sylvester Rounds, John Westcott, Stephen Place, Elisha Sprague, and other Elders of the church, whose memory is still cherished by many of the present generation.

It might be difficult to state precisely how far Elder Ballou and his brethren differed from the mass of associated Calvinistic Baptists. Probably they leaned more towards Arminianism, were Trinitarians rather indefinitely, and otherwise quite evangelical.

Elder Abner and his family stood at the head of social respectability in the general community around them and wielded a corresponding influence. He was a devotee of civil as well as religious liberty, stood firmly on the side of American Independence during the Revolution, and gave his decided support to whatever promised to solidify the new order of his country's affairs. As his sons grew up to manhood, he endowed them by gift-deeds with certain parcels of his real estate. He brought up his grandson, Welcome Jillson, who was left an infant at the early death of Lavinia (Ballou) Jillson, and for him he took care to provide a good start in life. On the 13th of June, 1804, he made his Will. Its substance is as follows.—

"Being in health of Body and sound disposing Mind and Memory (Blessed be God therefor)—

I give and bequeath to my well beloved son, William Ballou, all my Right and Title in and to the Farm whereon he lately dwelt and which he now occupies, lying in said Cumberland, together with the buildings thereon standing, being one moiety or half part of said Farm, the other half of which he holds by Deed from me, the said Abner, to be and remain to him the said William Ballou, his Heirs and Assigns forever, as an absolute Estate of Inheritance in Fee simple, (excepting only one half acre of Land at the North-erly part of said Farm and near the Meeting-house, which is reserved for a Burying Ground).—I also give and bequeath to him the said William Ballou, after the decease of my Wife, a certain Tract of Woodland, which I lately purchased of him, situate in Cumberland, aforesaid, adjoining the Southerly part of the Farm whereon my Grandson, Welcome Jillson now lives, containing five acres, be it more or less, to be and remain to him the said William Ballou, his Heirs and Assigns forever.

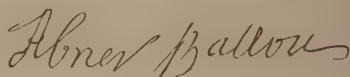

I give and bequeath unto my well beloved Son, Abner Ballou Junior, all my Right and Title in and to the Farm whereon he now lives, with the Buildings thereon standing, being one moiety or half part of said Farm: also all my Right and Title in and to that part of Iron Rock Meadow (so called) which I purchased of James Ballou, being one moiety or half part of the same—also the whole of that Woodlot called and known by the name of Oak Island, all situate in the Township of Cumberland aforesaid, to be and remain to him, the said Abner Ballou Junior, his Heirs and Assigns forever, as an absolute Estate of Inheritance in Fee simple.

I give and bequeath to my well beloved Grand Son, Welcome Jillson, after the decease of my Wife, all my Right and Title in and to the Farm whereon he now lives, and which was purchased of Major Reuben Ballou, deceased, together with all the Buildings thereon standing; also all my Right and Title in and to the Woodland adjoining said Farm Southerly (not herein before bequeathed), being one moiety or half part of said Farm and Woodland, all situate in said Cumberland, to be and remain to him the said Welcome Jillson, his Heirs and Assigns forever in Fee simple.

I give and bequeath to my three well beloved daughters, namely, Abigail Fisk, Beulah Brown and Sally Rogers each One hundred good silver Dollars, to be paid to them respectively by my Executor within one year after my decease out of my personal Estate, to be and remain to their use and disposal forever.

I give and bequeath to my well beloved Wife, Beulah Ballou, all the Rest and Residue of my Estate (not herein before disposed of) of every description, both real and personal (after the payment of my just Debts and Funeral charges) to be and remain to her the said Beulah Ballou, her Heirs and Assigns forever:—I also give my said Wife the free Use, improvement and income of all the real Estate herein before given to my Grand Son Welcome Jillson and of a Wood lot herein before given to my Son William Ballou, containing five acres, more or less, and lies adjoining the Farm whereon the said Welcome Jillson now lives, to be and remain to her the said Beulah Ballou during her natural life.

And I do hereby nominate, constitute, ordain, and appoint my aforementioned Son, Abner Ballou, Jun^r sole Executor of this my last Will and Testament. And I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke," &c. Signed and witnessed on the day and year above stated. Witnesses James Jenkes, Otis Ballou and Ozias Thurber.

FAC-SIMILE OF THE SIGNATURE OF REV. ABNER BALLOU, 1775.

It is implied in the Elder's bequest to his wife that he possessed other real estate not specified in the Will. There are reasons for believing that he did, though probably not of very great value. We have not thought it necessary to search for the particulars. We have the Executor's Inventory of personal estate, the total of which appears to have been $1021.15.

It is believed, on good authority, that Elder Abner continued to preach and exercise his pastoral functions down almost to the time of his decease. Also that he and his wife dwelt during his last years with his grandson, Col. Welcome Jillson, on what was originally the homestead of his uncle, Nathaniel Ballou², and is now owned by Eliab T. Harris. He seems to have declined rather suddenly at the end of his mortal pilgrimage, without any remembered leading disease, and under a complication of ailments common to old age. He d. in Christian hope and tranquility Jan. 4, 1806, aged a little over 80 yrs. Mrs. Beulah, his widow, d. June 10, 1808. Their dust reposes in a conspicuous spot of the Ballou Burying Ground, with suitable memorial stones.

Our researchers have taken great pains to ascertain the wanting data in the foregoing expansive family record, but with poor success. Either very imperfect records were kept, or they have eluded inquiry. And traditional information has been equally unobtainable. Obadiah¹ was undoubtedly endowed handsomely by his father either with land or means to purchase a farm, and he settled in that part of Gloucester, R. I., afterwards incorporated as Burrillville, a little west of what is called Nasonville. The same farm was owned in 1861, Mr. Peck says, by Molton Phettiplace. After the death of his 1st wife he sold that farm. After his 2d marriage he continued to live in the same neighborhood for some years. Then he resided awhile in the State of New York, Town of Thurman, Warren Co., but finally returned to Burrillville, and d. there. Whether any sculptured stone tells the resting place of his dust and that of his wives, we have not been informed.

We infer that as the father of sixteen chn., he must have passed through many struggles in mortal life, and drunk from the cup of trouble his full portion. We have no death-dates of him and his wives.

[75.] ESTHER BALLOU¹, Obadiah¹, James², Maturin¹; b. in then Wrentham, Mass., afterward Cumberland, R. I., Aug. 24, 1733; m. James Wilson of Bellingham, Mass.; cer. in Cumberland, R. I. Aug. 29, 1754, by Elder Nathaniel Cook. Issue, all recorded as b. in Bellingham.—

- 329 —5. David Wilson, b. Jan. 3, '66; “
- 330 —6. Damaris Wilson, b. Aug. 31, '68; “

Whether this family can be further traced in this work is improbable. At this writing we have no further information. The Town Clerk of Bellingham finds no record relating to this family after that of chn.'s. birth as above. They must have removed, but whither we get no hint.

[76.] AARON BALLOU¹, Obadiah³, &c. Nothing found of him but name and birth-date; must have d. in infancy.

[77.] ZERVIAH BALLOU¹, Obadiah¹, James², Maturin¹; b. in then Wrentham, Mass., afterward Cumberland, R. - 337—7. Benjamin Thayer, b. June 4, '82; m. Eunice Tyler Apl. 15, 1810.

Simcon Thayer was Deacon of the Baptist church in Richmond, N. H., his wife presumably a member, and the whole family of respectable social standing. Mr. Bassett in his History of Richmond states that Dea. Thayer became a Universalist. We are unable to give the death-date of Zerviah (Ballou) Thayer, or of her husband.

[78.] JOSEPH BALLOU', Obadiah', James', Maturin'; b. in then Wrentham, Mass., soon afterward Cumberland, R. I., May 5, 1743; m. Sarah Bartlett, dr. of John and Sarah (Aldrich) Bartlett, b. in Attleboro', Mass., Mar. 15, 1740; cer. in said Cumberland, May 15, 1766, by Eld. Nathaniel Cook. Issue.—

Joseph Ballou' remained in Cumberland, R. I., though possibly resident temporarily in the southwesterly part of the State, as some think, and then removed with his family to the vicinity of Fort Schuyler, soon after Utica, Oneida Co., N. Y. There he planted himself as a farmer in 1792, near his brother Benjamin who had preceded him in 1790, two years earlier. Joseph' was an enterprising, judicious, upright man, and left behind him a posterity of like character. He d. in Utica, May 15, 1810, aged 67 yrs. and 10 ds. Mrs. Sarah, his worthy companion, survived him some 22 yrs. She d. in 1832. We have been furnished with numerous old documents illustrative of this Joseph Ballou's life-career, which we hoped to notice specifically, but have been obliged to refrain for want of room.

Benjamin Ballou' sold his estate in Cumberland about the year 1790, left the home of his kindred and settled in Fort Schuyler, N. Y., soon after named Utica. He was among the very earliest settlers there, and one of his grandsons says that his log cabin was the first ever built in Oneida Co. Be this as it may have been, he was among the pioneers that founded the now flourishing city of Utica, N. Y. He became a large farmer, and also established a considerable tannery. There he and his wife spent the remainder of their days in the midst of their children, family relatives, and friendly first settlers. He d. March 26, 1822, being in his 76th yr. Mrs. Sarah, his wife, d. date not ascertained.

[80.] JONATHAN BALLOU¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in then Providence, later Smithfield, and now Lincoln, R. I., Nov. 10, 1723; m. Elizabeth West; cer. Apl. 3, 1768.

No issue has been found on record. Very little has reached us concerning his journey through life. The most that we have learned is, that he settled in Providence; that he was styled a shop-joiner by trade; that he objected to the approval of his father's Will, as made under undue influence after he had become incapacitated by age and mental infirmity; that he owned more or less real estate, all of which, as well as his personal property, he bequeathed to his wife Elizabeth, naming no children, and constituting her sole executrix; and that he d. Oct. 2, 1770. For his Will, see Providence Records, B. 5, p. 337. It appears, from another registration, that on May 4, 1771, his widow and executrix deeded one eighth of a Paper Mill, which he and others had built in Co., to John Waterman, a partner in the concern. See Prov. Recs., B. 19, p. 129. Her subsequent history and death-date not reported, nor the resting place of family burial.

352—2. Mary Lapham, b. Sept. 13, '45.

353—3. Lydia Lapham, b. May 2, '50; d. Dec. 29, 1751.

Mrs. Lydia (Ballou) Lapham d. May 26, 1751. The births of the three above named chn., the deaths of two of them and of their mother were recorded in Smithfield. It would therefore seem that the family did not remain settled in Scituate long after marriage. Another record shows the eldest of the chn. to have been b. in Scituate, and the other two in Smithfield. The father's subsequent history untraced.

[82.] PHEBE BALLOU¹, Samuel², James³, Maturin⁴; b. in then Providence, soon after Smithfield, and now Lincoln, R. I., May 9, 1728; m. Stephen Whipple of Smithfield, R. I., and sett. there; cer. July 12, 1745, by William Jenckes, J. P. Issue, b. in Smithfield.—

366—11. Orbe, b. —; m. Asa Brown.

It is probable that Samuel Ballou¹, Eleazer's father, who in his Will left him but three dollars, started him in married life with a decent endowment; for he settled early in that part of Gloucester, R. I., afterward incorporated as Burrillville, and became a prosperous farmer. The homestead on which he lived and died is the one owned in our later times by Sterling Paine. It is situated a little south of the Burrillville village called Glendale. He and his wife Phebe were evidently enterprising, shrewd and accumulative economists; for they became large landholders, and were able to make handsome endowments to their chn. and to settle them in comfortable homes. This must have been the case, if they did as well by the others as by their son Jesse, to whom in 1779 they made gift-deeds of land in Richmond, N. H., covering Lots 16, 17, 18 and half of 19 in the 1st Range—between two and three hundred acres. Land there was cheap in those days, and Eleazer and his family appear, from the records, to have been liberal investors. But as we have little biographical information concerning the parents, we shall content ourselves with assuming that the world went well with them, and that they sustained a reputable standing in society. We regret having failed to find their death-dates.

Mrs. Patience and her husband undoubtedly occupied a respectable social position, but unfortunately no particular memorials of them have reached us—not even their death-dates; nor can we further trace their descendants.

It would seem to have been designed by Samuel Ballou^a, at the outset of his manhood, to settle down with his father on the ancient homestead. Accordingly his father deeded a part of it to him. But circumstances unknown to us changed the original plan, and he deeded back that real estate to his father in 1760. Soon afterward he joined several of his acquaintances in an emigrant scheme to acquire lands in the town of Sackville, in the Province of New Brunswick. Thither he removed with his wife sometime between 1762 and 1767, and there all his chn. were b. excepting perhaps Lydia, the eldest. The records of Sackville, N. B., show that in 1762 Samuel Ballou, as one of the colonists, drew by lot, under letter A of the Town Plat, house-lot 87, which entitled him afterward to 500 acres of land.*

Mr. Peck found it difficult to obtain information concerning Samuel, the particulars of his experience in New Brunswick, and especially his authentic family record. But in process of inquiry, he was fortunate enough to obtain a very intelligent correspondent in the person of Judge W. Botsford of Sackville. Through him, the Postmaster of the place, and some of the family descendants, he received much important data, though not with genealogical accuracy all that is desirable concerning the later generations. We shall give the substance of all he obtained, now and later on.

It appears that among his emigrant associates from Rhode Island to New Brunswick were John Barnes, John Jenckes, Joshua Sprague, &c. Judge Botsford testified that he "first knew Mr. Samuel Ballou in the year 1792. He was then living in this neighborhood, and continued to do so until his death in the year 1805. He was then advanced in years, was an active, industrious man, of sober habits and intelligent." He mentions the statement of John Barnes deceased to his son James, that Mr. Ballou was the best educated man, and brought more property with him than any other of the Rhode Island immigrants. He was afterward a moderate accumulator. Yet the Judge says he left but a meagre estate; which he accounts for by the fact that his wife was incapacitated, through mental infirmity, to second and save his acquisitions. These drawbacks more than counterbalanced his own thrift. The result was that he left his widow and most of his chn. comparatively poor. Judge Botsford says his Will was made June 27, 1805, and probated July 13 ensuing. So his death occurred sometime between those dates, in his 69th yr. Mrs. Ruth,

* A tradition has latterly come to our knowledge, that Samuel Ballou⁴ became odious to many of his fellow citizens in Smithfield, R. I., by his adhesive loyalty to the British government during the agitations which led to the American Revolution; and that his so called Toryism and consequent discomforts from popular denunciation induced him and other sympathizers to seek a home in New Brunswick. This is not improbable, though we have seen no authentic proof of it.

his wid., survived him several years, but we are unable to give the date of her decease. We shall tell what we are able of their chn., gd. chn., &c., in the order of their generations.

[87.] SUSANNA BALLOU¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in then Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., June 28, 1739; m. Jacob Arnold, son of Joseph and Patience (Wilkinson) Arnold, b. in said Smithfield July 7, 1732; cer. Nov. 25, 1756, by Thomas Lapham, J. P. Issue.—

- 380—2. Jesse Arnold, b. Apl. 2, '59; “
- 381—3. Ahab Arnold, b. Nov. 17, '60; “
- 382—4. Phebe Arnold, b. Jan. 15, '63; “

- 386—8. Jacob Arnold, b. Feb. 18, '71; “

Our historical data concerning this family is quite limited. 'Susanna Ballou' and her husband Jacob Arnold are said to have settled on a homestead in Smithfield, situated a mile and a half from Woonsocket southerly, opposite to the farm which in 1872 was occupied by Arnold Wakefield. There, we presume, all their chn. were b. At an unascertained later period they removed to a settlement in the State of N. Y., then known by the title "Nine Partners'," beyond which we have been unable further to trace them. Should any new information reach us before our work goes to press, we will add it in a note. "The Nine Partners'" two tracts of land were in Dutchess Co., N. Y., and furnished territory for eight or ten Townships—requiring a dubious research.

[88.] JEMIMA BALLOU¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in then Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., May 14, 1742; m. Dr. William Arnold, son of Joseph and Patience (Wilkinson) Arnold, b. in said Smithfield Nov. 30, 1733; cer. date not found. Issue, b. in Smithfield, R. I.—

- 388—2. Lydia, b. Jan. 9, '74; m. Richard Steere.

Their homestead was a little southwest from his brother Jacob Arnold's. Dr. William Arnold is said to have been a man of profound learning, and a skillful physician. His practice was extensive, and he would have commanded eminent success in his profession, but for his extreme modesty and self-distrust, which constantly held him back. He was therefore reluctant to assume responsibility, retiring in his habits, and inclined to devote himself chiefly to quiet scientific pursuits. Such a man must have possessed mental and moral qualities adapted to insure happiness in domestic life and among choice friends capable of appreciating his worth. We trust that he had a congenial, worthy and happy wife. He died March 24, 1817. His wife Jemima died July 25, 1825. Their dau. Lydia died Nov. 4, 1820. Her husband Richard Steere died Dec. 18, 1821—all buried in Friends' cemetery, Woonsocket, R. I.

David Ballou¹ inherited lands from his father, Samuel², in connection with his brothers Moses and Aaron. Some of those lands were in that part of Glocester which in 1806 was incorporated as Burrillville. The three brothers made a division of their inheritance March 12, 1772, and David took his portion in the Glocester lands. On those lands he immediately settled, and in successful process of time he became the owner of over six hundred acres. His domicile was standing a few years ago, venerable with age, and perhaps still endures. It was located about two miles westerly from Slaterville. There, in now Burrillville, R. I., he raised up his family, and finally died Dec. 13, 1818, a. 74 yrs. 3 mos. and 21 ds. He provided for the distribution of his estate by Will, and it was settled after his decease accordingly. Each of his then surviving sons inherited from him a valuable farm.

[90.] MOSES BALLOU^a, Samuel^b, James^c, Maturin^d; b. in then Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., a twin, Jan. 30, 1748; m. 1st Elizabeth Phillips, believed to have been a dr. of John Phillips; cer. May 29, 1768, by Thos. Lapham, J. P. Issue, all b. in Smithfield, R. I.—

406—10. Freelove, b. Apl. 20, '94; m. David Mowry Oct. 16, 1817.

Moses Ballou^a settled on his portion of the patrimonial inheritance that had come down through his father, Samuel^b, from his gd. father, James^c; which he shared with his twin brother Aaron. The old dwelling house stood on his part of the farm, and he occupied it till 1782, when he built the one now standing on the premises. We infer from the little that has reached us that he and his family maintained a reputable social standing in their community. His Will is on the Smithfield Records, B. 4, p. 81. It bears date May 7, 1817, and contains the following items:—To his sons William, George, Arnold, Duty and Otis, he bequeathed ten dollars each; and the same sum each to his daughter Elizabeth Taylor, and his grand-daughters, Sophia, Betsey and Axie Blanchard. He gave his son Moses four shares in the Louis-quisset Turnpike Corporation; and to his son Willard three shares in Smithfield Union Bank, also his right in the Cumberland Delecting Society, his gun and desk. To his daughter Desire Fowler he willed enough to make her share four hundred dollars, including what he had already given her. To his daughter Freelove

JAMES BALLOU HOUSE, NEAR ALBION VILLAGE, SMITHFIELD, R. I.

Ballou he gave four hundred dollars. To his sons Moses and Willard he bequeathed his entire real and personal estate, obligating them to pay his just debts, funeral charges and the above-mentioned legacies. He assigned as his reason for not giving more to his chn., William, George, Duty, Otis and Elizabeth, that he had previously bestowed on them their respective portions. Mrs. Desire, his 2d wife, deceased the year before he made this Will, viz. Dec. 31, 1816, aged 61 yrs. He d. Sept. 30, 1820. So his mortal form slumbered in the ancient burial ground, with the dust of his parents, grandparents, and great grandmother, Hannah (Pike) Ballou; his wife Desire's grave and his own being the oldest there marked by sculptured stones.

After the division of the old patrimonial homestead between Aaron¹ and his twin bro. Moses¹, Apl. 6, 1777, Aaron, by agreement, occupied a part of his deceased father's domicile for a few months till he could build a new one on his own premises. He built accordingly, and dwelt therein until 1794, when he sold his real estate to Rufus George and Samuel Hill. The dwelling house he built is now, or recently was, owned and occupied by Job Mann. After selling out, Aaron¹ removed with his family to Adams, Mass., where he settled and remained till 1810. Thence he removed to Galway, Saratoga Co., N. Y., settled on a purchased farm, and there d. Mar. 9, 1816, a. 68 yrs. 1 mo. and 10 ds. Mrs. Lydia, his widow, d. there Jan. 20, 1833, a. 87 yrs. 4 mos. and 3 ds. No further particulars, nor personal characteristics given; excepting a statement in one of the family papers, that he and his twin brother Moses so nearly resembled each other as hardly to be distinguishable.

Stephen Arnold was a man of intelligence, virtue and distinction. He dwelt on the homestead of the present Hon. Cyrus Arnold, his grandson. He d. May 2, 1796. Richardson in his History of Woonsocket quotes the following testimonial from an obituary notice of him, published in the Providence Gazette of May 7, 1796.—“His intellectual faculties were of a superior kind. Benevolence and humanity were prominent traits in his character. He was frequently appointed to offices of trust by the town and by the State; and he held the office of Justice Peace for upwards of thirty years.” Of course his wife must have contributed largely to his prosperity in life, and ought to share accordingly in his reputation. Besides the above specified, there were three unnamed infants—making 14 chn. in all. Most of these, if not all, are presumed to have been b. in then Gloucester, R. I. And it is said that 4 out of the 14 d. in one week, during the Revolutionary War. The history of this Peter Ballou' has been very difficult to trace. It would seem that his father, Nehemiah³, settled him on the westerly part of his large homestead in then Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I.; but that, sometime during the Revolutionary War, he sold out his patrimony and removed to a town in Mass., perhaps Monson or its vicinity. Thence, not far from 1803, he emigrated to Litchfield, Herkimer Co., N. Y., settled on a good homestead there, and, growing old, gave his farm to his son Laban, on condition of maintenance for himself and wife during life. This arrangement was frustrated by some domestic infelicity in Laban's family, and the aged parents betook themselves to the more genial care of their son Seth. With him they ended their days; he d. at Litchfield, N. Y., in Mar. 1818, and she in Cuyahoga Co., O., Aug. 1820; he at the a. of 88, she at that of 87 years. We fear it will be impossible for us to obtain the lacking particulars in this family record, but we will do the best we can with our scanty available means.

[106.] SETH BALLOU', Nehemiah³, James², Maturin'; b. in then Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., June 4, 1734; m. Hannah Cowen, dr. of John and Sarah Cowen; cer. June 9, 1754. Issue, all b. in then Gloucester.—

Seth Ballou¹ inherited the main homestead of his father in now Burrillville, R. I., by gift-deed, dated Dec. 17, 1757; the consideration, "paternal love and affection." There he and his companion passed their days in honest industry, frugal economy, and worthy intercourse with their contemporaries of the old-fashioned respectable farmer class, and d. enjoying the general esteem. Their family record shows the sad havoc which death made among their offspring; three of their sons dying within the same fortnight. What form of pestilence swept them away we are not informed. So if they had their share of prosperity and comfort, they had their seasons of adversity, and drank often from the cup of sorrow. No remarkable incidents of their lives have come to our knowledge. Seth¹ d. Apl. 7, 1806, a. 71 yrs. 10 mos. and 3 ds. Mrs. Hannah d. Nov. 30, 1824, a. not given.

[107.] PETER BALLOU¹, Jeremiah², Peter³, Maturin¹; b. prob. in Scituate, R. I., at a date not ascertained. Neither record nor tradition avails us to say much of this Peter Ballou. Tradition is not only meagre among the family relatives, but somewhat variant—especially as to where he lived and died. One account says he lived and d. in Smithfield, R. I., another that he left his native place, and moved to a town in Massachusetts on the borders of N. Hampshire, or just over the line in N. H., where he died. But they all seem to agree that he left no chn., and was never married. At what age he d. no intimation reaches us, but we infer that he must have passed the prime of life at his decease. And thus we must dismiss him from our tale in the midst of a vague obscurity, which is always unpleasant to faithful genealogists.

[108.] JEREMIAH BALLOU¹, Jeremiah², Peter³, Maturin¹; b. prob. in Scituate, R. I., date not found; m. Gail (presumed to be) Abigail Record, of undiscovered ptge., birth-place, birth-date and marriage particulars. Issue.—

- 458—1. Joseph Record, b. date not found; m. Betsey Ballou.
- 459—2. Elisha, b. date not found; never married.
- 460—3. Jeremiah, b. " " never married.

461—4. Betsey, b. Killingly, Ct., 1778; m. Charles Keech.

462—5. Sally, b. date not found; m. Jacob Phillips.

Here we are again on an almost dateless family record, for which there seems to be no remedy. The old Bible, which contained important data, together with other books and papers, is said to have been strangely lost about the year 1823 in Hartford (? perhaps N. Y.), whither Jeremiah' and his oldest son took them, along with their baggage to keep, while executing a contract for setting up some kind of machinery.

There are rather curious facts in the life of this Jeremiah Ballou'. One was, that he acquired, when or how has never been told us, a queer nickname—"Bumble Dorum." Mr. Peck says.—"When I commenced hunting up the ancestors of the present Ballous, I visited old settlements and old people, and inquired of them for 'old persons by the name of Ballou, especially such as they could remember to have been old when they themselves were young. During one of my long and tedious tramps on foot into the southern part of Smithfield, and into North Providence, * * I found an old gentleman who said that when he was a boy an old man lived in that vicinity by the name of 'Bumble Dorum Ballou.' I asked him if that was not a nickname. His reply was, that it might have been, but that he never knew him called by any other. I afterward found others who knew him by that name, but none who knew his correct name. After much inquiry in relation to the matter, I learned that a daughter of this man married a man by the name of Keech, who moved into Chenango County, N. Y." It so happened that Sullivan Ballou, Esq., (afterward killed in the battle of Bull Run) who took a lively interest in Mr. Peck's researches, had business in Chenango Co., N. Y., and volunteered to look up Mr. Keech, and obtain some information about "Bumble Dorum." He did so, found Mr. Charles Keech to be a fine, intelligent old gentleman, able and willing to impart the desirable facts. Keech was living in Pittsfield in the aforesaid county, and gave him the following particulars concerning his father-in-law and the family.—"My wife was Betsey Ballou, dr. of Jeremiah, alias Bumble Dorum. She was born in Killingly, Ct. When two and half years old her father moved into Foster, R. I., and was continually moving about over the country. My wife Betsey died about three years ago [1850] in Columbus, Chenango Co., aged about 72. Bumble Dorum had five chn.; two daughters—Betsey, my wife, and Sally, who m.

Jacob Phillips of Foster, R. I.,—and three sons—Joseph Record, Elisha and Jeremiah. Joseph R. m. Betsey, a dr. of Asa Ballou [in the line of Nehemiah], and moved out here to Lawrence. He and his brother Jeremiah, while in Lawrence making and putting up some spinning frames, suddenly and secretly left the country. They were never heard from; though it was being said Jeremiah was seen [afterward] in Buffalo." [Other statements from certain relatives purport that the missing brothers were murdered for their money.] "I never knew that Jeremiah was married. Elisha never was, and d. in R. I. I moved Joseph R. Ballou's family back to Gloucester, R. I. Bumble Dorum was the son of Jeremiah of Gloucester. He had one bro. Peter, who moved into Mass., near the N. H. line—perhaps over it, and d. there. Peter never had any chn. There were two sisters of Bumble Dorum—Sarah, who m. Ishmael Aldrich of Gloucester (bro. to old Solomon Aldrich), and Isabella, who m. Andrew Harrington of Gloucester."

"Bumble Dorum learned his trade, as a blacksmith, of Hawkins. He lived once in N. H., once in Ct., and has lived up here in Lawrence [N. Y.]. About thirty yrs. ago [which would be 1823], he and his son Joseph R. went to Hartford [prob. N. Y., possibly Ct.] to put up or make some machinery, and carrying with them the Bible with the family record and other books lost them all. He was b. in Gloucester; his wife was Gail Record; and he died at my house in Columbus about fifteen yrs. ago [i. e. 1838], and was buried there, aged 88 yrs."

We have quoted thus freely from Mr. Peck and his documents, because we could not otherwise so well bring into notice the few salient points in the family history of Jeremiah, and the peculiarities of his character. After all, we get no clew to the origin of his nick-name, and cannot follow him very satisfactorily through the zigzag career of his long and checkered life. But we have opened to view some facts, events and circumstances which may be of use in treating the cases of his chn. and descendants. As to the death of Mrs. Gail, alias Abigail (Record) Ballou, we have found no indication of the place or date.

[109.] SARAH BALLOU, Jeremiah, Peter, Maturin; b. prob. in Gloucester, R. I., no birth-date found; m. Ishmael Aldrich, perhaps a son of Solomon, said to be a bro. of Gloucester Solomon—no date furnished us of his mge., and no further trace obtained of the married pair. Whither they went, what befell them, and how they closed their mortal career, are left to us unintelligible blanks.

[110.] ISABELLA BALLOU¹, Jeremiah³, Peter², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Gloucester, R. I., birth dateless; m. Andrew Harrington, son of David; cer. in Gloucester May 4, 1768, by Jona. Harris, J. P. Issue, all presumed to have been b. in said Gloucester.—

463—1. Phinehas Harrington, b. Jan. 20, 1769; m. Huldah Irons Feb. 27, 1794.

464—2. Jesse Harrington, b. Mar. 18, '70.

467—5. Sarah Harrington, b. Feb. 19, '82.

468—6. Sina or Lucina Harrington, b. Mar. 20, '84.

Here our findings are more fortunate. But we are unable to trace this family further.

[111.] ABIGAIL BALLOU¹, Jeremiah³, Peter², Maturin¹; b., as presumed, in Gloucester, R. I., birth dateless; m. Philip Aldrich, son of Solomon and Martha, b. on territory that became Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 6, 1741; cer. in said Gloucester Sept. 12, 1777. The family no further traced.

[112 AND 113.] The descendants of Peter Ballou² through Phebe (Ballou) King, viz., Phebe King¹ and Jerusha King¹, have already been dismissed as untraceable. Also,

[114, 115 AND 116.] the descendants of Jemima (Ballou) Sprague¹, Peter², Maturin¹. Also, [117 AND 118.] the descendants of Martha (Ballou) King, viz., Pheba¹ and Martha King¹, whose father was John King, Jr.

And thus we end Generations Four and Five.

FIFTH AND SIXTH GENERATIONS.

[119.] JOHN BALLOU², John¹, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in then Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., Apl. 3, 1743; m. Sibella Leland, eldest dr. of Amariah and Ursula (Lovett) Leland, b. in Sherborn, Mass., 1739; date and particulars of cer. not ascertained. No issue.

It is, however, proper to state that previous to marriage Sibella Leland became the mother of a son whom she named Richard Olney. This son was virtually, if not formally, adopted by John¹, and made his heir. He grew up to be a very worthy and enterprising man. He went into successful trade in Burrillville, and later in Providence, R. I., accumulated a handsome property, and finally settled in Oxford, Mass., where he became an influential citizen. We have not numbered him among the Ballous, because he never took our name. We knew him personally as a friend long years ago, but have lost the thread of his later history.

John Ballou⁷ settled on the land given him by his father in 1777. See Smithfield Recs., B. 7, p. 180. This estate was deeded jointly to him and his bro. Richard. The latter sold his portion to their other bro., Benjamin. John and Benjamin at length divided their inheritance. Later John⁸ and wife made their home, for a considerable time, with their son Richard Olney in Providence, but finally returned to Smithfield and closed their earthly pilgrimage in the family of his bro. Benjamin. There she d. Dec. 20, 1805, a. about 66 yrs.; and he Feb. 18, 1806, a. 62 yrs. 10 mos. and 15 ds. Mr. Olney commendably erected decent grave-stones to commemorate them; which may be seen on the easterly side of the road near where the ancient John Ballou domicile formerly stood.

[120.] BENJAMIN BALLOU⁹, John¹, John², John³, Maturin¹; b. in then Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., Nov. 20, 1746; m. Mercy Phillips, dr. of John Phillips, said to be half-sister to the 1st wife of Moses Ballou¹; cer. Apl. 15, 1770, by Elder Ezekiel Angell. Issue, all b. in said Smithfield.—

What a pity that a whole family of seven chn. should be left without birth-dates! We can approximate these dates only by reckoning from the mge. of the parents, Apl. 15, 1770, and guessing the rest. Benjamin Ballou settled on land given him by his father June 12, 1770. He built the house afterward occupied by his dr. Mercy and her husband, Eleazer Mowry. He appears to have been a respectable common citizen, and was a militia Captain in 1781, near the close of the Revolutionary War. He d. on his homestead Oct. 24, 1826, a. 79 yrs. 11 mos. and 4 ds. His wife's death-date not communicated to us.

[121.] ANNA BALLOU^m, John¹, John², John³, Maturin¹; b. in then Smithfield, R. I., Dec. 14, 1749; m. John Whitman, possibly son of Jacob and Hannah, b. Feb. 13, 1744; no mge.-date reported to us. Issue.—

Here we are left without records, or traditionary information, and must leave the distant cousins of this family branch in the great wilderness of our common humanity.

[122.] RICHARD BALLOU^m, John¹, John², John³, Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., date not found; m. Lucy Arnold of Smithfield—no particulars of ptge., birth or mge. Issue, all b. in the north-easterly part of Cumberland, R. I.—

Richard Ballou^m was a sturdy, industrious, frugal farmer. He sold out his inheritance in the old Smithfield, John Ballou home-stead in 1777 to his bro. Benjamin, and settled in the extreme northeasterly section of Cumberland. There he and his wife spent their connubial days. Their home was near what was formerly known as Hathaway Mills. We ought to have been furnished with their death-dates, but never were.

We always regret exhibiting so many conjectural dates, or worse mere blanks, in a family record, but such is often our fate, as in this case. Whoso readeth, let him take warning, and not neglect his genealogical registration. Simeon Ballou⁵ settled, lived and died on a homestead near what is now Slaterville, R. I. It occupied a hill on the southerly side of Branch river, and was both conspicuous and valuable. No biographical incidents or characteristics have been vouchsafed to us, but we have no reason to doubt that he and his wife were worthy people. He d. May 3, 1786, and was buried in the vicinity of Woonsocket. Mary, his widow, survived him over 40 years. She found a comfortable home with her dr. Rachel (Ballou) Westcott and husband, and finally died with them in Charlestown, N. H., where they settled. She d. there July 22, 1827, and her grave-stone may be found in the old No. Charlestown Burying Ground. She must have been over 80 yrs. of age, though by report of the inscription it made her but 72 or 73. This would reduce her to childhood at her mge., 1762, and must be erroneous.

This David Ballou^b and wife Mary resided in Gloucester, R. I. They were honest, industrious and worthy people, who had a hard struggle to provide for such a family, and sometimes received a needed lift from their more favored relatives. He wore out and d. in 1811. About five years afterward his wid. and several of her chn. removed to Ballston Spa, N. Y., whither some of the older and married ones had previously emigrated. Thence they seem to have scattered, sooner or later, into other parts of the State, and into the newer States of the West. When Mr. Peck sought their localities and family records, it was with much difficulty that he could open communication with them, and with scarcely less that they could furnish even imperfect data in answer to his genealogical inquiries. And now, after considerable additional endeavor, we are obliged to content ourselves with insufficient details. Scarcely any biographical material has been obtained. We can only add that Mrs. Mary (Smith) Ballou, the venerable widow, d. at Sandy Creek, N. Y., in the month of July, 1831, a. about 85 yrs.

[127.] PHEBE BALLOU^b, Abraham^a, John^a, John^a, Maturin^a; b. prob. in Smithfield, R. I., date not found; m. John Smith, son of John and Abigail Smith, b. in said Smithfield June 28, 1736; cer. Apl. 15, 1761, by Samuel Winsor, J. P. Issue, all presumed to have been b. in Smithfield.—

- 519—1. Phebe Smith, b. July 30, 1762; untraced.

520—2. Mary Smith, b. July 4, 1764; untraced.

521—3. Simeon Smith, b. not found; “ “

522—4. David Smith, b. “ “ “

Having failed to obtain much definite information concerning Phebe (Ballou) Smith³ and her descendants, we have concluded to lump the scraps which have come to us in a brief statement, and dismiss her family branch, as no further traceable. We believe that they lived and d. in Smithfield. The aged wid. of Abraham Ballou, Mary (Sayles) Ballou, the mother of Phebe Smith, lived, as we have seen, in their family many years, outlived them both, and d. finally in the care of Thos. Appleby and wife, the latter being one of Phebe (Ballou) Smith's drs.; but whether Phebe, Jr., or Mary, is not told. So we cannot give the death-dates of Phebe (Ballou) Smith and husband. Nor have we gleaned any dates whatever in the records of their posterity. We are told that Phebe Smith¹ m., and had Rizpah, Mary, Waity and Phebe, who also had chn. Of Mary Smith² we learn nothing. Simeon Smith³ is said to have m., lived near Woonsocket, and had 5 chn.; viz. Welcome, Mary, Rachel, Leah and William. Likewise it is told that David Smith⁴ m., settled in Gloucester, R. I., and had several chn. We hoped to have been furnished with complete data in all these cases, but have been disappointed, and can report only the above. We would gladly number all these cousins in our Israel, but must leave them as no further traced.

[Nos. 128 to 134, INCLUSIVE,] Abner, John, Rebecca, Mercy, Mary and Abigail Lapham, chn. of Mary (Ballou) Lapham¹, John², John³, Maturin⁴, have already been dropped as no further traceable.

[Nos. 135, 136 AND 137,] chn. of Sarah (Ballou) Sprague¹, John², John³, Maturin⁴, wife of Daniel Sprague; viz. Naomi, Lucy and David Sprague—have been consigned to the same obscurity.

[138.] TABITHA KEMPTON¹, dr. of Tabitha (Ballou) Kempton¹, John², John³, Maturin⁴, and Manasseh Kempton; b. at a date not ascertained; m. John Weatherhead, son of Daniel, in Cumberland, R. I.; cer. Apl. 19, 1770, by Elder Daniel Miller. Issue, understood to have been b. in said Cumberland.—

John Weatherhead d. Jan. 29, 1829. Mrs. Tabitha^a d. Apl. 9, 1830.

[139.] RHODA BALLOU^a, Peter¹, John², John³, Maturin⁴; b. in Smithfield, R. I., date not obtained; m. George Streeter, ptge., birth-date, &c., not given; cer. Oct. 30, 17—, by William Alverson, J. P. Issue, all b. in said Smithfield.—

 535—5. Permelia Streeter, b. June 18, '87.
 536—6. George Streeter, b. Aug. 13, '93.

These figures do not show exactly to our taste, but they are as our researcher reported them. No other data has reached us, and so we are obliged to say—no further traced.

[Nos. 140 AND 141.] WILLIAM AND LYDIA^a ARNOLD^a, chn. of Elce or Alcy Ballou¹, Maturin², John³, Maturin⁴, wife of David Arnold, have already dropped from our chain of descent.

[142.] JOSEPH BALLOU^a, William¹, Maturin², John³, Maturin⁴; b. in Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., Nov. 18, 1783, removed with his parents while young to Tunbridge, Vt.; m. Harriet Hawes, dr. of William Hawes, b. in Brookfield, Vt., Dec. 13, 1806; cer. in 1826. Issue.—

 545—9. } Church, b. Apl. 28, '40; d. in Union Army 1862.

This is a creditable family record, replete with dates. Joseph Ballou^a was a respectable farmer, and his family worthy people.

He resided awhile in Chelsea, Vt., and then settled in Tunbridge, where he d. in 1853. Prob. most of his chn. were b. in Tunbridge, Vt.; but of this we are not certain. Subsequently to his death his widow and surviving chn. changed their homes several times. In 1873, she, Margaret, Edmund and Harrison were residing together in Royalton, Vt.; at which date Horace had been bereaved of his wife, and was dwelling in Stratford, Vt. We have just learned (Oct. 1884) that Mrs. Mary E. (Houston) Ballou, wife of Horace, d. July 3, 1873. Horace is now living wifeless and childless in Royalton, Vt. Mrs. Harriet (Hawes) Ballou, wid. of Joseph¹, d. in Royalton, Vt., June 10, 1876, a. nearly 70 yrs. Thus this family seems likely to become extinct.

[143.] WILLIAM BALLOU¹, William¹, Maturin¹, John², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., Aug. 20, 1786, removed while young with his parents to Tunbridge, Vt.; m. Barbara Bucklin, dr. of Charles, b. in Grafton, N. William Ballou¹, farmer, settled in Tunbridge, Vt., where it is understood all the abovenamed chn. were b. There he d. Dec. 22, 1862; there also his wid., Mrs. Barbara, d. Dec. 20, 1870. Few personal characteristics given us. Death seems to have cut off the chn. with an unsparing hand. Besides those who passed away in infancy, the majority that reached adult yrs. had departed before 1873. A letter from Mr. and Mrs. Abel Merrill to Mr.

Peck, dated Chelsea, Vt., Dec. 13, 1873, has a few sentences of interest, which may well be preserved.—“But a fragment or two of the family remains.” “Mrs. Barbara (Bucklin) Ballou was one of the most amiable of women, and the best of mothers.” “Sanford Jackson Ballou has not been heard from for the last 22 yrs.” “Wm. Harrison was a seaman for 9 yrs.—3 yrs. in the U. S. service, on board the Powhattan, when she visited China and Japan. He saw service in all the climates and zones of the earth.” “James Hiram d. in the service of his country.” See above. “Charles Riley is supposed to be living on the Pacific Coast.” “Chandler, in Tunbridge, had his mental faculties destroyed by disease in early life, and is but a sad ruin.” “Sarah Abbie [who d. Apl. 23, 1872,] was one of the loveliest of women.” “The death of that beautiful sister left Annie standing alone, in a cloud of mixed memories both cheerful and sorrowful.” We have had several communications from Mr. and Mrs. Merrill, all more or less important. Their most important contents will hereafter be noticed. One of the last suggests our omitting the several specific family dates, as possibly inaccurate to some extent; but we prefer to let them stand as at least proximately correct, and better than none.

[144.] BEZELIEL BALLOU^s, William¹, Maturin³, John², Maturin¹; b. presumably in then Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I., 1792; m. Abigail Ordway, dr. of Benjamin and Lucy (Eastman) Ordway, b. during 1805; cer. Sept. 12, 1827. Issue.—

Sanford Ballou^s was a respectable farmer of his native town. No personal characteristics furnished of him or his wife. Mr. Peck credits him, in his memoranda, for much assistance in ascertaining the family record of his parents and their chn. He d. Dec. 22, 1872. Mrs. Amey, his widow, d. May 8, 1884.

[149.] ALMANDA BALLOU⁷, William¹, Maturin², John³, Maturin⁴; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., May 16, 1806; m. Samuel Riddale Sept. 12, 1853. 585—3. Cromwell Bullock, b. '76; m. Sarah Morton of Erving's Grant, Mass.

The above mge.-date and three birth-dates are approximate guess work. The record of marriage in Richmond stands, "Oct. 20th, 17—." As to the chn., tradition says there were at least two dcs. but gives no names or dates. We find by Richmond records that David Bullock of Rehoboth, Mass., purchased of Nathan Mason of Providence, R. I., Lot No. 8 in Richmond, N. H., Sept. 25, 1768. Also, that he sold the same lot to John Barney, Mar. 22, 1771. It may therefore be reasonably conjectured, that Bullock formed his matrimonial acquaintance with Mary Ballou⁸ after Sept. 25, 1769, and had been some months married when he sold out to Barney. It is understood that the married pair soon settled in Warwick, Mass.; where we suppose all their chn. were born. There they prob. lived and d. within the next ten years. Mrs. Mary⁸ d. Jan. 22, 1778. Her husband's death-date has not come to our knowledge.

[154.] BENJAMIN BALLOU⁹, Rev. Maturin¹, Peter², John³, Maturin⁴; b. in now Lincoln, then Smithfield, R. I., Nov. 8, 1747; m. Lydia Horton, b. Apl. 24, 1752; date of cer. not given. Issue, —

 594—9. Benjamin, b. Oct. 9, '92; d. Aug. 19, 1795.

Benjamin Ballou^c is reputed to have been a man of naturally strong mind, of fair intellectual acquirements, considering the meagre educational privileges of his time, an industrious farmer, and an eminently worthy man in all the relations of life. He was a devout Baptist in early manhood, and occasionally preached, though unordained. He was subsequently converted to Universalism, through the influence of his youngest bro., Rev. Hosea, and sometimes held forth as a preacher of that doctrine. But his main calling was that of a plain farmer. When his father, Rev. Maturin^a, removed from Scituate, R. I., in 1767, to Richmond, N. H., Benjamin remained behind, and continued in Scituate for some years. At length he removed with his family, and settled in Guilford, Vt., where most of his chn., were probably born. Thence, in 1802, he and his son Martin removed to what became Monroe, Mass. In 1774, while residing in Scituate, R. I., Benjamin did himself the honor of collecting and tabulating in manuscript a genealogy of the Ballous from Maturin^a down to that date. That production must have cost him much time and pains. Although unavoidably imperfect in a few respects, it is a very intelligible, interesting and valuable document. And our only regret is that among the Ballous, he had, in this department, no rival or imitator for more than two centuries. He d. in Monroe, Mass., Feb. 16, 1834, a. 86 yrs. 3 mos. and 8 ds. Mrs. Lydia, his wid., d. there Feb. 19, 1845, a. 92 yrs. 9 mos. and 25 ds. A long lived and venerable pair!

 602-8. Mary Moses, b. " m. John Hall, lived and d. in Vt.

It is among our other genealogical misfortunes to be imperfectly posted concerning this family. The parents and chn. presented in this brief record are understood to have sustained a very worthy character in their various relations, though nothing remarkable is reported of their biographical experiences. Rev. David Ballou^s in early life was a devoted Baptist, a member of his father's church in Richmond, N. H. But having had his attention called to Universalism, by the preaching of Rev. Caleb Rich and others, he carefully investigated the subject in the light of Scripture, and became a believer. At the age of thirty-one years he avowed his new faith, and commenced preaching it in Richmond and the surrounding region. At forty he removed to the rough, thinly settled locality in Franklin Co., Mass., afterward incorporated as the town of Monroe. There he passed the remainder of a long life as a laborious farmer and Universalist preacher. He had numerous calls for his services from people inhabiting a broad extent of territory around him, and would gladly have devoted himself mainly to the ministry. But he was averse to receiving even the small pecuniary compensation tendered him, and having a large family to care for, made farming his chief dependence for support. "Nevertheless," says Rev. Thos. Whittemore in a sketch of his life, "there was no long period, for thirty years or more, in which every Sabbath as it came, did not find him before a congregation, gathered in some school-house, barn or private dwelling, and now and then in some house dedicated to the praise of God, exposing the doctrines and commandments of men, vindicating the character of God, and avowing the brotherhood and equal destiny of man." "Besides preaching much in Monroe, and nearly all the adjacent towns, there is scarcely a town in that part of Massachusetts, nor in the southern part of Vermont, which did not occasionally hear his voice."

"He was a man of rare intellectual powers; sagacious, cool, quick to see the fallacy of an argument, able to state his propositions clearly, and a close reasoner. But as a speaker he was not eloquent. He was pure and eloquent in thought, but not in word. It is said his manner was too closely intellectual to be popular with the multitude. He made as many converts, perhaps, considering the number of persons he addressed as any other man."

"As he drew near the time of his transit to a better world, his mental powers being nearly dormant, a brother preacher attempted to rouse him to conversation. Nothing seemed to make an impression on his mind, until the name of his son (Rev. Moses Ballou, an eminent Universalist minister) was mentioned. His countenance then lit up with a smile, and he asked, 'Do you expect to see him before long?' On being told that he did, the dying father said, 'Tell him to continue to preach the truth.' 'This world,' said he, 'is not sufficient for us. The mind finds no satisfying food here. The soul looks onward and upward for a home, and a good which it seeks in vain in the present life. This world is indeed a good one, viewed as the birth-place and temporary abode of man; but having enjoyed the good which God has given the sons of men on earth, I am waiting, almost with impatience, for the time to come when I shall exchange this old worn-out frame for the house of God, which I trust I have, eternal in the heavens.'" "In his moral character he was, I had almost said, blameless." Whittemore's Life of Rev. Hosea Ballou, including other Biographical sketches, pp. 28-31.

All accounts concur in giving Rev. David Ballou a most excellent Christian character in all the relationships and offices of life. And so far as we can learn his three wives were worthy of his companionship. He d. in Monroe, Mass., Dec. 20, 1840, in his 83d year. Mrs. Chloe, his widow, d. in 1846.

Nathan Ballou⁶ was an industrious and successful farmer, and a large hearted, upright, exemplary Christian man, deservedly respected and beloved by all who knew him. His wife was no less worthy, and trod the pilgrimage of life with him in sympathetic fidelity. In the maternity and training of their thirteen chn. she must have earned a rich tribute of grateful veneration. The husband was at first a Baptist, but ultimately became a Universalist. For several years after marriage, he and his wife had charge of his Rev. father's homestead in Richmond, ministered tenderly to his wants in old age, and filially buried his remains by the side of his wives in the burial place of that vicinage. It is said that they rendered the old farm quite productive, and won for the romantic vale in which it was situated the name, "Ballou's Dale." It is prob. that, by some arrangement with his father, Nathan owned that estate. Some time after his father's decease, in 1804, he sold out in Richmond, and settled in what became Monroe, Mass., where two or three of his bros. had planted themselves. There Mrs. Mary d. Unfortunately we have been unable to obtain but a meagre biographical sketch of Moses and Sarah Ballou Wheaton. So far as we ever knew or heard, they were worthy people of the common, working, plain living class. He d. in Richmond, N. H., Jan. 3, 1815. We knew her in elderly widowhood as a sensible, capable, kind hearted, exemplary woman; making it her home with her dutiful son, Charles Wheaton, in Cumberland, R. I., but devoting much of her time in the sick chamber to nursing. She was always calm and self-possessed, in the worst cases even of malignant disease where others feared to risk themselves, and was therefore in great demand. She was accounted eminently pure and upright in moral character. She died with her son Charles, and her remains repose in the humble graveyard adjacent to his once dwelling house near those of her sons, Rev. Asa, Jesse and Charles. Her memorial stone says she d. Oct. 15, 1824, a. 61 yrs.

Besides these, there were 5 infants b., and buried without names—in all 13.

Stephen Ballou" is reputed to have been eminently conscientious and upright, remarkable for wit and good humor—frugally industrious as a wheelwright and farmer—never rich, but by the economy of himself and worthy companion, securing a plain competency of life's necessities, and leaving a venerated name to his posterity. He and his wife passed through many vicissitudes of anxious enterprise, toil and affliction, but doubtless interlarded with a reasonable share of domestic enjoyment. They dwelt some years in Wardsborough, Vt., afterward in Rowe, Mass.,

Rev. Hosea Ballou^s may be justly regarded as the most distinguished Ballou in America, especially in the theological and clerical department of human concerns. Two interesting Biographies have been written and published to commemorate his celebrity. From these volumes such extracts will be presented as are compatible with the limits of this work, and adapted to give a proper insight of his prominent characteristics. The oldest of these Biographies was by Rev. Thomas Whittmore, published by him in 1854, and entitled, "Life of Rev. Hosea Ballou; with Accounts of his Writings, &c.; by Thomas Whittmore." "Boston, James M. Usher." The other was by Maturin M. Ballou, youngest son of Rev. Hosea^s, published by Abel Tompkins, Boston, in 1859, and entitled—"Biography of Rev. Hosea Ballou; by his youngest son," &c. Most of the following quotations are from this latter volume. Those who wish to acquaint themselves thoroughly with the life-history of the venerable departed, will, of course, consult the two Biographies referred to.

HIS CHILDHOOD AND EARLY YOUTH. "Concerning this matter, Mr. Ballou says, in the brief memoir or outline of his life with which he has furnished us, 'My mother died when I was about two years old, and, of course, I do not remember her; but from all I can learn of my mother, I am satisfied that she was of a most tender and kind disposition. But the treasure was gone before I could realize its value.' The care and guidance of the family then fell upon the father, whose means for providing for his children's necessities were of the most simple and limited character." p. 22. "It was his conscientious belief that he ought not to receive any remuneration whatever, either pecuniary or otherwise, for his professional services; and, as he devoted himself with the utmost zeal and the most untiring assiduity to his calling, and was possessed of little or no personal estate, his family were all obliged to labor very hard to obtain a simple subsistence. But 'even in this was Heaven ordinaunt.' Thus from his earliest childhood, Mr. Ballou was accustomed to toil and labor, and this, too, under the hardships of a scanty supply of food and clothing. So destitute even of the most ordinary articles of raiment, or the means of procuring it, was his father's family, in the times of his boyhood, that many a long week has he passed without an undergarment of any kind upon his person, and without shoes or stockings for his feet, even during the inclemencies of winter, when his employment would frequently call him abroad for a large portion of the day!" pp. 24, 25. "Notwithstanding this stern experience of his tender years, and in spite of every hardship, and the severe labor he was obliged to perform under such unpropitious circumstances, still he grew up strong, healthy and vigorous, both in body and mind, possessing a form and face of manly beauty, with expression and intelligence reflected in every feature. In stature he grew up to be six feet high, his figure very erect, with finely formed limbs, and a bright, clear blue eye." p. 27.

HIS EARLY RELIGIOUS EDUCATION. Mr. Ballou himself says,— "We were all taught, and in our youth all believed, that we were born into the world wholly depraved, and under the curse of a law which doomed every son and daughter of Adam to eternal woe. But at the same time God had made provision for a select number of the human family, whereby they would be saved by the operations of the divine spirit, which would result in what was called conversion, sometime during the life of those elected. Those who were not elected would remain without any effectual calling, die, and be forever miserable. When I was a youth it was the sentiment of all Christian people, as far as I knew, that not more than one in a thousand of the human family would be saved from endless condemnation. Youth were taught to be moral, but that morality was no security against divine wrath. The conversion of the soul from the state of nature in which all men were born into the world was the only security." p. 23.

HIS INTELLECTUAL EDUCATION. "He was literally a self-made man. Enjoying none of the educational advantages resulting from wealth, or even from a simple competency, yet he steadily rose above every impending obstacle in his path to the truly enviable position which he [ultimately] attained." "Before the age of sixteen, by the utmost perseverance, ingenuity, and industry, he had learned to read and write with facility, almost entirely by his own unaided exertions, or with little assistance of any kind; for had there been a school in the neighborhood of Richmond, which was not the case, he could have found no time to attend it, being ever laboriously engaged from morning till night. He learned to form the letters of the alphabet in the following ingenious and original manner, which he related to us, when a mere child, we were making the first advances in the use of the pen. After not a little thought and sober calculation as to how he should accomplish his purpose,—for pen, ink and paper were luxuries his father's means could not command,—for paper he substituted thin pieces of birch bark, neatly prepared for the purpose by his own hands, and for pen and ink he used coals taken from the fire. With these rude materials, after the labors of the day were over, seated on the floor, by the light of the fire,—for candles were too expensive to be afforded in the frugal household of his father,—he taught himself to write. A student, actuated by such resolution and determination of purpose, must soon become a proficient, in defiance of every minor obstacle; and thus he speedily improved with these humble means. Some further idea of the limited means of his father's family, and the extraordinary disadvantages under which his early progress was made, may be gathered from the fact, that the only books the house contained, or in fact that the family had access to at all, were a Bible, an old dictionary, and a well-thumbed pamphlet of the scriptural story of the tower of Babel." pp. 28, 29, 30.

He was not yet twenty-one years of age when he entered on his scholastic education, properly so called. "He attended for a period a school kept in the Quaker meeting-house in his native town. Mr. Ballou says of this first attendance at school.—"It was a private school, the first one ever opened in the town, and was supported by a few young people with whom I united; and here I obtained the first instruction in English grammar. I now set myself to work in earnest to obtain learning. I studied night and day, slept little and ate little." At the close of this school, being actuated by an earnest desire to obtain knowledge, and realizing more than ever the immense advantage it bestowed, he determined, for a period, to devote his entire earnings to this end; and in pursuance of this purpose, he immediately entered the Chesterfield (N. H.) Academy, where, by industry and incessant application, allowing himself but a brief period of time out of the twenty-four hours each day for sleep, in a very short space of time he acquired a good knowledge of the ordinary branches of an English education of those days. The tuition received by Mr. Ballou at this Academy was the first worthy of mention that he had ever enjoyed. * * Fortunately, the instructors employed, were men of sound ability, and consequently from his studies here he realized most important and lasting benefit." "It was his good fortune to make the acquaintance of the teachers on good terms. They seemed prepossessed in his favor, and were exceedingly kind, and even assiduous, in rendering him every needed assistance in his studies." "On leaving the academy, he obtained a certificate testifying to his sound moral character and ability; which document proved of considerable benefit to him afterward in obtaining various situations as a teacher. Schools for the young were then kept but a short period at a time in New England, and thus the teacher had often occasion to change the field of his operations." pp. 48, 49, 50.

HIS ATHLETIC TRAINING. "It was customary for the young men of all classes in those days to pursue athletic exercises, such as pitching the bar, leaping, wrestling, and the like, these being regarded as the surest tests of bodily strength. Possessing a powerful and active frame, he was ever the victor in those sports; and from his marked success among his comrades in this respect, and his fair and impartial disposition, he was universally the umpire in all disputes growing out of these and like contests for superiority that arose between one and another. In the matter of his physical strength, particularly when young, he ever cherished a laudable degree of pride, and delighted in accomplishing a large amount of work within the hours devoted to labor." p. 34.

HIS RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCES AND CHURCH MEMBERSHIP. "At the age of nineteen, there being what was termed a reformation in the town of Richmond, Mr. Ballou was induced, believing it to be his duty, to become a professor of religion, and accordingly at that time he joined the Baptist church, of which his father was pastor, in the month of January, 1789." "This joining of the church was plainly of immediate advantage to him, as it led him to think still more seriously and earnestly upon the subject of religion." He says,—“I was much troubled in my mind because I thought I had not stood in such fear of the divine wrath as I ought to do, or as others had before they found acceptance with God. I well remember, that as I was returning home from a conference meeting, one evening, when about a quarter of a mile from home, being alone, I stopped under a large tree, and, falling on my knees, prayed as well as I could for the favor I sought.” “His connection with his father’s church, though it continued but a short period comparatively, seems to have made no slight impression upon his mind and feelings; for he says:—‘I have always felt towards this people (the Baptist denomination) as one feels towards his family, and though the religion of Christ consists in love to all men, I have a peculiar feeling for the Baptists.’ pp. 38, 39.

HOW HE BECAME A UNIVERSALIST. “In his researches and reading the creed that he had now publicly professed, he found it impossible to bring his heart to conform to the doctrine of eternal reprobation; and this in itself, as he afterward remarked, was an evidence of no inconsiderable importance, to his mind, that it could not be true; for why should his heavenly Father have implanted in his heart an earnest desire for the salvation of all mankind, unless that desire was susceptible of gratification, as is every appetite, natural or physical, with which we are endowed by nature? Such thoughts caused him much and incessant anxiety of mind, because the very fact of his entertaining them, if the doctrine he professed was true, endangered his eternal salvation; while, on the other hand, if this creed was not that taught by God’s revealed word, then he was needlessly suffering, to a degree that greatly depressed him.

No wonder that this double incentive lead him to search the Scriptures with the utmost care and attention, and to weigh and decide in his own mind the relation that one portion bears to the other, and finally with the help of Heaven, to make up his mind as to the true spirit and doctrine of the whole. The reader can easily imagine the fervent prayers he uttered, the sleepless nights he passed, and the arduous study he performed, in his search for the light of truth. After all this anxious solicitude, this solitary mental struggle, this prayerful communication with Heaven, he at length declared himself a believer in the final salvation of the whole human family." pp. 39, 40.

HIS FATHER'S CHURCH EXCOMMUNICATES HIM. "Great was the surprise, disappointment, and chagrin of his father and friends generally. Being looked up to by the young men of his own age as a sort of leader in their secular plans and games, the influence of his example was greatly feared as operating upon the younger portion of the church; and as his joining it had been the occasion of much rejoicing at the time, so his declaration of unbelief in its faith was the cause of a proportionate degree of sorrow. His new declaration was at once pronounced to be downright heresy, and he was accordingly excommunicated." "In relation to this subject Mr. Ballou says:—As I had formerly been in the habit, while with the Baptists, of speaking in their meetings, and of offering up prayer at conference meetings, I now sometimes spoke my sentiments at meetings in my brother's house. The church of which I was still a member, thought it a duty to call me to answer for the course I had taken, and I was called upon to meet the accusation of believing in the salvation of all men. I attended but did not feel it my duty to deny the charge, or to renounce my belief. I was therefore excommunicated from the church, my letter of excommunication carefully stating that no fault was found in me, my belief in the salvation of all men excepted. I shall ever remember the tears which I shed on this solemn occasion."

HE COMMENCES TO PREACH. "While Mr. Ballou was yet but twenty years of age, he made one or two unsuccessful attempts to preach a regular discourse. That is, he delivered sermons once or twice, at the period referred to, before small assemblies of his personal friends and relations. But so far from satisfying himself in relation to his ability for public speaking, he was quite disheartened by the result that attended these his first efforts. Yet, by the constant solicitations of those who were curious to hear him discourse upon the topic of his peculiar views, he continued to speak, despite of the advice of his immediate friends and relations, until he not only soon satisfied himself as to his abilities, but also received the cordial approval of a large number of those who would, at the outset, have discouraged him entirely." p. 52.

"Mr. Ballou says.—'Mr. Logan the preceptor, gave me a certificate when I left the Chesterfield Academy, which was sufficient to enable me to get a school in Bellingham, Mass. Here I taught school during the other days of the week, and preached on the Sabbath. When I first engaged in preaching, it was not with the most distant expectation that I should support myself by the ministry; but I thought I could keep school some, and labor some with my hands, and live with but little income. From Bellingham I went to the town of Foster, R. I., [originally a part of Scituate], where my father formerly lived, and there taught a large school, and had good compensation, and there also on the Sabbath I preached in the school-house where I taught. From this place I went to Scituate, R. I., where I preached and taught school. My meetings grew very large, and I was called on to go to different places,—to Smithfield, Providence, Pawtucket, &c. After I had spent about two years in keeping school and preaching, I found that I had used up all my earnings—had laid up nothing, except that I had more costly clothing than when I first began. And now, at the age of twenty-four, I was so much called on to preach, that I gave up keeping school and devoted my time to the ministry, receiving now and then some compensation for my services.' pp. 58, 59.

ALWAYS PREACHED EXTEMPORANEOUSLY. "It will be remembered that he did not sit down and compose a discourse which he afterward read to his audience; this is comparatively an easy task. He spoke extemporaneously then, as he ever did afterward. In subsequent years he was frequently called upon for manuscript copies of his discourses for publication. But the sermons were not written until after they had been delivered; and it was not his practice to put on paper even the heads of his discourse to take into the desk with him for reference in delivery. Trusting entirely to his powerfully retentive memory, the arrangement of his sermons was as methodical and correct as though in the seclusion of his study." "Mr. Ballou's arguments were arranged with the utmost precision, his reasoning followed in the most logical way, and all the while he was talking to the people in the most unconcerned and familiar manner, as though each respective member of his congregation was sitting by his own fireside and the preacher had happened in. This is the mode of preaching which is effectual, and all the flowers of rhetoric may seek in vain to attain a like influence over the hearts and sympathies of an auditory." pp. 55, 57.

THE PROGRESS AND FATIGUES OF HIS MINISTRY. "His labors were

by no means confined to Rhode Island, but he preached in the neighborhood of Richmond, and in various parts of Vermont and Massachusetts, improving every moment of leisure time in the most careful study of the Scriptures. He no longer preached on the Sabbath only, but also on nearly every consecutive evening of the week. It was easy to gather an audience, anxious and ready to listen to the new and most happy doctrine that the preacher taught, and even at this early period of his ministerial career he began to address those spontaneous mass assemblies that in after years always gathered from all directions to listen to him where ever he appeared. Entirely forgetting himself, and with but one great object in view, that of preaching God's impartial grace, and of convincing all who would listen to him of the glorious truths of Universalism, he counted not the hours of mental labor which now increased upon him, but labored hard and willingly with his hands to clothe himself, receiving but a mere trifle for his professional labors. Pay, at this period he never demanded, and very rarely expected; he was fully contented with the inward recompense which he realized.

'At this period of my life,' says Mr. Ballou, 'my health was very indifferent. I had most of the time a severe pain in the pit of my stomach, and my appetite was far from being good, and so debilitated was I in strength that I have even been obliged to sit while I preached. It became necessary for me to procure a vehicle to journey in, being too weak to ride on horseback. However, by care and good advice, I gradually recruited. My travelling for that period was extensive, from Cape Ann east to the Connecticut River west, to Richmond north, and New London and Hartford south. All my Sabbaths were employed and many lectures were attended during the week. I preached in meeting-houses when they could be obtained, sometimes in school-houses, sometimes in barns, and often in private houses.'

HOW HE ADVANCED FROM ONE POST OF DISTINCTION TO ANOTHER.
 "The first place in which Mr. Ballou engaged permanently as a settled minister was in the town of Dana, Mass., in 1794-5. The society here, not feeling able to pay for an engagement which should occupy him the whole time, engaged him for a portion, leaving him to supply the societies in Oxford and Charlton, Mass., also a portion of the time." p. 64. "In the thirtieth year of his age, he was induced to accept of the invitation of the towns of Woodstock, Hartland, Bethel and Barnard, Vt., making the latter place his home." p. 74. "After the expiration of a period of six years from the time of his first settlement in Barnard, Vt., and during which season he enjoyed an uninterrupted flow of kindness and good fellowship with the societies of his charge, he accepted the invitation of the society of Portsmouth, N. H., to become their pastor, and to devote his whole time to the good of the cause in that place." p. 89. "At the expiration of six years from the time of his settlement, and during which time his association with the people of his charge, and others in that place, had been not only of the most pleasant and agreeable character, but also highly profitable as it regarded their mutual spiritual advancement, up to the period of the war with Great Britain, he made his arrangements to leave Portsmouth, having received an invitation from the Universalist Society in Salem, Mass., to settle in that town, and to devote his professional services to their especial good." p. 94.

"After a peaceful and happy residence in Salem of a little more than two years, Mr. Ballou received a cordial invitation from the Second Universalist Society of Boston to become their pastor. The invitation was accepted, and in the forty-fifth year of his age he removed to this city, and was installed Dec. 15, 1817, in the church which was built with the avowed purpose of obtaining his ministerial services; and here he continued to preach to the people for over thirty-five years." p. 103.

Thus and there this star of the Universalist skies rose with steady ascent to his zenith, mightily strengthening the religious denomination, and ultimately exercising over it almost prelatfal authority.

THE PECULIARITIES OF HIS UNIVERSALISM. "I began to speak in public," he says, "believing and preaching universal salvation on the Calvinistic principles of atonement and imputed righteousness." "Let it be borne in mind at this period [while settled in Dana, Mass.,] he was preaching Universalism on the principle of the final restoration of the whole human family, not having satisfied himself yet that there would be no punishment in a future state of existence, or, indeed, ever thought upon the subject to any great extent." pp. 46, 65-6. Mr. Ballou says relative to the doctrine of the Trinity:—"I had preached but a short time before my mind was entirely freed from all the perplexities of the doctrine of the Trinity, and the common notion of the atonement. But in making these advances, as I am disposed to call them, I had the assistance of no author or writer." p. 86. "Mr. Ballou's religious belief, the faith which he promulgated with such zeal and wonderful effect, can be summed up in a few words. He held that God judges the human family in the earth; that every man must receive according to the sin he hath done, and that there is no respect of persons. 'That the 'righteous shall be recompensed in the earth, much more the wicked and the sinner.' That the future state of existence will be one of unalloyed happiness for the whole human family. That God is a being who governs the world with a parent's regard, and not with the wrath of a tyrant; that the world could be led to love him, but never driven to it through fear. That love, not wrath, should be preached to the people. That all punishment is designed by the Divine Spirit for the reformation of the sinner, and consequently must take place where the sin is committed. That the reward of good deeds is to encourage well doing, and must come when and where the worthy acts are done. He believed in no more dreadful hell than is produced by the consequences of sin about us, with the still, bitter gnawings of conscience; and in no sweeter or more desirable reward than an approving conscience, and the natural consequences of doing good. He taught that man must be saved from his sins, not from the punishment of them,—that is impossible,—and that to be happy we must 'do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with God.'

He believed that, in order to prove that misery will exist in the future or eternal state, it must first be made to appear that sin will exist in that state. But this he did not believe could be proved from any scriptural testimony; on the contrary he was fully convinced that the Bible taught that "He that is dead is freed from sin." "And we have often heard him make the remark, in regard to limited future punishment, that if any one would produce but only one passage of scripture which proves, beyond a reasonable doubt, that sin or the sinner will exist, as such, in the eternal, immortal state, then I give up my doctrine of no future punishment; but until this is done, I shall hold to the doctrine that the Scriptures do not teach the principle even of a limited future punishment. Mr. Ballou would not allow analogy to take the place of scriptural proof on so important a subject as the destiny of man in the immortal state." pp. 273-275.

HIS DOMESTIC RELATIONS AND CHARACTERISTICS. "At the age of twenty-five, and while resident in the town of Dana, he became acquainted with the family of Stephen Washburn, in the town of Williamsburg, Mass., and, after an intimate acquaintance of about a year, he married their youngest daughter, Ruth Washburn, who was some eight years younger than himself. His wife, like her husband, had been brought up to habits of industry and economy.

She proved a kind, constant, and devoted helpmate through his entire life, sharing with him every joy and every burthen, and, by the influence of a naturally strong and well-balanced mind, a cheerful and gentle disposition, exercising a most goodly influence upon his life and labors. She became the careful and prudent mother of a large family, nine of whom lived to rear families themselves during the life of their parents. Through their whole lives there was a remarkable oneness of feeling, and a depth of affection evinced by each for the other, that years served only to increase, and old age to cement the more closely." p. 67. "The following lines were written by Mr. Ballou, then at the age of seventy-four years, in an album which he had presented to his wife, and are introduced here to show the affectionate regard that existed between them at this advanced period of life.—

TO MY WIFE.

'Thou dearest of the dear to me,
 Of the beloved the best,
 Could'st thou but read this heart and see
 The treasures of my breast,
 Assurance surely would be thine
 That undiminished love,
 By age grown better, like to wine,
 Can never faithless prove.
 Not when the virgin rose of youth
 Blushed on thy snowy breast;
 Not when we pledged ourselves in truth,
 And were by Hymen blessed,
 Could strong affection boast as now
 Of such resistless sway,
 When age sits wrinkled on my brow
 And mortal powers decay.'

pp. 198, 199.

"All who knew Mr. Ballou intimately can bear witness that his home was a happy one. He was the master mind there; his word was law, his simplest wish strictly complied with. He was looked up to with a degree of respect and veneration by his children, that was an abiding evidence of his true character. In the government of his family he led, but never drove, his children, endeavoring, to the utmost of his ability, to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, and, taking his divine Master for his example, he governed them by love and kindness alone. He was strongly characterized for his fondness of domestic enjoyment, and throughout his whole life, to the very end, evinced the most constant and tender solicitude for each and all of his children. Even after they had married and settled in life, with families about them, this solicitude continued as ardent as ever; nor was there one of those children who would undertake any matter of importance without first consulting his wishes in the premises, and seeking his advice upon the subject, so highly were both respected and esteemed." pp. 173, 174.

HIS CLOSING LABORS AND PREPARATIONS FOR DEATH. "From the commencement of 1852 until within a week of his death, we find him constantly active, with the weight of fourscore years and more; yet he never for a moment faltered in his mission. During the last year of his life he preached in seven different States, and about forty different places. His pen was still as busy as ever. One Sunday found him in Maine, the next in New Hampshire, the third in Vermont; now he is in New York, New Jersey, or Rhode Island, preaching the word with unabated zeal and surprising effects in all directions." p. 362. Dr. Miner is quoted as saying:—"He had often exhorted his companion to hold herself in readiness for his departure, forewarning her that every separation from her might be the last. But a few days previous to his death, he had renewedly impressed this upon her mind." He seasonably set his temporal affairs in order for the event, and provided by a judicious Will for the proper disposal of his pecuniary accumulations. Among his testamentary papers he left the following valedictory:—"In view of that solemn event which must unavoidably take place, which will end my mortal days and close my labors on earth, I make this serious and important declaration: I humbly and earnestly pray that the Father of the spirits of all flesh may, in that mercy which he has revealed in our Lord Jesus Christ, forgive all that in my whole life has been amiss in me. This prayer is offered in that faith for which I adore him who hath given it to me. I heartily regret that I have not been a better husband, a better father, and especially a better and more useful minister of the gospel of divine grace. For my faults in these particulars I ask the forgiveness of the kind and faithful wife of my bosom, of my dearly beloved and dutiful children, and of the discerners of my heart and thoughts, to whom I offer devout and unfeigned gratitude, that, by his favor, I have been enabled to do as well as I have in the relation of a husband, and father, and minister of the gospel of Christ. I sincerely return thanks to all my brethren in the common faith for all their kindness to me. I sincerely thank the great fraternity of Christians, united with me in the precious faith in which we believe, and especially the church and society with whom, for more than thirty years, I have lived in love, and with whom I have labored in word and doctrine, for all their numerous favors.

HOSEA BALLOU." p. 368-9.

HIS PRINCIPAL PUBLISHED WORKS. "Notes on the Parables of the New Testament. One Vol. 12 mo., 297 pages. First published in 1804. A Treatise on the Atonement. One Vol. 12 mo., 328 pages. First published in 1805. Series of Twenty-six Lecture Sermons; delivered in the School Street church, Boston. One Vol. 12 mo., 375 pages. First published in 1818. Twenty-five Select Sermons; delivered on various occasions, from important passages of Scripture. One Vol. 12 mo., 360 pages. First published in 1828. An Examination of the Doctrine of Future Retribution. One Vol. 12 mo., 203 pages. Published in 1834. Besides these volumes he wrote a multitude of articles on his favorite themes, which were published either editorially, or as communications in various Universalist periodicals. Also many hymns, poetic effusions, and more fugitive compositions, not needing specification in this work. Thus he crowded over sixty years of public service with the manifold productions of his ever busy brain, tongue and pen. He departed this life in Boston June 7, 1852, a. 81 yrs. 1 mo. and 7 ds.

THE EULOGY OF HIS SURVIVING FRIENDS. Rev. Thomas Whittemore said:—"There have been but few such men as Father Ballou. We can truly say that they who knew him best loved him most. Those who had heard him preach the oftenest, and who had read most thoroughly what he had written, felt more than others the power of his mind, and were more deeply convinced than others that he was intellectually, as well as religiously and morally, a great man. His life was protracted beyond fourscore years; he enjoyed a very large share of health and strength through that whole time. He was never idle; he worked up to the last week of his life, in the harvest field, and actually died with the sickle in his hand. He was taken sick in his own house; and after six days of comparatively light suffering, he gently fell asleep in death, quietly as an infant falls into slumber, and at the moment when he seemed to be putting his body in the posture for the coffin."

"For ourself, we must say, most unreservedly, we never knew a better man. We say this, after having lived in his family under his immediate tuition, and since that time spent more than thirty years side by side with him, in journeyings often, in mutual consultation, and in very frequent interviews. If we ever saw a person equally amiable, kind, upright, gentle and true, it is the aged widow who survives him. If he was more than a father to us, she was more than a mother. She can never be honored too much for her goodness. To her must be attributed much of the ease and quietness he enjoyed in life, and without which he could not have accomplished the full measure of the good for which he is now beloved and venerated. So much for the moral qualities of this venerable man and woman. There yet remains to be described (but it cannot be done here) the childlike simplicity of the man; his benevolence; his blindness to the faults of others; his open eye to their virtues; his strong sense of rectitude; his remarkable and long-continued habits of justice; his wonderful mind, so clear, so strong, to the last; his eagle-eyed sagacity; his strong faith in God and his word,—a faith like a mountain for its towering height and firmness; his devotion to the truth; his love of the work of the ministry; his truly religious character; his susceptibility to deep devotional feeling; his love of conventions and associations for the seasons of public worship they gave him so many opportunities to enjoy; his love of conference meetings; his power over the people; his closing sermons at conventions; his prayers at the separation, when all, old and young, male and female, clergy and laity, would be melted into tears;—ah! who shall attempt to describe all these things.” pp. 369-71.

So testified all his intimate brethren in the ministry, his society in Boston, and all his admiring sympathizers throughout the Universalist denomination. We must refrain from further extracts, because the limitations of our space forbid it. We are aware that these high encomiums cannot receive a fully concordant response from theological opponents and outside critics. Such will generally demur with more or less repulsion to such eulogistic testimonies. But let them remember that they are wont to do the same thing in glorification of their favorites. It is the universal custom. Every church canonizes its own saints; every class of devotees to any profession, cause, movement, sect or party, pays such homage to its departed chiefs; and every bereaved circle of relatives enshrines its loved ones in precious memories. And perhaps more good comes of all this than would come of fault-finding criticism, even with some staple of truth. We are not to be finally weighed in human scales, nor judged by creature fallibility, but by omniscient Justice tempered with pure benevolence. Of this all parties may be sure. The wise endeavor to make reasonable allowance in all cases of human praise and censure. In this case it may be proper for the present writer to say (what will appear in his intended Autobiography), that he had some personal knowledge of Rev. Hosea Ballou, both as a sympathizer and opponent, and though he was obliged to dissent widely from the distinguished teacher's doctrine of no-future limited retribution, his Scriptural exegesis on that subject, his metaphysics relating to the same, and to some of his conduct towards the Restorationists, he nevertheless heartily accords to him the honor of illustrating many very eminent excellencies of intellect, talent and moral character in all the walks of life.

Mrs. Ruth, his worthy and venerated widow, d. in Boston Mar. 1, 1853, a. 74 yrs. 5 mos. and 14 ds. The honored remains of both husband and wife repose in a hallowed spot in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

The parents and most of the children belonged to the thrifty farmer class. Horace and William P., however, are or were enterprising merchants. Their father dwelt in Hanover, N. We have ascertained nothing additional to Mr. Peck's findings. He learned only the name of his wife, and that he had 3 chn. as above; that he dwelt awhile in Providence, R. I., afterward in Brimfield, and finally in Smithfield, where he d. of the palsy,—nothing more. So the family is lost to us. We cannot name, number, or trace his chn.

Dr. Peter Ballou lived and died, we believe, in his native town. We have sought in vain for a brief biographical sketch of him, giving some desirable particulars respecting his character, and especially his professional career. In the absence of such a sketch we can only say—we have always understood that he was a skillful physician, had an extensive practice, and held a reputable standing, social as well as professional. He d. Sept. 21, 1826. Mrs. Ruth (Sheldon) Ballou, his widow, d. June 16, 1841.

Since writing the foregoing, we have been informed that Dr. Peter was the original discoverer or inventor of the Dysentery Medicine, which afterward became so popular and lucrative in the hands of the late Dr. Seth Arnold.

The most Mr. Peck could learn from any of them was, that uncle Daniel lived for some years here and there in Vt., lost his wife and son, and finally d. in Rowe, Mass.

[185.] JEMIMA BALLOU^e, Ariel^t, James^s, James^s, Maturin^t; b. in then Wrentham, Mass., now Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 23, 1741; m. Martin Rounds from Rehoboth, Mass., parentage and birth-date not ascertained; cer. Mar. 1, 1764, by Eld. Nathaniel Cook. Issue, b. in the vicinity of W. - 749—4. Lavina Rounds, b. prob. '71; m. Thomas Horton Nov. 23, 1794.

Whether Jemima (Ballou) Rounds ever belonged to the Cumberland Six Principle Baptist church we have not learned; but we have evidence that her husband did, having been baptized Aug. 12, 1764, prob. by Elder Nathaniel Cook. He seems, however, to have become disaffected in 1765, along with James Ballou^t and others, who were drawn into the New Light excitement, and wanted more freedom of speech and action than the Six Principlers allowed. He is said to have been a shoemaker by trade, and to have resided a few years with his family about half a mile east of his wife's birthplace. There, after giving birth to the four above named chn., she d. prob. in 1772. Mr. Rounds subsequently removed with his chn. to his native Rehoboth, where he m. a widow Martin, and by her had several additional chn. There his older chn. all grew up and married. They will appear in the proper order and place of their generation. The moral and social characteristics of Jerusha Ballou are presumed to have been reputable; though we have neither recorded nor traditional testimonials.

[186.] JERUSHA BALLOU, Ariel^s, James^s, James^s, Maturin^s; b. in then Wrentham, Mass., soon after Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 13, 1745; m. Ezekiel Cook (Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), b. in Bellingham, Mass., June 19, 1744; cer. Oct. 20, 1763, in Cumberland, R. I., by groom's oldest brother, Elder Nathaniel Cook. Issue, all b. in said Bellingham.—

750—1. Ziba Cook, b. May 6, 1764; m. Joanna Aldrich of Uxbridge.

751—2. Ezekiel Cook, Jr., b. Aug. 18, '71; m. Joanna Pickering, May 9, 1791.

755—6. Nahum Cook, b. Sept. 21, '82; d. young.

756—7. Esther Cook, b. Dec. 22, '84; m. Abel Aldrich 1802.

Jerusha (Ballou) Cook and her husband Ezekiel Cook were baptized by Elder Abner Ballou and received into the Cumberland Six Principle Baptist church, Oct. 14, 1787. They always resided in Bellingham, Mass., a little north of Scott Hill, honored their lineage and profession by exemplary lives, and departed in a good old age to the immortal world. He made his Will May 25, 1821, constituting his wife Jerusha sole executrix. He d. June, 1821, and the Will was proved Aug. 21, 1821. Mrs. Jerusha, his wid. d. between Dec. 1, 1832 and Feb. 28, 1833; rather more indefinite than we should prefer, but the best that could be given.

[187.] CHLOE BALLOU, Ariel^s, James^s, James^s, Maturin^s; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 16, 1749; m. Philip Aldrich, then of Mendon, Mass., son of Peter and Miriam (Tower) Aldrich, b. Nov. 1744; cer. May 4, 1771. They are said to have had 8 chn. four of whom d. in infancy of scarlet fever within 48 hours. Their names, if they had any, have not come to us, nor the birth-date of but a single child. The names of the 4 that survived to maturity were.—

757—1. Ariel Aldrich, b. not given; m. Lucy —.

758—2. Joanna Aldrich, b. " ; m. Jacob Martin, possibly a 2d husb.

759—3. Pamela Aldrich, b. " ; m. Seth Sprague.

760—4. Arvilla Aldrich, b. Apl. 12, 1787; m. Joseph Hawkins, 1808.

Chloe (Ballou) Aldrich and husband, not long after marriage, emigrated to Richmond, N. H. After some years they removed thence to Wallingford, Vt., or its vicinity. In that locality their youngest dr. Arvilla was born, and perhaps one or two of their older chn. The still older ones were prob. b. in Richmond, N. H., where we presume their 4 infants, above mentioned, d. of scarlatina within the short space of two days. About the year 1807, the parents with their surviving chn. removed to Hamburg, Erie Co., N. Y. That region was then wild and uncultivated, and they had to make them a new home under corresponding disadvantages. After much privation and hard-earned success, they had the misfortune to lose their habitation by fire, with everything in it except the lives of the family. Their case was indeed a sad one. They finally took up their abode with their daughter Arvilla (Aldrich) Hawkins and her husband Joseph, in whose kind care they closed their mortal career. He d. about 1820, and she about 1827. Singularly enough she d. of measles at the age of fourscore.

[188.] MELATIAH BALLOU^b, next in age, d. in infancy.

764 —5. Lavinia Sayles, b. No. Wrentham, Mass., Oct. 20, 1788; m. Hansell Kimball.

765 —6. Willard Sayles, b. Medfield, Mar. 1, 1793; m. Maria Francoeur June 9, 1816.

Catherine Ballou^c and husband commenced married life perhaps in Smithfield, R. I., but soon removed to Franklin, Mass., and thence a few years later to North Wrentham, now Norfolk, Mass. There they spent the remainder of their days. They were reputable and exemplary people. Mrs. Catherine was baptized by Eld. Abner Ballou, and received into his Six Principle Baptist ch., Sept. 16, 1789. Prob. she was then residing in the southerly part of Franklin, Mass. Whether her husband ever made any public profession of religion we are not informed; but he was a worthy man and good citizen. Their chn. were well brought up, and always maintained a respectable standing in society. Elisha Sayles d. Jan. 1, 1834, a. 77 yrs. 9 mos. and 17 ds. Mrs. Catherine d. Apl. 21, 1840, a. 85 yrs. and 8 mos.

768—3. Nathan, b. July 27, '82; m. Lucy Arnold Mar. 26, 1807.

Duty Ballou^s is understood to have settled on a homestead embracing the northerly portion of his father's patrimonial estate, situated just over the Massachusetts line in the extreme southwesterly corner of Wrentham. It was partly, if not wholly, the gift of his father, Ariel^l. The domicile in which he and his young family dwelt was long since removed by Ariel Ballou^s, his brother, who, after Duty's untimely death, purchased the property. Nothing remains to mark the site but the almost obliterated cellar hole. Duty served as a Rhode Island soldier a considerable length of time during the war of the Revolution. It seems he was married about the middle of that eventful conflict, and all his chn. were b. before its termination. But his earthly career was suddenly cut short by an afflictive casualty. In felling a tree on his estate, it became lodged, and in coming down either the trunk or some of its branches struck him a fatal blow, of which he soon after died. His death took place Dec. 29, 1783, at the age of 27 yrs. 8 mos. and 7 ds. His memorial gravestone, in the Ballou Burying Ground, bears this inscription.—“Duty Ballou, a soldier of the Revolution, died Dec. 29, 1783. Aged 29.” The age was some one's unintentional mistake. Mrs. Waitie, his widow, was afterward m. to William Whipple, and became the mother of several chn.—certainly of two sons and two drs., whom we omit from this record.

Ariel Ballou was an intelligent, upright, enterprising farmer. He possessed himself, by inheritance and subsequent purchase of over two hundred acres, including all that was willed by James Ballou to Ariel in the border of Wrentham, Mass., and Cumberland, R. I. He was a hard worker, skillful and thorough in the cultivation of his lands, made many improvements for their greater productiveness, built largely for habitation, storage and mill operations—such as sawing lumber and cider-making—marketed much produce of various kinds, and took good care that none of his family should eat the bread of idleness, form dissolute habits, or grow up incompetent to bear their share of life's responsibilities. In early manhood he served as a soldier of the Revolution, and met the enemy a few times on the battle field, but used to say he hoped he killed no one—though he knew not the effect of his bullets. In his old age he was, for several years, one of the Revolutionary pensioners. In middle age he bore the title of militia Captain, but later that of Deacon; he having experienced religion, been baptized and joined the church about the year 1814. At that time the general neighborhood passed through the excitement of what was called "a reformation," produced by the labors of several preachers of the Christian Order, so styled, among whom Elder Zephaniah S. Crossman was for some time conspicuous. They were strict Baptists in the matter of immersion, anti-Calvinistic on free grace and free will, high Unitarians in respect to the nature and office of Christ, warm revivalists on religious conversion, tenacious of the New Testament Scriptures as their only creed, and of bearing no denominational name but simply that of Christian. As to the final destiny of the wicked, most of them held to the doctrine of Destructionism; i. e. that after the Day of Judgment the finally impenitent, as the end of their punishment, would be stricken out of existence. A church of this character was formed whose centre was the Cumberland Ballou neighborhood, and whose congregations frequently occupied the Ballou Meetinghouse. It was entitled "The Church of Christ in Cumberland, R. I.," and seemed to supersede the almost extinct Six Principle Baptist church. It flourished for a considerable period, but finally declined and passed away.

Ariel Ballou joined that church, became its main pillar, its leading Deacon, and for some years poured out his temporal substance with almost Pentecostal liberality, for its support and that of its favorite ministry. His wife and three of his sons were baptized and became members. In those years he and his devoted wife kept free entertainment for travelling preachers and their horses, and for many hungry saints, some of whom cared quite as much for "the loaves and fishes" as for the gospel. Perhaps it is but truthful to add, that Deacon Ariel, in later and cooler years, seriously doubted the wisdom of his large generosity, as its results hardly realized the good intended, and occasioned him some unpleasant pecuniary embarrassment. However, he lived and died in substantial adhesion to his religious faith and professions.

His first wife is understood to have been a worthy woman and companion in her day, but we are unable to give her personal characteristics with any amplification. His second was the mother of the writer, and he knew her to be one of the best wives, mothers and neighbors that ever lived. In her own family and household, and in a wide circle of acquaintances, she was an untiring minister of love, mercy and kindness. Humble, unostentatious, laborious in every form of domestic service, charitable to the poor, almost ubiquitous in the sick chambers of her vicinage, and everywhere, cheerfully self-possessed, she lived to bless and curse not. She seemed to consume almost nothing for self-gratification or show, and was the serving friend of all within her sphere of activity. She was appreciated accordingly and left a most precious and blessed memory. She departed to the higher life, with peaceful assurances of an angelic welcome to her heavenly home, Dec. 27, 1834, in her 64th year. Not long after her decease Dea. Ariel settled the major portion of his estate, under an arrangement whereby he divided it among his children—securing to himself a sufficient maintenance for the remainder of his days. Subsequently he dwelt successively with his sons for limited terms. During his latter years he was much afflicted by inflammation of the eyes, and other infirmities common to old age. He finally resumed his abode on the old homestead with the family of his son Alfred, where he d. Sept. 26, 1839, in his 82d year.

Here is one of the old-fashioned large families, worthy and respectable, with few blemishes and many excellencies. We have an impression, but not a record, that Mrs. Eunice was a member of Eld. Abner Ballou's ch. Her husband was not a professor of religion, but a possessor of more than many who are professors. Their first residence, after marriage, was Smithfield, R. I. Thence they took possession of a handsome homestead in the southwest part of Franklin, Mass. There they brought up this family host. They toiled hard, passed through many trials, and finally took their departure to a better world. We knew them well, and can bear witness to their substantial worth. Aunt Eunice^s d. May 12, 1837, in her 76th year. Uncle Daniel d. Jan. 18, 1844, a. 86 yrs. Their dust reposes in the ancient Ballou Burying Ground, Cumberland, R. I.

[193.] ESTHER BALLOU^s, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 13, 1762; m. Solomon Brailey, son of Roger and Ruth Brailey, Franklin, Mass.; cer. in said Cumberland Oct. 23, 1785, by Eld. Abner Ballou. Issue.—

Besides these there was a nameless twin, b. with Lydia Feb. 3, 1791, that d. at or soon after birth—making 11 chn. in all. From what we can learn, it would seem that Esther (Ballou) Brailey and husband dwelt, after mge., first in Franklin, Mass., prob. in the southwesterly part, then next a few years in Mendon, then again in Franklin awhile, and finally in Pelham, Mass. He was a shoe-maker by trade, and perhaps lived in hired tenements mostly; at least he appears to have changed his abode somewhat frequently in the same general vicinity. In 1806 he removed with his family to Pelham, Mass. And there both parents lived and died. Mrs. Esther d. about 1841, aged 79 yrs. He d. about 1855, in the 94th yr. of his age. All their chn. have passed away, and we are dependent mainly on their grand chn. for the facts and data above given. No one has vouchsafed any summary of their characters, which we presume to have been reputable.

[194.] SELAH BALLOU^s, Ariel¹, James^s, James^s, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 17, 1764; m. Saul Scott, son of Dea. Samuel Scott, b. in Bellingham, Mass., July 2, 1764; cer. in said Cumberland May 13, 1781, by Elder Abner Ballou. Mrs. Selah's birth-date in the family Bible differs a few days from the Cumberland records, being May 23 instead of May 17, as given above. It will be seen that she became a wife at the age of scarcely 17 yrs. She proved a fruitful mother to the extent of 13 chn., and lived to be almost 90. The parents lived and died on what is called Scott Hill, Bellingham, Mass., where all their chn. were born.—

Saul Scott and Selah (Ballou) Scott his wife settled, immediately after marriage, with or near his parents, on the patrimonial estate, which had descended from his gd. father, Joseph Scott, in the southerly portion of what has long been known as Scott Hill, Bellingham, Mass. They were intelligent, upright people of the farming yeomanry, and reared up this large family in knowledge, virtue and laudable enterprise for positions of usefulness and respectability. Saul Scott was a man of good natural abilities, and was held in honorable esteem by his townsmen. And his wife deservedly enjoyed eminent respect among her contemporary kindred, numerous posterity, and general associates. He d. Apl.

There is said to have been a nameless infant that d. at or soon after birth. All the others named above lived to marry and have chn. We hope to trace them through another generation. Elisha Newell and wife began married life with fair promise of average success in the world, but a blight came upon their prosperity at length. His mind became unsettled by alternate depressions and elevations until chronically deranged. This broke up the family, and developed many sad experiences for them all. Ordinarily he was comparatively quiet and harmless, but occasionally noisy and dangerous, even to the extent of requiring stringent personal restraint. Generally for many years he was permitted a large liberty, and wandered here and there among his relatives or old acquaintances—catching entertainment and lodging as he could. During the latter years of life both he and his wife were cared for by their kind-hearted son Elisha, Jr., and family, in Pawtucket, R. I. There he d. Nov. 6, 1830, a. about 78 yrs. And there, too, she d. Aug. 4, 1831, a. about 72 yrs. They are commemorated by decent gravestones.

Nathaniel Cook^s was a man of uncommon ability, enterprise, firmness and executiveness. He rendered efficient service in the Revolutionary war, and was for some time in the navy, under command of the celebrated John Paul Jones in the Ship Alfred, as Landsman. His papers show that he recd. wages and prize money for at least three months of such naval service. How long or frequently he served in the army we have not learned, but probably to a more considerable amount. The published Life and Exploits of Capt. John Paul Jones show that he took command of the Ship Alfred and sailed Nov. 2, 1776, on a cruise for the capture of a fleet of coal barges, and to break up a fishing establishment at Cape Breton; and that the cruise was very successful, capturing many rich prizes. Nathaniel Cook participated in the hazards and profits of that expedition. The late Philander P. Cook, a grandson of Nathaniel, possessed, in a neat frame, an Order of John Paul Jones approving the grandfather's demands for services on board the Alfred, also the receipted bill of the Landsman. The order bears the bold signature of Jones, and the receipt a very well written one of the payee. Probably this memento will go down as a cherished heirloom to unborn generations.

Nathaniel^s planted himself on a homestead a little eastward of Diamond Hill in Cumberland, which he managed with great industry and judgment—increasing its value many fold. He was a man of thrift, a trusted citizen, and much distinguished for the per sistent shrewdness with which he maintained what he deemed his rights in many a law-suit. He seemed to have both a propensity and a genius for litigation throughout his long life—having almost always a case in court, and being generally successful in the issues. Nevertheless, he enjoyed a respectable reputation in community for many commendable qualities in domestic, social and civil relationship. He d. Sept. 27, 1846, at the very advanced age of over 98 yrs. Mrs. Amey, his connubial consort, preceded him some 14 yrs. She d. July 21, 1832, in her 91st yr.; whence it would seem she was several yrs. the oldest.

Ariel Cook and wife were members of the Cumberland Six Principle Baptist church, and he was one of its Deacons. They were both persons of superior abilities and sterling moral character. The writer well remembers "Aunt Dorcas" in her long widowhood, especially at church in the old Ballou Meetinghouse sitting as an Eldress in a large armed chair. She had a portly and dignified presence. She was intelligent, though like women of her generation and rank little schooled. She was famous, among other things, for keeping a record, mostly in Almanacks, of the births, marriages and deaths which occurred throughout her general neighborhood. Her Memoranda are still extant, and are both curious and useful. We have derived important data from them. It is said that "blood tells." It has done so in the posterity of Dea. Ariel and Dorcas (Whipple) Cook; who have exhibited marked talents and characteristics. The parents dwelt on the patrimonial homestead inherited from Eld. Nathaniel Cook, about one mile north of Cumberland Hill, on the road leading to Wrentham, Mass. We have an impression of being told that Dea.

Ariel's death was partially induced by some casualty, but do not recollect particulars. However this may have been, he d. in the prime of middle age June 18, 1803. Mrs. Doreas d. in venerable widowhood Dec. 24, 1839, a. 89 yrs. 2 mos. and 22 ds.

878—6. Phebe Thayer, b. May 23, '94; prob. d. young.

879—7. Sally Thayer, b. Mar. 25, '97; prob. d. young.

Phebe^c and husband were of the worthy old fashioned farmer class. He inherited, in part at least, the homestead of his parents, Joseph and Abigail (Cook) Thayer, situated on the road leading from "Five Corners" towards Woonsocket, R. I. Those familiar with that locality have often noticed the old gambrel roofed house, some years ago owned by Col. Lebbeus Gaskill, and more latterly by Mr. Russell Esty. In that domicile, we are told, Phebe^c and husband reared their family, and died—as had his parents before them. Joseph d. July 13, 1821. Mrs. Phebe^c d. Jan. 12, 1843, a. 88 yrs.

[210.] ELIZABETH COOK^c, (Eld. Nathaniel, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Martha (Ballou)^c, James^c, James^c, Maturin^c; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Apl. 25, 1757; m. Benjamin Thayer, (Joseph, Samuel, Ferdinando, Thomas), b. in Bellingham, Mass., Jan. 3, 1756; cer. in said Cumberland, Sept. 16, 1779, by Jotham Carpenter, J. P. They settled in Mendon, now Blackstone, Mass. Issue.—

881—2. Lurana Thayer, b. " ; m. Mark Kelley.

882—3. Asenath Thayer, b. " ; m. Alanson Adams.

Elizabeth^a and husband dwelt on the farm in now Blackstone, owned and occupied by Frank N. Thayer. Their death-dates not given. Presumed to have been worthy people. The data of this family record is too imperfect for further tracement.

[211.] JUDITH COOK^a (Eld. Nathaniel, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Martha (Ballou)¹, James^a, James^a, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Jan. 19, 1759; m. Nicholas Thayer (Joseph, Samuel, Ferdinando, Thomas), b. in Bellingham, Mass., Mar. 7, 1758; cer. in said Cumberland Nov. 16, 1783, by Eld. Abner Ballou. They settled in Mendon, now Blackstone, Mass. Issue.—

- 890—8. Phebe B. Thayer, b. —, 1800; m. Southwick Harkness Apl. 1820.

These parents lived, reared their family and died on a homestead afterward owned and occupied by their son Nicholas, and more recently by Frank N. Adams. It is situated about a mile southerly from "Five Corners," on the road leading to Blackstone and Waterford villages. No characteristics given; but they were of the yeomanry, and doubtless of fair moral standing. Their death-dates are not at our command.

It may not be improper to apprise the reader that the above recorded Thayers, Joseph, Benjamin and Nicholas, were not only three brothers marrying three sisters, but first cousins to those sisters; their mother, Abigail (Cook) Thayer, having been a sister of Eld. Nathaniel Cook.

 898—8. Almira Cook, b. Apl. 15. '95; m. John W. Harris, Dedham, Mass.

Our biographical material of Ananias and wife is very meagre. We have no characteristics, and besides the above family record, learn only that they first settled in Paxton, Mass., and next in Marlborough, Mass. There she d. March 25, 1847; and he, Apl. 15, 1852. Their son Lebbeus inherited the Marlborough homestead, and had 9 chn. Of his family, and those of his sisters that m., we have merely a few confused scraps, hardly worth printing. We therefore excuse ourselves from the discouraging pains and cost of further tracement.

[213.] SETH BALLOU, James', James', James', Maturin'; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Feb. 20, 1749; m. Margaret Hilton, wid. of Israel Hilton, and prob. dr. of Jeremiah and Margaret (Tower) Bartlett, birth-date not found; cer. not far from 1766. Issue.—

 900—2. Margaret, b. prob. —, '69; m. John Benson Jan. 25, 1789.
 901—3. Hattie, b. Jan. 30, '71; m. James Danly about 1786 or 7.
 902—4. John, b. Feb. 2, '73; m. Elizabeth Pickering Nov. 29, 1792.

From what we can learn Seth Ballou continued to reside in *Cumberland, R. I., till all the above named chn. had been born, and prob. still later. He seems to have followed his father to Richmond, N. H., as early as 1776. He was a Revolutionary soldier at Ticonderoga in 1777, when that fortress was invested by the British Gen. Burgoyne. He returned not long afterward, and was toiling to found a comfortable home, when his career was suddenly cut short by death. He d. in Richmond, N. H., Sept. 15, 1778, in the 30th yr. of his age. His family were not left in affluent circumstances, and shifted as best they could for a tolerable future. The widowed mother subsequently married her 3d husband, a Mr. Garish, with whom she d. in the year 1808. The story of her chn., &c., will appear in its generation and order.

[214.] OLIVE BALLOU, James', James', James', Maturin'; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 13, 1751; m. Preserved Whipple (Daniel, Samuel, John), b. in Cumberland, R. I., a twin with his bro. Com-

Olive (Ballou) Whipple⁷ and her husband removed from Cumberland, R. I., with 10 chn., to Richmond, N. H., in 1794. There they had b. to them their 11th child, the above named Tamasin. No one has furnished us with any sketch of their lives, character and social standing, but there is good reason for believing that they averaged reputably with their cotemporaries of the same general rank in community. Mrs. Olive d. in Richmond, N. H., Apl. 14, 1845, in the 95th yr. of her age. Preserved Whipple, her husband, d. May 25, 1812 or 13.

Silas Ballou⁹ is said to have been somewhat wild and romantic in early youth, but endowed with a bright intellect and the elements of poetic genius. His advantages for education in boyhood were extremely limited, and perhaps poorly improved at best. When ripening into manhood he went to sea, on a whaling voyage, under a Quaker captain. On his return, when paid off, he was asked by the captain to sign a receipt, but had to confess, with mortification, that he could not write his name, and so merely made his mark. The captain's wife, being present, gave him a sharp motherly lecture, expressing her surprise to see such a good looking, smart young man unable to write his name, and urgently advised him to go home, attend school and obtain an education. He followed her advice to the extent of his available opportunities, becoming an excellent penman, and a tolerable scholar for his day. He seems to have married soon after entering his 22d yr.; yet went out Privateering once during the Revolutionary war, and had some hard experiences. His father endowed him with a farm at the southerly portion of his territorial purchase in Richmond, N. H., about a mile from his own domicile. There he and his wife took up their abode and raised their family. Mr. Peck visited the locality in 1862. He found the farm in possession of Mr. Addison Paine. The primitive house had been demolished, leaving the old cellar and well. We learn further, from Frederick M. Ballou, Esq., our assistant researcher, who recently made an excursion to Richmond, that the ancient barn is still standing. All accounts agree in characterizing Silas as a remarkable man. After applying himself, as before stated, to the acquisition of knowledge, he prosecuted the pursuit with determined diligence, by self-instruction and books till he rendered himself one of the most intelligent citizens of his vicinage. He is said to have gradually accumulated a very respectable library, and to have been held in honorable esteem by all who knew him. But what most distinguished him was his poetic genius. He was prolific in rhymes from his youth, and became so addicted to that form of expression that he used sometimes to say he could write a note of hand easier in it than in the usual style. We do not suppose he could be ranked among classic poets, or those of polished elegance; for his erudition and culture were too homespun for that. But his productions were long in frequent demand throughout a wide rural circle, and not a few of them got into print. He wrote religious hymns, patriotic odes, funeral elegies, festive songs for social celebrations of all kinds, sonnets, acrostics, epitaphs, &c., &c. And he once amused himself by concocting into rhymes all the names of the eight hundred inhabitants of Richmond, which was printed and read to the great admiration of his town's-folk, and their neighbors around. He was a believer in universal salvation, and one of its earliest hymnists in this country; though only a fragment of his productions in this line lingers in any modern Universalist hymn-book. His hymnology became obsolete in the Universalist denomination, partly on account of its rusticity or inelegance of poetic diction, and partly because strongly tinged with the now antiquated peculiarities of what the famous Dr. Huntington aptly styled "Calvinism Improved." This was the type of Universalism to which Silas had been converted, and which characterizes a considerable number of his hymns, but it is not probable that he troubled himself much about theological criticism, and so naturally versified his ideas according to the phase of doctrines then predominant among his fellow believers. Nor is it unlikely that he may have afterward outgrown some of his early opinions. We are uncertain on this point. We have been privileged to examine and make extracts from a copy of his Hymn-Book, preserved in the "Library of the Universalist Historical Society" connected with Tufts College, and shall take the liberty of using all the space we dare to in presenting specimens of our poet's genius from that little volume, and from other printed effusions of a more miscellaneous and fugitive nature. Whether any other collection of his rhymes was ever made and published, besides this Hymn Book, we are not sure, but we presume not. Yet many others were printed in transient form, of which we have been furnished enough to serve as samples for this work. We will begin with a selection from his Hymns.

“HYMN I.

1. Almighty God in being was,
Before the world begun,
And Wisdom, he dwelt with him there,
And was his only Son.
2. Then God by wisdom spoke the word,
And bid the world arise;
The heav'ns obeyed their sov'reign Lord,
And seas and earth and skies.
3. Then gloomy darkness bore the sway,
Till he created light;
He form'd the light, and called it day,
And call'd the darkness night.
4. He call'd the waters to their place,
And gave the deep its bound;
The waters he pronounced seas,
And earth he nam'd the ground.

5. Now let the verdant grass arise,
And herbs bring forth their seed,
After his kind of every size:
And so it was indeed.
6. Now in the firmament appears
The lights which he hath given,
For signs and seasons, days and years,
To us beneath the Heav'n.
7. He made the sun to rule the day,
Which gives the moon her light;
He made the moon and stars, and they Were made to rule the night.
8. He formed every creeping thing,
And fish of every size,
And beast, and fowl of ev'ry wing,
And every thing that flies.
9. And so God bless'd them all indeed,
With innocence and food,
And bid each multiply his seed,
For he pronoun'd them good.

In the II. Hymn he goes on after the same fashion to describe the creation of Adam and Eve, according to the record of Genesis. Hymn III. sets forth their Fall.—

1. Adam, and Eve his harmless dame,
Dwelt in a paradise, at ease;
Until the subtile serpent came,
And by seduction broke their peace.
2. The fruit of which they were deny'd,
Was pride and knowledge, sight and sense;
He gave it them, they ate and dy'd,
And lost the joys of innocence.
3. All Adam's seed were in his loins;
When he transgress'd, and were undone;
To bring about the grand designs
Of the eternal three in one.
4. Adam was plac'd in paradise,
In his own strength, God left him there,
And he was soon o'ercome by vice;
Which shows what feeble things we are.
5. His num'rous seed by union joined,
To him, the head of all the earth;
This fruit produc'd a carnal mind,
The which is enmity and death.

6. The human world in Adam stood,
And in him they were all defiled;
He lost communion with his God,
And from sweet Eden was exiled.
7. The Cherubims and flaming sword,
To guard the tree of life were set;
This tree to none could life afford,
Till justice had its lawful debt.
8. Adam, and all his num'rous host,
Could not have heal'd the breach he made;
But Christ appeared and paid the cost,
On whom the whole demand was laid.

In similar strain and diction Hymn IV. proclaims the Covenant of Grace between the Triune Persons, according to which human redemption was to be consummated by Christ.—

1. This noble act of grace was done,
By the coequal Trinity,
Before creation was begun,
And Christ became our surety.
2. God he appointed Christ the Lamb,
An head to all the human race;
Thus he by will and union came
To stand in every sinner's place.
3. Then God the Father he resigns
To Christ, his son, the num'rous host,
That should proceed from Adam's loins,
And says, 'dear son, let none be lost.'
4. I give all things into thy hands,
Thy care is o'er a vast extense;
My sons shall break my just commands,
And thou must bear the whole expense.
5. Thou must a human body take
To satisfy my injured laws;
And of thy soul an off'ring make,
And suffer death upon the cross.
6. But thou shalt rise again, my son,
And reign o'er heav'n and earth and seas,
And ev'ry knee shall bow to thee,
And ev'ry tongue proclaim thy praise.
7. The glorious son agreed to this,
For well he loved the famous plan;
He left the heavenly hills of bliss,
And dy'd and rose for every man.

The whole collection contains one hundred and fifty hymns, and some twenty versified Psalms of David. They exhibit a large variety of doctrinal, argumentative, controversial and devotional matter,—often homely and commonplace, with poor rhythm and accent, yet nearly all containing more or less poetic flashes of genius. In estimating the merits and demerits of such a man's compositions, we must not try them by high literary and classical standards, but remember their rough and humble origin. As we have already stated, Silas Ballou was mainly self-educated under many disadvantages, and had little time amid manual pursuits to polish his productions. We propose to add a few brief specimens, extracted here and there from his hymns, and then several others from his miscellaneous effusions.

Glory to God who reigns on high;
 Salvation to the reigning Lamb,
 At whose command his angels fly,
 And everlasting peace proclaim.

The wilderness shall hear the voice;
 The needy they shall find repose;
 The desert lands shall leap for joy,
 And bud and blossom like the rose.

Hymn 12.

High on a throne forever crown'd
Jesus our constant lover reigns;
 His love extends the globe around,
 And everlastingly remains.

The raging seas may cease to roar;
 The earth and skies may all remove;
 The sun may set and rise no more;
 But Christ can never cease to love.

Hymn 13.

True faith it is a precious grace;
 Good God, it is a gift of thine;
 It serves to view thy lovely face,
 And to converse with things divine.

This is a faith that works by love;
 A faith that purifies the heart;
 It bids our slavish fears remove,
 And every doubtful thought depart.

Hymn 48.

See the proud Pharisees conspire,
 With zeal and selfish might;
 See how they labor, sweat and tire,
 To make one proselyte.

When they pronounce him finished well,
 Each part completely fair;
 He's twice as much the child of hell
 As his converters are.

They wash the outside white and clean,
 But never cleanse the heart;
 Nor yield him peace, nor love within;
 For that's beyond their art.

Ye shall be try'd by heav'nly fire,
 And ye must suffer loss;
 Yourselves be sav'd, your works expire,
 And ye be cleansed from dross.

Hymn 69.

'Tis God that brings the haughty low,
 He doth the proud abase;
 'Tis he that makes the sinner know
 The evil of his ways.

'Tis God that forms the mind anew,
 By his creating word;
 'Tis he that gives us eyes to view
 The mercies of the Lord.

'Tis God that draws our hearts along,
 With his inviting voice;
 'Tis he that makes the feeble strong,
 And mourners to rejoice.

Hymn 91.

FUGITIVE MISCELLANIES.

"History of the American Revolutionary War with Great Britain." This was printed and bears date "Richmond, N. H., 1815." It consists of twenty-one eight-line stanzas, written in an easy off-hand diction. The following are extracts.—

Old England, forty years ago,
 When we were young and slender,
 Conspired to give a mortal blow,
 But God was our defender;
 Jehovah saw her horrid plan—
 Great Washington he gave us—
 His holiness inspired the man
 With power and skill to save us.

She sent her fleets and armies o'er
 To ravage, kill and plunder;
 Our heroes met them on the shore.
 And beat them back with thunder.

Our independence they confessed,
And with their hands they signed it,
But on their hearts 'twas ne'er impressed—
For there I ne'er could find it.

And since that time they have been still
Our liberties invading,
We bore it, and forebore, until Forbearance was degrading:
Regardless of our sailor's right,
Impressed our native seamen,
Made them against their country fight,
And thus enslaved our freemen.

Great Madison besought the foe— |
He mildly did implore them—
To let the suffering captives go,
But he would not restore them.
Our commerce too they did invade,
Our ships they searched and seized,
Declaring also, we should trade
With none but whom they pleased.

He then goes over the leading historic achievements of the second war with England, and closes thus.—

“Now in ourselves we can confide,
Abroad we are respected,
We've checked the rage of British pride,
Their haughtiness corrected;
First to the God of boundless power
Be thanks and adoration,
Next Madison, the wondrous flower
And jewel of our nation.

Next Congress does our thanks demand,
To them our thanks we tender;
Our heroes next by sea and land,
To them our thanks we render.
Let us be just, in union live—
Then who will dare invade us?
If any should, our God will give His angels charge to aid us.”

He was no non-resistant, nor dissenting Federalist, but an uncompromising war-party Republican of that day. And such Yankee rhymes as these were hugely popular with the multitude of his burly compatriots.

PERRY'S VICTORY.

A WAR SONG—EXTRACTS.

This production comprises eleven stanzas, each of eight long lines having ten to twelve syllables. It is on the plane of heroic verse and spirit, with brag enough in it to suit the market. Our space permits the insertion of a minor portion.

Ye tars of Columbia, give ear to my story,
 Who fought with brave Perry where cannon did roar,
 Your valor has gained you an immortal glory—
 A fame that will last till time is no more.
 Columbia's tars are the true sons of Mars,
 They rake fore and aft when they fight on the deep.
 On the bed of Lake Erie, commanded by Perry,
 They caused many Britons to take their last sleep.

Then follows a tearing description of the battle—in measure, accent and rhyme not altogether faultless, but suited to the occasion, and to the taste of martial patriots, who can sing with equal rapture of brotherly love in theory and fraternal slaughter in practice!

The Lawrence sustained a most dreadful fire;
 She fought three to one for two glasses or more,
 While Perry undaunted did firmly stand by her,
 And the proud foes heavy broad-sides did pour;
 Her masts being shattered, her rigging all tattered,
 Her booms and her yards being all shot away.
 And few men on deck to manage the wreck,
 Our hero on board no longer could stay.

&c.

There's one gallant act of our noble commander
 While writing my song I must notice with pride;
 While launch'd in a boat that carried his standard,
 A ball whistled through her just close by his side;
 Says Perry—'Those villains intend for to drown us,
 But push on, my brave boys. you need never fear,'
 And then with his coat he plugged up the boat,
 Through sulphur and fire away he did steer.

His muse soon brings the bloody conflict to a crisis through the united bravery and skill of Perry and Elliot.

O had you but seen those noble commanders
 Embracing each other when the conflict was o'er,
 And viewing those invincible standards
 That never had yielded to any before!

Says Perry, 'brave Elliot, come give me your hand, Sir.
This day you have gained an immortal renown.
So long as Columbians Lake Erie command, Sir,
Let brave Captain Elliot with laurels be crowned.

Great Britain may boast of her conquering heroes—
Her Rodneys, her Nelsons and all their bold crews,
But Rome in her glory ne'er told such a story,
Nor boasted such feats as Columbians do:
The whole British fleet was captured complete—
Not one single vessel from us got away
And pris'ners some hundreds, Columbians wondered
To see them all anchored and moored in our bay.

We have room for only two more of a different kind.

A BALLAD.

Relating to a disconsolate friend's lamentable bereavement of his betrothed bride, whose name was Phebe —.

'Twas in the pleasant month of May,
About the dawning of the day,
I heard a young man say,
I've lost my dearest jewel !

Sweet Phebe was my true love's name,
Her beauty did my heart inflame,
Nor could I find so fair a dame,
To search the world all over.

I and my true love did agree,
That we would surely married be,
As soon as I return'd from sea,
And seal the solemn bargain.

But Oh ! when I return'd again,
Death had my sweet companion slain,
The pride and glory of the Plain—
In the cold grave mould'ring.

I am forsaken and forlorn,
I wish I never had been born !
O cruel, cruel, was the morn
That brought such woful tidings.

I am undone ! what shall I do ?
I'll range the earth and ocean through;
I'll dress in some forsaken hue,
And spend my days in mourning.

GAFFER GAY.

A HOMELY HINT FOR CHARITY.

Oh, what makes you shiver and shake, Gaffer Gay?
 And what makes your nose look so blue?
 'Oh, the weather is cold, and I've grown very old,
 And my doublet is not very new—well a day.'
 Then line thine old doublet with ale, Gaffer Gay,
 And cheer thine old heart with a glass;
 'Oh, of credit I've none, and my money's all gone;
 Then say how shall this come to pass—well a day?'

Then hie to the house on the hill, Gaffer Gay,
 Well fenc'd both in rear and in front;
 'Oh, he'll double his locks, and threaten the stocks,
 If a poor man approaches in want—well a day.'

The 'squire has fat beef and brown ale, Gaffer Gay,
 And the season will welcome you there;
 'Oh, his beef and his beer, and his merry good cheer,
 Are all for the young and the fair—well a day.'

My property's small, I confess, Gaffer Gay,
 But while it does last, man shall live;
 'Oh, it's the poor man alone who hears the poor moan,
 And a mite of his morsel will give—well a day.'

Many of these war-songs and ballads were adapted to familiar old tunes, and sung to great admiration, in social gatherings throughout the general region where the author was known.

Having used all the space allowable, and perhaps too much, I must refrain from further extracts. I have not given the foregoing samples for the Literati, and do not ask their pardon, but for the gratification of our common minded Ballous, and especially of those more or less nearly related to Silas, who approve of such a commemoration of his genius. He d. in Richmond, N. H., Feb. 10, 1837, a. all but 84 yrs. Mrs. Hannah, his widow, soon followed him. She d. May 27, 1837, a. 81 yrs. 3 mos. and 5 ds.

Russell Whipple, with whom, in his old age, Mr. Peck had much valuable correspondence relating to the Ballous of Richmond, N. H., and whose mother was Olive (Ballou) Whipple, already noticed, characterized his uncle Oziel thus.—“Uncle Oziel Ballou lived with his father till his father's death. He was always a home child, and liked home when a man. He was a farmer—had but little education—took delight in raising stock—was prudent, economical, and would see that every cent was saved. He was very anxious that his children should be well educated, and three of them were school teachers. He owned a large lot of landed property, and was worth considerable.”

We sought a great deal more biographical information concerning Tamasin and her husband than we obtained. The most we have learned is that she was the handsomest maiden in Richmond, rather small in stature, with sparkling black eyes, lively intellect, prepossessing manners, and had many admirers; that after marriage she often accompanied the Dr. on his visits among his patients, riding on horseback behind him in the old fashioned pillion style; always welcomed; that the Dr. himself soon rose from an humble beginning into reputable professional distinction in his general vicinage, established a comfortable home for himself and family, and made life a success. From the little that has been communicated to us, we cannot doubt that Dr. Swan, his wife and family deservedly held a prominent rank in society. He d. in Richmond Mar. 18, 1820, in his 79th yr. Mrs. Tamasin d. there Jan. 31, 1842, in her 83d yr.

James Ballou was a man of rare and peculiar abilities. He was uncommonly well educated, though chiefly by self-tuition, was a successful teacher of youth in early manhood, after marriage settled near his father on one of his gift-farms, in the southwest-erly section of Richmond, but later removed nearer the centre of the town, and engaged in merchandise. Russell Whipple, his nephew, in one of his letters to Mr. Peck, said.—“Uncle James Ballou was a man well educated, and a school-teacher for several years. He lived and died respected, and had not an enemy in the world. In regard to Fortune-telling, he had a peculiar gift from a child. He was what is termed clairvoyant. In some instances he astonished learned men by foretelling future events.” It was in this role of Fortune-teller that he won his chief distinction. How far his natural gift of clairvoyance extended, we have never been satisfactorily informed,—probably far enough to form the basis of his professional fame: for he was long the oracle of consultation to thousands scattered over an area of between fifty and one hundred miles in diameter; made up of romantic youth who longed to peer into their future marriage relations or worldly luck, and of older people who had lost property by thieves or some strange mishap, —in fine, of a multitude greedy from various causes for marvelous revelations. To his original faculties he added a considerable knowledge of Astrology from books, and indeed used to say to his confidential friends, that this science and its mathematical deductions were his most reliable resources in working out problems. He was well skilled in mathematics generally. Besides all this, he was a quick reader of human nature, and knew how to adapt himself readily to all sorts of people, characters and cases. He was at once a shrewd, genial and amiable man, and did not scruple to put in guess-work, mystification and cunning devices, when he could do so to advantage without harming his customers. Many of them were doubtless ignorant, credulous and superstitious. With such he played off appearances and some harmless tricks. He had his conjurer’s robe, wand and hieroglyphics, masks and hocus-pocus—astonishing some, amusing others, and striking the more susceptible with awful emotions. But being really benevolent and kind hearted, he was careful to wrong no one. Nor does he appear to have much enriched himself by his profession. He kept open doors for the entertainment of his clients from abroad—a sort of public house, with a stable for their horses, a bar of choice liquors, a good table for refreshment, and respectable lodgings; but was generally moderate in all his charges. He got his sobriquet of “Conjurer” among the multitude probably from his paraphernalia and mystical ceremonies; many supposing him to be a great master of the "Black Art," with power even to "raise and lay the Devil" at discretion; all which was mere parade and sham. He used to visit his Rhode Island cousins, of whom the writer's father was one, and to amuse their families with laughable stories of his professional exploits and experiences. The writer was then too young to have personal remembrance of him or his stories, but has often heard his mother repeat the substance of several. Among them are the following.—"One day," said the Astrologer, "a queer looking maiden lady rode into our open door-yard on a little dappled mare. On dismounting and delivering her pony for stable care, she told me she had come forty miles to consult the great Fortune-teller on an important matter; but that her stay must be short, and she must return as soon as possible. She therefore wished an immediate private consultation. I inferred from the urgency of her manner that some murder, robbery or theft had been committed at her home, or that some valuable article of property had been lost. On seating her in my reception room, she looked furtively around, and inquired if that was my most private apartment. I took her into one more retired and less exposed to intrusion or overhearing. And now came out, in an anxious, half-suppressed tone, her momentous errand. 'Shall I ever be married?' I concealed my astonishment, glanced inoffensively at her uncouth physiognomy, and felt that it was a hard case. For nature had knocked her forehead one way and her chin the other, set her blear eyes askew, twisted her sharp nose badly, and given her lank face a skin as brown as a dried shad. Well, what was to be done? I went through my customary formulas, and ciphered out her destiny as quickly as possible. I gave her as hopeful a forecast as the nature of the case permitted, and sent her off with the most comfortable assurances my ingenuity could deduce. I never heard from the fair maiden again." This was told with such sarcastic gravity, such lurking twinkles of fun, and such ineffable airs of drollery, that all present were convulsed with laughter.

But this was nothing to another, narrating one of his grim farces at "raising the Devil." Early one forenoon a large coach-load of dashing young fellows, mostly from Boston, arrived at the Astrologer's residence. They were ranging through the up country regions with their coach and four, to air themselves, discover rare sights, hunt up pleasure, and have a grand good time. They had heard marvellous things of Ballou, the famous conjurer, and come somewhat out of their way to test his prowess.

They were full of money, and ordered for themselves and horses the best fare that could be afforded. They were served accordingly. Their hair-brained mirth and dare-devil impudence taxed the patience and wit of their host rather severely; for they smashed furniture, hurled tumblers through windows, and were bent on a costly frolick—significantly slapping their pocket books, and giving the conjurer to understand that they should make good all damages. Meantime he was planning how to sober them before they left. The whole day, excepting those portions consumed in luscious refreshment, was spent in horoscopic evolutions and revelations, until, one by one, all had had their fortunes told. The sun was near its setting, bills were lavishly paid, and their coach horses harnessed for departure, when suddenly one of the company cried out, "There now, we have forgotten one thing we agreed on, which was to have Ballou raise the Devil. Damn it, we can't go till we have seen that." Whereupon all joined in a vociferous demand, "Mr. Ballou, you must raise the Devil for us before we leave." The Magician's countenance instantly assumed an aspect of frowning awe which cowered his roystering rowdies at once into civility. His hour had come for revenge. "Young gentlemen," said he, in a solemn tone, "you know not what you ask: it is an awful thing! You would not be able to endure the sight!" "O yes we can," responded several faltering voices. "Well then, will you conform to requisite conditions, be seated and not utter a word during my incantations?" They nodded assent. He tipped a sly wink to his brother Russell Ballou, who acted as his accomplice in such cases, seated his expectants in a semi-circle around the outside of the room, and arrayed himself in his magical attire, covered with divers wondrous hieroglyphies. Then with his stately white and black wand, fitted with chalk at one end and charcoal at the other, he drew a black and white circle several feet in diameter, on which were denoted the twelve signs of the zodiac. Then, with a most awful gravity, he touched sign after sign, and pronounced the incomprehensible jargon of his hocus-pocus. The latent superstition of his auditors was now fully aroused, and some of them were already pale. "The charm works," said he, "I shall succeed in a moment. You will presently hear his signal overhead, and note the strange sound of his cloven-foot, with uneven step descending the stairway. Prepare yourselves; and if his appearance should prove too horrible for endurance, some one of you call out for me to 'lay' him, and I will do it. I can do it only on your urgent demand." The arch fiend's signal was immediately heard, and the indescribable thump-a-thump of his cloven-hoof soon followed, to the evident terror of the now subdued metropolitans. His Satanic majesty was rigged in all the monstrous paraphernalia of a mighty goblin. Such a face, mouth, eyes, horns, &c., might have done honor to the nethermost infernals. He reached, with fearful tread, the lower entry, and the door creaked on its hinges. Slowly it opened, and Diabolus revealed his horrid form. They all recoiled with a shudder, and before he had fairly entered they had seen enough. All but one of the party seemed paralyzed, and he cried out aghast, "Lay him! Lay him!" No sooner said than done. The Magician waved his potent wand, and the spectre was gone. Mr. Ballou, who had given this story in his own graphic style, closed it thus.—"Those saucy fellows were thoroughly sobered. Not another impertinent word came out of their mouths. They begged to be allowed to remain with me and under my protection till morning. Their horses were unharnessed and re-stabled for the night. They were shown to their lodgings, and a stiller house for one night I never had. They rose with the sun next morning, paid their bills handsomely, and politely left me with all the deference due to one who had at his command the powers of darkness."

He had an inexhaustible fund of tales and anecdotes to repeat, was social and humorous, delighted to amuse his friends with his narrations, and would laugh them off in a certain refined way without noise, by shaking his partially corpulent sides, amid the general mirth of his auditors.

The most remarkable of his astrological predictions was that of his own death. We have it, on several concurrent and reliable testimonies, that he actually did this to the very day. On the morning of the predicted day he was in his usual health. His men were preparing the greensward of a certain field for plowing, by digging and dragging off several large stones. He shouldered his plowshare, after breakfast, and walked to a neighboring blacksmith shop to get it sharpened. The blacksmith was familiar with him, and also with the prediction of his death. He had hardly laid down the plowshare, with his request to have it sharpened, when his blacksmith friend said to him, "How is this, Mr. Ballou? I thought this was to be the day of your death." "So my repeated calculations uniformly resulted," answered the Astrologer. "They have proved correct in most cases. But I never felt better than to-day, and really hope I have made some mistake in my figurings." He went home with his sharpened plowshare, and out into the field where his diligent employees were hauling off stones. One heavier than the rest baffled their efforts to turn it over on to the drag. On the spur of the moment he joined in the hard lift to load it, but burst a blood-vessel, bled profusely, was conveyed to his bed, and died before night!

He had large views of God and human destiny, and had no fears of his disposal in the great hereafter. He did not live to be old, but ended his mortal career in the ripeness of middle age—having but just passed his 47th birthday. His last years seem to have been clouded with pecuniary adversity. He went into mercantile partnership with his cousin, Mr. James Cook, under the firm name of "Cook & Ballou," near Richmond centre. Trade was not in the line of his mission. They failed, not far from 1804. He did his utmost to settle honorably with his creditors, but could not overcome the entail of embarrassments. He d. Apl. 30, 1808, and his widow, who settled his estate, was able to pay only about 20 per ct. of the claims against the same. But no one breathed reproach, or aught but respect for his memory, and sympathy with his family. In 1810 the widow, with her five surviving chn., removed to Worcester, Otsego Co., N. Y., where they resided until the autumn of 1814. They then removed to Perry, Muskingum Co., Ohio, and settled. There Mrs. Mehetabel, the widowed wife and mother, d. Dec. 4, 1821. She is said to have been eminently worthy of her relationship to her departed husband.

One son named Russell d. in early infancy.

Russell Ballou^s, was a hale, industrious, energetic farmer. He first settled on a part of the tract originally purchased by his father, between the homesteads of his bros., Seth and Daniel, about half a mile southerly from the paternal residence. We understand him to have purchased a more eligible farm in Royalston, Mass., and to have removed thither not far from 1804. There he remained, a successful husbandman until some years after the decease of Mrs. Henrietta, his 1st wife, which took place June 8, 1827, a. 63 yrs. He m. 2d Mrs. Beebe Mellen of Swanzev, N. H., wid. of Joel Mellen; cer. Apl. 16, 1829, by Elijah Belding, J. P. His chn. were now all grown up and married. As his 2d wife had a considerable farm to be managed, he concluded to take up his abode with her and superintend the same. Meantime he seems to have partially arranged his affairs in relation to his children, and settled his son Luther on the Royalston estate. Russell and all his family sustained a highly respectable moral and social standing. He lived to a good old age, and was remarkably vigorous almost to the last. At fourscore he could put his foot in the stirrup and mount his horse for a ride with nearly the agility of early manhood. He d. in Swanzev, N. H., Nov. 10, 1847, aged 84 yrs. 3 mos. and 29 days. Aaron Ballou settled awhile on a farm near his father in Richmond, N. H., prob. a paternal gift wholly or in part. There all his chn. were b., as we have understood—though we are not quite certain about one or two of the youngest. As nearly as we can judge from certain documents, he sold out his homestead in the Spring of 1801, and removed to Grafton Co., N. H., to a town then called Concord, but afterwards Lisbon, its present name. He there engaged in merchandize for several years. The only characterization of Aaron that has reached us came from Russell Whipple, his nephew, to Mr. Peck, in 1873. He wrote briefly thus.—“Uncle Aaron Ballou was a lively, cheerful man, very well disposed." This scanty morsel indicates that much has gone down to oblivion which might have done honor to his memory. We will presume that both he and his wife deserved a reputable record. He d. in 1807. Mrs. Catherine afterward m. successively Henry Gale and John Bley. Her death-date is unknown to us.

Daniel Ballou had his homestead in the Ballou row of farms, Richmond, N. H., between those of his brothers James and Russell. There he and his family continued to dwell till after the birth of his youngest son. He then sold out, and in 1806 emigrated to Solon, now Truxton, Cortland Co., N. Y. But he had hardly settled on his new home there, when the death-angel summoned him to the world of spirits. He d. Dec. 1806, in the 39th year of his age,—leaving his wife and young chn. to bear their sorrows and burdens as best divine providence might order. Mrs. Mary survived her husband many years, and died with her son Dennis Ballou in Plymouth, Chenango Co., N. Y., Aug. 10, 1847, aged about 76 yrs. They are understood to have been worthy people. Russell Whipple said of him:—"Uncle Daniel was a stout, robust man. He delighted in hunting, and the bark of the hounds was music for him." Such are the different proclivities and tastes which distinguish members of the same family.

[223.] PRISCILLA BALLOU⁸, James¹, James², James³, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Jan. 3, 1772; m. Nathaniel Bullock of Royalston, Mass.; cer. in Richmond, N. H., Feb. 28, 1790. Issue, b. in said Royalston.—

- 975—2. Nathaniel Bullock, Jr., b. Feb. 24, '93; m. Lovina Ballou Nov. 10, 1815.

We have taken unsuccessful pains to master the desirable particulars of this family household. Several persons bearing the name Bullock were early emigrants from Rehoboth to Royalston, Mass., and m. wives there, and in Richmond, N. H., closely adjacent. There were afterward frequent marriages across the town lines, some of which were between Bullocks and Ballous, and persons of both these names inhabited the two towns. It seemed needlessly expensive to trace Nathaniel Bullock's pedigree exactly, and we gave it up. Priscilla Ballou⁷ was the youngest child of her parents. She was of a delicate constitution, amiable manners, and worthy character. The strain of wifehood and maternity soon terminated her earthly career, and she d. soon after the birth of Nathaniel, Jr., Mar. 10, 1793, a. 21 yrs. 2 mos. and 7 ds. The subsequent history of her husband has not been reported to us.

981—9. Silence Wilkinson, b. Apl. 28, 91; m. Solomon B. Judd.

Silence⁶ and her husband were of the yeomanry, and held reputable rank for intelligence, executive competency in the affairs of life, and general moral rectitude. He was a birthright Friend, but lost his membership by marrying out of the Society and refusing to acknowledge sorrow for it. Yet he always used plain dress and speech, and regularly attended Friends' meeting. They dwelt on the old paternal homestead in Smithfield, a short distance southwest from the now village of Manville. Mrs. Silence d. there Oct. 8, 1805, a. 55 yrs. 6 mos. and 6 ds. He d. Sept. 13, 1818.

[225.] PHEBE BALLOU¹⁰, Elisha¹, James², James³, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Jan. 19, 1752, O. S.; m. Col. George Peck of said

Cumberland, but then of the British Provinces, and later of Lubec, Me. This mge. was not altogether creditable to the parties, or agreeable to their respective family relatives; he having forsaken his former wife, and consummating this match clandestinely in foreign parts. We enter not into judgment, and only regret the occurrence. Issue.—

- 982—1. John Peck, b. not given; d. young.

- 992—5. Lemuel Smith, b. Mar. 2, '89.
- 993—6. Joanna Smith, b. .
- 994—7. Elisha Smith, b. —.

We have obtained but a poor showing of data in this family record, and see no prospect of further tracement. For aught reported to the contrary, Mrs. Joanna, her husband and family were worthy people, and deserve a better memorial than our information has enabled us to give them on these pages.

[228.] LYDIA BALLOU, next of this family, b. Feb. 14, 1757, and d. the same yr. She was followed by another of the same name.

[229.] LYDIA BALLOU, Elisha¹, James², James³, Maturin⁴; b. in Cumberland, R. I., July 7, 1758; m. Levi Lee, son of Joseph and Ruth Lee, b. in said Cumberland May 21, 1759; cer. May 4, 1783, by Jno. Dexter, J. P. Issue, b. in said Cumberland.—

- 1000—6. Mary Ann Lee, b. Mar. 18, '95; d. u. m. Apl. 30, 1853, a. 59 yrs.

A family of good social standing and moral reputation, concerning whom our information has been, as yet, too limited to enable us to give them a just and ample memorial. Our impression is that they left a very creditable life record. Mrs. Lydia^d d. Dec. 15, 1831, in her 74th yr. Levi Lee d. in the ripe old age of his 85th year, Mar. 22, 1844. It is remarkable that all the chn. of these worthy parents died unmarried, leaving their branch of descent extinct. But so it is, if no mistake has been made in our reported information.

[230.] JAMES BALLOU^o, Elisha^l, James^s, James^s, Maturin^l; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Dec. 11, 1760; d. in the promise of early manhood, without issue, Sept. 28, 1784. He was the only son of his parents, amid their flock of daughters. He inherited a portion of his decd. father's property, which he disposed of by a Will, to be found on the Probate records of Smithfield, R. I., B. 2, p. 235.

[231.] NANCY BALLOU^o, Elisha^l, James^s, James^s, Maturin^l; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Apl. 25, 1763; m. David Lapham of Smithfield, R. I., son of Thomas Lapham; cer. Apl. 26, 1789, by Jotham Carpenter, J. P. Unfortunately we have learned very little concerning this family. They had certainly one son, 1001:—1, Pardon Lapham, who became a physician, and was located in New York City many years ago. But the rest is all blank to us. And so we must leave it, unless new light breaks in upon us from some unexpected quarter.

1002—1. Sumner Ballou, b. Feb. 17, 1795; m. Celissa Cook, &c.

He grew up to be an intelligent, worthy, and respectable citizen of Mendon, Mass. His family record will appear in its proper place among his kindred of the next generation. Waity Ballou^o passed through many vicissitudes of human experience—many of them toilsome, sad and trying. She d. in Mendon, Mass., Oct. 23, 1839, a. 72 yrs. 9 mos. and 19 ds.

[233.] LUCY BALLOU^o, Elisha^l, James^s, James^s, Maturin^l; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Feb. 19, 1770. She lived many years with her widowed mother, Mrs. Hephzibah (Thayer) Ballou, in Mendon, Mass., and there d. Sept. 3, 1802, a. 32 yrs. 6 mos. and 15 ds. Her aged mother soon followed her to the world of spirits. She was the youngest of Elisha Ballou's chn., and we never heard anything to her discredit.

[234.] SAMUEL COOK', son of William (Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), and Priscilla Ballou', James', James', Maturin'; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Nov. 12, 1755. We have been unable to find any trace of this person, and suppose he must have d. young, perhaps in Bellingham, before his parents emigrated to Richmond, N. H.

[235.] SUSANNAH COOK', second child of William and Priscilla (Ballou) Cook; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Nov. 30, 1756. We must say the same as of her brother Samuel.

[236.] SYLVANUS COOK', (William, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Priscilla Ballou', James', James', Maturin'; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Sept. 5, 1758; m. Elizabeth Barney of Richmond, N. H., or the near vicinity, dr. of David Barney; cer. Jan. 3, 1782. Issue, b. in said Richmond.—

- 1003—1. Susanna Cook, b. not found.
- 1004—2. Elizabeth Cook, b. “
- 1005—3. William Cook, b. “
- 1006—4. Ezekiel Cook, b. “
- 1007—5. Lydia Cook, b. Feb. 22, 1789.

We are obliged to leave this skeleton record as above presented. All attempts to trace this family have failed. The parents removed with their chn. (it is said) to Wallingford, Vt., or the near vicinity. We wrote to the Postmasters and sundry other persons in Wallingford and So. Wallingford, among them to a Mr. Z. T. Cook of the latter town, who was referred to as able to post us on the Cooks, but all in vain. So this line of descent is closed.

[237.] JAMES COOK', (William, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Priscilla Ballou', James', James', Maturin'; b. in Bellingham, Mass., June 7, 1760; m. 1st Elizabeth Ingalls of Richmond, N. H., dr. of Henry Ingalls, Esq.; cer. Oct. 15, 1780. Issue, b. in said Richmond.—

- 1008—1. Lucy Cook, } b. July 17, 1784; d. Apl. 19, 1799.
- 1009—2. Samuel Cook, } twins, b. “ “ ; d. July 17, 1784.
- 1010—3. James Cook, b. Apl. 14, 1788; d. Jan. 6, 1796.

- 1011—4. Elizabeth Cook, b. Aug. 22, 1791; d. Aug. 23, 1794.
- 1012—5. Polly Cook, b. Oct. 11, '93; d. Aug. 25, 1794.
- 1013—6. Lucretia Cook, b. Jan. 23, 1795; unreported.
- 1014—7. Sibyl Cook, b. June 11, '97; unreported.

Mrs. Elizabeth (Ingalls) Cook d. July 18, 1800. The same year Nov. 2d James^m m. 2d Waitstill Fuller (other particulars not given.) Issue in said Richmond.—

- 1015— 8. Sylvanus Cook, b. May 20, 1801; unreported.
- 1016— 9. Elizabeth Cook, b. Aug. 13, '02; unreported.
- 1017—10. James Cook, b. Jan. 8, '04; unreported.

James Cook^a is said to have removed from Richmond, N. H., and settled in Wallingford, Vt., during the year 1805. There we have lost all trace of him and of his posterity. As already indicated, respecting his brother Sylvanus and descendants, Wallingford has proved hard genealogical hunting ground; and if there are any Cooks extant there, they are not ambitious to be caught in our traps. Let some expert Cook genealogist look after them.

[238.] CATHERINE COOK^a, fifth child of William and Priscilla (Ballou) Cook, has proved untraceable, prob. d. young, and is remanded to the same category with her bro. Samuel and sister Susanna.

- 1018—1. William Harris, b. Aug. 3, 1791.
- 1019—2. Lucretia Harris, b. Feb. 1, '94.

Nothing further ascertained except that the family removed to the State of Vt. No further traced.

[240.] LUCRETIA COOK^a, (William, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Priscilla Ballou¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Apl. 17, 1767; m. Esek Buffum of Richmond, N. H., date and other particulars not given. Issue, all b. in said Richmond.—

- 1020—1. Lovina Buffum, b. Nov. 29, 1786; m. Jonathan Rawson, Esq.
- 1021—2. James Buffum, b. Nov. 7, '88; m. Caroline Cook.
- 1022—3. Sarah Buffum, b. May 13, '91; m. Nathaniel Whipple.
- 1023—4. Priscilla Buffum, b. Aug. 2, '93; m. Silas Buffum.
- 1024—5. Betsey Buffum, b. May 9, 1802; m. Benjamin Crocker, Jr.
- 1025—6. Lucretia Buffum, b. Aug. 5, '04; m. Amos Bennett.

Esek Buffum was the son of the Buffum from Smithfield, R. I., one of the conspicuous early settlers of Richmond, whose homestead was on the height of land north of the 4 Corners toward Swanzy. The Buffums were of good repute. Mrs. Lucretia (Cook) Buffum was so remarkable for her intellectual and moral qualities as to be eminently honored by all who knew her. She d. Oct. 9, 1855, in her 89th yr. Her husband d. long before her, Dec. 31, 1831, a. 69 yrs.

[240½.] WILLIAM COOK, JR., (William, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Priscilla Ballou', b. in Bellingham, Mass., Mar. 11, 1770; m. Eunice Mann about 1790. So much from her gt. niece, Mrs. Emily B. Bigelow of Keene, N. H.; and only this more,—that Miss Eunice, the bride "was married in a calico gown that cost her $1 per yard; to pay for which she worked 12 weeks at 50 cts. per week." Also that they moved themselves and goods on board an ox-team to an unrecollected place in "the Holland Purchase," then so called in N. Y. No further traced.

[241.] NICHOLAS COOK', (William, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Priscilla Ballou', James', James', Maturin'; b. perhaps in Richmond, N. H., Aug. 16, 1772; m. and settled in Wallingford, Vt. We can hardly expect to trace him further. The Cooks of that region are either unreachable or uncommunicative.

[241½.] ELIZABETH COOK', more familiarly called Betsey, (William, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Priscilla Ballou', James', James', Maturin'; b. in Richmond, N. H., May 18, 1775; m. Erastus Olmstead, and settled in Middlebury, Vt. No further traced.

[242.] DR. DAVID BROWN' (Stephen, Joseph, John, John), Ruth Ballou', Nathaniel', James', Maturin'; b. on territory that soon afterward was included in Cumberland, R. I., June 16, 1741; m. Sarah Peck, dr. of Daniel Peck', b. in said Cumberland Feb. 27, 1748; cer. Apl. 28, 1765, by Elder Nathaniel Cook. Issue, b. in said Cumberland.—

1026—1. Cynthia Brown, b. Sept. 22, 1766.

1027—2. James Brown, b. Nov. 2, '68.

1028—3. Abigail Brown, b. July 25, '70.

1029—4. David Brown, b. Dec. 3, '72.

Our history of this family is extremely meagre. Our assistant researcher, Fred. M. Ballou, Esq., says he made many fruitless inquiries about them, and only learned indirectly, that after the birth of the above named chn. Dr. Brown removed to Philadelphia, Pa., where he went into successful practice, acquired wealth, and won for himself and family high social standing. We must therefore forego the many interesting biographical particulars it would be pleasing to narrate, and dismiss further tracement.

[243.] ABIGAIL BROWN⁵ (Stephen, Joseph, John, John), Ruth Ballou¹, Nathaniel², James³, Maturin⁴; b. on territory soon afterward included in Cumberland, R. I., Feb. 20, 1743; m. Sylvanus Bucklin of Smithfield, R. I.; cer. in Cumberland Feb. 27, 1763, by Eld. Nathaniel Cook. We have been furnished with no further information concerning this couple, except that Mr. Bucklin d. in Cumberland Mar. 13, 1816, in his 77th yr. Not very satisfactory to our inquisitiveness, or genealogical ambition.

[244.] EPHRAIM BROWN⁶ (Stephen, Joseph, John, John), Ruth Ballou¹, Nathaniel², James³, Maturin⁴; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Sept. 2, 1744; m. Alice Whipple, dr. of Daniel and Anna (Samuel, John), b. Mar. 26, 1740; cer. in said Cumberland July 7, 1765, by Eld. Nathaniel Cook. Issue.—

Stephen Brown, Jr., and family ranked reputably in the farmer class of Cumberland, R. I. If we mistake not, their homestead was located in the neighborhood of Sneech Pond, so called. He d. Elihu Brown^t and wife dwelt on an eligible homestead about a mile from Cumberland Hill, on the road towards Providence. They were respectable people of the farmer class, and reared a family of worthy and enterprising chn., mostly sons. They scattered themselves widely over the United States, as mechanics and business managers, winning responsible positions, and discharging their duties with creditable success. The old homestead was long ago purchased by the town, and occupied as an asylum for its poor. Mrs. Sarah, the wife and mother, d. Feb. 12, 1824, and we remember to have ministered at her funeral. Her age was 72 yrs. 11 mos. and 15 ds. Elihu d. Feb. 29, 1832, a. nearly 82 yrs.

Mrs. Jane (Pickering) Ballou d. in Uxbridge, buried Chestnut Hill, date not ascertained. After her loss, Nathaniel^c went back to Peru, Mass., worked at shoemaking, saved up $100, drew a pension of $30 per annum for services in the Revolutionary war, was welcomed, on his urgent request, to a good home with his nephew, Dea. David Ballou, enjoyed a comfortable old age, and finally d. there July 17, 1838, in his 88th yr.

Elias^a settled, lived and d. in Partridgefield, afterward Peru, Mass. His wife was the oldest of 14 chn. They were very worthy people of the farmer yeomanry, and we believe devoted Baptists. Elias^a prospered in temporal acquisitions, and owned 600 acres of land; donating^t 150 acres to each of his three chn. at the dates of their respective marriages. They had several chn., of whose names only the following have reached us, viz., Lucy, Hepsie, Hannah, Lydia and Donner. We have made much fruitless research to trace this family, and must abandon it. Mrs. Dorcas (Ballou) Gilbert^a is said to have d. in 1805. This descent closed.

We remember Absalom⁹ as a man of large, portly, solid stature, a substantial citizen of his native town, a respectable innholder of the old anti-tee-total type, and sustaining a reputable standing in community. His wives and children ranked well, and some of them won high social esteem for intellectual and moral worth. Absalom settled on the Providence road, about three miles below

Cumberland Hill. There he built his first domicile, which he occupied till 1799. He then erected, on the west side of the road, a large two-story dwelling house, long known as his tavern-stand, in which he officiated many years as landlord to the general satisfaction of the public. He d. Jan. 4, 1837, a. 84 yrs. 8 mos. 19 ds. Mrs. Anna, his widow, d. Nov. 1, 1850, a. about 77 yrs. The writer ministered at her funeral.

Silas Metcalf, by his first wife, was the father of Lewis Metcalf and Dr. Paul Metcalf, all of respectable rank in society. Some doubts have been expressed whether Betsey above named was a child of the 1st or 2d wife, but we cannot go behind the record, and therefore credit her to the 2d. Mrs. Mercy (Ballou) Metcalf left a fragrant remembrance, as a most worthy and excellent woman. Silas Metcalf d. July 4, 1822. Mrs. Mercy d. Apl. 20, 1835, a. 80 yrs. 10 mos. and 15 ds.

David Ballou^s was a man of dash and enterprise, but seemingly fated to adversity. He learned the trade of a ship carpenter, and fell back upon it for a livelihood whenever he failed in more promising undertakings. He rendered considerable service in the Revolutionary war, but just how much we have not ascertained.

Probably he never rose above a private or minor subaltern officer. He knew nothing of fear, and was sometimes reckless of exposure. Tradition reports that on a certain occasion, when a soldier in a fort, and it was partially invested or perhaps merely reconnoitred by a British detachment, he mounted a conspicuous part of the ramparts without leave, just to see how the British manoeuvred. His commanding officer promptly punished his disorderly temerity by ordering him to take a horse and ride three times around the fort in face of the enemy, who were within distant gun shot. He obeyed in a dare-devil style; though the English at sight of him let fly several discharges of musketry. The whistling bullets neither scared nor hit him. But he used to say afterward, in telling the story, that he heartily wished they had killed the commander's horse. Toward the close of the war and later, David went into the West India trade, opened a store in Pawtucket, and was sole or at least part owner of several vessels engaged in that trade. This was lucrative when successful, but beset with hazardous risks. The upshot with him was final disaster. He had accumulated considerable property, including several parcels of real estate in No. Providence, as the records of Deeds show. But all was swept away by successive adversities. In 1785, among other calamities, his house was struck by lightning, and his wife so injured by the bolt that she was bed-ridden for fifteen years. As nearly as we can learn, she d. sometime during the year 1800. Meanwhile his two youngest chn. and eldest dr. had died. All this nearly broke him down. He provided homes for his surviving chn. as well as he could, and betook himself to ship-carpentering in the city of New York. There he remained most of his time for many years. If he was ever married again, it has not come to our knowledge. His son William, who had been cared for by the famous Madam Jumel, grew up to influential maturity in that city, and may have done something for his father's comfortable domiciliation. Be this as it may have been, David passed on through various experiences till in 1832 we find him with his eldest son, Martin Ballou, in Union Co., Ohio. How long he resided with Martin we have not been told—perhaps only a few months. At length in the spring or early summer of 1832, he set his face toward New England for a visit among the relatives of his native vicinage. He was now in his 77th yr. Just then the great cholera panic broke out, and the American people were terribly frightened, but not this old veteran. He pushed on through thick and thin, arrived at New York, and thence embarked for Providence,

R. I. On board the steamboat he was suddenly attacked by nausea and diarrhoea, though not violently. But all about him were at once alarmed, and shrank from giving him personal assistance. He was thrust into extreme quarters, landed on the wharf at Providence only to be shunned and neglected for hours in a hot July sun. At length, at a costly price, he obtained conveyance on the top of a stage coach out to his brother Oliver Ballou's in his native Cumberland. Terror seized the family on his being laid down at their door. They dared not take him into house and bed and nursing care, as the suffering patient needed; but, in fear for their own lives, got him provided for, as well as could be done, in an out-house. There he d. July 11, 1832. Dr. Ariel Ballou, (one of the publishing proprietors of this volume), who had been sent for, reached the scene soon after death, examined the case, and confidently pronounced it no Asiatic Cholera at all, but only one of ordinary cholera morbus, and death to have ensued from sheer exhaustion, through want of proper attention. It was a sad culmination of seemingly strange and unaccountable misfortune, if so one ought to speak who firmly believes in God's all-loving and wise providence. The writer ministered funeral services over his remains. His time-worn broad-axe, hand-saw, &c., are reverently preserved by his great grand chn. in Milford, O.

Noah, his wives and chn., earned a good reputation, and their memory is deservedly honored. He was a tough constitutioned man, and executed a vast amount of hard work during his mortal career. He had an ample stock of strong common sense, aspiring enterprise, and a good mechanical genius. At the age of sixteen, just after the battle of Bunker Hill, he had an opportunity to show his pluck and generosity. His oldest brother, Absalom, had enlisted for six months in the Continental army, but became too ill for duty, and sent home for some one to take his place. The parents proposed that their next oldest son, David, should go; but David demurred. Thereupon Noah spoke up bravely, "If David won't go, I will." His mother gave him the best outfit she could, filled his wallet with bread and cheese, and off he trudged on foot all the way to Boston, though an utter stranger to the route, and to a martial camp. He reached the army at Cambridge in good time, relieved Absalom to the acceptance of the officers, and served out the six months enlistment. Afterward, having got his hand in, he served through several short campaigns, and rose to be sergeant, with Gen. Greene's marked approbation. At the close of the war, when his brother David embarked in the West India trade, and sent out several vessels, partly built and owned by himself, Noah became an adventurer in seafaring life; during which he had several narrow escapes from hostile cruisers and fearful storms. But he took a strong liking to the sailor's romantic calling, and became quite intent on adopting it permanently, yet was dissuaded from it by the earnest advice of his eldest sister Mercy; he having already planned to study Navigation, and qualify himself to command a ship. As the next best thing, he concluded to marry, get him a snug home, and set up boat building in his native locality. And this he did successfully, being somewhat skilled in the ship-carpenter's trade. He bought a small farm, with an old house and work-shop on it, of one John Fisk in his father's neighborhood, and by purchase or paternal gift added some 35 acres out of his father's homestead. So, altogether, he secured to himself a respectable farm. He was the first boat-builder in his native town, which later had several. He prospered and in the course of a few years superseded his old domicile with what was then deemed a fine two-story mansion. Meantime he indulged his military ambition, on a humble rural scale, joining what was a soldierly organization of Revolutionaries styled "The Senior Class." In the Regiment to which he belonged he rose from Ensign to Major, receiving successive commissions, grade after grade, from the then Governor, Arthur Fenner. So he wore in maturer life the title of Major; which commanded in those days more honor than in these; i. e. in the ordinary militia sphere. Major Noah at length descended into the vale of old age, retired from business, sold out his homestead to his prosperous brother Oliver, and toward the close of life went to live with his youngest son, Thurston Ballou, in Franklin, Mass. There he and his wife both died the same year; she Sept. 12, 1843, a. about 80 yrs.; and he on the 20th of December following, a. 84 yrs. 4 mos. and 22 ds.

1118—4. Ira B. Peck, b. in Wrentham, Mass., Feb. 12, 1805; m. Mary Blackington.

The youngest son of this family says, in his admirable Peck Genealogy of his parents, that his father "at first settled in Cumberland, R. I. From there he removed to Westminster, Vt., where he became one of the leading men of the town. He remained in Westminster until about 1802, when he returned and settled upon the paternal homestead, in Wrentham, Mass., where he lived and died, honored and respected, both in his public and private life. He was one of the kindest of husbands and most indulgent of parents. Although possessed of more than usual energy and decision of character, he was always kind and courteous in all his relations of life."

Then of Mrs. Abigail (Ballou's) his mother,—“She was one of the best of women, the most affectionate of wives, and the kindest of mothers. She died June 6, 1846, in the eighty-fifth year of her age.” Her husband d. Sept. 20, 1849, in the 91st yr. of his age.

There is said to have been a dr. Nancy, who d. a. 13 years (later ascertained).

Oliver Ballou and wife were excellent people. He was endowed with good native common sense, judgment and prudence. He was sedate and circumspect in his general deportment, yet at the same time enterprising and executive in business matters. He was a house carpenter by trade, and for his day an extensive builder by contract. He executed much building for the Slaters in Pawtucket and Slaterville, R. I., and often employed numerous journeymen. In early life he lived with and cared for his aged parents—inheriting the paternal homestead. For about a year after marriage he dwelt in the old domicile with his father, and then built him a new dwelling house a short distance southward. That was his home till some years after his father and step-mother had passed away. But it was rather too secluded a neighborhood to suit his taste, and in 1815 he swapped it with Mr. Welcome Weatherhead for a more eligible homestead, situated on the Providence road, about a mile southeast of Cumberland Hill. There his wife and himself spent their remaining days. He was a man to keep up with the advancing progress of the times, but at a cautious pace. About the time he exchanged farms with Weatherhead, or certainly not long after, he united with his son Dexter in commencing the manufacture of cotton yarn. Their establishment was indeed a small concern. It was a puny mill on a puny stream a very short distance northwest of the Absalom Ballou tavern. But it became the mother of the stately enterprise which Dexter afterward developed at Woonsocket Falls, to which locality the original machinery was opportunely removed in the year 1817. Oliver was sagacious, and moved safely forward on a plane of prosperity, with few reverses, to a respectable competency of wealth. He was an intelligent thinker on religious as well as many other subjects, and embraced the faith, hope and charity included in the doctrine of the final triumph of good over all evil. Ziba and Molly were a prolific pair, and must have had a very busy life to care for so many chn. Imagination cannot paint the strugglesome experiences through which they passed. But their strength was equal to their day. Ziba was a resolute, industrious, executive man. And Molly, who began married life when scarcely seventeen, was always amiable, patient, and hopeful. It used to be laughingly told that Ziba once started with a heavily loaded team, in company with neighboring teamsters, for Pawtucket, or perhaps Providence, broke an axletree three miles on his way, rode home on one of his horses, wrought a new axle from a piece of timber on hand, rode back with it on his shoulder, replaced the broken one, and reached the place of destination about as soon as his compeers. Probably he was not nice about the finish of his new axle, and possibly his neighbors did not hurry their teams much. Neither he nor his wife had any time, if they had the inclination, to expend on niceties. They put things through, indoors and out, with very little polishing, and lost no flesh by fretting. His father gave him and his brother Eliel a snug farm from the old homestead, comprising its northeasterly section. Ziba bought out Eliel, and built a cosy domicile on the premises. But after a while he craved a more populous neighborhood, sold out his place to his wife's brother, Chad Mason, and moved to Cumberland Hill. His primitive farm has long been known as the Chad Mason place. On the Hill, he first bought out Abner Lapham's premises, at the junction of the old Furnace road with the great road to Providence, near the Cook tavern. Afterward he purchased other premises in the vicinity, built and sold out as opportunity tempted him, till finally, in 1819, he erected the respectable two-story dwelling house, wherein he last lived down to his death. Eliel was a muscular, wiry, hard working, executive man, largely engaged on heavy jobs of stone structure. He was an enterprising contractor for constructing wharves, factory canals, wells and walls; in which he was probably more profitable and useful to others than self-enriching. He had a good reputation for honest worth, as well as skill in his avocation. He seems to have sold out to Ziba his interest in the patrimonial acres given them by their father soon after acquiring it, and to have removed with his young wife to Vermont. For, as seen above, his eldest son was b. in Putney, and then a dr. in Westminster, Vt. Whether he was a land owner there or any where else, after selling out to Ziba, we are not informed. Perhaps not, as he often changed his residence in accommodation to his business. He seems to have dwelt in several localities at different periods of his life. He d. Sept. 28, 1841; his wife, Oct. 6, 1846. But where we have not been told. Indeed, we have not been as well posted in the biography of him, his wife and family as we desired. Some time after having closed this notice of Eliel, as we supposed, it was our good fortune to receive from one of his highly intelligent grand drs., Maria Louise Pitts, M. D., the following interesting Revolutionary legend, handed down through her mother, Mrs. Mary Ann (Ballou) Pitts, some years dead. Miss Dr. Pitts wrote us essentially as follows.—

“Has any one given you this about my grandfather Ballou? When his father and six brothers served in the Colonial army of the Revolution, he (Eliel) was left at home, at the age of 13 years, to care for affairs; and being the oldest boy of the neighborhood, was charged with managing the famous beacon pole signal, on the adjacent high land [called to this day ‘Beacon Pole Hill’], which had been previously manipulated by his father, Noah Ballou. [The pole is said to have been some 70 feet high, with a large tar kettle suspended near the top.] The army was at Newport, R. I., hovering near the British troops. One night signals came that the Colonial soldiers were in great want of food. Eliel lit the beacon, and aroused all the women of the vicinage, who set themselves at once to cooking all available provisions. At day-break a stout ox team was heavily loaded with food. The boy of 13 commanded the team, drove it to Providence, where he had never been before, receiving along his route many accessions to his stock, till finally he crossed Bristol Ferry, and was welcomed by the relieved soldiers with shouts of joy. My mother was very proud of this achievement, and I have heard her repeat the story many times. She said that when her father occasionally talked about it, he used to say, ‘I think I deserved a pension as much as my father and six brothers, each of whom received one.''' As to the exact facts and details of this legend, we have no knowledge, but give it as received.

[269.] AMARIAH BALLOU³, Noah⁴, Nathaniel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Feb. 14, 1771; m. Jane Lothridge of Pelham, Mass.,—ptge., birth-date and kindred particulars not ascertained; cer. in said Pelham, Dec. 9, 1794, by Winthrop Bailey, his official title not given. They had 6 chn. besides several that d. in early infancy. Only a broken and imperfect family record reaches us. Their changes of residence render it uncertain where these 6 chn. were b. Four of them were prob. b. in Pelham, Mass., or some of its neighboring towns—one or more in South Hadley, it is said. The youngest two were b. in Ebensburg, Cambria Co., Pa.—

Amariah was a house carpenter, and seems to have wandered away from his native place, prob. in pursuit of better fortune, but experienced sad misfortune, especially at the end of his career. Having married in Pelham, Mass., and pursued his calling for several yrs. in the towns of that general vicinity, he removed with his family, in 1815, to Ebensburg, Cambria Co., Pa., and settled on a homestead—still following his carpenter's trade as opportunity offered inducement. Meantime three of his chn. m. and began to raise families. But his second son, Levi, in 1832, set out to make a visit to R. I. &c., via New Orleans, d. of cholera while going down the Mississippi, and left no trace of particulars. Next, in 1840, his son Nelson was fatally injured, or killed outright, by rolling logs near Portage R. Rd. depot. He left a young widow and two chn. His widow d. a yr. later, and the two orphans were taken home by their grand parents to live with them. Next and finally, their dwelling house took fire one night, in 1843, when Amariah, his wife Jane, and the two orphan grand chn., all perished in the flames—Silas barely escaping with his life. Nearly all the household goods, including the family Bible and its record, were consumed. Thus closed the mortal lives of Amariah Ballou and his wife; he being in his 73d yr., and she about 69.

Simon Pickering^c, we presume, lived and d. on the patrimonial homestead in South Bellingham, on the old Rehoboth Road, half a mile northerly from the "Crook's place," so called. He is understood to have inherited it from his father. Little has been told us of his characteristics; but both he and his wife sprung from a worthy stock of useful common people, and did not dishonor their parentage. They must have had their hearts and hands full of responsibility with so large a family. Simon^c was killed, by being thrown from his horse, in the month of January, 1810. He spoke not a word, and d. almost instantly. Mrs. Rhoda survived him long enough to see the youngest of their chn. married and raising up another generation. She d. Capt. Jesse was an active man of more than ordinary intelligence, in a community of farmers, a citizen of influence and a captain of militia. He accepted the doctrine of universal salvation under the preaching of Rev. Hosea Ballou, and his arguments and persuasive eloquence were the means of making many converts in that locality. He was a man of large benevolence and unbounded charity, giving freely of his substance. In addition to his large family, he adopted three children of his friend Abigail Cook (daughter of Daniel), viz.—

84th yr.: perhaps a better woman than some of better fame and fortune. The most high Father judgeth all justly.

Levi Ballou, Esq., and his wife were an intelligent, upright, exemplary connubial pair. They were eminent in the front social rank of their community, and reared up their large family with credit to themselves, respectability to their chm., and treasurely profit to society. He was conspicuous in his vicinage as a Revolutionary patriot, shared largely in town offices of honor and responsibility, was long a popular Justice of the Peace, frequently represented his fellow citizens in the General Assembly of the State, and was a much trusted counsellor in the affairs of his neighborhood. His wife "opened her mouth with wisdom, and in her tongue was the law of kindness." So "her chm. rose up and called her blessed." He d. July 13, 1805. The PHOENIX, a Providence newspaper of those days, briefly noticed his decease thus:—"Died in Cumberland, on Monday last, Levi Ballou, Esq., one of the Representatives of that town in the General Assembly. He was an industrious and upright man, and merited the approbation and esteem of all good citizens in his private and public life." We may add that he departed in the firm assurance of final universal blessedness for the whole human race. He passed away in his 61st yr. His worthy wid. survived him over 20 yrs. She d. Oct. 28, 1826, in her 81st yr. We recollect well ministering at her funeral in the ancient Ballou Meetinghouse. So her ashes repose by the side of her husband's in the old Burial Ground of the Cumberland Ballous.

Without any specific testimony, we infer that Amey Ballou^s and her husband were very worthy people. From the fact that we find a portion of their family record in the Friends' Registry of Smithfield, R. I., they may be presumed to have been members of that Christian denomination, or at least regular attendants of its meetings. And bad people are not apt to be attracted to such society. Benjamin Gaskill was a descendant, perhaps great grandson, of that Samuel Gaskill who was persecuted in Salem, Mass., in the days of yore, for his Quaker attachments. It would seem that Benjamin and Amey (Ballou) Gaskill lived alternately in Smithfield, R. I., and Uxbridge, Mass.; just where we have not been told, probably on homesteads not far apart. Some of their chn., we see, were b. in one of these towns, and some in the other. They d. in Uxbridge, she Jan 16, 1817; and he Apl. 22, 1818.

Mrs. Chloe (Comstock) Ballou is said to have d. in 1782; but the precise date has not been given us. Reuben^s m. 2d Freelove Whipple of Providence, dr. of Capt. John Whipple of Cumberland, R. Reuben Ballou^s is said to have been a handsome, portly man of intelligent mind and prepossessing address. He went early into the Continental army, and was commissioned a captain soon after the battle of Bunker Hill. Later he became Major, but whether of the Revolutionary troops, or of the militia, we do not clearly understand, though probably of the former. He had acquired the bearing and suavity of a military gentleman, and was at home in circles of that class. He was an enterprising business man as a meat provisionist and general trader. But like too many favorites of nature his warm passions gradually betrayed him into damaging habits of fast living. These habits seemed to culminate on the death of his first wife, and somewhat soiled the fair mantle of public estimation he had won, though they did not divest him of all the generous qualities which characterized his manhood. Meantime he was attracted and ardently attached to the woman who became his 2d wife, Freelove Whipple. She was a stately, handsome, capable and captivating woman—a princess in her social sphere—the counterpart of Major Reuben. They were mutually charmed with each other, and became one. He was Capt. in Col. John Cook's regiment of infantry in Dec. 1776, Capt. in Col. Archibald Crary's regiment in 1777, Capt. of Cumberland Alarm Co. in 1779, and Major of Regiment of Militia, Senior Class, in County of Providence, in 1781, 1782 and 1783. He sustained his reputation as an officer through the war, and took part in all the engagements of his regiment. He was afterward engaged in the business of marketing, butchering and general trade in the town of Providence, which he continued till his death, Sept. 19, 1803, in his 56th year. His widow d. Oct. 22, 1823, in her 65th year. Both died in Providence and were buried in the Ballou Cemetery of Cumberland, R. I.

[291.] CAPT. ASA BALLOU^a, Ezekiel¹, Obadiah², James³, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 2, 1750; m. Phoebe Comstock of Smithfield, R. I., dr. of Joseph Comstock, and sister of Reuben's wife, birth-date not ascertained; cer. Sept. 8, 1769, by Stephen Arnold, J. P. Issue.—

- 1241—7. Joanna, b. " " ; m. Job Seamans.

It has been difficult to find the pathway of Capt. Asa Ballou's life-career; but we feel warranted in stating that he was a captain in the Revolutionary War; that soon after the Peace of 1783 he removed from the neighborhood of his nativity to North Providence, R. I., and thence in 1786 or '87 to Foster, R. I., where he became a large trading landholder; and that there he d. Jan. 16, 1807, a. 56 yrs. 10 mos. and 14 ds. He made his Will just before his death, providing for the settlement of his estate by his wife as executrix. She d. there sometime during the year 1825, and her estate was settled by Gideon Burgess, admr. It seems rather strange that so little information has come down to us concerning Capt. Asa and wife, but we must be content with what has.

[292.] MARY BALLOU^a, next b. of this family, d. in infancy.

[293.] ANNA BALLOU^a, Ezekiel¹, Obadiah², James³, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 1, 1756; m. Elijah Brown (Stephen, Sen., Joseph, John, John), b. in said Cumberland Mar. 1, 1756; cer. May 29, 1774, by Eld. Abner Ballou. Already given. See back No. [247].

[294.] JOANNA BALLOU^a, Ezekiel¹, Obadiah², James³, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Sept. 27, 1759; m. Oliver Carpenter (Jotham, Jotham, Benjamin, William, William), b. in said Cumberland Nov. 15, 1753; cer. May 14, 1775, by Eld. Abner Ballou. For some reason the record of the family differs from that of the town, in respect to the date of the marriage; giving it as Jan. 1, 1775, instead of May 14. We meet with many such discrepancies. Issue, understood to have been b. in Mendon, Mass., or certainly most of them.—

No biographical materials at our command enable us to give the characteristics or experiences of Joanna⁶ and her husband; but reliable traditional fame testifies to their eminent moral, social and domestic worth. We understand that their homestead was the one now known as the Nathan Aldrich place, a mile or more southerly from Mendon Town, on the old Rehoboth road. Thence they removed, about 1804, to Nassau, N. Y. There they d.; she Nov. 22, 1832, a. 73 yrs. 1 mo. 27 ds.; he July 13, 1845, a. 91 yrs. 7 mos. 29 ds.

We can say little of these parents, either from records, documents or traditionary report. The stock from which they sprang was respectable, and we do not doubt they proved themselves worthy of their ancestry. And to rear so large a family must have required good stamina, much responsibility and many trying vigils. Whether we can afford the pains and expense of tracing their descendants further down the stream of time, we doubt. It remains to be seen.

[296.] DAVID NEWELL⁷, Elisha, Jacob, Jacob, Abraham), Susanna Ballou¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. on territory soon after included in Cumberland, R. I., June 20, 1742; m. Susanna Cook (Daniel, Nicholas, Walter), b. in Wrentham, Mass., Mar. 3, 1743; cer. in said Cumberland Jan. 26, 1764, by Eld. Nathaniel Cook. Issue.—

From our imperfect memoranda, it would seem that Mrs. Susanna d. at a date not given, and that David¹ m. a 2d wife, Elizabeth, by whom he had at least one son.—

- 1265— 5. Reuben Newell, b. July 14, 1795; untraced.

This is another case in which we have the mortification to exhibit a bungling and very defective family record. But we could not do better, without unreasonable cost and pains. So we will give the substance of what has come to us concerning this family, and pursue its tracement no further. Letters to Mr. Peck, from grand sons of David¹, in the year 1875, state that David Newell¹, moved to Pelham, Mass., hired farms on shares, was a hard worker and finally died there with his son Levi. David, Jr., had by his two wives 8 chn. in all, and lived and d. in Pelham, Mass. Silas^c m., had several chn., removed to New York State, and finally d. in Monroe, Orange Co. Levi^c, who married Caroline Matilda Ballou, (Benjamin^c, Obadiah^s, James^s, Maturin^c) Oct. 1, 1795, lived, and d. in Pelham, Mass. They had no chn. Ziba had 2 sons, and lived at one time in Warren, R. I. Reuben^c m., had a large family, and d. somewhere in the State of New York. He was a son of David Jr. William^c, son of Silas^c, one of Mr. Peck's correspondents in 1875, above referred to, then resided at North Bay, Oneida Co., N. York. We have no more to offer, and wish for no more of this unspecific sort. Let those interested, who have means, leisure and relish for round-about research,—work out the problems involved in this Newell genealogy. |

[297.] HOPE BALLOU^c, Daniel^c, Obadiah^s, James^s, Maturin^c; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 2, 1746; m. Daniel Barnes. No inquiry elicits any specific information concerning Daniel Barnes, his ptge., birthplace, birth-date, or the family residence. Reported issue.—

It is genealogically deplorable that we can tell no more of these cousins. But our researchers report that they can find nothing else. Probably if they had fallen heirs to a few millions of money, a host of them and their descendants would have been identified. But we find neither pleasure nor profit in scolding about the recordless seclusion of our relations; albeit there is more of it than we can be proud of, or thankful for.

Joseph Ballou inherited and sett. on the paternal homestead, two miles southerly from the village of Pascoag in now Burrillville, R. I., already described. He and his wife were of good repute among the substantial yeomanry of their vicinage. He d. in the ripeness of middle age Feb. 9, 1801, a. 53 yrs. and 17 ds. Gloucester Probate Records show that he made his Will Dec. 5, 1800, which was duly executed by his widow and his son-in-law, Philip Walden, joint executors. Somebody knows, or once knew, all about these parents and chn. But they and their descendants have eluded the detection of our researcher; and we must leave them, like too many of their kindred, amid the shades of unhistoried obscurity.

[300.] SUSANNA BALLOU, Daniel', Obadiah', James', Maturin'; b. in then Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., Feb. 27, 1754; m. Rufus Baker, ptge., birth-date, &c., not found; cer. Sept. 14, 1783, by Jona. Harris, J. P. Issue.—

- 1284—1. Admirable Baker, b.
 1285—2. Delilah Baker, b.

Here we are still in the same regrettable obscurity, peering out into thick darkness. We have called for light, but called in vain. So we must leave this family and their descendants to better informed genealogists and biographers. The Bakers will probably look them up and register them in their Chronicles.

[301.] MARTHA BALLOU, Daniel', Obadiah', James', Maturin'; b. in then Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., Dec. 29, 1761; m. 1st

Sylvanus Ballou^s was a man of robust constitution, enterprise, and executive ability. He sold his farm in Gloucester, R. I., to Seth Ballou in 1805, and in 1807 removed to Norwich, N. Y. He was among the pioneer settlers of that locality. He prospered, and became a large landholder. In his old age, when about 85, he removed to Smithville, in the same County of Chenango, N. Y. There he d. Dec. 1, 1857, a. 90 yrs. 9 mos. and 21 ds. His widow was surviving at last advices.

[303.] DEBORAH BALLOU^s, Daniel^t, Obadiah^s, James^s, Maturin^t; b. in Gloucester, R. I., prob. about 1770. Mr. Peck sought in vain to ascertain the family record of this Deborah Ballou. He obtained a vague report that she m. Isaac Paine, which was superseded by another that she m. a man named Yonders (unless we mistake the chirography for Saunders). We have sent out fresh inquiries, and got nothing. We must therefore leave her in this limbo of inscrutable conjecture.

Abner Ballou^s, Esq., and wife were a highly intelligent, upright, orderly, economical, circumspect and exemplary pair in all the relations of life. The writer grew up in their neighborhood, and was well acquainted with them. They dwelt on the homestead, originally owned by James Ballou^s, and which Rev. Abner¹ bought of James¹ in 1774. It was immediately adjacent to the "Ballou Meetinghouse," and was wholly, or partly, inherited from Rev. Abner¹. Abner^s, about the yr. 1800, superseded the ancient domicile with a handsome two-story mansion, retaining in the ell a rejuvenated portion of the original structure. There they dwelt most of their days, judiciously managing a considerable farm, and rearing up worthily their large family. She was a lady of delicate health, but discharged her connubial and maternal responsibilities most creditably. He was a sedate, staid, dignified man, in his home, neighborhood and the general community—systematical, methodical, economical, prudent, and successful in all his affairs. Nothing was neglected, or went to waste, or was recklessly fooled away, under his management. He minded his own business, and mixed not in the quarrels of others. For slow accumulations he made up by good judgment and careful savings. Thus he secured an ample competence for himself and family; that is, on the humble scale of his times. Perhaps his least profitable investment was made in the Social Manufacturing Co., near Woonsocket, in 1810. In this enterprise he was as shrewd as his seven or eight partners. They started the second Cotton Mill in that since flourishing centre of manufacturing business. His copartners were Ariel Ballou (the present writer's father), Nathan Ballou (his cousin), Job Jenckes, Luke Jenckes, Eber Bartlett, Oliver Leland and Joseph Arnold, all of whom knew much more about manual agriculture than of running Cotton Mills. However, they pioneered well in that department of their crude enterprise, at least for the public. Abner^s was not an office-seeker, but rather sought for by the commoners of his municipality. He was often on the Town Council, and a Justice of the Peace from 1811 to 1817. In finance he was a Director of the Cumberland Bank from 1823 to 1851. In politics he was an old-time Federalist, and then a Whig. In religion he and his wife were heirship Baptists as to their general views, but made no formal profession till 1840, when they regularly joined the Baptist church in their native town. So far as external conduct and character were concerned, no great change was needed or could have been exhibited. With the exception of a few years' residence on Cumberland Hill, their home was on the old farm. There he d. Oct. 30, 1851, a. 88 yrs. 6 mos. 29 ds. Mrs. Henrietta d. Sally (Ballou) Rogers and her husband held a high social standing, and honored their position. Rev. Israel Wilkinson, in his "Memoirs of the Wilkinson Family," says of Rogers.—he "lived in Cumberland, R. I., for many years; he subsequently moved to Holden, Worcester Co. Mass. He was a Surveyor and mathematician, and left extensive works in MS. Enlisting as a private, [in the Revolutionary war], he was soon promoted to orderly sergeant, then to Lieutenant, in Capt. Stephen Olney's company, of North Providence. He afterward became a Lieut. Col. in a Rhode Island Regiment, and was one of the body-guard of Gen. Washington. An epaulette which Washington gave him is still preserved by his descendants in Lockport, N. Y. He was at the crossing of the Delaware, and participated in many a hard fought battle." He lived on Cumberland Hill, kept a public house and store there, and was a popular Justice of the Peace—solemnizing many marriages among his other official duties. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, in R. I. We suppose that he removed with his family to Holden, Mass., between 1803 and 1805. There we lose his historic thread, but presume that he and his wife must have died in that town. But of this last we are not quite sure, as his chn. settled in Lockport, N. Y., and one or both the parents may possibly have d. there. Their death dates are given us without specification of place. He d. June 9, 1839; and she Nov. 12, 1847, a. 72 yrs. 6 mos. and 3 ds.

This is all that has reached us concerning the family record of Cynthia Ballou'. Many calls for information have been made by us, but all in vain. No further traced.

We are indebted to Mrs. Emily R. (Bassett) Ballou, wife of William Ross Ballou, Woonsocket, R. I., for much genealogical and biographical information concerning Dennis Ballou^s and his descendants. She took a kind and lively interest in collecting this information for our work. Her husband is a worthy grandson of said Dennis, and she deserves our cordial thanks for the persistent enterprise with which she has furnished us with valuable data, facts and incidents. Many of our specifications are based on her testimony so far as this branch of our cousins extends.

It appears that the homestead of Dennis³ was in then Smithfield, now North Smithfield, R. I., a mile or more from Slaterville. It formerly belonged to Rev. Rufus Tifft, his 1st wife's father. Dennis was a poor boy, and bound out to service, but at sixteen was freed to go forth into the world and seek his fortune. He began with a pair of steers, which he somehow acquired, worked out for wages till twenty-one, married, and bought out his deceased father-in-law's farm from the other heirs, and became at length comparatively wealthy. He had a steel and whalebone constitution, an ambitious acquisitiveness, great industrial energy, and good managing abilities. As a worker he had no rival—often rising early on moonlight nights and driving his business while surrounding neighbors slept. He was famous for cattle raising, and his heavy fattened swine none of which latter must weigh less than 500 lbs.

He is said to have professed religion in early manhood (in what denomination is not told), and to have felt that he had a divine call to preach; but he resisted it, devoted himself to worldly pursuits, fell away from his religious vows, and suffered, later in life, deep compunction for his unfaithfulness to duty. Yet we do not learn that he became immoral, or lost the general respect as a man and citizen. He came to his mortal end by an attack of dysentery, from which he probably would have recovered but for imprudent eating too soon after partial convalescence. He d. Oct. 25, 1851, a. 65 yrs. 8 mos. and 5 ds. He left to his heirs a homestead of 200 acres, well furnished with buildings, stock and farming implements—total value $10,000. Mrs. Hannah, his wid., d. Dec. 1, 1878, a. 83 yrs. and 21 ds.

[318.] MARY BALLOU⁷, [319] ORPHELIA BALLOU⁷, dtrs. of Obadiah¹, have proved untraceable.

I., May 13, 1789; m. Philadelphia Ross, dr. of Isaac Ross, b. in said Gloucester Mar. 8, 1789; date and particulars of cer. not found. Issue, understood to have been b. in Smithfield, now North Smithfield, R. I., some of them perhaps in other localities.—

1340 1. Adelia, b. May 29, 1809; m. 1st O. Ballou, 2d W. Ballou, 3d S. R. Mowry.

Almost nothing further has come to our knowledge concerning this William Ballou^s and wife. They are said to have dwelt on a homestead, some two miles westerly from Woonsocket, in now North Smithfield, R. I. She d. Apl. 13, 1836, a. 47 yrs. 1 mo. and 5 ds. He d. Oct. 13, 1852, a. 63 yrs. 5 mos.

Y., aged about 82 yrs., with his 3d wife. It has been with great difficulty that we have obtained the following very imperfect family record—which we despair of amending. We regret being obliged to exhibit so dateless a record, but could do no better. Nor have we at present any further informa-

Our information concerning this Obadiah Ballou, wife and family, is extremely limited, and, unless we can glean more, our record must be brief. He removed from Cumberland, R. I., in 1790, with his parents, to Fort Schuyler, which became Utica, N. Y. There they settled among the enterprising pioneers. There, or in the near vicinity, he married, and remained till 1835, when he removed with his family to Auburn, N. Y. We are unable to specify his avocation, vicissitudes, or characteristics. He d. in Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 21, 1847, in his 78th yr. Mrs. Nancy, his widow, d. May 30, 1855, in her 84th yr.

[340.] JERAHMEEL BALLOU', Joseph', Obadiah', James', Maturin'; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 28, 1771; m. Anna Perry, dr. of Jonathan Perry, and grand dr. of James Perry—mother's maiden name being Mary Potter, a dr. of Judge Wm. Potter—b. in South Kingstown, R. I., June 11, 1779; cer. Oct. 8, 1801. Issue, b. in Utica, N. Y.—

1419—1. William Potter, b. Nov. 27, 1802; m., name, &c., not given.

1421—3. Theodore Perry, b. Mar. 18, '07; m. Charlotte Cogshall Wells Sept. 1838.

Jerahmeel Ballou' went with the other members of his father's family to incipient Utica, N. Y., in 1790. There he matured into a man of reputable character and standing, became a prosperous merchant and trusted citizen, but was cut off by death in the prime of middle-age. He and his wife left a sterling record of usefulness and worth. He d. in Utica, June 29, 1817, a. a little over 46 yrs. Mrs. Anna, his widow, d. there Mar. 31, 1823, a. 43 yrs. 9 mos. and 19 ds.

[341.] SARAH BALLOU', Joseph', Obadiah', James', Maturin'; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Oct. 18, 1781; m. Ebenezer B. Shearman, son of Robert and Honora (Brown) Shearman, b. in Exeter, R. I., Apl. 20, 1783; cer. in Utica, N. Y., 1808. Issue.—

1423—2. Angelina Shearman, b. '10; d. u. m. 1832.

Sarah Ballou', while a young maiden, accompanied the older members of her father's family to primitive Utica in 1790. There she married E. B. Shearman, as aforesaid. He appears to have been an emigrant from one of the Kingstowns in R. I., but whether No. or So. Kingstown our informant does not specify. Their two chn. were undoubtedly b. in Utica. Mr. Shearman became a conspicuous merchant, and manufacturer of cotton goods and window glass. The family occupied a front-rank position in community, and exerted a corresponding influence. He d. in Utica Apl. 23, 1845. Mrs. Sarah lived long years of worthy widowhood and finally d. Feb. 7, 1877, a. 95 yrs. 3 mos. and 17 ds.

[342.] COL. BENJAMIN BALLOU⁵, Benjamin¹, Obadiah², James³, Maturin⁴; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Apl. 10, 1770; m. Eunice Mann, of Wrentham, Mass., ptge. and birth-date not given; cer. in said Wrentham Jan. 15, 1795, by Rev. D. Avery.

We are in thick darkness respecting the history of Benjamin Ballou⁵. He appears to have settled in Utica sometime after mge., prob. near his father. But we get no hint as to his occupation or character, except that he was at one time Col. of militia. His bro. Joseph of Syracuse, N. Y., wrote to Mr. Peck, under date of May 11, 1858, that he d. in Utica Sept. 10, 1826, leaving no chn. We have more recently learned that Mrs. Eunice d. about 1830.

Just where these chn. were b. we have no specification; prob. in two or more different localities. The parents res. first a few years in Medway, Mass.; then for a considerable number in Utica, N. Y.; and finally spent the latter part of their lives in Marshall, Oneida Co., N. Y. No one has vouchsafed to tell us their calling, social standing, or moral characteristics, which we trust compared decently with the average of our general cousinhood. Thomas⁶ d. in Manchester, N. Y., Sept. 7, 1826. Mrs. Cynthia, his widow, d. in Woonsocket, R. I., Sept. 7, 1840, in her 70th yr.

All we learn of this pair is, that they removed to Pelham, Mass., were of the farming class, were industrious, well disposed people, and died in that town. But we have never ascertained the death-date of either.

The foregoing is digested from a letter written to Mr. Peck by Joseph Ballou^r, from Syracuse, N. Y., under date of May 11, 1858. Until further correspondence with some of the family, we can add little to it. It would seem that he m. his first wife in Utica, N. Y., and perhaps his 2d. But his letter does not indicate when he removed to Syracuse, nor the date of either mge., nor that of his first wife's death. At the writing of this letter he must have been about 78 yrs. old. We hope for more information concerning him and his family. It is a remarkably large one, and we would gladly make an ampler record. We have waited long since the foregoing was written for some further information concerning the occupation, life-career and character of Joseph Ballou and 2d wife, but have obtained only their death-dates. She d. Aug. 29, 1860. He d. Feb. 5, 1866, a. 85 yrs. 11 mos. and 15 ds.

[347.] FREELove BALLOU, Benjamin, Obadiah, James, Maturin; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 19, 1781; m. Asa Sprague. We hoped to obtain from some quarter the family record of Free-love Ballou and her husband, but nothing has come from their misty obscurity to tell us whether they had any chn., whither they went, or what became of them. Some one knows the tale of their mortal career, but he is not among our informants.

[348.] PROSPER BALLOU, Benjamin, Obadiah, James, Maturin; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Apl. 10, 1783; m. 1st, Sarah Seguine, of Staten Island, N. Y., ptge. not given, b. Feb. 20, 1788; cer. in New York City, Dec. 8, 1807, by Rev. John Williams. Issue, b. in N. Y. City, excepting one.—

We regret to find nothing in our communications from the chn. of Prosper Ballou, to indicate the character of their father or his wives, or even his business pursuits in life. He left Utica about 1806, and thenceforth resided in New York City. There he d. May 8, 1849, a. about 66 yrs. Mrs. Hannah, his wid., d. in 1862, a. about 74 yrs.

[349.] JAMES BALLOU¹, Benjamin¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., a twin with his bro. Levi, Nov. 10, 1786, went along with his father's family, a little boy, to the locality that became Utica, N. Y., in 1788. There he grew up to be a young man, went off to sea, and was never heard of more.

[350.] LEVI BALLOU¹, twin bro. of James¹, born as aforesaid, grew up in Utica, m. there, and d. leaving several chn. Mr. Peck was told that he m. a wid. Defendayke. But Levi's elder bro. Joseph, writing from Syracuse, N. Y., in 1858, stated to Mr. P. that Levi m. Sarah Austin. Mr. Peck, on some authority, credited Levi¹ with 3 chn., viz.—

1458—2. Sarah, b. “

1459—3. Levi, b. “

The present writer is utterly unable with any information at his command, to make a reliable statement of this family record. It is possible future light may come to chase away the darkness which now obscures the desired data, but if not we must leave it as it is.

[351, 352 AND 353] chn. of LYDIA BALLOU¹, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; who m. Benjamin Lapham, are passed over; because two of them d. young, and Mary Lapham³, the one who lived to marriageable age, cannot be traced by our researchers.

1466—7. Welcome A. Whipple, b. Jan. 29, '99; m. Lydia C. Bradford 1848.

Not a word has been reported to us by our researcher respecting the occupation, characteristics or biographical experiences of Stephen Whipple, Jr., and wife. How much further we may be able to trace the family depends on contributions of the necessary data.

[355.] PHEBE WHIPPLE^s, (Stephen,) Phebe Ballou¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Mar. 6, 1753; m. George Peck is said, in "The Peck Genealogy," to have "resided upon the estate in Cumberland, R. I., inherited from his father and grandfather. He was a man of much distinction in the town. He represented it in the General Assembly, and held various offices. He held a colonel's commission in the Revolution, in which he took an active interest." He left Cumberland for the British Provinces about 1782, with another Phebe, who seems to have supplanted the first in his affections, and never returned to his native vicinage. What experiences Mrs. Phebe (Whipple) Peck subsequently had we are not told, only that she d. probably among her chn., May 19, 1838, at the venerable age of 85 yrs. 2 mos. and 13 ds. Their descendants no further traced.

There is said to have been a Polly and Betsey that d. very young. They are not counted. We labor under considerable difficulty in collecting the data necessary to present a full record of this family. Therefore its defects must be excused. Jesse Ballou^o, recd. from his father, Eleazer^l, a gift deed of two and a half lots, covering 200 acres of land, in Richmond, N. H. That deed bears date May 11, 1779. That very same year Jesse settled on his inheritance. We presume he took along with him, from Gloucester, R. I., his first wife and at least one child, possibly two. Amphyllis Smith, his first wife, belonged to one of the most respectable families in Gloucester, and was undoubtedly an excellent woman. They were pioneers in the then semi-wilderness of Richmond, and had plenty of hard toil before them. As we have seen, her days were few in the new settlement. She d. at the birth of her fourth child. The second wife soon took her place, and became the mother of numerous offspring. They appear to have been a plain, hard working, reputable family of the farming class, though not especially distinguished among their townfolk. He d. in 1820, a. about 64 yrs. His estate was settled by his son Silas as administrator. The death-date of his second wife not given.

Mrs. Esther d. in Burrillville, Feb. 14, 1821. Subsequently the husband m. 2d, Margaret —, at a date not found. No issue. Jirah inherited the old homestead of his father, a short distance south of the now village of Glendale; on which he built a new house, still standing. The estate was more recently occupied by Jason Jencks. Jirah disposed of that homestead, and in 1831 took up his abode with his dr. Candace and her husband, Samuel Mathewson, in Ct. There he d. Dec. 1837, a. about 79 yrs. Nothing further reported of him or his 2d wife. We presume he averaged fairly with the majority of our general family. How we shall succeed in tracing his posterity remains to be seen.

William Ballou^c and wife emigrated a few years after mge. to a locality which became Fenner, Madison Co., N. Y. One or two of their chn. were prob. b. before they left R. I., perhaps in Smithfield; the others in their new home. He was a house carpenter, and followed that trade in early life, but devoted most of his time and energies, after settling in N. Y., to clearing and cultivating his farm. He was an industrious and hard toiling man, and struggled against serious discouragements. He was a considerable dealer in real estate, a respected citizen, and entrusted with various municipal offices. He and his wife d. and were buried on their N. Y. homestead. Their death-dates not given.

[398.] GEORGE BALLOU^c, Mosesⁱ, Samuelⁱ, Jamesⁱ, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Apl. 19, 1770; m. Lillis Cook, a dr. of David Cook, Sen. We are inadequately posted on date and particulars proper for this family record. Issue.—

George Ballou^c and wife left a good name for honest industry and moral worth in the common walks of plain farming life. He settled first in Fenner, N. Y., where he resided some twenty-five or thirty years. He then removed to Oakland Co., Mich. There his son Geo. Washington Ballou d., and after a sojourn of ten years he returned to the State of N. Y.—settling in the town of Lenox, Madison Co. There, on a comfortable homestead, he spent the remainder of his days. He held no public offices, minded his own business, performed well his domestic duties, and enjoyed peace with God and man. He d. about 1852 or 3, a. 82 yrs. Mrs. Lillis, his widow, d. there in 1860, a. about 87 yrs. Meantime their son Jefferson and dr. Betsey passed away, and the family became extinct.

 1626—9. Quincy Adams, b. Sept. 25, '25; m. Mary Hill.

Col. Arnold Ballou^s seems to have towered above all his brothers in wealth, public distinction, and worldly success generally. He had ambition, enterprise, talent and skill to do so. He became a large landholder, dealer in bills of credit, mortgages, and real estate, held many civil as well as military offices, and wielded a commanding influence in various circles of society. He carried with him from Rhode Island a deep reverence for Gov. Fenner of that State, and when the territorial locality in which he settled became a corporate town, he successfully secured for it the name of Fenner. Meantime he gave his first-born son the same name. In the war of 1812-14 with England, he commanded a regiment of volunteer militia at Sacketts Harbor, N. Y., and won the high esteem of his soldiers, fellow officers and fellow citizens generally. So he bore his honors of all kinds triumphantly down to the grave, and his wife worthily shared them with him. Whatever faults of our common humanity mingled with his good qualities have not been certified to mar this record. He d. in Fenner, Madison Co., N. Y., where his chm. were born, and he had achieved his distinction, Oct. 10, 1833, a. 61 yrs. 6 mos. and 15 ds. Mrs. Nancy (Cook) Ballou, widow of Col. Arnold, survived him several years, and d. May 31, 1853, a. 69 yrs. 5. mos. and 4 ds.

[400.] ELIZABETH BALLOU^s, Moses¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Feb. 28, 1776; m. a Mr. Taylor, and set. somewhere in Oswego Co., N. Y. This is all Mr. Peck could learn from one of her most intelligent relatives. And not knowing the name of the town in Oswego Co. where she and her husband located, we knew not how to trace her family. We therefore abandon her to genealogical obscurity, so far as this volume is concerned.

[401.] DUTY BALLOU^s, (some records have his Christian name Dutec, others Duty,) Moses¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., May 31, 1779; m. Lydia White, dr. of Samuel and Hannah (Aldrich) White, birth-date not given; cer. in said Smithfield June 8, 1800, by Thomas Mann, J. P. Issue, understood to have been b., the eldest two in Smithfield, R. I., the others in Greenfield, Saratoga Co., N. Y., where the parents settled soon after mge.—

There seems to be a deplorable dearth of biographical information concerning Duty Ballou and wife. They must have been worthy of a much better commemoration than any documents that have reached us indicate. All we can say is, that they settled in Greenfield, Saratoga Co., N. Y., not long after mge., purchased a respectable homestead, cultivated it creditably, raised their ten children on it, and closed their mortal lives there. He d. in Feb. 1850 in his 71st yr. Mrs. Lydia's death-date has not been reported to us at this writing.

[402.] MOSES BALLOU, Moses^s, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturin^s; b. in Smithfield, R. I., June 2, 1781; m. Martha Randall of North Providence, dr. of John Randall, b. No. Providence, R. I., Feb. 29, 1792; cer. Dec. 28, 1818. Issue, all but the youngest understood to have been b. in said Smithfield.—

Moses Ballou was an intelligent, enterprising and thrifty man, of respectable rank in community and fair wealth. We have not been favored with any testimonials from his family respecting his peculiar experiences or characteristics, and therefore cannot enlarge in that direction. He removed from Smithfield, R. I., Dec. 21, 1823, to Troy, N. H., where he had purchased a valuable homestead. On that, or in the near vicinity, he continued till his death, which took place Oct. 3, 1838, a. 57 yrs. 4 mos. and 1 day.

His chn. and descendants have resided in that general region ever since. Mrs. Martha (Randall) Ballou d. at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. and Mr. Benjamin Read, Swansey, N. H., Sept. 23, 1873, a. 81 yrs. 6 mos. and 24 days.

Otis Ballou^a and wife, soon after mge. in 1803, sett. in Greenfield, Saratoga Co., N. Y., where all their chn. were born. He was a respectable farmer, and served his town for several years as Collector of taxes, Constable, &c. He rose to no higher distinction than this in civic life; but he, his wife and family, bore a good reputation in their sphere. He d. there Nov. 29, 1834. Mrs. Phebe (Lapham) Ballou d. July 22, 1849.

[404.] DESIRE BALLOU^b, Mosesⁱ, Samuel^b, James^c, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Feb. 19, 1788; m. Ezekiel Fowler, M. D., son of Ezekiel and Sarah Fowler, b. in Worcester, Mass., May 8, 1787; cer. in said Smithfield Dec. 9, 1816, by Robert Harris, J. P. No issue.

Mrs. Desire was a capable and worthy woman, and an excellent wife. She died at Woonsocket, R. I., Apl. 27, 1863. Dr. Fowler was a man of superior natural abilities, eminent acquired intelligence and professional skill, extensive medical practice, sound judgment in all the affairs of life, and unblemished moral integrity. He received a competent education in Worcester and Leicester, settled 1814 in Smithfield as a physician, achieved popular success and confidence, and later became prominent in financial institutions. He was chosen a Director of the Woonsocket Falls Bank in 1828, and was made its President in 1849—holding his position till his decease. He was also a Trustee and President of the Woonsocket Savings Bank. At a meeting of the Bank Directors “on the day of his death, the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted.—

The death of the President of this Bank, Dr. Ezekiel Fowler, having been announced to this Board, this day, we deem the occasion appropriate to express, not only our deep regret at his loss, but our high esteem of his character, both as an officer and as a man. And it is therefore

Resolved, that the long official connection of Dr. Fowler with this Institution, as Director now nearly thirty-five years, and for the last fifteen years as President, has been marked by a dignified and unostentatious devotion to the duties of his office, and in his death we mourn a faithful officer, a true friend, and an honest man.

Resolved, that as a further mark of our esteem and respect, this Bank be closed from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M. on Thursday next, the day of his funeral, and that this Board attend as a body."

Funeral services were rendered at Friends' Meetinghouse in presence of a large and sympathetic assembly. He and his wife are commemorated by suitable monumental inscriptions in the cemetery of the old Union Bank Village as follows.—"EZEKIEL FOWLER died July 21, 1863, Aged 76 years. 'The pure in heart see God.' DESIRE FOWLER, his Wife, died April 27, 1863, Aged 75 years. 'We shall be like him when we see him as he is.'"

I., Mar. 11, 1800, brought up mainly in Pelham, Mass.; cer. Dec. 5, 1826. Issue, b. in said Smithfield.—

1649—4. Desire Fowler, b. Apl. 19, '35; m. Davis Aldrich.

Capt. Willard Ballou* inherited an important portion of the ancient homestead originally settled on by James Ballou². There, amid the old landmarks and relics, he lived and died. He left a reputable record for intelligence and moral worth. His wife left one no less reputable. Mr. Peck credited her with much kind helpfulness in facilitating his acquisition of valuable antique documents, long stored away in unexamined chests and boxes of the family progenitors. He d. on the time-hallowed premises Nov. 18, 1853, a. 61 yrs. 8 mos. and 6 ds. Mrs. Susan d. Apl. 3, 1872, a. 72 yrs. and 23 ds.

[406.] FREELOVE BALLOU⁷, Moses⁸, Samuel⁹, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Apl. 20, 1794; m. David Mowry, Jr., pedigree not traced, b. in said Smithfield July 3, 1791; cer. Oct. 16, 1817, by Robert Harris, J. P. Issue, all b. in Smithfield.—

1650—1. Bertha Mowry, b. June 12, 1819; d. on the 27th of the same month.

1651—2. Desire Mowry, b. Dec. 18, '24; m. George J. Mowry Aug. 30, 1855.

1653—4. Minerva Mowry, b. May 26, '35; m. 1st Daniel Smith, 2d Whipple M. Follett.

Strange to record, all these chn. were b. deaf mutes. But happily the three survivors received a good education at the famous Institution in Hartford, Ct., and thus attained a useful and enjoyable life. Nothing reaches us in testimony to the good qualities and characteristics of the parents, which we shall take for granted. Mr. Mowry d. Sept. 5, 1873, a. 82 yrs. Mrs. Freelove⁷ d. Mar. 18, 1880, a. 86 yrs.

[407.] MARY BALLOU³, eldest dr. of Aaron¹, is supposed to have d. young.

[408.] JONATHAN BALLOU⁴, Aaron¹, Samuel², James³, Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Mar. 12, 1775; m. Mary Smith, dr. of Emor Smith, b. in said Smithfield at an ungiven date; cer. Mar. 23, 1793, by Elisha Olney, J. P. Issue.—

1654—1. Sarah, b. Feb. 22, 1795; m. Pardon Davis.

1655—2. Aaron, b. June 30, '96; m. Anna Davis Dec. 25, 1819.

1656—3. Emor Smith, b. June 26, '98; m. Lydia Davis about 1822.

1657—4. Lillis, b. not found; d. young.

1658—5. Melissa, b. not found; d. young.

We suppose these chn. were all b. in Smithfield, R. I., or its general vicinity, and that the mother d. thereabouts not far from the year 1800. Mr. Peck pushed his inquiries as far as practicable into the history of this Jonathan Ballou's family, and we have added nothing to the information he collected. That was somewhat obscure, imperfect and unsatisfactory. The most we can deduce from it is that Jonathan⁴ found himself in desperate circumstances after the death of his wife, resolved on shipping himself for employment on the ocean, and virtually threw his motherless chn. on the care of their near relations. His father, then in Adams, Mass., took Emor S. into his own comfortable home, at the age of three and a half years, and probably provided in whole or in part for the others. Their father went to New York to find desired employment, but misfortune shadowed him. He took the yellow fever, and barely survived it to catch the small pox, but recovered, wrote home a sad letter to his father, and soon after shipped for a voyage to the East Indies. He was never heard from more. It is not improbable that he had previously been a mariner.

[409.] AARON BALLOU^e, Aaron¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Apl. 14, 1777; m. Margaret (Morand) Sleighter, a French lady, widow of Charles Sleighter, and dr. of John Baptiste Morand, b. in Paris, France, May 12, 1799; cer. in New Orleans, La., Dec. 25, 1820. Issue, b. in Galway, Saratoga Co., N. Y.—

1659—1. Celestine, b. July 10, 1822; m. Emily Wright Apl. 6, 1850.

1660—2. Heloise Frances, b. Sept. 17, '23; m. Moses Pierson Whittaker Dec. 1, 1842.

1661—3. Zillia Albee, b. Jan. 25, '25; d. u. m. June 30, 1854.

1662—4. Luna Louisa, b. Mar. 6, '30; m. Harrison Denny Mar. 25, 1847.

Aaron Ballou^e betook himself early to the seas. He was enterprising, talented, and responsible—rose to the command of valuable merchant vessels—sailing to and fro between several important parts of the world, until his marriage in 1820. Then, with his capable, intelligent wife, some twenty-three or four years younger than himself, he went to his deceased father's homestead in Galway, N. Y., where he dwelt, in company with a brother-in-law, until the death of his widowed mother in 1834. Meantime his four chn. had been born, he devoting the major portion of every year to the command of sailing craft on the Lakes. Finally, he sold out his interest in the patrimonial estate at Galway, N. Y., and in 1834 settled on an eligible domain near New Goshen, Vigo Co., Ind. There he closed his earthly career Nov. 18, 1839, a. 62 yrs. 7 mos. and 4 ds. Mrs. Margaret, his widow, survived her husband many years. Since writing the foregoing we have received from one of her reverent grand drs. a copy of the following Obituary, which we suppose to have been published in a Terre Haute newspaper not named.—

"Died at the residence of her son-in-law, Harrison Denny, seven miles north of Terre Haute, Jan. 17, 1885, Margaret Ballou, aged 85 years, 8 months and 5 days. She was b. in Paris, France, May 12, 1799. Her maiden name was Margaret Morand. She was married to Charles Sleighter, an American gentleman, Aug. 24, 1819, and soon after, leaving relatives and friends, they sailed for America. After a voyage of thirteen weeks, they landed at New Orleans. They lived a happy married life until July, 1820, when her husband died with yellow fever—leaving her among strangers. On Dec. 25, 1820, she was married to Aaron Ballou, who had been a bosom friend of her former husband. They remained at New Orleans until 1821, when they set sail for New York. The ship was cast away in a storm, off the port of New York, but they escaped a watery grave, by the assistance of the sailors. They lived in Galway, N. Y., till 1834, when they removed to the State of Indiana, and settled near New Goshen, remaining there until her husband's death, Nov. 18, 1839. She then moved to the vicinity of Terre Haute. She was the mother of five children, of whom three are living—a son and two daughters. She had twenty-two grandchildren, of whom ten are living, and twelve great-grandchildren, nine of whom are living.

She was trained a Roman Catholic, and continued in that faith until the age of fourteen, when she had a change of heart, but did not leave the Catholic Church till Apl. 12, 1846. She was then baptized and joined the Baptist church of Terre Haute under the Rev. Mr. Dixon. She died, as she had lived, a devoted Christian, and leaves a very large circle of friends to mourn her loss.

“Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep.”

Mrs. Mary, the mother of all these chn., d. in Fairfield, N. Y., soon after the birth of Volney, viz. Sept. 10, 1814. Isaac¹ subsequently m. 2d Mrs. Anna Grimes, a widow; cer. in Fairfield, N. Y., Feb. 11, 1816—no other particulars given. No issue.

Isaac⁵ was a hard toiling, executive, worthy farmer. He was first settled with or near his father, Aaron¹, in Adams, Mass. Whether they dwelt together as co-proprietors on the same homestead, or on separate adjacent properties, we are not informed. But in 1810 they both sold out their estates, and pitched their family tents anew in the State of New York. Aaron¹ settled in Galway, Saratoga Co., and his son Isaac in Fairfield, Herkimer Co. There his youngest chn. were b., his 1st wife d., and he m. the 2d. In 1835 he moved again, and took up his abode in Homer, Calhoun Co., Mich. Some ten or eleven yrs. later his 2d wife d. there; that is, Sept. 28, 1846. He was now nearing his threescore and ten, wearing out, and lonely. He finally fell into the kind care of his dr. Cynthia and husband, Mrs. and Mr. Daniel Woodworth of Auburn, N. Y., where, if we mistake not epistolary statements, he d. in 1850, a. about 71 years.

[411.] WILLIAM BALLOU², Aaron¹, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., June 8, 1781. He never m., always lived at home with his parents, and when his mother deceased took shelter under the wing of his brother Aaron, moved with him to Terre Haute, Vigo Co., Ind., where he d. Apl. 9, 1836, in his 55th yr. We get no distinguishing characteristics of this William Ballou. He was a deaf mute, and so incapacitated for any remarkable achievements in society. But we infer, from what was dropped in various letters to Mr. Peck, that he was orderly, quiet, good and useful in the domestic sphere to which he was chiefly confined by his infirmity.

[412.] LYDIA BALLOU³, Aaron¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., May 19, 1783; m. Andrew Edmunds. We are scantily informed concerning Lydia³, her husband, and their descendants. All we have learned is that they were m., prob. in Galway, N. Y., or the near vicinity, and both d., not far from 1825, leaving one daughter, who m. and d. somewhere in Michigan, and left one child. No further traced.

[413.] SUSANNA BALLOU³, Aaron¹, Samuel², James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Sept. 27, 1788; m. Jonathan Weedon, Galway, N. Y. She d. there long ago, leaving two sons and two daughters. No more told; and we cannot afford to make further research. If such presentations of family records as these last two are uninteresting and unsatisfactory to reading friends, they are much more so to the compiler.

Next in order come the descendants of James Ballou² through his drs. Susanna³ and Bathsheba³. Susanna m. John Inman, and Bathsheba m. Daniel Arnold. We have presented, in their generations, the chn. and grand chn. of these Innans and Arnolds to the extent of our information, and cannot well trace them further. So we pass over Nos. [413½] to [439], inclusive. This brings us to the descendants of Nehemiah Ballou¹ through his son Peter¹.

[440.] FREELOVE BALLOU³, Peter¹, Nehemiah², James², Maturin¹; b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., June 26, 1754; m. Elijah Cook (Elijah, Ebenezer, Samuel, Walter), birth-date not ascertained; cer. Oct. 13, 1773, by Abraham Waterman, J. P. The only names of their chn. that have come to our knowledge are.—

1673—1. Gideon Cook; m. and had 10 chn.—7 sons and 3 drs.

1674—2. Sylvanus Cook; m. and had 2 sons.

1675—3. Richard Cook; m. and had 5 chn.—3 sons and 2 drs.

We suspect there were several more; but Gloucester and Burrillville, like some other towns in our country, are hard mining districts for genealogists. It costs more time and pains to dig up the coveted nuggets than most explorers can afford. As nearly as we can learn, Gideon and Richard Cook emigrated to Unadilla, Otsego Co., N. Y. Doubtless labor enough would unearth descendants of Freelove³, either in her native region, or in distant localities; but we must be excused from further attempts to trace. We believe that Elijah, husband of Freelove (Ballou) Cook, d. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., Sept. 21, 1790, and that his son Gideon, as administrator, settled his estate. The place and date of Mrs. Freelove's death has not come to our knowledge. Since penning the foregoing, and reconsidering the meagre fragments on which we have depended for authority, a doubt arises whether Elijah Cook, Jr., who m. Freelove Ballou³, was the father or the brother of Gideon, Sylvanus and Richard Cook; and we cannot solve this doubt to our full satisfaction. We must therefore leave the case in some uncertainty, hoping that our record will prove correct.

[441.] MARY BALLOU³, Peter¹, Nehemiah², James², Maturin¹; b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., May 18, 1756; m. Israel Smith, son of Capt. John Smith of said Gloucester; cer. July 6, 1773, by Jonathan Harris, J. P. No more told us.

Doubtless they added more or less recruits to this ubiquitous and countless race, but it is not our good fortune to register their names in this volume. No researcher has reported them.

[442], PATIENCE BALLOU^b; [443], EVE BALLOU^c; [444], MARTHA BALLOU^c; and [445], JOANNA BALLOU^c, drs. of Peter, are said to have been buried within the same week, during the Revolutionary war. Neither the disease nor particular date are given. Probably an epidemic dysentery or scarlatina, often sweepingly fatal in those days, cut them off in growing girlhood. Perhaps, however, we have assumed too much in taking for granted that the above named four drs. were the identical ones that died the same week, as there were three others, next after them, that d. in early infancy unnamed. Possibly one of these was included in the number first specified. We must leave that to conjecture. But it seems certain that seven, named and unnamed, passed away young.

[446.] SETH BALLOU^a, Peter^b, Nehemiah^c, James^c, Maturin^d; b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., October, 1772; m. Sophia Anderson, dr. of Dr. Thomas Anderson; cer. in Monson, Mass., at a date not given, but conjectured to be not far from 1798. Issue.—

- 1679—4. Eliza, b. Litchfield, N. Y., '08; m. Manning Leslie 1824.

- 1683—8. Thomas D., b. Litchfield, N. Y., '17; m. Mary A. Leslie 1840.

It appears, from various testimony of his chn. and descendants, that Seth Ballou^a went in his boyhood, along with the rest of his father's family, during the Revolutionary war, from Gloucester to some town in Mass. What town that was is left to conjecture, but from the fact that Seth m. his wife in Monson, we presume that his father settled, or rather sojourned there, or in the near vicinity. In 1803 Seth and his father moved to Litchfield, Herkimer Co., N. Y. In 1819, after his father's death, Seth^a removed to Independence, Cuyahoga Co., O., taking his aged mother along with him, and she d. there. In 1830 or 31 Seth removed to St. Joseph Co., Mich. For some reason he and his wife spent a brief period in Illinois. There Mrs. Sophia (Anderson) Ballou d. and was buried, at a date not given. Her husband returned desolate to Mich., and d. at Otsego, Allegan Co., in that State, 1860, a. about 88 yrs. They were both devoted members of the Methodist Episcopal Church for many years. Their home, wherever located, was a free tavern and hospital for itinerant ministers, and their substance ungrudgingly consecrated to the church and suffering humanity. The sick, poor and needy, in every neighborhood where they dwelt, shared largely their goods, their time, and their ministering attentions. Thus, with unblemished rectitude of moral character, and unstinted charity towards their afflicted fellow creatures, they passed into the celestial mansions—leaving little earthly treasure to their heirs, but “a good name,” which “is rather to be chosen than great riches.”

[447.] LABAN BALLOU², Peter¹, Nehemiah⁴, James⁵, Maturin⁶; b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., not far from 1774 or 75; m. Betsy Nutting. Our information concerning this family is very meagre, vague, and unsatisfactory. It amounts to this.—That Laban² settled on “The Holland Purchase,” so called, N. Y., and had 4 chn.—

- | | | | |
|---------|------------|----------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1684—1. | Cornelius, | no birth-date given; | said to have become a lawyer. |
| 1685—2. | Dwight, | “ “ “ | became a farmer. |
| 1686—3. | Harriet, | “ “ “ | m. a Mr. Doane. |
| 1687—4. | Deliza, | “ “ “ | unreported. |

Laban² is said to have gone on business to Canada, and on his way home to have sickened and died. We have instituted inquiries for better information, but it is improbable that we shall obtain any. If not, this descent must close here. We find that this famous “Holland Purchase” covered territory now including some half dozen Counties in the State of New York. Therefore to find a family that settled on the “Holland Purchase” is like “looking for a needle in a hay-stack.”

[448.] LYDIA BALLOU², Peter¹, &c. No satisfactory information, said to have m. a Mr. Phillips, and to have had one son named Thomas, a cripple, who lived and d. somewhere in Massachusetts.

[449.] RIZPAH BALLOU², Peter¹, Nehemiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in a place and at a date not found; m. 1st, Gideon Nutting, and set. somewhere in N. Y., perhaps “Holland Purchase.” Issue.—

- 1688—1. Laban Nutting.
 1689 —2. Van Rensselaer Nutting.
 1690—3. Norton Nutting.
 1691—4. Hazael Nutting.

Mr. Nutting d. about 1812. Mrs. Rizpah m. 2d, Rolley Gayfield. They moved to Ohio, and afterward back to N. Y., where they both d. at dates not ascertained. This is all we have been able to glean on the family record of Rizpah Ballou⁵. We regretfully close this descent—hopeless of any further information. The next is much worse, and almost worthless.

[450.] SARAH BALLOU⁶, Peter¹, Nehemiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in a place and at a date not ascertained; said to have m. a Mr. Smith, a merchant, somewhere in Mass.—where they lived and d. Nothing rumored concerning chn., or any other particulars. None are lost out of the divine record and favor; but it seems pitiable that so many individuals and families should remain inscrutable to genealogical human scribes. Perhaps more fortunate researchers will find clues to the knowledge of these seemingly lost sheep of our flock.

[451.] NEHEMIAH BALLOU⁷, Seth¹, Nehemiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., Apl. 12, 1755; d. young, Sept. 2, 1761.

 1693—2. Betsey, b. Apl. 18, '83; m. Joseph Record Ballou Dec. 9, 1804.
 1694—3. Sarah, b. Mar. 7, '85; m. John Armstrong Jan. 1, 1805.
 1695—4. Nathan, b. Dec. 7, '88; not well traced; d. in Indiana.
 1696—5. Celinda, b. May 15, '91; m. Joseph Clarke Feb. 23, 1812.
 1697 —6. Asa W., b. May 21, '95; physician; m. Marietta Sayles Mar. 22, 1820.

No characteristics or biographical statements concerning Asa Ballou^a and wife have been transmitted to us. We presume they were respectable commoners, and that they had a rich vein of intellectual enterprise in their constitution, since they gave community two excellent physicians. Asa^a d. in Burrillville Aug. 4, 1834, being almost 72 yrs. of age. Mrs. Roba (Williams) Ballou d. at a date not given.

[455.] SARAH BALLOU^a, of this family, b. Dec. 12, 1764; d. young, Nov. 7, 1770.

Here is a family to be admired for numbers, and we presume for solid worth. We have been favored, however, with no characteristics or life-experiences. Susanna^a and her husband belonged with the industrious, orderly yeomanry, and must have passed through a vast amount of care, anxiety and trial in raising up such a progeny. He d. in Burrillville Sept. 15, 1841, a. 74 yrs. 9 mos. and 21 ds. Mrs. Susanna d. there Sept. 6, 1851, a. 84 yrs. 1 mo. and 24 ds.

[458.] JOSEPH RECORD BALLOU^a, Jeremiah¹, Jeremiah^a, Peter^a, Maturin¹; birthplace and birth-date not ascertained; m. Betsy

Ballou, dr. of Asa^a (Seth¹, Nehemiah³, James², Maturin¹.) and Roba (Williams), wife of said Asa³, b. in Glocester, now Burrillville, R. I., Apl. 18, 1783; cer. Dec. 9, 1804, where or by whom not given. Issue.—

- 1715—4. Louisa G., b. Aug. 30, '13; d. u. m. in Providence, R. I., Dec. 12, 1883.
- 1716—5. Joseph Record, Jr., b. Feb. 14, '15; m. Ruth M. Paine Oct. 1, 1840.
- 1717—6. Sally, b. not found; nothing reported—untraceable.
- 1718—7. Betsey, b. “ d. u. m. in Providence, R. I., Aug. 1883.

We are left in some doubt where the above named chn. were b. Joseph Record is said to have resided mostly in Smithfield, R. I., until he removed to Lawrence, N. Y. We have understood that this removal was made not far from the year 1817. If so, it is presumable that his chn. were b. in Smithfield or its general vicinity. It seems that he had not lived long in N. Y. before he suddenly and most mysteriously disappeared, and was never heard from more. It was reported that he and his brother Jeremiah started on an adventure to the West, or to Canada, and were both murdered for their money. Rumors and suspicions as to their fate were various; absolute facts uncertain. We cannot trace him after the year 1819. Not long subsequent to his disappearance his wife and chn. removed back to Rhode Island. Mrs. Betsey d. at a date not reported to us.

[459.] ELISHA BALLOU^a, Jeremiah¹, Jeremiah³, Peter², Maturin¹; birthplace and birth-date not ascertained, lived u. m., and d. somewhere in R. I. No more told.

[460.] JEREMIAH BALLOU^a, Jeremiah¹, Jeremiah³, Peter², Maturin¹; birthplace and birth-date not ascertained; lived u. m., a machinist by occupation; disappeared mysteriously from Lawrence, N. Y., with his bro. Joseph R., in 1819, and was never heard from more, except by vague rumor.

[461.] BETSEY BALLOU^a, Jeremiah¹, Jeremiah³, Peter², Maturin¹; b. in Killingly, Ct., about 1778; m. Charles Keech of now Burrillville, R. I., or vicinity, no date or particulars given; set. in Chenango Co., N. Y., and d. in the town of Columbus, N. Y., 1850, a. about 72 yrs. They are said to have been worthy and respectable people. But whether they had any chn. report is silent, and we must be.

[462.] SALLY BALLOU°, Jeremiah¹, Jeremiah³, Peter², Maturin¹; birthplace, birth-date, and her entire history unascertained, except that she m. Jacob Phillips of Foster, R. I. There seems to be an almost impenetrable obscurity hovering over most of the descendants of Peter Ballou². We regret it, but must bear it.

[Nos. 463 TO 468 INCLUSIVE], the chn. of Isabella Ballou¹, who m. Andrew Harrington, are passed over as untraceable, together with all other great grand chn. of Peter². We have such imperfect fragments of these families that it would be only an aggravation to present them. We have found it almost a hopeless task to rescue from oblivion the names of this lineage in anything like a decent fullness.

Here we end Generations Five and Six.

SIXTH AND SEVENTH GENERATIONS.

Reputable family.

[Nos. 476, 477, 478 AND 479], chn. of John Whitman and Anna Ballou⁵, (John¹, John², John³, Maturin⁴), lost among the unknown quantities.

[480.] MERCY BALLOU⁶, Richard⁵, John⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in the northeasterly part of Cumberland, R. I., Apl. 19, 1778; m. Nathan Aldrich. We have made persistent efforts to trace the family record and descendants of Mercy Ballou. She is said to have had a dr. who m. Paul Darling, and a son William, who once lived in Milford, Mass. There is no reason to doubt these alleged facts. We suspect the whole family must be extinct. But persons, mge-dates, birth-dates and death-dates have eluded our research. Closed.

[481.] ARNOLD BALLOU⁶, Richard⁵, John⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 16, 1780; m. Abigail Trask of Wrentham, Mass., dr. of Edward Trask; cer. Feb. 26, 1806, other particulars not given. No issue. No characteristics given. He was a farmer, and resided in the northeasterly part of said Cumberland, near where he was b. He d. there June 5, 1838. Mrs. Abigail, his wid. d. Apl. 15, 1857.

[482.] LYDIA BALLOU⁶, Richard⁵, &c., b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 14, 1782; d. young, Nov. 9, 1789.

[483.] AUGUSTUS BALLOU⁶, Richard⁵, John⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 4, 1784; m. 1st, Lucy Tower, of said Cumberland, dr. of Wanton Tower, birth-date not found; cer. Aug. 8, 1814, by George Tillinghast, J. P. Issue.—

- 1726—1. Lydia, b. not found; m. Larned Shepherdson.
 1727—2. Adella, b. “ m. unreported.

It is said that Augustus⁶ and Lucy (Tower) separated for some cause, in some manner, and that both m. again. We have record that Augustus⁶ m. 2d, Isabella Howard, of Foster, R. I., dr. of James Howard; cer. in said Foster, Aug. 29, 1825, by Eld. John Williams. Issue.—

1728—3. Lucy Ann, b. not found; m. James B. Foster July 31, 1842.

1729—4. Augustus, Jr., b. not found; went to sea 1842; never heard from.

There is so much of the erratic in the career of Augustus Ballou^e, his first wife, and his descendants, that our researchers have abandoned their inquiries in despair. We suppose he must have gone the way of all the earth, but where or when we know not. The remains of his posterity are few. No further traced.

[484.] THOMAS BALLOU^e, Richard^e, John¹, John², John³, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Feb. 21, 1786; m. Lydia Gould, dr. of Hosea Gould. Issue.—

1730—1. John; but when or where born, living or dead, is inscrutable.

And equally inscrutable has proved all that relates to Thomas Ballou^e, his wife, life and death. We need not repeat that such unsearchable genealogy crosses our grain always. ¹ Must say again—no further traced.

[485.] RICHARD BALLOU, JR.^e, of this family, b. Mar. 21, 1738; d. u. m.; date not given. Nothing reported to us of his life or character.

[486.] LUCY BALLOU^e, Richard^e, John¹, John², John³, Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Sept. 19, 1790; m. Orren Grant, son of Aaron Grant, b. in said Cumberland Mar. 3, 1795; cer. there Oct. 14, 1814, by George Tillinghast, J. P. Issue, all b. in said Cumberland.—

1731—1. Lucy Grant, b. Apl. 1815; d. 1816.

1732—2. Laura Grant, b. Jan. 19, '16; m. a Mr. Center.

1733—3. Barton Grant, b. Aug. 4, '18; m. Sarah Ballou.

1734—4. Philip Grant, b. May 9, '20; m. a Miss Whipple.

Mrs. Lucy (Ballou) Grant d. in Cumberland, R. I., at a date not given, but not very long after the birth of her youngest son Philip—certainly, we presume, before 1830. Orren Grant we remember as a sturdy, executive, laborious farm worker. He subsequently m. again, and settled finally in Royalston, Mass., where he was still living at our last advices, in good circumstances, a respected land holding citizen. His daughter, Mrs. Laura Carter, was residing in Chicago, Ill., in 1882; his son Philip perhaps res. Cumberland, R. I.; and his son Barton in Fitzwilliam, N. H. The latter m. a Ballou, and to him only, of this Grant family shall we again recur. The others no further traced.

[487.] WILLARD BALLOU⁶, Richard³, John¹, John², John², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., July 28, 1795; m. Sally Clark of said Cumberland, dr. of Onesimus Clark; cer. in Wrentham, Mass., June 27, 1822, by C. Holbrook, J. P. Issue.—

1735—1. Lydia, b. no date given; nor subsequent history reported to us.

The last we heard of Willard Ballou⁶ (July 1, 1885), he was in the Poor Asylum of Cumberland, R. I., 90 yrs. old, feeble minded, no wife, child, brother, or sister on this side the dark river, and he on its brink. Closed.

[488.] POLLY ARNOLD BALLOU⁶, Richard³, John¹, John², John², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Feb. 6, 1799; m. Simon W. Sheldon, (David, Roger,) b. in said Cumberland, Oct. 20, 1800; cer. Aug. 22, 1822, by David Aldrich, J. P. Issue.—

1736—1. Albert Norris Sheldon, b. May 9, 1823; m. Frances E. Ladd.

1737—2. Ann Jane Sheldon, b. Nov. 30, '24; m. Elias W. Ray.

1738—3. Olive Angenette Sheldon, b. Feb. 23, '28; d. July 13, 1844.

1739—4. William Whipple Sheldon, b. Dec. 18, '33; m. Ann Aldrich.

1740—5. Ballou Arnold Sheldon, b. June 25, '35; unreported.

Mrs. Polly alias Mary Arnold (Ballou) Sheldon¹ and husband resided first in their native town awhile, afterward in the State of Ohio, and later in Providence, R. I. Beyond this we have heard only that she d. and that he m. 2d, Sarah Ann Davis. No dates nor further particulars obtained concerning Mr. Sheldon or his wives. But we find in the Wilkinson Family Memoirs some facts about his chn. which we borrow and record here; as we are not likely to recur to the family again, for want of other information. The following presents in substance the matters mentioned in those Memoirs, viz.: 1. Albert Norris Sheldon res. in Hamilton, N. Y., and by his wife, Frances E. Ladd, had Jeanette, Albert N., who d., and Albert Smith,—himself a brilliant lawyer, and his family in high social standing. 2. That Ann Jane Sheldon's husband, Elias W. Ray, invented a machine to knit India rubber shoe-linings, and d., leaving one son, Charles Frederic Ray. 3. That William Whipple Sheldon' was a subaltern artillery officer in the Union army during the Great Rebellion. 4. That Ballou Arnold Sheldon' was a veterinary surgeon in the Union army during the war. This descent closed.

[Nos. 489 AND 490], chn. of Abigail Ballou⁶, John¹, John², John², Maturin¹; who m. Sylvanus Sayles, already announced as no further traced.

[491.] CHLOE STREETER⁶, Nancy Ballou¹, John¹, John², John³, Maturin¹; dr. of Rufus Streeter, husband of Nancy Ballou¹, birth-date not found; m. Hosea Sprague, and "moved into the country." No more told. Who Hosea Sprague was—when, where or by whom m.—and where "the country" was into which he and his family moved, are problems we should like to see solved, but must leave the task to smarter experts.

[492.] RUFUS STREETER⁶, of this family, lived to manhood, but d. of Measles unmarried—date not given.

[493.] RHODA STREETER⁶, of the same family, moved with her sister Sprague and husband into that undefined locality called "the country," and is no further reported.

[494.] LYDIA STREETER⁶, Nancy Ballou¹, John¹, John², John³, Maturin¹; dr. of Rufus Streeter, husband of Nancy Ballou¹, b. in Smithfield, R. I., Jan. 27, 1783, came to more distinguished account. She m. David F. Harris, (Joseph, David, Richard, Thomas, Thomas), b. in said Smithfield, Aug. 17, 1780; cer. Dec. 31, 1800, by Thomas Mann, J. P. Issue.—

- 1747—7. Beulah Ann Harris, b. Jan. 6, '15; m. Elijah B. Case May 2, 1834.

- 1749—9. Rhoda Harris, b. Dec. 13, '19; d. May, 1840.

Lydia (Streeter) Harris' and her husband, as we learn from Richardson's History of Woonsocket, R. I., began their married life at Lime Rock, R. I., where two or three of their eldest chn. were b. Next they removed to Dutchess Co., N. Y., and later, 1818, to Ashtabula Co., O. We find no other date of these migrations, nor the names of precise localities given. Nor are we able, from the family record furnished by a grandson in Ashtabula, O., to tell definitely where the births and deaths mentioned took place. Nor are we furnished with such biographical particulars and characteristics as we should like to present. We infer, however, from the style of their old Bible dates that the parents belonged to the Society of Friends; which is presumptive testimony that they were worthy people. It seems that Mrs. Lydia^a d. Feb. 11, 1837, prob. in O.; that David F. m. 2d Hannah Warrington, a native of Burlington, N. J., without issue; that he d. in the autumn of 1848; and that Mrs. Hannah, his widow, d. in Salem, O., at an unspecified recent period.

[495.] PHEBE BALLOU^c, Simeon^s, Abrahamⁱ, John^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Sept. 29, 1762; m. John Inman, Jr., (John, John, John, Edward,) b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., July 30, 1758; cer. July 25, 1784, by Uriah Alverson, J. P. Issue, b. in now Burrillville.—

1750—1. Naomi Inman, b. May 9, 1785; d. Nov. 1, 1799.

1751—2. Olney Inman, b. Apl. 22, '88; m. Prusha Thayer 1812.

1752—3. Rachel Inman, b. July 1, '91; m. Stephen Esten. She d. Feb. 11, 1810.

1754—5. John Inman, Jr., } b. Mar. 23, '96; d. u. m. Dec. 21, 1821.

1755—6. Phebe Inman } twins, b. Mar. 23, '96; m. Chas. Joslin no chn.

Nothing reported to us of the occupation, character or social standing of Phebe (Ballou) Inman and husband. We presume them to have been of the farmer class, and of decent standing among their contemporaries. His death-date not given. Hers was July 2, 1836, a. 73 yrs. 9 mos. and 3 ds.

[496.] ABRAHAM BALLOU^c, Simeon^s, Abrahamⁱ, John^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, R. I., prob. about 1764; m. 1st Diana Mowry, dr. of Gideon Mowry; cer. Mar. 6, 1785, by Wm. Alverson, J. P. We do not find the name of this Diana Mowry, as we hoped, in the Mowry Genealogy, and cannot give either her pedigree or birth-date. Issue, understood to have been b. in the locality of Slaterville, then Smithfield, now North Smithfield, R. I.—

1756—1. Hannah, b. prob. about 1786; m. Horace Taylor.

1757—2. Simeon, b. " " '87; m. Rowena Eddy 1805 or 6.

1758—3. Joanna, b. Oct. 9, '88; m. James Tift 1804.

1759—4. Lucy, b. Aug. 12, '90; m. Theodore Taylor 1806.

1764—9. Lavina, b. Mar. 28, '04; m. Thomas Fish Feb. 11, 1827.

1765—10. Collin, b. Mar. 6, '06; m. Louisa Sampson Feb. 5, 1835.

1766—11. Mary, b. not found; m. Obadiah Eddy.

Mrs. Diana (Mowry) Ballou d. in Essex, N. Y., about 1827, and Abraham^c m. 2d Mrs. Mary Blake, widow of John Blake, whose maiden name was Mason, b. in Walpole, N. H., Sept. 11, 1786; cer. at a date not ascertained, but prob. about 1829. Issue, b. in said Essex.—

1766 $\frac{1}{4}$ —12. Eleanor Mary, b. Aug. 4, 1830; d. Feb. 24, 1844.

1766 $\frac{1}{2}$ —13. Fidelia Amanda, b. July 3, '32; m. Charles Henry Gray.

1766 $\frac{3}{4}$ —14. Abraham, Jr., b. Mar. 2, '34; d. Mar. 2, 1844.

This 2d marriage and the consequent issue did not come to our knowledge till long after we had entered the record of the 1st; which accounts for the fractional numerals. Abraham Ballou is said to have been a Captain in the Revolutionary war, and to have heard the first gun fired for liberty. He was an expert, industrious shoemaker from early manhood to old age. If we are correctly informed, he inherited a part of his father's homestead at now Slaterville, R. I. But whether he ever dwelt on it we know not. He was administrator on his father's estate, and as such, sold the home farm, so called, Mar. 4, 1791, to Gideon Mowry, his father-in-law. We infer, however, that he owned a farm in the same neighborhood, which at a later period he sold out, and removed to Westmoreland, N. H. He did not remain there long, but removed to Lewis, Essex Co., N. Y., where he lived out his remaining years. From some little indicative data incidentally discovered, we conjecture he must have gone to N. H. perhaps in 1810 to '12, and thence to N. Y. about 1820. We have received no testimonials respecting the characteristics and social standing of Abraham^c and wives, but take for granted they were fair on the yeoman plane. As to the date of his death there is some discrepancy in our received reports, but that of his youngest dr., Mrs. Fidelia A. (Ballou) Gray makes it Feb. 1844, when his age must have been at least 80 yrs. His 2d wife and widow d. in Alstead, N. H., about 1867.

[497.] WILLIAM BALLOU^c, Simeon^c, Abraham^c, John^c, John^c, Maturin^c; b. in Smithfield, now No. Smithfield, R. I., Dec. 22, 1766; m. Abigail Julia Wilber, b. in said Smithfield, Aug. 6, 1766; cer. prob. about 1785, exact date and particulars of mge. not given. Issue.—

1767—1. Smith, b. Jan. 29, 1786; m. 1st —; 2d Oricy Bishop.

1768—2. Rhoda, b. Dec. 21, '90; untraceable.

1769—3. William, b. Aug. 8, '92; m. Mary Enos not far from 1814.

1770—4. Daniel W., b. Feb. 17, '95; m. Sally Sherman July 1, 1818.

1771—5. Abigail J., b. Aug. 13, '98; untraceable.

- 1772—6. Simeon, b. Oct. 14, '99; untraceable.
 1773—7. Ransom, b. July 31, 1803; m. 1st Miranda Blois, 2d Mary A. Green.
 1774—8. Philena 1st, b. Sept. 8, '06; d. in early infancy.
 1775—9. Philena 2d, b. Jan. 2, '09; m. Artemas Whipple.

William Ballou remained in Smithfield two or three years after mge., and then settled in Charlestown, N. H. There his principal occupation was the rafting of lumber down the Connecticut river to central market places. After about twenty years in the prosecution of this business, he was suddenly taken sick on the river, and d. at or near Hartford, Ct. He was an industrious, executive, hard working, trustworthy man. Prob. his oldest child was b. in Smithfield, and the other four in Charlestown, N. H. The eldest dr. is understood to have d. u. m. The sons m. and settled away from Charlestown. The second dr., Abigail, m. and went to the West. She took her mother with her. We are trying to ascertain dates and particulars, but success is problematical. After writing the foregoing we groped for more satisfactory information, and found some. As nearly as we can learn, Mrs. Abigail, his widow, finally d. with her son William, Jr., in Essex, Vt., Oct. 19, 1847, a. 81 yrs. 2 mos. and 13 ds.

[498.] LAVINA BALLOU⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham¹, John¹, John², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, now North Smithfield, R. I., not far from 1770; m. William Bowen of Glocester, R. I., where, without issue, both lived and d. Nothing else concerning them reported. All well enough for those in the higher life, but not creditable to our work.

[499.] RACHEL BALLOU⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham¹, John¹, John², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, now No. Smithfield, R. I., about 1773; m. Charles Westcott, said to have been a native of Warwick, R. I., date of the mge. not ascertained; set. in Charlestown, N. H. Issue, supposed to have been b. in said Charlestown.—

- 1776—1. Phebe Westcott, b. not given; nor any subsequent trace.
 1777—2. Rosalinda Westcott, b. not given; nor any subsequent trace.
 1778—3. Artemesia Westcott, b. Aug. 10, 1807; m. 1st Henry F. Locke, 2d E. Bailey.

We conjecture that Rachel Ballou and Charles Westcott must have been m. between 1798 and 1802, and prob. they soon after removed to N. H. It is unpleasant to be groping after reliable data as we are obliged to be in this and many other cases; but such is often our lot. We judge these parents to have deserved a good memorial—though none has been furnished us. We so judge simply from the fact that they kindly cared for Rachel's mother in her aged widowhood, as told in the record of Simeon Ballou^s. Rachel^e d. July 27, 1845, a. about 72 yrs. Charles Westcott d. Feb. 26, 1856, a. 83 yrs. This shows him to have been b. the same year with his wife, 1773. Their dust reposes near that of Rachel's mother, in North Charlestown graveyard.

[500.] LEAH BALLOU^e, Simeon^e, Abrahamⁱ, John^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, now No. Smithfield, R. I., not far from 1775; m. Daniel Aldrich there. No date or particulars of the mge., or what became of the nuptial pair, reported, except that they had chn., and that, forty years ago, one dr. was living in Butternuts, N. Y. Cannot trace the family.

[501.] WELCOME BALLOU^e, Simeon^e, Abrahamⁱ, John^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, now No. Smithfield, R. I., Nov. 19, 1780; m. Aurelia Taft, dr. of Japhet Taft (Daniel, Robert), b. in Mendon, Mass., near Nipmuck Pond, July 28, 1780; cer. Jan. 10, 1802. Issue.—

1779—1. Sarah Chapin, b. Oct. 22, 1803; m. John K. Moore.

1780—2. Aurelia Matilda, b. Nov. 1, '06; m. Bailey Rees 1829.

1781—3. Welcome, M. D., b. Nov. 11, '09; m. 1st Margaret Foster, 2d Jane Harrah.

1782—4. Celia Ann, b. June 27, '12; m. John Foster Aug. 12, 1833.

1783—5. Lorinda, b. Jan. 7, '15; m. Samuel Wartenbe Sept. 22, 1838.

1784—6. Aurelius, b. Jan. 18, '18; m. Sarah Bacon Oct. 1839.

1785—7. Leander Taft, M. D., b. Dec. 7, '21; m. Harriet Charliot 1845.

Welcome Ballou^e and Aurelia his wife had superior blood in their constitutions. They were physically, intellectually and morally above the common average. And they transmitted to their children, hereditarily and educationally, their excellent qualities,—who distinguished themselves accordingly, as will be seen in later pages. The parents were naturally enterprising, executive and persistent in their life-career. They settled, not long after mge., in Charlton, Mass. He was an ingenious, expert shoemaker, but could turn his hand to farming with equal readiness. Their eldest three chn. were b. in Charlton, Mass. But what, in former times, was called "the Ohio fever," seized them in 1811, and they started with a two-horse team for the then far West. They carried along, besides their three chn., all the goods and fixings their horses could well draw. For 44 wearisome days and nights they pursued their journey till, on the 1st of August, they reached Zanesville, O. Soon they pitched their tent on Salt Creek, ten miles from Zanesville, and made themselves a home till 1835. This was in Muskingum Co. There their youngest four chn. were b., and the family was reared. There Welcome^e drove the boot and shoe-making business with thrifty profit. At length he had a tempting opportunity to exchange his estate for goodly lands twenty miles east, in now Noble Co., and did so. He there devoted himself for ten years to successful farming. He then sold out, and took up his residence in Newark, Licking Co., where he lived at comparative ease, working occasionally—for pleasure, on his shoe bench, and enjoying the fruits of toil no longer indispensable. Mrs. Aurelia d. there Mar. 31, 1857. He himself had a green old age—looking, at 82, younger than most men at 65. It is said that he m. a second wife, but we cannot give name or particulars. He d. Apl. 26 or 27, 1866, in his 86th yr.

[502.] GEORGE BALLOU^e, Simeon^s, Abrahamⁱ, John^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, now North Smithfield, in the vicinity of now Slaterville, R. I., about 1782; m. 1st Caroline Maderson of Glocester, R. I.; cer. probably early in 1800. The name of this 1st wife, Caroline Maderson, comes down to us through a grand dr., and we strongly suspect should be Caroline Mattison, but are not certain about it. Issue, b. prob. in now Burrillville, R. I.—

Mrs. Caroline, the mother, d. in 1801. George^e m. 2d Nancy Fish—no date or particulars ascertained. Issue, b. perhaps in Providence, R. I., or vicinity.—

1787—2. Hiram, b. Jan. 21, 1804; m. Betsey Phelps, &c.

1788—3. Amos, b. date not ascertained; not traced.

Mrs. Nancy, the 2d wife, d. at a date ungiven. George^e m. 3d a lady whose name we never learned, nor any connected particulars of the marriage. Issue, b. prob. in the vicinity of Claremont, N. H.—

1789—4. Norman, b. no date; to us untraceable.

1790—5. Nancy, b. no date; to us untraceable.

1791—6. Caroline, b. no date; m. Rufus Allen, Ticonderoga, N. Y.

1792—7. Juspa, b. no date; to us untraceable.

1793—8. Charles, b. no date; said to res. Grand Rapids, Mich.

1794—9. George, b. no date; no trace found.

It has been with great difficulty that we have imperfectly traced the history of George Ballou^e and his descendants. He left R. I.

after the birth of his first three chn. and the deaths of their mothers, and settled in or near Claremont, N. H. There he is said to have remained till quite an elderly man, when he removed to Crown Point, N. Y. He is supposed to have d. in the vicinity of the latter locality, and prob. his last wife; but we have found no one to furnish us definite information on the several obscure points above indicated. How many of his descendants we shall find remains to be seen.

[503 AND 504.] two drs. of Simeon Ballou^s, b. at unknown dates, who d. young. Passed over.

[505.] MARY BALLOU^s, Simeon^s, Abraham¹, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, now No. Smithfield, R. I., prob. sometime during the year 1786, not long after her father's death; m. 1st Royal Callum in Mendon, Mass., Jan. 20, 1805, by Benjamin Reed, J. P. Issue.—

- 1795—1. Lyman Callum; birth-date not found.
- 1796—2. William Callum; “ “
- 1797—3. Mary Ann Callum; “ “
- 1798—4. Hannah Callum; “ “

Royal Callum d. at a date not ascertained; and Maryⁿ m. 2d Reuben Combs, b. in Uxbridge, Mass. Issue, b. in Holden, Mass.—

- 1799—5. Ezra Combs; birth-date not found.
 - 1800—6. Simeon E. Combs; birth-date not found.
 - 1801—7. Royal Combs; birth-date not found.
- They had also a dr. that d. young.

Of the Callum chn. we could find no clew whereby to trace them, and dismissed the blind research. Of the Combses, we struck trail, but with meagre results. Ezra resides in Buffalo, N. Y. We addressed him there; but, if he received our communication, he took no notice of it. Royal and Simeon E. reside in Worcester, Mass. The former gave no heed to our appeal. Simeon E. enjoys the distinction of being Chief Engineer of the City's Fire Department. He gave me the names of his mother's chn. by both husbands, except of his deceased sister; also the P. O. addresses of his two brothers, Ezra and Royal, but no dates at all; leaving us ignorant even of his aged mother's death-date—pleading that he had no records. He did not tell us whether he had any chn. or wife. We suppose neither he nor his brothers have any exuberant ambition to occupy a place in our Genealogy.

We therefore declined to prosecute our inquiries further for the descendants of Mary Ballou^c, dr. of Simeon^a. This descent is closed.

[506.] THANKFUL BALLOU^c, David^a, Abrahamⁱ, John^a, John^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Gloucester, R. I., 1768; m. John Bentley, of whose birthplace, parentage and hymeneal particulars nothing has been given us. His death-date below implies that he was b. not far from 1756; which makes him to have been ten or twelve years older than his wife. They dwelt most of their married lives in Milton, N. Y., where we suppose their chn. were b., viz.—

1802—1. Otis Bentley, b. not given; resided 1862 Ballston Spa, N. Y.

1803—2. Stephen Bentley, b. not given; resided 1861 Sandy Creek, N. Y.

1804—3. David Bentley, b. not given; resided 1862 Pulaski, N. Y.

Mr. Peck received several letters from Otis and Stephen Bentley, containing considerable information concerning the family relatives on their mother's side. We examined those letters, hoping to find the desired data respecting the family records of their parents and themselves. They evince intelligence and good intentions, but say little of the Bentleys. Either they did not feel invited to specialize these cases, or were indisposed to do so. We are told that John Bentley m. Thankful Ballou; that they had three sons, Otis, Stephen and David; that they lived in Milton, N. Y.; and that both d. there in 1830—Mr. Bentley July 20, in his 75th yr., and Mrs. Thankful the ensuing Oct., in her 62d yr. But who John Bentley was—when and where the mge. was solemnized—what sort of people the parents were—whether they ever had any other chn.—who Otis, Stephen and David married—what offspring resulted, &c., not a hint is given. This sort of genealogy is common enough, and good enough for some folks, but not exactly to our liking. It may be our fault not to push research to the bottom, and find out all we desire to know, but we are inclined to say—no further traced.

[507.] PARDON BALLOU^c, David^a, Abrahamⁱ, &c., b. 1769, d. in Providence, R. I., at the a. of 17 yrs.

[508.] ASA BALLOU^c, David^a, Abrahamⁱ, John^a, John^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Gloucester, R. I., July 6, 1771; m. Nancy Jones of said Gloucester, during the yr. 1796—no further particulars of eer. Issue, b. in said Gloucester.—

1805—1. Asia, b. —, 1798; m. Smith D. Thornton Sept. 22, 1816.

1806—2. Varnum S., b. —, 1802; m. Freelove Thornton Feb. 1825.

They had no other chn. It seems that Varnum S. Ballou, their only son, m. and settled in Norwich, Chenango Co., N. Y., and that his parents, in order to be near him, removed thither from Glocester, R. I., in 1825. Mrs. Nancy d. there Oct. 6, 1842. Eleven yrs. later, in Sept. 1853, Varnum S. d. Asa^a was now over four score, bereaved and desolate. He therefore took refuge with his now only surviving child, Mrs. Asia (Ballou) Thornton, then residing in Roscoe, Winnebago Co., Ill. There he was tenderly cared for, and finally d. Mar. 6, 1861, a. 89 yrs. and 8 mos. We infer that Asa^a and wife were well disposed, plain mannered, worthy people.

[509.] SARAH BALLOU^a, David^s, Abraham^t, &c., b. 1773, d. u. m. in Glocester, R. I., at the a. of 22 yrs.

[510.] NANCY BALLOU^a, David^s, Abraham^t, &c., b. in 1775, d. u. m. in Glocester, R. I., at the a. of 22 yrs.

[511.] ACHSA BALLOU^a, David^s, Abraham^t, John^s, John^s, Maturin^t; b. in Glocester, R. I., 1776; m. Hazariah Phillips of said Glocester; no date or particulars given. Issue.—

1807—1. Sila Phillips, brought up by Mrs. William Owen.

1808—2. Maria Phillips, brought up with her grandmother Ballou, and left in care of friends in Foster, R. I., when her grandmother moved to Saratoga, N. Y.

Mrs. Achsa (Ballou) Phillips d. at the a. of about 30 yrs., leaving these orphan drs. to the oversight of their relations. No more told. No further traced.

[512.] POLLY BALLOU^a, David^s, Abraham^t, John^s, John^s, Maturin^t; b. in Glocester, R. I., June, 1778; m. Joseph Merrick, settled in Henderson, Jefferson Co., N. Y.; no particulars concerning Groom or cer. Issue.—

1809—1. Samuel Merrick, b. nothing reported—untraced.

1810—2. John Merrick, b. “ “ “

1811—3. Clarissa Merrick, b.; m. Elijah Ehly, last of Lagone, Du Page Co., Ill.

Too little encouragement to attempt further tracement.

[513.] ESTHER BALLOU^a, David^s, &c., b. 1780; d. u. m. in Sandy Creek, N. Y. 1842.

turin¹; b. in Glocester, R. I., 1782; m. 1st, Hannah Comstock in 1808, and settled in Greenfield, N. Y. Issue.—

1812—1. Mary, b. untold; m. Joshua Mosher; had 3 chn.

1813—2. Orion, b. “ d. in Kentucky at the a. of 21 yrs.

1814—3. Stephen C., b. about 1816; m. Abby Corey; res. 1862 in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Hannah (Comstock) Ballou, d. in Greenfield, N. Y., at a date not given. Arthur^o m. 2d, in Greenfield, or elsewhere, in 1842, Sally Post; specification of particulars ignored. No issue reported. They were last heard from as residing at Evans Centre, Erie Co., N. Y. Occupation, farming. No characteristics granted. This record is too indefinite and barren.

[515.] PHILA BALLOU^o, of this family, d. in Glocester, R. I., at the a. of 14 yrs.

[516.] DAVID BALLOU^o, David^o, Abraham¹, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Glocester, Feb. 14, 1790; m. Abigail Jackson; cer. Sandy Creek, N. Y., Apl. 4, 1819. Issue.—

1815—1. Horace, b. July 11, 1821; m. Harriet L. Warfield Apl. 1860.

1816—2. Esther, b. Dec. 13, '27; d. in Sandy Creek, Dec. 20, 1843.

1817—3. Achsa Ann, b. Feb. 15, '31; m. William Sidney Coon.

This David Ballou^o is said to have removed, in 1857, to Pleasant Vale, Pike Co., Ill., where, at last reports, his entire surviving family resided with or near him. Our U. S. Postal Guide gives no Post Office so designated, and whoever may be still living of the family, we despair of finding. And unless new light shines in upon us, we shall not attempt further research.

[517.] HANNAH BALLOU^o, David³, Abraham¹, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Glocester, N. Y., Nov. 14, 1786; m. John Pierce in the vicinity of Sandy Creek, N. Y. He d. leaving at least one son and dr. The son's name was S. D. Pierce. The sister's name not given, but she m. Ezra Corse of Sandy Creek, N. Y. Wid. Hannah (Ballou) Pierce and chn. were last reported as residing in Lagone, Du Page Co., Ill. It seems useless to number or trace them. We leave them in their dateless, half nameless generation.

[518.] CYNTHIA BALLOU^o, David³, Abraham¹, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Glocester, R. I., about 1791; m. Abraham Jackson, a bro. of her bro. David's wife, somewhere, sometime, and had at least one child, perhaps more—all enveloped in a fog of indefinitence. She was last reported living with a married son or dr. near Pleasant Vale, Pike Co., Ill. No more told.

Thus we have gone through the imperfect family record of this David Ballou's 13 children. Whether we shall be able to glean any fragments of their widely scattered progeny is uncertain. Possibly we may find a few. Passing over the already dismissed Nos. 519 to 536 inclusive, we reach the large, well reported family of Joseph Ballou^b, William¹, Maturin³, John², Maturin¹. But of these it will be seen, by referring to their record, No. 142, that nothing more can be usefully said, as the family must probably soon become extinct. We therefore pass over Nos. 537 to 545 inclusive, and come to the chn. of William Ballou, the said Joseph's brother. The eldest three of this William Ballou's chn. d. young, viz.: [Nos. 546-548], and need not be specified.

[549.] ABIAH BALLOU^b, William^b, William¹, Maturin¹, John², Maturin¹; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., Mar. 20, 1824; m. Willard H. Dawley of Westerly, R. I., no date of mge., &c. Issue, understood to have been b. in said Westerly or vicinity.—

1818—1. William Henry Dawley, b. not given; no trace obtained.

1819—2. Barbara Annie Dawley, b. not given; m. a Mr. Potter, Slocumville, R. I.

Mrs. Abiah (Ballou) Dawley d. Oct. 4, 1850. We wrote months ago to Slocumville, R. I., to learn something if possible about Mrs. Abiah's dr. and son, but recd. no response. We shall attempt no further tracement.

[550 AND 551.] WILLIAM HARRISON BALLOU^b, and ALMANDA BALLOU^b, of this family, demand no further notice.

[552.] SANFORD JACKSON BALLOU^b, William¹, William¹, Maturin³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., Aug. 5, 1829, went abroad at sea and elsewhere, and for over 22 yrs. was unheard from. He was given up by his Vermont relatives as lost; but to their great surprise, within the last two or three years, an only son of the supposed lost one suddenly made his appearance, inquiring for his father's kindred. Thus it was ascertained that Sanford Jackson Ballou m. Mary McKenzie, dr. of John and Annie (McLean) McKenzie, b. in the Highlands of Scotland Nov. 20, 1836; cer. in Boston, Mass., July 18, 1860, by Rev. A. Blakie. Issue, b. in East Boston.—

1820—1. John Sanford, b. Sept. 25, 1861; m. Martha P. Gerring July 16, 1884.

It appears, from the rather meagre reliable information available, that Sanford Jackson Ballou was a remarkably bashful, reticent, modest, conscientious, kind hearted, peaceable, exemplary man from his youth upward to mature manhood. He was silent and uncommunicative, but upright, dutiful and gentle in his manners toward all, and one of the best of husbands. He was a patient laborer sometimes as a farm hand, sometimes as a fisherman on the briny deep, and during his last years as a ship carpenter. His home was in East Boston for many years, and there, just as he was getting into comfortable temporal circumstances, he was cut off by Typhoid Pneumonia Apl. 16, 1864, a. 34 yrs. 8 mos. and 11 ds. His widow, a very worthy woman, has since m. a 2d husband, and resides in East Boston.

[553.] JAMES HIRAM BALLOU^a, William^a, William^a, Maturin^a, John^a, Maturin^a; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., June 25, 1831; d. u. m. a patriotic soldier in the Union Army, Feb. 4, 1862, a. 30 yrs. 7 mos. and 9 ds. He deserves his share of the eulogies that enflower the graves of the vast host who died for their country in that dreadful civil war.

[554.] CHARLES RILEY BALLOU^a, William^a, William^a, Maturin^a, John^a, Maturin^a; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., June 29, 1833; m. in California a wife whose name has never reached us, and at a date ungiven. Issue, b. somewhere in California, in localities and at dates not reported, only their ages dating back from Feb. 11, 1885.—

1821—1.	Charles,	aged 17 years.
1822—2.	James H.,	“ 15 “
1823—3.	Josephine P.,	“ 13 “
1824—4.	Marcellus,	“ 8 “
1825—5.	George,	“ 6 “
1826—6.	Ella Rosa,	“ 4 “
1827—7.	Almanda,	“ 2 “

Charles R. Ballou^a seems to have been born under what the astrologers call malign or unpropitious planetary rulings. He left home while yet a guileless lad, and sought his fortune in the golden regions of California. There he toiled hard, and was twice robbed of his savings—once by his faithless partner while helplessly sick. At length he married and took his wife to an obscure nook, away from vicious associations and corrupting influences, where he sought to raise up his family, but where there were no schools to educate them. The struggles of his lot in life always pressed him down, and he had seldom heart enough left to write home to his Vermont relatives. They rarely heard of his whereabouts. Finally, in the autumn of 1883, he started with his family on board a large covered wagon, for a locality in Oregon, where his wife's mother resided. But the snows of winter met him on his journey, and he was obliged to halt among strangers in a dreary part of the country. There he threw up a cabin, took a fatal cold, and soon died. Charity buried him, and provided temporary relief for his suffering family. He d. in Redding, Shasta Co., Cal., Apl. 26, 1884, a. about 51 yrs. The fate of his family is no further told. A hard, sad case this!

[Nos. 555 AND 556], two chn. of this family passed over without further attention. The latter, MARCELLUS BALLOU^o, still lives, but is a physical and mental wreck.

[557.] BARBARA ANNIE BALLOU^o, William^o, William^o, Maturin^o, John^o, Maturin^o; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., Oct. 20, 1839; m. Abel Merrill of Chelsea, Vt., son of Abel and Sarah H. Merrill, b. in Stowe, Vt., Apl. 2, 1811; cer. in said Chelsea, Vt., Sept. 9, 1873, by Rev. Samuel Delano. Issue, b. in said Chelsea.—

1828—1. Maud Merrill, b. May 12, 1875; now a promising maiden.

Mrs. Barbara Annie is an amiable, intelligent, exemplary wife and mother. Mr. Merrill is a man of corresponding intelligence and worth. He is a descendant of a Huguenot family that settled during the 18th century in Newbury, Mass. He graduated at Dartmouth College in 1839, practiced law some years in Hartland, Vt., settled on a farm in Chelsea, Vt., sold it out, went to Kansas in 1856 to help make it a Free State, returned to Chelsea, and has since usefully employed himself there as one of its influential citizens,—at the same time much devoted to his family, and especially to the educational development of his beloved Maud.

[558.] SARAH ABBIE BALLOU^o, William^o, William^o, Maturin^o, John^o, Maturin^o; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., Sept. 24, 1842; d. Apl. 23, 1872. She was a lady of remarkable loveliness, physical, intellectual and moral—greatly beloved and lamented by all who knew her. But she was transplanted only to bloom forever in the immortal Eden.

What a large and strangely diversified family was this of William Ballou^o, b. in Tunbridge, Vt.; diversified in peculiarities of genius, character and experience! And how few are its remains on earth!

[559.] JOHN BALLOU^a, Bezeliel^b, William^c, Maturin^d, John^e, Maturin^f; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., Aug. 12, 1828; m. Cordelia L. King, dr. of John and Elizabeth (Noyes) King, b. July 14, 1835; cer. Nov. 19, 1856. Issue, b. in said Tunbridge.—

John Ballou^a is a substantial and worthy farmer of Tunbridge, Vt. Mrs. Cordelia, his wife, is a woman of noble mind and moral qualities. For several years she was a valuable correspondent of Mr. Peck, and with unwearied pains furnished him a large amount of genealogical data concerning the Ballous, her husband's relations, residents of Tunbridge and vicinity. We are indebted to her also for valuable information of a later date. Our readers will enjoy the fruit she has helped to gather for these pages, though not aware of her faithful services in detail. Our last letter from her, under date of Apl. 22, 1885, reported herself, husband and only son Milton J. in usual health.

Mrs. Betsey (Ballou) Gallup d. in Northfield, Vt., Dec. 30, 1860. Nothing given concerning character, social standing, or even occupation; leaving us to guess that all these were fair.

[565.] SILAS BALLOU^a, Bezeliel^a, William¹, Maturin², John², Maturin¹; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., Apl. 22, 1839. One of our romantic adventurous cousins, last heard from u. m. in Hong Kong, China. What has since befallen him of life's good or ill fortune remains yet untold. No intelligence whatever concerning Silas Ballou^a has lately reached his Vermont relations. Nothing further to be said at present.

[570.] MATURIN SMITH BALLOU^a, Maturin^a, William¹, Maturin², John², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Aug. 16, 1830. We are so unfortunate as never to have learned more of Maturin S¹, than that he is a house carpenter and resides at Saylesville, R. I. We respectfully addressed him a written request on our printed Circular, Apl. 16, 1885, but received no response. We can hardly doubt that our communication reached him, and that for some reason he was indisposed to furnish us the information solicited. We are sorry we cannot give it, but feel excusable.

We presume this Jonathan Ballou^o was a mechanic of some sort, but have not been told his occupation, nor his characteristics, nor those of his companion. We wish we had been, for we cannot doubt they deserved a creditable record. He seems to have been cut off from his young family when they greatly needed a father's providence and care. He d. Dec. 31, 1867. Mrs. Sarah, his widow, survived him several years. She d. Feb. 27, 1884.

[582.] HOSEA BALLOU^a, Sanford^s, Williamⁱ, Maturin^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Tunbridge, Vt., Sept. 5, 1854. At our last advices Hosea^a was enjoying a life of “single blessedness” in his native town, and, we presume, one of honorable usefulness.

Concerning this cluster of Ballou families in Vermont, the descendants of Williamⁱ, originally of Smithfield, R. I., Mrs. John Ballou, who married into the connection, wrote to Mr. Peck, in 1873, as follows.—“If your mother was a real Ballou, and was a relative of the ones here, you must know that you have to wait their motion. But I will say that no better folks live than they are on an average.” Her hit is a pretty good one, in the matter of “motion,” on the whole rank and file of our cousinhood. They are a cool, undrivable, unhurryable race, but are apt to be persistent and reliable when once fairly started.

[583.] THOMAS BULLOCK^a, David and Mary Ballou^s, Rev. Maturinⁱ, Peter^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. prob. in Warwick, Mass., in 1772; is understood not to have been m., was lost to the knowledge of his family relatives for some years, but finally heard from as a soldier in the U. S. army in the war of 1812. He was last reported going into the battle of Sacketts Harbor, May 29, 1813. It is presumed he perished in that battle. He was never afterward heard of.

[584.] WELCOME BULLOCK⁶, David and Mary Ballou⁵, Rev. Maturin¹, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Warwick, Mass., not far from 1774; m. a lady in Cuyahoga Co. Ohio, no name of bride, birthplace, birth-date, or marriage-date given. Issue, 6 chn.—4 drs. and 2 sons; all said to have been some time deceased in 1874, excepting 1 son, viz.—

1847—1. James Monroe Bullock; res. Chagrin Falls, O.

This pitiable skeleton of a family record is derived mainly from letters to Mr. Peck in 1874 by two grandsons of David Bullock, viz.—James Monroe Bullock of Chagrin Falls, O., and Cromwell Bullock of Elbridge, N. Y. James Monroe⁷ gave no names except his father's and his own, and no dates at all, but promised a future letter in which he would be ample and explicit. Whether he ever wrote the promised letter to Mr. Peck we know not; but if he did, it has not reached us. It seems to us doubtful if we shall be able to trace Welcome Bullock⁶ any farther than to the above named James M. Bullock.

[585.] CROMWELL BULLOCK⁶, David and Mary Ballou,⁵ Rev. Maturin¹, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Warwick, Mass., not far from 1776; m. Sarah Morton, dr. of Benjamin Morton, birth-date not given; cer. in the locality formerly known as Erving's Grant, Mass., some time between 1790 and 1800. Issue.—

As it seems unlikely we shall be able to trace this family definitely into the next generation, we will here impart all the information we have recd. respecting parents, chn., and grand chn. in one general statement. This is a digest of a letter to Mr. Peck from Cromwell Bullock⁷, dated Elbridge, N. Y., May 20, 1874. From this letter it appears that Cromwell Bullock⁷ dwelt mostly in some town of Franklin Co., Mass., till all his eight children had been born. Then, perhaps about 1815, he removed with his family to Marcellus, Onondaga Co., N. Y., where he remained, at the brick making business, till 1838. Finally he settled in Fayetteville in the same Co. There he was Bethel agent for the Baptist Church; from which we infer that he was a pious and trusted member of that denomination. He d. in Fayetteville about 1844. When and where Mrs. Sarah, his wife, d. is not indicated.

MARY BALLOU BULLOCKⁱ, the eldest dr., who m. Garridas Spaulding in 1830, d. in Van Buren, N. Y., in April, 1873. She left there her husband, and one dr., who married Maynard Ingoldsby.

HOSEA BALLOU BULLOCKⁱ, the eldest son, who m. Hepsie Morton, resided, in 1874, at Lomira Centre, Dodge Co., Wis., and had a family of several chn., two of whom, Benjamin and Mary, were living in 1868.

CYNTHIA BULLOCKⁱ, who m. Addison Cole, had two chn., Eliza and Addison, both living in 1874 at Fayetteville, N. Y. She d. there at a date not given, leaving her husband and the aforesaid chn.

BENJAMIN F. BULLOCKⁱ, who m. Nancy Carrier, had four chn., viz.—Nancy, who d. young; David; Addison, who m. Maria Joles, lived in Springport, Cayuga Co., N. Y., and had nine chn.; and Sarah, who m. Robert Betts at Port Byron, N. Y., and had a large family.

CROMWELL BULLOCKⁱ, b. in Boston Aug. 20, 1806, who m. Melissa Everts, dr. of Levi and Wealthy (Brown) Everts, at Weedsport, N. Y., Mar. 31, 1829, resided, 1874, in Elbridge, Onondaga Co., N. Y., without chn. He was trained a Cabinet-maker, but after 1844 engaged in the Millwright business. Moral character and social standing highly influential. At the above date he was 68 yrs. of age, and had been Justice Peace in Elbridge for 24 consecutive yrs.

DELIGHT BULLOCKⁱ, youngest child of Cromwell and Mary (Ballou) Bullock, m. a husband, name not given, resides in Poygan, Winnebago Co., Wis., and has a large family.

The reader will suspect, from our many previous hints, that we are not proud of this peculiar family record; but it is much better than nothing—though so deficient in dates, definiteness, and methodical order. And justice demands the fact that the furnisher, Cromwell Bullockⁱ, pleaded the important excuse, that his father's regular family record was unfortunately burnt, leaving him to depend chiefly on his own memory. Such as it is, we submit it, and shall attempt no further tracing of Mary (Ballou) Bullock's descendants.

Asahel Ballou^e was a man of strong native common sense, intelligent without scholastic privileges by force of his own mental culture, observation and experience—high toned in moral sentiment, conscience and character—a plain, unpretentious, hard-working farmer of the most solid and reliable stamp. He and his companion commanded the spontaneous respect and confidence of all who knew them. The reader will see at a glance their excellent qualities enflowered in their sons—of whom we shall have occasion to speak with commendatory consideration in their order of record. Asahel Ballou and wife settled, raised their family, lived and died in Halifax, Vt. She d. Oct. 9, 1839, a. 63 yrs. 4 mos. and 11 ds. He d. Mar. 20, 1851, a. 80 yrs. 2 mos. and 2 ds.

They are said to have removed to "the Black river country." No more told, and we despair of ever tracing these "Black river cousins." We regret to leave them out in the cold, but presume they will never much deplore being excusably ignored.

Martin Ballou, Esq., was an executive and thrifty farmer, an intelligent, influential citizen, a man of sterling moral rectitude, and eminently exemplary in all his relationships. He was respected accordingly. He was long an honored civil magistrate in his vicinage, town clerk, an incumbent of various responsible municipal offices, many times a Representative to the General Court, and Postmaster for more than 30 yrs. He d. Apl. 6, 1853, in the 77th year of his age. We may safely presume that his wives were intelligent and worthy women. His 2d wife, Mrs. Prudence (Phelps) Ballou, d. the ensuing June after him, 1853.

A very intelligent, enterprising, thrifty and reputable family throughout. Mrs. Barbara^a and her husband spent most of their married life in Monroe, Mass., where all their chn. except Moses, were b. (He in Florida.) They were prosperous in temporal things, and became the wealthiest pair in Monroe. Their moral and social standing was correspondingly prominent. He d. there Apl. 10, 1859, a. 75 yrs. 5 mos. 10 ds. Mrs. Barbara d. in Jacksonville, Vt., Nov. 2, 1879, a. 92 yrs. 11 mos. 5 ds.

[593.] SARAH BALLOU^c, Benjamin^a, Rev. Maturin¹, Peter^a, John^a, Maturin¹; b. in Guilford, Vt., Thursday, Mar. 5, 1789; m. John Parsons. Here is another family which we must present in imperfect and unsatisfactory registration; having written in vain for information to its surviving remnants. The parents have gone the way of all the earth several years since. Mrs. Sarah¹, is said to have d. of Small Pox. We give below the names of 12 chn. and a few fractional appendages.—

- 1914— 12. Lucy Parsons; m. Rev. Nathan D. Sherman; res. in Whitingham, Vt.

We have derived these names from two obscure lists, and cannot vouch for their entire accuracy; not knowing but some of the chn. had double names and were variously called.

No more told. What we and our readers have lost through ignorance of this family branch of cousins cannot be guessed, but presumably much; for all hints and glimpses indicate that, in general, this stock of Ballou Moseses evinced uncommonly good blood. No further traced.

[597.] SAMUEL MOSES, Jr^e, Samuel and Lydia Ballou^r, Rev. Maturinⁱ, Peter^r, John^r, Maturinⁱ; b. in Warwick, Mass., May 7, 1778; m. Eunice Sheldon, dr. of Moses Sheldon, Rupert, Vt., cer. 1807. Issue.—

A very intelligent and worthy family throughout. Samuel and Eunice Sheldon spent most of their married life, and reared their chn., on the patrimonial homestead in Warwick, Mass.; and their remains repose in the humble cemetery set apart thereon for that purpose by Samuel Moses, Senior. There plain memorial stones mark the graves of Samuel and Lydia (Ballou) Moses, of Eunice I. Moses, who d. Aug. 29, 1839, a. 16 yrs., of Mrs. Eunice, wife of Samuel, Jr., who d. April 2, 1849, a. 66 yrs., and of Samuel, Jr., who d. Feb. 23, 1870, a. 91 yrs. 8 mos. and 16 ds.

As it will be quite difficult for us to trace the chn. of Samuel and Eunice Moses satisfactorily through our 8th generation, we will present here a summary of what has reached us concerning them. Mr. Peck recd. interesting and valuable letters in 1874 from two of the drs., viz., Mrs. Salina (Moses) Franklin, and Mrs.

Abbie S. (Moses) Tolman⁷. They were unable to give all the desirable names, facts and dates of the case; but we extract the substance of such statements as they could command.

Mrs. Salina⁷ said.—“In regard to my grandmother’s descendants, so far as I can learn, they have been an honest, industrious people, not much given to the acquirement of wealth, nor distinguished for anything specially brilliant; yet not one, to my knowledge, has ever been supported at the public expense, or been convicted of a crime; which should be something to our credit.” Her own domestic story was given thus.—“I was reared on the old homestead of my grandparents in Warwick, Mass. At the age of 25 I was married to Ira Kelton, son of our Rev. neighbor, James Kelton. My husband lived but four years after our marriage. We had two children—a dr. named Frances Salina, who died in early childhood, a. 2½ yrs., and a son named 1928—1. Ira Judson Kelton.

He grew to manhood, and gave promise of a true and noble life, but was cut down in the early part of the late war of the Rebellion, at the age of 25 yrs. after having faithfully served his country but one short year. He had risen from the ranks to a Captaincy in the 21st Regt. Mass. Vols.” [His aunt, Mrs. Tolman, said, “he fell mortally wounded at Chantilly, Va., Sept. 1, 1862, and died 19 days after in hospital at Georgetown, D. C.”] “Thus was wrenched from me, by the ruthless hand of cruel and relentless war, the last remaining hope of my early life, the comfort and solace of my declining years.”

“On the 9th of Oct. 1845, and 8 yrs. after the death of my husband, Ira Kelton, I entered the marriage relation with my present husband, Benjamin H. Franklin. We have an only child, a daughter, born Oct. 10, 1846, Mary Louisa; who was married Oct. 10, 1867, to Alvin B. Chamberlain, trader, of Sturbridge, Mass.” Said Sturbridge has been the residence of Mrs. Selina Franklin for many years.

Louisa Moses⁷, Samuel, Jr⁶, m. Andrew March, then of Millbury, Mass., in 1838. She was an admirable singer, but d. many yrs. ago, leaving two sons and one dr. Her sons served in the war of the Rebellion, as privates in the 21st Regt. Mass. Vols., and the youngest was killed at Chantilly, Va., Sept. 1, 1862. His name was Harry March. His elder bro., Addison March, was a policeman in Worcester, Mass., in 1874. The sister, Mary Williams, resided in Charlton, Mass., at the above date. Sheldon C. Moses⁷, Moses, Jr.^d, at the same date, resided in Mendota, Ill., was quite a singer and teacher of vocal music, and later a tuner of musical instruments. It is not told whom he m.; but he had two sons and a dr., viz. Charles, Frank, and Nellie. Charles^d was a musician and instrument tuner, lived somewhere in Ill., was m., and had an infant dr. Frank Moses^d was a carpenter in Worcester, Mass., m., but had no chn. Nellie^d m. Lewis Clark, resided in Worcester, Mass., and had two infant sons. All these under date of 1874.

Abbie S. Moses^d, Samuel, Jr.^d, the writer of the letter from which we are now condensing statements, wrote at the above date of herself. "I was m. June 6, 1848, to Jacob N. Tolman, of Sterling, Mass. He was a widower with two little chn., Frank and Addie. I have had three chn.—the first Oscar^d, b. Oct. 1, 1849, lived but two ds.—my second, Willie^d, b. June 1, 1851—my youngest, Edith^d, b. June 6, 1856. I cannot give you any particulars concerning our family of much interest. We all have our share of joy and sorrow—of sorrow mostly. My husband d. in San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 8, 1873, and my own son is also in Cal." In a subsequent letter she apologized to Mr. Peck for seeming negligence in answering his inquiries, thus.—"My sad bereavement has left me a destitute widow, and I am under the necessity of earning my own living, and also of providing for my dr. who is in ill health. You will therefore see that I am not so situated as to be much help to any one." Alas, how many such tales might be truthfully told!

Eunice I. Moses^d, Samuel, Jr.^d, as already stated, d. in the early bloom of maidenhood in Warwick, Mass., Aug. 29, 1839. Comment by her sister Tolman.—"Her life was short, but 'that life is long which answers life's great end.'"

Samuel A. Moses^d, Samuel, Jr.^d; m. Eliza Frances Lowd in 1861, resided in 1874 in Worcester, Mass., was a machinist, has a dr. Helen Frances^d, 11 yrs. old, and had buried 2 little sons, both successively named William Henry—one 10 months, the other 3 yrs. old. Samuel A. loves music and "plays the violin, but does not make music a profession or business."

It will be seen that in trying to save time and embarrassment, we have run the family register of Samuel Moses, Jr.^d, ahead of our general order, down to our 9th Generation. We can do no better by his remaining bros. and sisters, so far as their respective records extend. But here comes in another correspondent of Mr. Peck, Mr. Alonzo Kingsley, a grandson of Samuel and Lydia (Ballou) Moses, who wrote about 1874 from Keene, N. H. We must digest what he communicated, in connection with the aforesaid letters of his two lady cousins, so as to include all the information reported. I proceed accordingly.

[598.] ANNA MOSES', Samuel and Lydia Ballou', Rev. Maturin', Peter', John', Maturin'; b. in Warwick, Mass., on some day in Sept. 1783; m. 1st a Mr. Chamberlain of Barnard, Vt.—no date or other particulars of the mge. Issue.—

1929—1. Cassandana Chamberlain, b. no date; d. at the age of 90 years.

The misconduct of Chamberlain constrained a divorce from him. Mrs. Anna m. 2d Nathaniel Proctor of Montpelier, said to have been a very worthy man—no date or other particulars of the mge. Issue, understood to have been b. in said Montpelier.—

1930—2. Rebecca Proctor, b. dateless; m. a Mr. Quimby; d. young, leaving 1 son.

1931—3. Annie Proctor, b. dateless; m. a Mr. Kent; she d. young, no chn.

Nathaniel Proctor, the husband and father, d. at a date not given. Mrs. Anna' d. in St. Johnsbury, Vt., at the age of 87 or 88 yrs., Feb. 22, 1871. The only survivors of the above named 10 chn., in 1874, were Mrs. Lydia Eddy and Mrs. Mary Estes, then residing in Rutland, Vt. Cousin Kingsley characterizes Frank L. Brown, husband of Abbie Proctor, deceased, as “a fine man, a trader in St. Johnsbury, Vt.” Of the other husbands he gives no characteristics, or, if any, rather uncomplimentary.

[599.] LYDIA MOSES', Samuel and Lydia Ballou', Rev. Maturin', Peter', John', Maturin'; b. in Warwick, Mass., on some day in May, 1786; m. 1st Zephaniah Kingsley in said Warwick during the winter of 1801 or 1802, and soon after settled in Montpelier, Vt., where they had b. to them—

1938—1. Alonzo Kingsley, b. Mar. 23, 1804; m. Sophia H. Hill.

We will now let Alonzo give the family history pretty much in his own language, as found in his letter to Mr. Peck. “My father had bought wild land in Montpelier, and had worked clearing the same for two seasons. I have heard my mother say that, when my father went to Montpelier, there were one framed house and thirty log houses in town. My father was killed by the fall of a tree in June, 1805. I was then 1 yr. and 3 mos. old. My mother was but 19 years old, the May before father died—left thus a widow in a new country, among almost entire strangers. Father's property, after being sold at less than half its worth and paying all his debts, left for my mother and myself a little over $500.00. My mother, being young and very good looking, with a little money, soon married again. She m. a widower, some 10 to 15 yrs. older than herself, who had three daughters that lived to be married, but all d. of consumption before 40 years of age. My mother's second husband was Jonathan Eddy. They were m. about 1807." Issue.—

1939—2. David Eddy, b. no date; d. at the age of 2 yrs.

1941—4. Lauriston Eddy, b. no date; m., d. in Boston, and left 1 son.

"Jonathan Eddy was a noble looking man, of more than ordinary intelligence, a good natural mechanic, but visionary—always building castles in the air that fell before they were finished." These peculiarities of the second husband naturally added more to the burdens than to the comfort of Mrs. Lydia. We do not find in Alonzo's letter the death-date of his step-father, Jonathan Eddy, but infer that he must have d. some years earlier than his wife. Alonzo states that she d. in St. Johnsbury, Vt., in 1871, a. about 84 yrs. Of his two half bros. that lived to marry, he said.—"James Madison Eddy resembled his father in all respects. He lived in St. Johnsbury, Vt. In 1871 he fell on the ice, injured his head, and at times seemed a little insane. Later he went to Boston, and has not been heard from since. He left a wife, but no chn. Lauriston Eddy, the youngest son, died in Boston in the year 1845 or 46. He was a good machinist, and left a wife and one son. I know little or nothing about mother or son, but understand the mother is a prudent, hard working woman—the son quite otherwise; yet that he has been married, and has one child."

He finally comes to the story of his own life thus.—"At the age of eight yrs. I was sent from home to earn, as best I could, a living for myself. I was strong and healthy, and there were plenty of men without souls or sense, who domineered over me when I was working for board and clothes, who gave me no chance for school, and seemed only bent on wringing all the work out of me possible.

In the month of March, 1825, I bade adieu to friends, and to enemies if I had any, shouldered my pack, and started on foot for Boston, to seek my fortune; and a hard one it has been. But I have always had enough, and a good deal to spare to shiftless relations. I worked at various kinds of business—always saving a little, but changing when I thought I could do better.

In 1830 I married Sophia Hawkes Hill of Winchester, N. H. She was one of the noblest and kindest of women. She died June 25, 1872. We had one daughter, born Oct. 20, 1833. She was said to be a remarkably handsome woman, was an excellent scholar, was a graduate of Mount Holyoke Seminary in the class of 1857, and afterward spent some time at Troy, N. Y., in Miss Willard's Seminary, studying painting and French—these not being taught at Mt. Holyoke. Her name was Josephine Marcia Kingsley. She was married at Winchester, N. H., Dec. 31, 1863, to Silas Hardy, Esq., a graduate of Dartmouth College in the class of 1855, a lawyer by profession, and Judge of Probate for the County of Cheshire. She died June 19, 1871, of consumption, leaving a babe about six weeks old, a bright, healthy boy, whom she named Ashley Kingsley Hardy; Ashley being the name of his great-great-grandfather on his grandmother's side."

The reader will perceive that this cousin was a keen appreciator of human excellencies and defects, and that he was no admirer of fools or knaves. Also, that he was a man born to make his way successfully through the severest adversities of life. Whether he could make due allowance for the weaknesses and perversities of those deficient in his own qualities, we will not presume to say.

[600.] AMBROSE MOSES^a, Samuel and Lydia Ballou^b, Rev. Maturin^c, Peter^d, John^e, Maturin^f; b. in Warwick, Mass., perhaps about 1788; went off in his youth to Ohio, prob. Cleveland or vicinity; m. there a lady of unreported name, at an unreported date, had four chn. of unreported names, and d. in the prime of manhood. Nothing more told, and no attempt at further trace-ment.

[601.] LEVI MOSES^a, Samuel and Lydia Ballou^b, &c. He was always more or less an invalid, never m., went West, and is thought to have d. at the a. of about 60 yrs.

[602.] MARY MOSES^a, Samuel and Lydia Ballou^b, &c.; m. John Hall of Newbury, Vt., lived some years at Marshfield, Vt., and had several chn. No more reported, and no attempt at further tracement. This closes all we are able to say of Samuel and Lydia (Ballou) Moses' descendants. We do not enjoy such indefinite, limping genealogy, but submit to the inevitable, as in numerous other cases.

[603.] TAMAR BALLOU^e, Rev. David^s, Rev. Maturin^t, Peter^s, John^s, Maturin^t; b. in Richmond, N. H., Apl. 20, 1784; m. Jonathan Frost, pedigree, date and particulars of mge., &c., not reported. Issue, where and when b. not ascertained.—

- 1942—1. Elvira Frost; m. James C. Vanduzer; lives in Almond, N. Y.
- 1943—2. Eliza Frost; m. Orson Walbridge; d. in Springwater, N. Y., Dec. 5, 1870.
- 1944—3. John J. Frost; m. Miss Johnson of Groveland, N. Y.
- 1945—4. Mary M. Frost; m. John Jennings; res. Sparta, N. Y.
- 1946—5. Rebecca Frost; m. 1st George Barber, 2d Rufus Chandler—all deceased.
- 1947—6. Lydia T. Frost; m. David Fuller, and d. in Wisconsin 1877.
- 1948—7. Electa Taylor Frost; res. Dansville, N. Y.
- 1949—8. David Frost; m. 1st Eliza Pinney, 2d —.

Jonathan Frost and wife, Mrs. Tamar (Ballou), removed from New England in 1830 to Springwater, N. Y. There he d. Aug. 4, 1857. There also Mrs. Tamar d. in the Spring of 1873, a. about 89 years.

- 1950—1. Leavitt, b. in Monroe, Mass., Oct. 1807; m. Betsey Beebee.
- 1951—2. Levi, Jr., b. in “ “ May 14, '10; m. Martha McKlen.
- 1952—3. Cynthia, b. in “ “ Aug. 17, '12; m. John Harvey.
- 1953—4. Fatima, b. in Homer, N. Y., May 2, '16; m. William Sampson.
- 1954—5. Sally, b. in Otisco, N. Y., Mar. 20, '23; m., but obtained a divorce.
- 1955—6. Phebe, b. in “ “ Jan. 11, '27; m. Saul Briggs.

Levi Ballou^e was an ingenious mechanic—both a blacksmith and shoemaker. He remained a few years after mge. in Monroe, Mass. In 1813 he removed with his family to Homer, Cortland Co., N. Y., and thence, in 1821, to Otisco, Onondaga Co. This explains why his chn. had different birthplaces. At length, as age crept on, in 1860 the parents went and made their home with their son Levi, Jr., who had become wealthy and resided near Buffalo. Finally, Levi^e d. suddenly of apoplexy in Bennington, N. Y., in Dec. 1862, being in his 78th yr. Mrs. Sally d. at Concord, N. Y., early in 1865. Doubtless both were eminent for substantial, unpretentious, every-day virtues. The little biographical data received warrant this conclusion.

1960—5. Myron Wallace, b. Virgil, N. Y., Feb. 9, '30; m. Emeline Parker.

We learn from his eldest son, Orsamus, that Silas Ballou and wife Polly were both distinguished in domestic and social life for eminent moral qualities and virtues. He says of his mother.—“She was one of the best mothers a mortal was ever blest with.”

Of his father he says.—“Father was quite unfortunate for a number of years after he settled in Virgil. He lost all the property he possessed—a good farm of a hundred acres, worth now [1874] sixty or seventy dollars an acre—the cars running in sight of it. I think he was inclined to put too much confidence in other people's word and honesty. I never saw a man that it appeared to hurt so badly as it did him to be deceived by a falsehood. He was a man of truth and integrity; and by perseverance, industry and faithfulness to his family and everybody else with whom he had dealings, he succeeded in making his family comfortable, and accumulating a handsome property. His example, timely advice, and good counsel will ever be remembered by his children. He was a firm believer in the final repentance, conversion, holiness and consequent happiness of the whole human race; and was ready to defend his favorite doctrine to the extent of his ability when assailed by opposers.”

It seems that he went from his New England home to Virgil, Cortland County, N. Y., a year before his marriage, i. e. in 1815. He was mainly a farmer by occupation, though a competent shoemaker by early training. He spent nearly all his married life in Virgil, with the exception of five years residence in Otisco, Onondaga Co. He d. in Virgil, Nov. 28, 1864, a. 75 yrs. 10 mos. and 1 day. Mrs. Polly, his widow, was still living and in comfortable health down to the spring of 1874—residing with her dr. Mrs. Lowe of Virgil, N. Y. Later advices report her as still surviving in Jan. 1881.

Leavitt Ballou^a and wife spent the early portion of their married life in the general vicinity of Lawrenceville, Tioga Co., Pa., but partly on the New York side of the State line (the exact localities not given). There the three eldest sons are understood to have been born. About the year 1830 they removed to Monroe, Mass., where their youngest son was born. After a few years of farming toil in that cold mountainous region, they finally settled in North Adams, Mass., where they closed their mortal pilgrimage. They were of the plain agricultural class, but most worthy people, beloved and respected by all who knew them. This we have on good testimony. Mrs. Abigail d. Mar. 26, 1859. Leavitt^c d. [610.] REV. MOSES BALLOU^a, Rev. David^a, Rev. Maturin¹, Peter^a, John^a, Maturin¹; b. in Monroe, Mass., May 24, 1811; m. Almena Damaris Giddings of Hartford, Ct., dr. of Lorrain Giddings, b. Dec. 1, 1818; cer. June 8, 1837. Issue.—

Rev. Moses Ballou^a was endowed by natural constitution, culture, and spiritual inspiration, with very noble qualities. These rendered him eminently honorable to the Ballou race, as well as to his immediate kindred and all his associative relationships. His early years were spent on his father's homestead, amid the rough highlands of Monroe, Mass. At the age of seventeen years he was apprenticed to a cabinet maker in Brattleboro', Vt., with the understanding that he should be privileged to attend the Academy there three months in each year. This arrangement was only partially carried into effect, and he was thrown on his own resources both for mental culture and a livelihood. After considerable exertion at preparation, he commenced preaching as a Universalist, in 1833—delivering his first discourse in his native town. He itinerated for several months in Franklin Co., Mass., and Windham Co., Vt., and during 1834 received his letter of ecclesiastical fellowship. He soon took charge of a small parish in Bath, N. H., and was ordained there in 1835. The next year he accepted the pastorate of the Universalist church and society in Portsmouth, N. H. He remained there until May 1, 1843; having meantime become a husband and father. He next took charge of the Fourth Universalist church in New York city, afterward presided over by Rev. Dr. Chapin, but he continued there only about two years. He yielded then to a very urgent recall of his people in Portsmouth, N. H., with whom he spent the next two years. His health now began to suffer impairment, and he was obliged to seek a milder climate. He therefore accepted a call to Bridgeport, Ct., where he enjoyed a successful pastorate of six years. He next passed two years as minister of the Universalist church in Hartford, Ct. Thence he removed to Philadelphia, Pa., and took pastoral charge of the Second Universalist church in that city. His success and influential standing there are indicated in the following extracts from an article in the Philadelphia Sunday Dispatch of Nov. 20, 1858.

"No one can hear Mr. Ballou preach without being greatly impressed with esteem for the man; with a conviction of his own sincerity of belief in the doctrine he proclaims; and with a disposition on the part of the hearer to view that doctrine at least charitably and favorably. As a preacher Mr. Ballou's style possesses great earnestness, candor, and sincerity. He has a clear, calm and self-possessed delivery." "The natural consequence of all this is, that Mr. Ballou's church is a flourishing one, and his congregation large. The building is always well filled by an attentive and interested audience."

In May, 1859, he was invited to the Third Universalist church in New York city, where he labored prosperously for six years. His only son was now in Yale College, and to be near him he resigned his pastorate in New York, and spent about two years in New Haven, Ct., supplying meantime the Universalist pulpit in that city. About the same period his wife spent over a year with her friends in a trip to Europe. Nov. 1, 1866, found him again in Philadelphia, commencing another six years pastorate over his former church. At the expiration of this term, feeling the infirmities of age and precarious health, he finally gave up pastoral responsibilities, and retired to his comfortable summer residence at Ateo, N. J. This was in 1872. But he still continued to preach more or less regularly in various places of his general vicinity, and assisted in organizing a small society near his residence, who built a chapel in which he frequently conducted public worship. He was now, however, "a man of sorrow and acquainted with grief." For while he was yet in Philadelphia, he and his companion were bereaved, in a most sudden, unexpected and distressing manner, of their promising son, Moses Giddings Ballou, M. D. He was the pillar of their earthly comfort and delight—their filial all. He had just completed his education, received his medical degree, and was on the eve of marriage to a lovely maiden. But in the summer of 1868, while spending a few weeks at Atlantic City, N. J., along with his mother, his fiancée, and her father, Joseph T. Vankirk, Esq., he and Mr. Vankirk were both drowned at their bathing place. This overwhelming affliction to the survivors took place on the 1st day of August. Thus the luminary of the family was direfully hurled from the mortal firmament in a moment, leaving the woe-stricken mourners to find consolation only in the assurance of his translation to the immortal realms. This blessed assurance was indeed theirs, and they made the most of it; but it could do no more than anneal them, by their desolation, for reunion with their loved one in the tearless country of the redeemed. No doubt they bore their calamity with all the resignation, fortitude and hopefulness their great faith inspired. But we need not lift the domestic curtain, to see that this earthly life could never seem to them as before. Rev. Moses, as we have seen, resigned his pastorate at Philadelphia in 1872, took up his abode at Atco, N. J., and quietly pursued his remaining labors as best he felt able. But the end soon came. As it drew near he often said, "I have no desire to live longer; I wish to go home; my faith sustains me. I know that my redeemer liveth; I do not simply believe, but I have the evidence within me. I know that I shall live again."

Besides writing numerous articles for the Universalist Quarterly Review and various weekly publications of his denomination, he was the author of a biographical work entitled, "Memorial of Sanford—a sketch of the life, with extracts from the writings, of Rev. Merritt Sanford"; pub. in 1850, 250 pp. In 1854 he sent forth from the press his most important work, A Review of Rev. Dr. Edward Beecher's celebrated "Conflict of Ages," entitled, "The Divine Character Vindicated," a vol. of 412 pp. This is a production of eminent and acknowledged merit. It is proper here to state that, during his residence at Atco, N. J., he was a liberal contributor of genealogical information, respecting his own and kindred families, for this work, then being in preliminary process by Ira B. Peck, Esq., and of which, in a maturer stage, very convenient use has been made. A published sketch of his life and character summarily says.—“In private life Mr. Ballou was most genial and cordial. He had a very tender heart and a noble, generous and magnanimous nature, which gained him many strong friends, who both loved and honored him. He was endowed with personal magnetism which attracted the old and the young, the wise and ignorant, the happy and the sorrowful. All welcomed him gladly to their society, and found pleasure, profit and instruction in his conversation.” “He was a very able, impressive and eloquent preacher. He had a dignified and commanding presence. His voice was clear and pleasant, and thrilling in its deep fervor, and when most interested in his subject, he had a lofty eloquence which elevated his hearers above all earthly things, and held them spell-bound.” He d. in Atco, N. J., May 19, 1879, in the beginning of his 69th yr. To him

“Death was but
A kind and gentle servant who unlocks,
With noiseless hand, life’s flower encircled door,
To show us those we love.”

Mrs. Almena, his every way worthy consort, was still surviving at our last advices, a lonely remnant of translated loved ones calmly waiting to join them on “the shining shore.”

The four oldest of the above named chn. are understood to have been b. in Monroe, Mass., and the others in the adjacent town of

Rowe. Soon after the death of his father, Rev. David Ballou, in 1840, John^c removed to Rowe, Mass., taking along with him, in dutiful care, as one of his family, his widowed mother, to see her through life. There he established himself in a permanent home. He was a very enterprising and worthy man. For many years he was proprietor of a stage coach, which he drove regularly between Rowe and Greenfield, Mass. But his health partially failed him, and he purchased a country store, connecting with its business that of a merchant tailor. About 1850 he was appointed Postmaster, and continued for a long time in the faithful discharge of his official duties in that position. A reliable correspondent said of him.—“Few men in that mountain region are more heartily respected than he is, or have led a more humble and upright life.”

Aug. 22, 1833. Dr. Barber was a regularly educated physician, a native of Charlemont, Mass., a man of good talents and capabilities, but an utter skeptic in religion. As such, after the death of his first wife, he went into the family of Rev. David Ballou, Chloe's father. There he became a convert to Universalism, and at length one of its devoted ministers. He had pastorates over several Universalist societies in Mass., N. H., and Vt., and is now sett. in Alstead, N. H. Of this mge. with Chloe T. Ballou, the issue was two living chn.—

Mrs. Willard Ballou⁸, writing to Mr. Peck, under date of Jan. 9, 1874, thus speaks of her father-in-law.—“ For many years I was a member of his family, and during his months of sickness which terminated in death, I was his attendant. I think I knew him as few did. Until the last few years of his life, he enjoyed good health. He was possessed of a sound mind, and integrity of character. In his social relations, and especially as a father, I know not how to speak of him as I would. Tender and affectionate as a mother could be, he was yet firm and decided in his disapproval of what he thought wrong. I have wondered at his success in governing his children. They had no slavish fear; for he was always mild, and never but in one instance inflicted punishment. A look from him would secure obedience from any child of his. Love was the moving power. He was always cheerful, and would not let business worry him. During the last few years of his life, after he had ceased to labor, he read much of the time—greatly enjoying his uncle Hosea's writings. He was a firm believer in universal salvation, and desired to live at peace with all mankind. Though gone to his rest, his good examples, advice and affectionate treatment of his children will live in their memory while life lasts."

Hosea Ballou^c resided many years in Western Massachusetts, engaged in agricultural pursuits. Later he dwelt awhile in Augusta, Me., and for the last ten years of his earthly life in Concord, Mass. He possessed the good sense and sterling integrity which characterized the earlier Ballous of his lineage, though without attaining the celebrity which distinguished some of them. He did not aspire to worldly dignity or power, yet held various positions of public trust and responsibility, as urged upon him. He was modest and retiring—content with the society of the few friends who knew him well, and the higher enjoyment of the home circle. Thus he ripened into the serenity of a happy old age, and his last days were his best. He d. in Concord, Mass., Nov. 15, 1880, a. 80 yrs. 3 mos. and 28 ds. Moses^a originally had no middle name, being called Moses, Jr. But he got it changed by legislative act to Moses Ballou Wheaton. He is understood to have removed from Richmond, N. H., and settled in Jackson, Pa., soon after marriage—certainly as early as 1815. He was a cooper by trade, but prob. more or less a cultivator of the soil. He inherited good physique and mental stamina from both sides of his parentage. And so did his wife. They reared their large family well, and left a good memory. Their three sons all became quite prominent M. Ds. Moses Ballou Wheaton^a d. in Jackson, Pa., Dec. 9, 1860, a. 70 yrs. and 3 mos. [632.] REV. ASA WHEATON^o, Moses and Sarah Ballou^o, Rev. Maturinⁱ, Peter^o, John^o, Maturinⁱ; b. in Richmond, N. H., July 3, 1794; d. u. m., June 23, 1823, a. 30 yrs. 11 mos. and 20 ds. The writer was somewhat personally acquainted with Rev. Asa Wheaton, and ministered at his funeral. He is understood to have prepared himself for the Universalist ministry, under the tuition of his uncle, Rev. Hosea Ballou. What preliminary studies he had pursued, or how he had passed his youth and early manhood, we do not recollect having been told. He had not been settled and had preached but a few times. Consumption fastened itself upon him, and he died, after some weeks of confinement, at his brother Charles Wheaton's in Cumberland, R. I. There his funeral services were held, and there, in a little family cemetery on his brother's homestead, his mortal remains repose. So far as we know, ever heard, or have reason to believe, he deserved a memorial among the just.

Mrs. Barbara was b. in Wardsborough, Vt., whence she was taken with her father's family to Rowe, Mass., and thence, at the age of 12 yrs., to Preston, Chenango Co., N. Y. There, or in the near vicinity, she became the wife of her cousin, Ira Wheaton^o in her 20th yr. Ira^o was a trained shoemaker by mechanical occupation, but more generally applied himself to farming. They had six chn. one of whom d. in early infancy, and is not mentioned in the above specification. It appears from the birthplaces of the survivors that the parents dwelt successively in the towns of Mc-Donough, Newark, and Owego, N. Y. In 1837 they settled in Warren, Bradford Co., Pa., a then new and sparsely populated section of the country. Finally, when he was in his 78th yr. and she in her 76th, they took up their abode with their son, Dr. Myron Wheaton, in Rome, Bradford Co., Pa. There Ira^a d. in 1874 or '75. And there Mrs. Barbara d. in 1876, a. about 77 yrs.

3. Unnamed infant, b. —; d. in Gloucester, R. I., a. 2 weeks.

Lydia Pratt Wheaton^a, left Richmond, N. H., at 14 yrs. of age, and came to R. I., where she ever afterward resided. We recollect her as a reputable young woman, more or less domiciliated at her brother Charles Wheaton's, in Cumberland, R. I. We had a general acquaintance also with her husband, Lemuel Capron, and the Capron families,—respectable people, mostly enterprising farmers. Lydia^a was the 2d wife of Lemuel. They dwelt successively in Cumberland, Providence and Gloucester, R. I., at which last named place they both died. She d. Apl. 7, 1850; and he July 26, 1860.

2073—3. Laura Denny, b.

We are told that these Denny cousins reside in Susquehanna Co., Pa.; and prob. they have families. But we knew not how to reach them to obtain their full records, and have therefore made no attempt to trace them. We find a memorandum among our papers, that their mother, Mrs. Lemira Faxon (Wheaton) Denny^a, d. in Thompson, Susquehanna Co., Pa., 1864, a. about 61 yrs. Of her husband, Mr. Nathaniel Denny, we have gained no intelligence. So we close this descent.

[637.] JESSE WHEATON⁶, Moses and Sarah Ballou^a, Rev. Maturin¹, Peter², John³, Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., Nov. 18, 1806. His story, as given us, is a brief one. He seems to have found a home with his kind brother Charles in Cumberland, R. I., and to have aspired to the attainment of a good practical education. He was a diligent and approved student, in his ripening youth, of the Cumberland Hill Academy, so called, then the highest seminary in that town. We find hints that he prepared himself for the calling of an architect, and actually set up as such in Dedham, Mass. But this is not so well corroborated as we could wish. It has been asserted that he d. in Dedham. We have it, however, from an intelligent niece of his, that she never heard of him as a resident in Dedham, and always understood that he d. at the home of his bro. Charles. And she knows, from his gravestone, that his remains were buried in the little cemetery near that home, by the side of his bro. Asa's and mother's. His death-date is Apl. 2, 1828, making his a. 21 yrs. 4 mos. and 14 ds.

2078—5. Clarence A. Wheaton, b. Oct. 10, 1855.

Rev. James Wheaton^c was the youngest of 13 chn. Early in life he became deeply interested in religion, joined the Methodist ch., and later felt called to the work of the ministry. He had been trained on the shoemaker's bench, and was a skillful custom workman—an avocation to which he betook himself cheerfully through life whenever occasion required. But preaching the gospel was his devoted work. He was a local preacher for awhile, first in Burrillville, R. I., and later in Thompson, Ct. After joining the Conference, he was ordained in Mar. 1839. He was successively stationed in Wareham, Rochester, Milford, Taunton, Scituate, East Bridgewater, Ware and Prescott, Mass. He was later employed as a home missionary to found churches in waste places—a service in which he greatly delighted. He labored thus in Shutesbury, Montague, Wendell, Erving, Warwick, and other towns of Mass. Still later, when his declining health obliged him to give up Conference appointments, he preached still more at large—supplying vacant pulpits of various denominations in Wendell, New Salem and Orange, Mass.; yet remaining a Methodist to the end of his life. His eldest daughter, Mrs. Eliab T. Whipple, now of West Wrentham, Mass., from whom we have obtained his family record and biographical summary, says of him.—

“He was a faithful and earnest preacher, and quite successful. He despised sectarianism, and was always ready to fellowship

Christians of whatever name." "Nothing would induce him to set a price on his ministerial labors. He worked for the Lord, and for the good of his fellow-men; trusting Providence and the liberality of his parishioners for sustenance. Neither was he afraid to labor with his hands. When his salary came short, he fell back on the trade which he learned in boyhood—custom shoemaking in all its various branches—wherein he excelled. Though poor in worldly goods, he was rich in heavenly things. No one ever enjoyed life better than he. All his real wants were supplied—sometimes in very unexpected ways. He was very pleasant in his family, though firm in discipline. He was sympathetic in his nature, and his kindness of heart extended even to the brute creation. For example: Once some of the neighboring boys set traps for squirrels under some nut trees near our house; when he gave each boy a piece of money to carry their traps away and set them there no more. He said he got his money's worth by seeing the squirrels frisk about unmolested.

One day near the close of his life, his wife remarked that she did not think Mr. Wheaton had an enemy in the world. 'Ah!' said he, 'I think the butchers don't like me very well.' He had remonstrated with them against killing on the Sabbath. As talking did no good, he formed a plan to stop it, and got another minister to help him carry it out. The plan was this: they went from house to house, and got the people to agree to buy no meat on Monday, but lay in enough on Saturday to last till Tuesday. The plan was a success. The butchers did not like it, but even they were not enemies to him. He once had a farm, with dwelling house and other buildings, given to him, on condition that he should always live there. As that would interfere with his preaching the gospel, he would not accept it; which shows how much his heart was in his work.

On the day of his funeral, an old man said, 'I have known Mr. Wheaton over 30 yrs., and I never saw another man so honest as he.' He passed away as happy and peaceful as he had lived."

He d. in Orange, Mass., Sept. 2, 1870. Mrs. Lucy, his 3d wife, d. in the same town Apl. 10, 1881. Nothing has been reported to us of the character of his three wives, but our trust is that they were worthy of so good a husband.

3. Name not learned, b. not given; d. young, as inferred.

Notwithstanding her unfortunate mge. in 1810, at the early age of sixteen years, caused her much trouble, and had to be abrogated, she seems to have been happy in her second connection. It is understood that Oliver and Rebecca (Ballou) Stone had their principal, if not only, married home in West Newark, Tioga Co., N. Y. It is presumed that their chm. were b. there; though of this our meagre information does not render us certain. Mr. Stone was a carpenter and joiner. We are not certified of his character, but that she "was one of the salt of the earth." She d. Sept. 28, 1871; Mr. Stone m. 2d his 1st wife's widowed sister, Tryphosa (Ballou) Chittenden. He d. in 1879.

Stephen Ballou^o inherited his father's homestead in Preston, N. Y., and, after his marriage, continued to occupy it a year or two. There his eldest child was b. Thence he removed to a new home in Pharsalia, N. Y., in the same county. There his son, Rev. James Henry Ballou, was b. Next he removed to the adjoining town of Plymouth, where his other two sons were b. Thence he removed to a homestead, purchased in Owego, Tioga Co., N. Y., where his youngest dr. was b., and which was ever after his settled abode.

He was a natural genius in several directions; and, though favored with small educational privileges, distinguished himself for much skill and usefulness wherever he dwelt,—at first as a musician, and then as a phlebotomist, or bleeder of the sick, surgeon dentist after the old fashion, &c. He was also good at shoemaking, blacksmithing, fabricating agricultural instruments, and almost anything demanded of ingenuity. But all the while his main occupation was farming. From what we can learn, he and his wife proved themselves worthy heads of a worthy family. He was greatly blest in life's essentials, and especially in health—having never called for the aid of a physician till almost an octogenarian. But the time of his departure came at last. He d. Feb. 15, 1883, a. 80 yrs. 5 mos. and 27 days, on the little homestead where he had dwelt during the last 35 yrs. of mortal life; leaving his worthy widow and the above named five surviving children to cherish his precious memory and the common family hope of a blessed immortality. We shall allow his talented and affectionate son, Rev. James H. Ballou, to bear eulogistic testimony to his merits. "Without pretension, with the simple heartedness of a child, he lived, in the seclusion of his rural home, the quiet, peaceable, industrious, temperate life of a kindly, benevolent and honest man. And at last, after four score years of as blameless, unspotted integrity as few can boast, passed away in peace with all men—without a word of murmuring during the infirmities of the final decline. And although, in the usual, popular sense of the terms, he was not a religious or pious man, yet he manifested no fear of the 'last enemy.' But if practical loyalty to truth, honor, and uprightness be the elements of godliness—if to abide 'unspotted from the world' is 'pure religion'—then was he a religious man. He was a Universalist in sentiment, and while living always in orthodox communities, with no opportunity of attending religious meetings with which he could fully sympathize, yet he always enjoyed the esteem of his neighbors; * * * and I know not he ever had an enemy, or deserved one. The death of the righteous was his portion; and this is my consolation. But how difficult to think of him as dead! It seems incredible! Sweet and fragrant will be his memory to a few hearts; and may the peace of God ever be with his risen spirit."

Rev. Hosea Faxon Ballou^o inherited excellent talents, executive capabilities and moral qualities from his progenitors. He chose a companion of corresponding worth, and filled up a long life with eminent usefulness. He was successfully engaged in school-teaching, merchandize and farming until thirty-two years of age. He then entered the Universalist ministry with hearty devotion, and continued therein, to great public acceptance, for over forty years, till disabled by ill-health and the infirmities of age. And in all those forty years he never missed a single Sabbath's service. He was twenty-five years pastor in Whitingham, Vt., and then settled in the same office fifteen over the Society in Wilmington, Vt. He was much sought after to minister at funerals within a radius of 40 miles, and spoke on such occasions more than 1400 times. Meanwhile he solemnized over 500 marriages. But he seems to have had unusual versatility also in secular affairs, for he was a Selectman 11 yrs., Superintendent of Common Schools 22 yrs., Representative in the Legislature twice, member of three several State Constitutional Conventions, 16 yrs. a Justice of the Peace, 17 yrs. Town Clerk, repeatedly Road Commissioner for more than 30 yrs., continually discharging Probate responsibilities, as executor, administrator or guardian, and finally, during the last 7 years of his life, was President of the Wilmington, Vt., Savings Bank. He had a kind, obliging and sympathizing heart, as well as a clear head and reliable judgment, and deservedly enjoyed great public confidence. When Mr. Peck was collecting genealogical data for this work, Mr. Ballou evinced a commendable interest in the undertaking, and proved himself a willing, pains-taking correspondent.

He d. with an unwavering assurance of immortal blessedness, in Wilmington, Vt., May 20, 1881, at the ripe age of 82 yrs. 1 mo. and 16 ds. Mrs. Mary, his worthy consort, d. Aug. 10, 1883, a. 82 yrs. 3 mos. and 7 ds. She was eminently honored at death as in life. Her remains repose by the side of her husband in Whitingham, Vt.

Rev. Massena Berthier Ballou^c has proved himself the worthy scion of a distinguished stock. With intellectual and moral endowments of a high order, he enjoyed the advantages of a Boston scholastic education, and was prepared for the ministry in the study of his Rev. father. He entered on his professional duties in the 22d yr. of his age. After preaching temporarily in several places he settled in Charlton, Mass., and remained in that pastorate four years. There he and his amiable companion made many life-long friends—separating from them with deep mutual regret. Thence he removed to Stoughton, Mass., and took charge of the ancient First Parish—being the first of his denomination ever settled in that town. There he had a successful pastorate of 22 yrs., which ill health obliged him to resign about 1853—greatly to the regret of his parishioners. But he did not leave his homestead in Stoughton. He has remained there ever since, with his chn. and gd. chn. settled near him. We had a fraternal letter from him under date of June 1, 1882. In that letter he speaks of his domestic and social relationships thus:—"Our children all reside in Stoughton, very near the old homestead, where we have lived in peace and harmony with the good citizens of the town for more than fifty years—never having had an enemy to our knowledge. It has always been my endeavor and most earnest desire, to live in peace and the exchange of kind offices with all the people with whom I associated, without regard to religious or political opinions. I think our family hold respectable positions in this community." There is no doubt of this; for parents and chn. are alike amiable and worthy. At this writing [1882], he is in his 83d year. Both he and his wife are invalids to a greater or less extent—his wife seriously such. The death of his elder bro., Rev. Hosea Faxon, and of his bro.-in-law, Rev. Dr. Benjamin Whittemore, gave him a painful sense of desolation; but his trust in God and hope of the life everlasting are gilding the sunset-horizon of mortality for him, and soothingly preparing him and his consort for their destined translation. There is a remarkable contrast between his circumstances and mission and those of his distinguished father—his own so calm and placid—his father's so arduous and controversial. But the Highest wisely allots to each of us the spherical life-career most necessary to the universal good. Rev.

Massena, like his elder bro., has been a liberal contributor of family records and desirable information to this volume.

This connubial pair settled in Boston, where Mr. Wing was Agent for the New England Glass Co. through a long series of years. He was deservedly held in high esteem, as was his wife, in all their relationships and circles of society. We cannot say less of them, under the impressions left on our mind by an imperfect acquaintance, and should undoubtedly say more in the same vein, had any one furnished us with more specific biographical information. Mrs. Cassandana d. in Boston Oct. 18, 1866. Of the subsequent history of Mr. Joseph Wing, it has not been our good fortune to obtain desirable information. Mrs. Mandana Ballou Whittemore and her husband sustained a high reputation for all the noble qualities of heart, intelligence and moral character which adorn connubial, social and public life. They passed through a trying succession of domestic afflictions, as is strikingly obvious from the deaths in the above family record; to which another was added in the early departure of their eldest dr., wife of Rev. Quincy Whitney—who d. Oct. 23, 1857, only about 11 yrs. after mge., in the 34th year of her age—leaving two young drs. We need not open the testament of their sorrows to read its pages of grief. They are reported to have drunk each bitter cup with Christian resignation, and to have looked with consoling confidence into the immortal world, as the supernal home where all will meet again.

Mr. Whittemore gave early promise of public usefulness, possessed talents of superior lustre, was educated at Lancaster and Groton Academies, Mass., studied divinity with Rev. Hosea Ballou, and commenced his ministry in his 22d year. He was ordained as pastor of the Universalist Society in South Scituate, Mass., May 21, 1823, where he officiated six years. Thence he was called to Troy, N. Y., in 1829, and thence to So. Boston in 1830. There his usual good success attended him. In 1843, he took possession of the old patrimonial homestead in Lancaster, Mass., where he managed his secular affairs, and devoted his ministerial labors to the upbuilding of Universalism in the general vicinity—organizing several new Societies. In 1854 he settled as pastor of the Universalist Society in Norwich, Ct., where he continued eight years. He then returned to Lancaster, Mass., soon lost his eyesight, yet continued to preach occasionally—repeating his hymns and scripture lessons from memory. He passed the last four years of his life with his son in Mattapan, a small suburb of Boston. The Annual Universalist Register for 1882 closes a biographical sketch of him with these words.—

“As a preacher and pastor, Mr. Whittemore was eminently successful. He possessed a personal magnetism which secured for him at once the attention of his hearers, and won their good will before their judgment was appealed to. Added to this was a brilliant and powerful intellect which gave him a ready comprehension of his subject; and his logical method and aptness of illustration enabled him to express his convictions with great force. As a scripture expositor he possessed eminent ability. He knew all the ways of doubt and skepticism, and was ever ready to maintain the truths of Christianity with a skill and courage that insured success. In 1867 Tufts College conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology.” “During his last sickness he bore his sufferings without a murmur. His intellect remained unclouded, and his faith grew brighter until his spirit took its flight.” His ever sympathizing companion, who for nearly sixty years had shared his joys and sorrows, survived, like a trembling reed, the blast that separated them, and at last adieus was calmly awaiting her own departure. He d. at Mattapan, Apl. 26, 1881, at the age of almost 80 yrs. Mrs. Mandana was enjoying the fostering care of her dutiful son Nathaniel H. and family at Mattapan, Mass., in 1883.

He was next settled in Lynn, Mass.; next in West Cambridge, Mass.; then in Troy, N. Y.; and then twelve years in New London, Ct., where he has ever since resided. - 2142—1. Murray Roberts, b. July 21, 1840; m. Lucretia Howland.

Maturin Murray Ballou⁶, the youngest son of his celebrated father, grew up in the best of homes and enjoyed the highest educational privileges of his favored city, "the Athens of America." He had a literary genius, and early enlisted with ardor in the profession of periodical Journalism. He has been connected with the Boston press over forty years. He commenced his career with "The Flag of our Union"; next started "Ballou's Pictorial," the first illustrated newspaper issued in this country, which he continued more than ten years with pecuniary success; next followed the famous "Dollar Magazine" and kindred publications; and later "The Boston Daily Globe," of which he was editor in chief till his health partially broke down. Meantime he became the author of numerous valuable and popular volumes, among which the following are the most important:—A Life or "Biography of Hosea Ballou," his father, which passed through eighteen editions in two years—"A History of Cuba," the first ever published in English, principally elaborated from his own notes taken on the Island—"The Treasury of Thought," a large $5 Vol., which won him the encomiums of literary critics, and of which two ample editions were sold in a single year—"Notable Thoughts about Women," and "Pearls of Thought." Besides these solid prose works, he has written dramas for the stage, and poetic effusions of various style. He was also at one time in the lecture field. After becoming a prosperous accumulator, he paid considerable attention to real estate investments. In this line he built and owned three of the largest dry goods stores in Boston, and the famous St. James Hotel. So, at the age of fifty-four, he settled down a wealthy capitalist. He gave his only son a liberal education, saw him graduate from Harvard University in the class of 1862, with honor, launched him successfully in a lucrative business, beheld him happily married, and at the head of a promising family, and needed nothing more to brim his cup of worldly prosperity, but to witness that son's promotion to a high post of distinction among his compeers. And this came to pass. For Murray Roberts Ballou has been President of the Boston Broker's Board some fourteen years. Yet, to cap the climax of performance and enjoyment, he has latterly made a grand tour of the world, even through the farthest Indies, and surfeited himself on its wonders. Whether the results have been photographed into a volume of travels is unknown to us at this writing. Finally, it is safe to presume that the connubial home is as replete with good things and domestic felicity as the outer circles of life have been with favored providences; all which does not imply that the enjoyers have not, like all the rest of us, shared more or less in the adversities and sorrows of our common humanity.

Oliver Ballou⁶ is reported to us as a diligent, thrifty farmer and upright man, who with his wives and children deservedly enjoyed an unblemished reputation throughout their vicinage. We have received no authentic information concerning the last years of Oliver Ballou⁶ and wife, as we should have done on special inquiry. We presume they must have gone the way of all the earth in the ordinary course of nature, but are without particulars.

[660.] NATHANIEL BALLOU⁶, the next younger son of Oliver⁵, is understood to have been a promising youth, cut off in his bloom, at the age of about 19 years.

[661.] SARAH BALLOU⁶, Oliver⁶, Peter¹, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Hanover, N. H., at a date not found; m. David Sawyer of Enfield, N. H., b. Jan. 31, 1791; cer. in Bristol, N. H., date and other particulars not ascertained. Issue, b. in Mt. Tabor, Vt.—

2153—1. Edwin David Sawyer, b. May 4, 1834; res. u. m. Mt. Tabor, Vt.

Having learned from the Postmaster of Mt. Tabor that David Sawyer had been a citizen of that town, and had died, leaving the above named son Edwin, we made haste to open a correspondence with him. We had the good fortune to be answered promptly and kindly. He could not give us the Christian names of his grand parents, nor his mother's birth-date, nor the date of her marriage; but on most other points posted us well. It seems from his letter, dated Mt. Tabor, June 14, 1885, that Mt. Tabor is among the heights of the Green Mountains; that his father and mother settled on a 200 acre lot of wilderness land there in 1826, cleared a portion of it, had two chn. b. on it, and then sold out to buy a 100 acre farm more eligibly situated. Their youngest child, a son, d. in infancy without a name. On their second homestead David and Sarah (Ballou⁶) spent the remainder of their days. He was honored with several town offices, from selectman downward, and they appear to have enjoyed the general respect. Mrs. Sarah experienced poor health for some years, and d. Feb. 21, 1870, believed to have been about 75 yrs. old. Mr. Sawyer d. Oct. 18, 1872, in his 82d yr. Their son, Edwin D., sold out the parental estate, and purchased him a homestead in the East section of the town. There, says he, "I live alone, an old bachelor." But we trust he is as happy as some who live in a state of double blessedness.

[662.] ACHSAH BALLOU⁶, Oliver⁶, Peter¹, Peter³, John², Maturin¹;

b. in Hanover, N. H., date not found; m. Dudley Davis. They settled, lived and d. in Grafton, N. H., leaving two chn. We have made fruitless inquiries for those chn., and found ourselves unable to ascertain their whereabouts or record.

[663.] JANE BALLOU^a, Oliver^s, Peterⁱ, Peter^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Hanover, N. H., at a date not found; m. 1st a Mr. Blodgett, somewhere in Vt., who died. She then went to Ohio, where she m. a second husband, and d. leaving 3 chn. This indefinite information was given to Mr. Peck by her half brother, the late William P. Ballou of Alexandria, N. H., as long ago as 1861. He added.—“It is not known where they [the chn.] are.” There was little hope of finding such unsearchable cousins. No further attempt to trace.

[664.] HOSEA BALLOU^a, Oliver^s, Peterⁱ, Peter^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Enfield, N. H., at a date not found; m. Cynthia Sanborn, ptge., birth-date, &c., not given; cer. Apl. 6, 1822. Issue, b. in Bristol, N. H.—

- 2160—7. Annah B., b. Aug. 25, '52; d. Oct. 14, 1854.

Hosea Ballou^a, wife and family, ranked high among the respectable farmers of their vicinity. They have been distinguished for their intelligence, enterprise and moral integrity, among the worthiest of their lineage. The father went West to visit his son Ira, and fell suddenly before the scythe of the dark angel at Beaver Dam, Wis., Oct. 18, 1855, to the deep affliction of his family. His desolate widow and several of her chn. survived him many years, and resided in Alexandria, N. H., when last heard from.

- 2164—4. Lucian A., b. May 4, '44; unable to obtain report.

Horace Ballou^a, farmer and merchant, with his wife come to us reported as eminently reputable in the various relations of life, but sadly bereft of their few chn. The Postmaster of Alexandria informed us, under date of Sept. 22, 1884, that Mr. Ballou's wife and family were in the West, but himself was boarding then in town, and "well for a man of his age."

[666.] ZARAH BALLOU^a, Oliver^a, Peterⁱ, Peter^a, John^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Enfield, N. H., date not given; m. Caroline Tenney, ptge., birth-date, &c., not given; cer. Jan. 19, 1834. Issue, b. in Hill, N. H.—

One of Mr. Peck's correspondents referred to an intelligent, scholarly magistrate of Hill, N. H., who was well acquainted with the large family of Oliver Ballou^a, as declaring that there was not another of such size ever raised in N. H., equal to them. Zarah^a was one of them, and shared the common respect. And we presume his wife and children were no less worthy. It will be seen, when recurred to further on, that we failed to trace this family below the 7th Gen.

[667.] JOHN WESLEY BALLOU^a, Oliver^a, Peterⁱ, Peter^a, John^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Hanover, N. H., Mar. 4, 1807; m. Thirza Evans, dr. of Gardner and Levina (Wells) Evans, b. in Hill, N. H., Apl. 25, 1813; cer. in New Hampton, N. H., Mar. 24, 1833, by Rev. Eben. Fisk. Issue, b. in Franklin, N. H.—

to be included in the same respectable category already prominently characterized. At our last advices the parents were living in the enjoyment of goodly prosperity, and a green old age.

William P.^a broke away from the plowfield of his kindred, and became an enterprising boot and shoe merchant. His wife was an equally enterprising milliner. They occupied different portions of the same building in Alexandria, N. H., and both did a flourishing business. Mr. B. ranked high in the excellent characteristics of his father's large family, and, with his companion, exerted a conspicuous influence in the community around them. He was a very willing, copious and helpful correspondent of Mr. Peck, furnishing him a large amount of genealogical data, relating to the children and descendants of Oliver Ballou. This has come down to our use, and deserves the grateful acknowledgment of all concerned in the publication of this volume. He d. in Alexandria, N. H., Dec. 7, 1879. His worthy widow survives, and is still active in her millinery and fancy goods business. She and her two sons, LaForest and Dr. Quincy A. Ballou, now reside in Bristol, N. H. This is written June 12, 1885.

A worthy farmer family; but the husband and father d. in Dec. 1846, leaving them to sorrowful widowhood and orphanage when his providence, guardianship and love seemed most indispensable. Mrs. Eliza proved herself a widow indeed, and a judicious mother, through the anxious ensuing years. Her chn. grew up well trained, and most of them lived to be a comfort to her old age. One of them, Geo. Corliss, Jr., sacrificed himself to the war-service of his country. He enlisted, went into camp at Manchester, N. H., took the measles, was removed for hospital treatment to Fort Independence near Boston, and d. there, as written above, Feb. 20, 1862. Very little information has reached us since we undertook the compilation of this work. How many of the children ever lived to marry, or whether the mother yet survives, no one has told us. This descent closed.

2203—1. Jephthah Kidder.

Anxious inquiries made by letter, but no answers ever recd. We hope the next Ballou genealogist will be smart enough, and fortunate enough, to bring into fold the many lost sheep of our Israel whom we have failed to find. This descent closed.

Mrs. Philinda remained a worthy widow, and, in 1862, lived in Hill with her mother, then aged 85 yrs. or more, ministering to her comforts. We can report nothing later.

We had given up all expectations of tracing the descendants of Stephen Ballou^a, Peter^d, Peter^e, &c., when agreeably surprised by receiving important data of their family record from Mrs. Amanda J. 2227—1. Amanda Jane Ballou, b. Sept. 30, 1832; m. William W. Winsor.

Peter Ballou⁶ and wife resided in his native neighborhood, formerly Smithfield, now Lincoln, R. I. We are not apprised of his occupation; but his dr., Mrs. Amanda Jane Winsor, who has rendered us excellent service as an intelligent correspondent concerning her branch of our great family, says of her father.—“My father was a tall, well formed, well proportioned man, respected by all who knew him; and a better, kinder father never lived. He died very suddenly of heart disease.” He d. Feb. 6, 1872, a. 64 yrs. 8 mos. and 28 ds. Mrs. Eliza, his venerable wid., survives at the present writing, July 1886. Her home has long been with her kind dr., Mrs. Winsor, with whom she is enjoying a comfortable old age. Mrs. Winsor’s record will appear in the next serial lineage of generations.

2230—3. Austin A., b. Mar. 10, '54; m. Cornelia R. Peters Dec. 19, 1878.

Newton S. Ballou^u settled, lived and d. in Cumberland, R. I., a respectable farmer. He and his wife were quiet, industrious, orderly and exemplary persons, and brought up worthy chn. He d. June 20, 1872, a. 52 yrs. and 21 ds. She d. Dec. 30, 1883, a. 62 yrs. Here is a full, explicit, straight-forward family record, obtained from the only son, Mr. Austin A. Ballou. We commend it to all who desire to keep and report such a document.

We have next to deal with the chm. of Elsie Ballou³, Peter⁴, Peter⁴, John⁵, Maturin¹. She m. Sabbinus Pierce of Monson, Mass., and had 9 chm., as heretofore written. We shall make broken and imperfect work in tracing this family; for our information is limited and fragmentary.

[682.] MARY PIERCE^c, Sabbinus and Elsie Ballou^c, Peter^d, Peter^e, John^f, Maturin^g; b. in Monson, Mass., July 12, 1798; m. Turpin Jencks of East Longmeadow, Mass. No more told. No further traced.

 2233—2. Maria A. Pierce,) b. June 23, '43; m. John House Aug.
) Twins, 10, 1866.
 2234—3. Mary E. Pierce,) b. June 23, '43; d. June 11, 1848.
 2235—4. Charles Pierce, b. June 25, '45; d. Feb. 10, 1864.
 2236—5. Martha A. Pierce, b. Oct. 15, '47; m. Thos. Irwin Jan. 24, 1867.

Sabbinus, Jr.⁶, d. Oct. 29, 1864. Mrs. Deborah had previously d. Dec. 11, 1861. Nothing given indicates where the parents lived and died, where their chn. were born, or the family characteristics. The drs., Mrs. Martha A. (Pierce) Irwin, and Mrs. Sarah J. (Pierce) House, had brief married lives. Martha d. Aug. 31, 1869, and Sarah in 1870. This family no further traced.

[686.] ELISHA PIERCE⁶, Sabbinus and Elsie Ballou⁵, Peter¹, Peter², John³, Maturin¹; b. in Monson, Mass., Apl. 7, 1806; m. Hannah Sherman, b. May 16, 1811, parentage not given; cer. Apl. 30, 1832. Issue, b. prob. in Springfield, Mass.—

- 2243 4. J. Elizabeth Pierce, b. Feb. 29, '44; m. James S. Quin Oct. 23, 1862.

Elisha Pierce⁶ d. in Springfield, Mass., Sept. 23, 1864. Mrs. Hannah his widow, was surviving in Apl. 1875. No characteristics given, but we infer good average moral and social standing. As it is improbable that we can bring down their descendants to a later period than 1875, we will here insert what data we already possess concerning the gt. grand chn.

William C. Pierce⁶ m. Mary J. Reide, b. Jan. 17, 1840; cer. June 30, 1862. Issue. Albert Reide Pierce⁶, b. Feb. 4, 1863; Robert Henry Pierce⁶, b. Apl. 20, 1870; and William Elisha Pierce⁶, b. July 8, 1872.

Albert E. Pierce⁶ m. Ella J. Stevens, b. May 11, 1853; cer. May 9, 1871. Issue. —Hannah Sherman Pierce⁶, b. Mar. 25, 1872, and Carrie Maria Pierce⁶, b. Sept. 20, 1874.

Apl. 2, 1870. These several gt. grand chn. of Elsie (Ballou) Pierce, thus brought in before their generation, are left unnumbered.

[687.] HARVEY PIERCE⁶, Sabbinus and Elsie Ballou⁵, Peter¹, Peter², John³, Maturin¹; b. in Monson, Mass., Sept. 12, 1809; was drowned Dec. 19, 1834—no particulars given.

[688.] ELSIE PIERCE⁶, the next in age, b. May 16, 1812; d. Oct. 20, 1830.

[689.] MARANTHA PIERCE⁶, Sabbinus and Elsie Ballou⁵; b. in Monson, Mass., Mar., 1815; m. William Pomeroy of Agawam, Mass., and was living there in 1875; but nothing more is told, and will be no further traced.

[690.] GEORGE PIERCE⁶, the youngest of Elsie (Ballou) Pierce's chn., was b. in Monson, Mass., July 24, 1817, and d. in 1823. We regret having had no success and seemingly no means of tracing these Pierce cousins accurately.

We come now to the descendants of James Ballou², Maturin¹, in the 6th and 7th generations. We have consigned to no further tracement the Jillsons, who sprang from Sarah Ballou¹, James³, James², Maturin¹. These were designated by Nos. 691 to 745 in in the sixth generation. And so passing over all these we reach—

[746.] ROBE ROUND⁶, Martin Rounds and Jemima Ballou⁵, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in W. Wrentham or northern border of Cumberland, R. I., prob. in 1765; m. Nathan Horton of Rehoboth, Mass., son of Lieut. James Horton, a Revolutionary officer; cer. Mar. 20, 1785, by Elder N. Pearce. Issue, understood to have been born in said Rehoboth.—

- 2244—1. Mary Horton, b. Nov. 3, 1786; not reported.
- 2245—2. Ariel Ballou Horton, b. Aug. 11, '88; m. and had chn.
- 2246—3. Lydia Horton, b. May 15, '90; not reported.
- 2247—4. James Horton, b. May 20, '92; m. and had chn., untraced.
- 2248—5. Nathan Horton, b. Jan. 29, '94; m. and had chn., untraced.
- 2249—6. Otis Horton, b. not given; m. and had chn.; 1 son at least.
- 2250—7. George S. Horton, b. Mar. 29, 1803; m. and had chn., untraced.
- 2251—8. Darius Horton, b. not given; m. and had chn. untraced.

Believed to have been worthy people, and of good social standing. Nathan Horton made his will Feb. 8, 1822, and d. soon after. His son Ariel B. administered on his estate. The youngest two sons being under age, their widowed mother was appointed their guardian Apl. 2, 1822. She d. Dec. 22, 1827.

Our data for the seventh and eighth generations of this family are so limited and imperfect, that we will annex it to this entry, rather than defer it to its chronological place. Ariel Ballou Horton¹ m. and had chn. Whether m. more than once we are uncertain. But we find named as his chn. sons, Hiram², Horace², Gilbert M.², and Ariel B., Jr.²; also drs., Mercy², who m. Joseph Horton; and Ahnira², wife of William Rounds. Perhaps there was another child or more. These cousins were hard to trace, and not over gifted with helpfulness in getting into genealogical notoriety. Whether Mary² and Lydia² ever m. and had chn., nothing was told us. Concerning James², Nathan², Otis², and Darius², Mr. Otis H. Horton² wrote the senior proprietor of this work, under date of South Rehoboth, Mass., Apl. 18, 1885, that he was unable to fill out our circular, that Otis² was his father, that the above named were all dead, but had chn. living, &c. But he does not tell who his father and uncles m., nor specify the names or number of their chn., nor even give his own birth-date; all of which, in spite of kind intentions, fails to meet our wants. We must therefore leave the later descendants of Robie (Rounds) Horton^e in regretted obscurity.

[747.] JAMES BALLOU ROUNDS^e, Martin Rounds and Jemima Ballou^e, Ariel^e, James^e, James^e, Maturin^e; b. near the border line between Wrentham, Mass., and Cumberland, R. I., prob. in 1767; m. Elizabeth Bliss of Rehoboth; cer. July 29, 1792, by Elder Jacob Hix. Issue, b. in said Rehoboth.—

2253—2. Susan Rounds, b. Sept. 28, 1801; d. n. m. Oct. 1, 1861, a. 64 yrs.

2254—3. Betsey Rounds, b. May 10, '04; d. n. m. July 21, 1883, a. 80 yrs.

2255—4. Louisa Rounds, b. Feb. 25, '09; d. n. m. Jan. 22, 1834, a. 25 yrs.

2256—5. Julia A. Rounds, b. Oct. 16, '13; m. Isaac Bennett, Central Falls, R. I.

2257—6. Arnold Ballou Rounds, b. — '16; d. 1819.

Worthy people; but their family is nearly extinct—only a remnant left. The eldest dr. m. 1st Wm. Simmons of Rehoboth, Jan. 1817, and had Abby Ann, b. Feb. 25, 1818, who d. 1826; and Sophia, b. in 1820, m. a Mr. Parks, and went West. Then Mr. Simmons d., and she subsequently m. Angie Martin of Rehoboth. Issue.—Caroline W., b. in 1836; and Mary E., b. in 1839. Who of these survive we know not. Mrs. Julia A. Bennett and husband are still living at Central Falls, R. I., but have no chn. James Rounds^e d. in Rehoboth, Mass., Mar. 25, 1853, in his 87th yr. Mrs. Rachel had long preceded him; having d. Sept. 26, 1822. So we have no occasion to pursue this family further.

[748.] PHEBE ROUNDS^e, Martin Rounds and Jemima Ballou^e, Ariel^e, James^e, James^e, Maturin^e; b. near the boundary line between Wrentham, Mass., and Cumberland, R. I., not far from 1769; m. David Pierce of Warren, R. I.; cer. Feb. 8, 1789. Issue, b. prob. in said Warren.—

2258—1. Allen Pierce, b. no date given; went to the unsearchable West.

2259—2. Phebe Pierce, b. " " ; m. Benj. G. Short, Apl. 16, 1820.

2260—3. Daniel Pierce, b. " " ; and no more told.

2261—4. Eliza P. Pierce, b. " " ; m. Luther M. Borden, Warren, R. I.

This paucity of dates does not delight us. We are sure that both parents and chn. were worthy of a more specific record. And to make the case still worse, no death-dates of the parents are given. Well, we must make the best of what is furnished us. It does not appear that Mrs. and Mr. Benjamin were blessed with chn. He d. Jan. 15, 1835. Mrs. Phebe⁵, his wid., d. Sept. 16, 1861, a. 67 yrs. and 10 mos.; which shows that she must have been b. not far from 1793. Daniel¹ disappears from the mortal horizon in strange silence. Eliza P.⁷ m. Luther M. Borden of Warren, R. I., at an ungiven date. We have a fragmentary specification of their posterity; but it is too unsatisfactory to transcribe. So we bid adieu to this lineage with the death-dates of Luther M. Borden and Eliza P.¹. He d. Jan. 17, 1864, a. 67 yrs. She d. May 20, 1881, a. 78 yrs. and 7 mos.

[749.] LAVINA ROUNDS⁶, Martin Rounds and Jemima Ballou⁵, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. near the boundary line between Wrentham, Mass., and Cumberland, R. I., not far from 1771; m. 1st Thomas Horton, Jr., of Rehoboth, Mass.; cer. Nov. 23, 1794, by Elder Jacob Hix. Issue.—

Thomas Horton, Jr., d., no date. His wid. subsequently m. 2d John Rounds, no date; and had—2263—2. Martin Rounds, no birth-date; who lives in Bridgewater, Mass.

2264—3. Lavina Rounds, “ “ ; m. Charles Howard, now dead.

Lavina (Rounds) Rounds¹ d. in 1882. Of her 2d husband no more told. Lydia Horton¹, who m. James Case, had Mary Case¹, no birth-date, who m. Thomas Bosworth; James Case², no birth-date, who m. and settled in Middleborough, Mass.; and Gardner Case¹, no birth-date, who d. in California. Lavina⁶, the widow of Charles Howard, now lives in Brockton, Mass. If our readers are enraptured with such definite and exact genealogy as this, we do not envy them their felicity. Farewell to our cousins, the descendants of our aunt Jemima (Ballou) Rounds⁵.

[750.] ZIBA COOK⁶, Ezekiel (Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter,) and Jerusha Ballou⁵, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Bellingham, Mass., May 6, 1764; m. Joanna Aldrich, dr. of Seth and Amey (Cook) Aldrich, b. in Uxbridge, Mass., Oct. 14, 1771; cer. not exactly ascertained, but bans pub. in Bellingham, Dec. 3, 1787. Issue, b. in said Bellingham.—

- 2265—1. Duty Cook, b. Oct. 5, 1793; m. 1st Hansi Mowry, 2d A. Fenner, 3d P. Scott.
- 2266—2. Nahum Cook, b. Mar. 28, '96; m. Sybil Balcome Mar. 28, 1822.
- 2267—3. Eunice Cook, b. July 11, 1800; m. Stephen Lewett Oct. 14, 1833.
- 2268—4. Ziba Cook, Jr., b. Mar. 10, '04; m. Miranda Sadler of Upton, Mass.
- 2269—5. Joanna Cook, b. July 7, '06; residing in Bellingham at last advices.

[751.] EZEKIEL COOK, JR.^c, Ezekiel (Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter,) and Jerusha Ballou^c, Arielⁱ, James^c, James^c, Maturinⁱ; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Aug. 18, 1771; m. Joanna Pickering of Mendon; cer. May 9, 1791, by Rev. Noah Alden. - 2278—8. Esther Cook, b. Apl. 5, '14; m. Simon Keith, Woonsocket, R. I.
- 2279—9. Ezekiel Cook, Jr., b. Jan. — '17; d. u. m. 1845.

Characteristics of Ezekiel Cook, Jr.^c, and wife not given. We trust they were decent at least. He d. Mar. 8, 1818, prob. in an apoplectic fit, as he was found dead on a cart path, near a pair of bars, leading homeward from a wood lot where he had been chopping. His widow survived him some years, but we have not her death-date.

[752.] URANAH COOK^c, Ezekiel (Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter,) and Jerusha Ballou^c, Arielⁱ, James^c, James^c, Maturinⁱ; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Sept. 10, 1775; m. Seth Cook; cer. in Bellingham May 28, 1795. Who this Seth Cook was we are somewhat uncertain. The record of his mge. says he was of Gloucester; but whatever his then residence was, we conjecture that he may have been his bride's cousin, a son of Daniel Cook (Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter,) b. in Bell. Jan. 27, 1765. We leave this as a mere conjecture. Whether they had offspring or not has never been reported to us, and we shall attempt no tracement.

[753.] JERUSHA COOK^c, Ezekiel, (Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter,) and Jerusha Ballou^c, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Nov. 10, 1777; m. Daniel Arnold, son of John and Amey (Bartlett) Arnold, b. in Cumberland, R. I.; cer. Dec. 28, 1798, by Stephen Metcalf, J. P. Issue, b. in said Bellingham.—

2280—1. Mary Arnold, b. Aug. 24, 1799; m. Rev. Ahaz Aldrich.

2281—2. Daniel Arnold, Jr., b. Oct. 29, 1802; m. 1st Miranda Thayer, 2d Jane Martin.

2284—5. Orin Arnold, b. Nov. 12, '16; d. Jan. 7, 1817.

We had sufficient personal acquaintance with Daniel Arnold and his wife Jerusha (Cook) Arnold^c, to feel warranted in pronouncing them persons of sterling moral worth in their domestic and social relations. She d. July 16, 1860, a. 82 yrs. 8 mos. and 6 ds. He d. Mar. 15, 1885, a. 83 yrs.

 2296—10. Betsey Aldrich; m. Calvin Thornton, and lived in London District, U. C.
 2297—11. Lovina Aldrich; lived in same District of Upper Canada.

Here is a treat for lovers of the indefinite. If we were clairvoyant, or could fly on the wings of the wind, such an ample family as this should not be left to waste their consanguineous “fragrance on the desert air.” They should be better known to their cousins who are to study this volume. But we are tethered to a point in time and space, and our inquiries have failed to elicit any thing beyond the above. Whosoever will know more must please visit the London District in Upper Canada. Ariel Aldrich’s descendants no further traced.

- 2298—1. Esther Martin, b. about 1802; m. Kendall Fisher.
 2299—2. Moses Martin, b. “ ’04; he lived and d. in Iowa.
 2300—3. Aphemia Martin, b. “ ’06; m. Joseph Davenport, and d. 1826.
 2301—4. Aaron Martin, b. “ ’08; m. 1st Cynthia Hawkins, 2d C. Francis.
 2302—5. Jacob Martin, b. “ ’11; m. Susanna Buckner.
 2303—6. Asahel A. Martin, b. “ ’14; m. Polly Maria Hiller.
 2304—7. Lydia Martin, b. perhaps ’18; m. James T. Rhodes, Pontiac, Mich.

Jacob Martin, the father of these chn., was thrown from his horse in Richmond, N. H., and instantly killed, between 1813 and ’15. His wid. Joanna⁶ followed her father into Hamburg, Erie Co., N. Y., taking her chn., or most of them, along with her. She is said to have subsequently m. a 2d husband, and moved to Michigan; but our information on this point is not clear. She d. in Hamburg, N. Y., with her son Aaron about 1842 or ’43. Data fragmentary, vague and obscure. No further traced.

[759.] PAMELIA ALDRICH⁶, Philip and Chloe Ballou⁶, Ariel⁶, James⁶, James⁶, Maturin⁶; b. perhaps in Wallingford, Vt., or that vicinity; m. Seth Sprague. Here again we are in the trackless wilderness, and can only tell what we deduce from a laconic letter, written to Mr. Peck by Mrs. Lemira (Sprague) Olds of Elkhart, Polk County, Ia., dated Dec. 6, 1874. We take Mrs. Olds to be the youngest dr. of Pamela and Seth Sprague. The substance of her letter is.—“I am the daughter of Pamela and Seth Sprague. I don't know any thing about the brothers and sisters of my mother. My brothers and sisters are all dead. I don't know any thing about their dates of birth and death. I can give you their names.—

- 2305—1. Herman Sprague, untraced.
- 2306—2. Seth Sprague, “
- 2307—3. Amanda Sprague, “
- 2308—4. Lemira Sprague, that is myself.

LEMIRA OLDS.”

Thus far and no farther. It seemed useless to attempt penetrating into the inwardness of this inscrutable family record. Who Seth Sprague was; when and where he was b.; when, where and by whom married; how many chn. he and his wife had; where and when the living or dead were b.; when, where and to whom each married; the names, birth-places and birth-dates of their respective chn.; when and where the departed d., &c., concerning all these particulars we are obliged to say—no further traced. Considerate reader, take a lesson from such genealogical reports, and qualify thyself to make better ones. Have pity on anxious, inquiring genealogists.

Here desirable landmarks greet our attention. Joseph Hawkins was a diligent and respectable farmer, and Arvilla^a was his worthy helpmeet. They reared up a respectable family to bless their respective domestic and social circles. We shall trace them downward with pleasure to later generations. Joseph and Arvilla^a moved from Vt. and set. in Hamburg, N. Y., in the year 1809. He served as a soldier in the war of 1812 on the Canadian frontier. Mrs. Arvilla d. June 28, 1852. He d. Here we have another strange case of an unsearchable family history. We made strenuous and persistent efforts to obtain a decent genealogical account of Mrs. Lavinia (Sayles) Kimball's record; she being one of our first cousins, and having lived within comparatively hailing distance of us. But we had poor success. She was understood to have inherited her father's family Bible, whose contents we were anxious to ascertain. We traced them to Manchester, N. H., where they dwelt several years. The most we could learn was that Mrs. Lavinia died there, and not long afterward her dr. Mary, an amiable young lady, greatly beloved; that the eldest son John S. married a Miss Butterfield, Nov. 17, 1844, and soon d. without issue; that the youngest son, George, m. his bro. John's widow, and also soon d. without issue; and finally that the entire family was probably extinct. A sad close.

Mrs. Maria (Francoeur) Sayles, the mother of these 10 chn. was of French descent both paternally and maternally, and a lady of most respectable distinction, as well as of admirable personal qualities and characteristics. Willard Sayles^l was a man of fine natural endowments, accomplished manners, executive tact, and eminent success in financial enterprise. His educational privileges were not large, but he improved them to the utmost. We recollect him as our teacher in the common school of our native district, Cumberland, R I., perhaps in 1809. He was then about sixteen, and was at the outset of his career. He was of comely countenance, had brilliant black eyes, was sprightly and graceful in all his movements, and altogether attractive. His school was a marked success—a pleasant one to all concerned. We were first consins and mutual favorites, though he was ten years our senior. At the close of term he made us out a certificate of approbation, elegant and unique, wholly wrought by his ingenious pen, which we preserved many years. Strangely enough our personal acquaintance ended in that little school house, and we never met him afterward. In 1810 he spent his last course in Wrentham Academy, taught a winter district school in that town at the age of seventeen. Next he became a salesman in the then famous store of David Fisher & Co. at Wrentham Centre. There he charmed all the customers by his courtesy, delighted his employers, enjoyed their highest confidence, and began to lay up money. His first investment of capital was made in the Mansfield Manufacturing Co., of which he was chosen clerk early in his 19th year. He soon rose to conspicuous partnership in the Fisher store, then doing a flourishing business in straw goods. His ascent up the mercantile ladder was thenceforth rapid and steady. He married a genial wife and began to be a father. Wrentham was not large enough to hold him, and he moved to Boston during the year 1822. There in 1826 he became a prominent partner in a large dry goods commission house, managed under the firm name of Tucker, Sayles and Hitchcock—an establishment which has continued in high credit through a succession of enterprising partnerships down to the present time. But Willard Sayles⁶ did not confine his interests to that commission house. He invested capital from time to time in manufacturing establishments—notably at Manchester, N. H., and Southbridge, Mass.; being one of the pioneers of the now celebrated Amoskeag Co. in Manchester, and of the Hamilton Woolen Co. in Southbridge. He was always sagacious, judicious, prudent, expansive, indomitably industrious and successful. But he virtually killed himself by intense overwork; allowing himself only scanty relaxation, chiefly by rides into the country in a buggy with his wife. In one of these he passed Amoskeag Falls on the Merrimac, while yet scarcely occupied by the simplest mills, and pointed out to his wife the splendid water power there. He probably suggested its subsequent grand utilization. At length he became subject to intolerable headaches and exhaustion. Then he began to think of releasing himself from his corroding cares; but it was too late, and he died of apoplexy July 7, 1847, a. only 54 yrs. 4 mos. and 6 ds. He was eulogized in the Boston papers as "one of the best, most enterprising, honorable and successful merchants, of that city. He left a large estate of more than half a million to his heirs. We hoped to receive some account of his political, religious and philanthropic characteristics, but for some reason have not been thus favored. His excellent wife and widow, Mrs. Maria, d. in Boston Feb. 25, 1874, a. 80 yrs. and 2 mos.

Nathan^c was left an orphan infant by the untimely death of his father. If we mistake not, he was brought up by his mother, and later, after her 2d marriage to William Whipple in 1791, under their joint care. He was trained by his step-father to the trade of a carpenter, at which he was a good workman. A few years after his marriage, on the 11th April, 1815, he purchased of William Ballou, Jr., &c., the homestead formerly owned by Maj. William Ballou, near the famous Iron Rock Hill in Cumberland, R. I., where he devoted himself mainly for a considerable time to farming. He had been one of the 8 original proprietors of the Social Manufacturing Co. formed Oct. 24, 1810, in which he had invested $2,000, but soon sold out his interest. He seems to have had a steady hankering for manufacturing adventure, and some years later in life embarked in the business at a small establishment in Foxborough, Mass. So he left his farm and settled there for an untold term. We are not well informed how long he remained in Foxborough, or how well he succeeded. But he removed thence to the Crook Fall Factory, so called, in Smithfield, R. I., where he closed his mortal career Feb. 19, 1834. He was a man of respectable capabilities and character in the middling interest class of society. His worthy widow survived him many years; but must, we think, have passed away some time since, and if so, at a date we regret being unable to give. She was a very estimable woman.

Rosina Ballou^c was an excellent woman—generous hearted, intelligent, conscientious, executive in domestic affairs, prudent and exemplary in all her relations; but she had a somewhat anxious, laborious and afflictive earthly pilgrimage. Her husband was an intelligent, capable, kind hearted man, but of an easier temperament than his wife, with less push and energy in business, much interested in politics, a good reasoner on all subjects, and conversationally agreeable. He was for several years a Justice of the Peace, and held various municipal offices. His ruling intention was to do right, Godward and manward, and he deplored his own short comings; which originated more in weakness of the flesh than perversity of moral sentiment. He was engaged, first and last, in various business enterprises, but with moderate pecuniary success. The family residence was first in Cumberland, R. I., then in Troy, N. H., and later in North Bellingham, Mass. There they were bereaved of their beloved dr., the first Eliza Ann, just budding into early maidenhood. This almost crushed the mother's heart, and sadly begloomed the small household circle. It occurred July 14, 1824. During the ensuing year, on the 29th of November, the mother gave birth to twin drs., and was happy. But a child-bed fever seized her, and she d. Dec. 6, only a week later. Subsequently the husband m. a 2d wife, who did what she could for his comfort amid considerable adversity, till finally he departed this life, at Woonsocket, R. I., Oct. 31, 1848, and the writer ministered at his funeral. He was honorably buried with Masonic rites.

Abigail Ballou^a was of comely form and features in early womanhood, physically robust, mentally well capacitated, upright in moral character, indomitably industrious, and richly endowed with the qualities of a good wife, mother and neighbor. Her husband was a man of quick intelligence, sound judgment, strong physical executiveness, ready adaptation to public as well as private affairs, morally reliable in all his engagements, and often entrusted with responsible official agencies. He was a popular civil magistrate, and repeatedly elected to the highest municipal positions in the gift of his fellow townsmen. In financial matters he commanded equal confidence. Such a connubial pair could hardly fail to achieve pecuniary success, and a handsome accumulation of temporal goods. They were perpetual earners and savers, lost little by imprudent risks, wasted nothing, and expended only what ministered to substantial comfort. They brought up their children on the same industrial, economical, social and moral plane. In all these respects the family cup ran over with an enjoyable abundance; albeit they had their trials and sorrows, in one form or another, which mortal humanity in its most favored estate cannot wholly escape. They lived to a good old age, and all their children still survive. Davis Cook, Esq., d. on his homestead Feb. 5, 1870, a. 81 yrs. 9 mos. 14 ds. Mrs. Abigail d. there Apl. 15, 1874, a. 88 yrs.

Cyrus Ballou⁶ was born with a tolerably good physical constitution with perhaps susceptibility to pulmonary disease, a vigorous intellect, high moral integrity, and a predisposition to religious afflictions. He was brought up a hard working farmer, with decent common school privileges, and a laudable ambition to succeed in substantial usefulness. His activities were mostly confined to agricultural pursuits, interlarded with winter school teaching, and some incidental episodes in other directions. He married a worthy and attractive wife in early manhood, and was probably stimulated to over-exertion in trying to make his way in economic life, which shortened his days. The war of 1812 awoke the military spirit in his native town, and he was promoted to the first lieutenantcy in an independent Rifle Co. But he had no opportunity to distinguish himself by slaying any of his country's enemies, an achievement without which a man is of little account in this noon-day of Christian civilization. But what we think was better, about the same time he became a devoted experimental Christian, and in ripening became strongly impressed that it was his duty to preach the gospel. But the way did not open and he remained only a baptized member of the church, and a prayerful exhorter. Meantime his health gave way, consumption fastened upon him, and he passed on, in a most serene state of mind, to the higher life, Mar. 7, 1816, a. 26 yrs. 11 mos. and 20 ds. Mrs. Susanna, his widow, some years later m. Lewis C. Brown, had several chn. by him, became again a widow, and lived to extreme old age. Of all this we shall treat when we reach the chn. of Noah Ballou⁶.

2374—1. Lorinda Arnold, b. May 28, 1817; m. Chas. G. Blake, Dec. 3, 1835.

Arnold Ballou⁶ was a man of very comely person, amiable disposition, intelligent mental capabilities, and exemplary moral character. He was trained to agricultural industry under a father who by precept and practice taught his children to waste no time in idleness, and spend little in recreation. He received a fair common school education, with a small complement of academic. Winter school teaching was his only variation from steady application to farm labor. He made no public profession of religion, but was highly esteemed for his moral integrity, and beloved by all who knew him. He was in the line of official promotion in the same Independent Rifle corps with his elder brother Cyrus. He had m. a congenial wife, and had settled down with his father on the old homestead, under a promising family arrangement which was full of high hopes for future usefulness and happiness. But all these hopes were suddenly blasted by his premature death. He was fatally attacked by a fever which seated itself on his brain, and terminated his earthly life Nov. 27, 1817, a. 24 yrs. 7 mos. and 27 ds. There was deep and bitter mourning throughout the whole family circle. We need not describe the wrecked affections, anticipations and prospects of the bereaved. Let imagination paint the scene. We have seen that a posthumous dr. was born the ensuing May, never to know a father's love and providence. She has drunk large draughts of sorrow, but at this writing still survives. We shall give her record among the Ballous of the Seventh Generation. The widowhood of her mother, Mrs. Lorinda, ended in a 2d marriage. She was m. to Moses Daniels of Mendon, May 25, 1824, and had 3 chn. by him, but did not survive many years. She d. Sept. 4, 1833.

Alfred Ballou^e was a Major in the Rhode Island militia at one time. He became owner of the large homestead lying on both sides of the Mass. and R. I. line, where the southwest corner of Wrentham and Cumberland adjoin. It came down by inheritance from James Ballou^s, his great grandfather, through his grandfather Arielⁱ, and his father Ariel^b. At least this was true of the larger portion, if not of the whole patrimony. Thus he ranked among the solid yeomanry of his native town and county. He received a respectable common school education, with a little supplement of the higher select tuition. He, too, was a competent winter school master during his early manhood. But the principal part of his life was devoted to plain husbandry and its concomitant cares. He made a public profession of religion in his youth, and was more or less a Baptist in his attachments and predilections down to the close of his mortal pilgrimage. He was a man of strict moral integrity in pecuniary and social intercourse, leaning inflexibly to stern justice, as he conceived of it, in God to man, and between man and man. He was not much tinctured with the heretical hope of divine mercy to the wicked after death, nor with "rose-water philanthropy" towards rebels against law and order under human government. He retained some of the good old faith in the wholesomeness of the sword and gibbet in this world, and of an unsparing hell in the next for all incorrigible evil doers. We mention these traits in our brother's character for the edification and comfort of those readers who may think the Ballous prone to be a little too lenient toward sinners, and disposed to sacrifice justice to mercy. They are not all Universalists, much less Restorationist Non-Resistants, like the erratic compiler of these family records. There is a redeeming remnant left, who stand firmly by severe justice in divine and human governments. Major Alfred^e was one of these. Accordingly the famous Dorr insurrection in Rhode Island found him a devoted soldier for law and order, and an unflinching military enforcer of its stern behests, against disturbers of the public peace. In all this he was true to his instincts and highest convictions of duty. Let him be honored for all his good qualities, and his fidelity to what he sincerely deemed sound moral principle. For the rest, the All Perfect Father will take due care to make "darkness light, and crooked things straight." He d. on his patrimonial homestead July 14, 1882, a. 83 yrs. 1 mo. and 12 ds. He was buried with Masonic honors. His worthy wid. d. Feb. 8, 1883, a. 81 yrs. 11 mos. and 3 ds.

Next in order comes the family record of the compiler and editor of this History and Genealogy of the Ballous.—

It seems proper that I should say what is necessary of myself in the first person singular, and for certain reasons that I should not occupy a very large space. I have commenced, and hope I may live to complete for future publication, an elaborate Auto-Biography, which will contain everything I deem of interest to posterity in the experience, observation and mental activity of my long life. To that anticipated work I refer such readers as desire to acquaint themselves with the minutiae of my earthly career. The limits of this volume scarcely allow the following outline.

I was b., as already told, in Cumberland, R. I., Apr. 23, 1803, and was brought up in the ordinary routine of a farmer's boy, on a homestead inherited from my great grandfather, James Ballou. My mind was thoughtful from earliest childhood, and I was always greedy for knowledge. In youth I eagerly coveted a liberal education, but circumstances restricted me to common school privileges. Those I improved to the utmost—earnestly endeavoring to make up for my privations by applying myself thenceforth diligently to the acquisition of all available knowledges, and especially to orderly mental discipline. I was predisposed to religious impressions, and at eleven years of age I passed through a decisive experience, whose influence on my life and character has never ceased. At twelve I was baptized by immersion, and joined a church belonging to the "Christian Connexion," so called. At eighteen I had an intensive spiritual vision imperatively requiring me to preach the gospel. From this I shrank with great reluctance, as subversive of all my cherished worldly plans and yielded to it only from the strongest sense of duty. At the age of eighteen years and three months I preached my first discourse extempore in the ancient Ballou Meeting-house of my native vicinage, with no ecclesiastical training or license, and chiefly from internal inspiration. The occasion was exciting and memorable to me and to the assembled hundreds. I was soon after accepted as an approved minister of the "Christian Connexion," and continued to preach as such in various places of my general neighborhood for about one year.

Meantime, pursuant to a previous engagement, in the winter of 1822, I united myself in marriage with my first wife—a most worthy and excellent connubial companion. Her mother, an intelligent and noble-minded woman, had been brought up by her venerable father, Dea. Samuel Scott, a Restorationist. She owned a copy of Elliahaan Winchester's Dialogues on Universal Restoration, and modestly requested me to read the little volume. I considered myself firmly established in the doctrine that all who died out of Christ, or the finally impenitent so termed, would, at the Judgment Day, be sentenced to a punishment ending in their absolute destruction or annihilation. I was therefore strongly opposed to every form of Universalism and publicly controverted it. But I was strictly honest, strictly rational, and fearless of investigation. I read the work, and, though somewhat favorably impressed with its arguments, felt confident I could refute them. But the result of a searching and very anxious examination was, that I must amend my theological finalities and substitute Restorationism for Destructionism. I did so, and have never since seen any adequate reason for changing my conclusion. I could not conceal my change of views, and in consequence lost the fellowship of the Church and Connexion in which I commenced my ministry. Circumstances threw me almost irresistibly into the Universalist denomination. I continued in this denomination until 1831, when I felt obliged to secede from it on account of the dogmatism and intolerance of its then dominant wing, the no-future retributionists, towards outspoken Restorationists. For several ensuing years I was attached to the Massachusetts Association of Independent Restorationists, who fraternized with a portion of the Unitarian denomination. While thus associated I embraced the great leading Reforms—Temperance, Anti-Slavery, Woman's Rights, the Peace cause, and Practical Christian Socialism. This last culminated in the experiment to establish at Hopedale, Mass., a Practical Christian Community, intended to be first in a series of like communities elsewhere. This virtually failed in 1856, and subsequently became submerged in the present Hopedale Parish. My ministry commenced in Cumberland, R. I., about the middle of July 1821, was continued transiently in various localities till 1824, then in Milford, Mass., several years, then a few months in New York City, then again in Milford till the Spring of 1831, then in Mendon, Mass., eleven years till the Spring of 1842, then in Hopedale, Mass., till April 23, 1880, and since then at large till the present time, 1887—in all about sixty-six years. During this long ministry I have delivered a vast number of sermons and lectures, have officiated at nearly 2500 funerals, solemnized nearly 1150 marriages, edited three several periodicals for terms amounting to about thirty years of time, executed as author three large octavo vols., several smaller sized ones, with pamphlets and tracts too numerous to mention, also several vols. stored away in manuscript for posterity.

If asked for my creed, I will state it in the following general terms.—I believe in the religion of Jesus Christ, as he taught and exemplified it according to the Scriptures of the New Testament.—

1. That there is one supreme, self-existent, all-perfect God, who is the loving and wise Father of all moral intelligences.

2. That Jesus Christ is the truest, highest, and most trustworthy exponent of God's moral perfections, of his will and law, and of human duty; not as a mere man, speaking and acting on his own personal authority, but as fore-chosen, ordained of the Father, and plenarily endowed with his Holy Spirit, to teach and exemplify absolute religious truth and righteousness, and thus to be the spiritual head and discipliner of the human race for their salvation from all sin.

3. That all human beings are by nature free moral agents within a limited sphere, always subject to divine overruling and corrective discipline, and always required, according to their ability as creatures of progress, to co-operate in their own and each others perfection.

4. That all human moral agents and all other moral agents are brothers and sisters of a common family, whose individual, social, and collective good is the same eternally, and they all bound, by the divine moral law, to love their common Father and one another with that perfect love which worketh only good to its object.

5. That all moral agents are spirits destined to final immortal blessedness, through a long process of divine discipline administered in perfect love and wisdom, whereby evil will sooner or later be overcome by triumphant good.

6. That this grand result ought to be earnestly prayed and labored for.

In accordance with the essential principles and spirit of this creed, I hold myself solemnly bound to preach, teach and practice, and to abstain from preaching, teaching and practicing everything logically therewith inconsistent under any pretext whatsoever. This I have long scrupulously endeavored to do; avoiding all compromises with Church and State whereby I should bind myself in any wise to violate my principles, by doing with, by or through others what was contrary to my own individual conscience. At the same time I have tried to be just to those who reject my standard of Christian righteousness and conform more or less to the popular theology, ethics and customs of civilization as it is; giving them all the credit they deserve for sincerity, good motives and good works, without abating my testimony against what I am certain are their real errors and wrongs.

In my second marriage to my present wife, who has grown old in my companionship, I have been greatly blest. Solomon well said, "A prudent wife is from the Lord," Mine is such,—a model of discretion, domestic order, executive industry, a constant minister of good under all circumstances in her family and neighborhood, an intelligent counsellor in all emergencies, and a sympathetic companion in all high principles and endeavors. Though not robust in health and physical strength, she excels in actual accomplishment through mental judgment and persistent will-power. The readers of this volume ought to know that she has been an indispensable co-operator with me in correcting its proof-sheets, besides rendering in various ways a great deal of other needed assistance. We have shared our joys, sorrows, labors and trials together for more than fifty-seven years. We are now nearing their completion and preparing for our summons to the higher life. I have over-used my space, and will only add, that despite a multitude of delinquencies and disappointments, I can rejoice gratefully in the loving-kindness of my heavenly Father, whose providence and tender mercies have crowned my life, and now shed a serene sunshine on my old age. Whatever good uses I have served, to him alone be glory and praise. For many shortcomings he knows all my lamentations; and that I confidently, as well as contritely, cast myself, for final disposal, into the bosom of his forgiving love as manifested through his blessed son Jesus Christ.

Dr. Ariel Ballou^c is the senior publishing proprietor of this commemorative volume, without whose laudable ambition, enterprise and pecuniary resources, it might never have greeted the reading public. His adjacent likeness, very true to the original, will indicate to the observer that he was no ordinary character. It will impress the sagacious mind with the conviction that he was an intellectual, judicial, self-poised, upright, courageous, high-toned man. Such he was. He rose to distinction in his profession, in public life, and in the various spheres of activity which he honored, more by persistent, indomitable force of will in the pursuit of his objects, and by his unswerving moral integrity, than by mere natural mental endowments, efficient as those were. But in boyhood we deemed him a dull rather than a brilliant pupil. We remember well what a tough time his mother and others had in teaching him the alphabet. The letter u was for some time a stumbling puzzle to him. He could not comprehend that he must simply pronounce its vowel name u, but would haggle with the repeated question, "Is it me? Is it I? mean me?"—taking its name as if written you, in the personal pronoun sense. At length he mastered it, and went into his abs. at rather a slow pace. But though apparently a dull scholar for some years, he was thorough as far as he advanced, and in physical development led the family—rising to the stature of six feet at the age of fourteen years. Meantime he grew athletic, and at lifting, running, swimming, skating, &c., he far out-did his brother, the present scribe, who was his inferior in stature, as well as strength and executive muscular performance, whether at work or play; the said scribe being a devotee of books and study from his early childhood—caring little for physical exercise except at indispensable labor.

But at sixteen Ariel* developed into a lover of learning, and thenceforth hungered more and more for its viands. He would have enjoyed the advantages of a collegiate education, but circumstances frowned on his ambition, and his father did not encourage it, for he had then little faith in and no dream of his possible success. The consequences were, that he had to prosecute his studies against wind and tide. Foremost of all he felt in duty bound to stand by and serve his father faithfully on the old farm till twenty-one years of age; and he did so with unsurpassed executiveness. And though he taught the public schools of the vicinity during the winter season, he handed over his wages always to his father. Yet he secured some valuable educational advantages. When seventeen years of age he spent six months in the select private school of Rev. Abial Fisher in Bellingham, Mass., who prepared young men for college. This gave him a good start, and he returned to his farm work resolved to hold fast what he and good works, without abating my testimony against what I am certain are their real errors and wrongs.

In my second marriage to my present wife, who has grown old in my companionship, I have been greatly blest. Solomon well said, "A prudent wife is from the Lord." Dr. Ariel Ballou* is the senior publishing proprietor of this commemorative volume, without whose laudable ambition, enterprise and pecuniary resources, it might never have greeted the reading public. The Frontispiece to this work, very true to the time, a member of the Rhode Island Legislature, either in the lower or upper House. He introduced and successfully urged the passage of the Bill abolishing Capital Punishment, which has ever since remained an undisturbed statute. In the Peoples' Constitutional Convention he was Chairman of the Committee on the Bill of Rights, and through the whole ensuing almost revolutionary agitation he adhered courageously to Gov. Dorr and the defeated party, without losing the respect of high-minded opponents, though suffering a partial martyrdom from hostile partizans. But all this he lived down, and in 1879 was once more elected to the State Senate, as representative from the newly incorporated town of Woonsocket. In 1852 he was one of the four Rhode Island Presidential Electors. In educational matters he was always a strong and devoted friend of the public schools, and other instrumentalities of mental improvement. For seventeen years he was an active member of the School Board of his native town, and in nameless ways exerted his large influence in behalf of the rising generation.

In social philanthropy he greatly distinguished himself as a member of the Masonic Fraternity. He was initiated and became a Master Mason in Morning Star Lodge, Cumberland, R. I., in the year 1826. After that Lodge was removed to Woonsocket he presided over it as Worshipful Master from 1848 to 1853; afterward serving several years as its Treasurer. From 1861 to 1865 he was Grand Master of the State. He became a Royal Arch Mason in 1858, and rose from one office to another, till elected, in 1861, Most Excellent Grand High Priest of the State Chapter—continuing such till 1864. He received at various times several of the superior select degrees, and in 1867 consummated his Masonic attainments in the Woonsocket Encampment of Knights Templars. His devotion and services to the Fraternity have been worthily appreciated.

In religion he is a conscientious, devout and exemplary Episcopalian, long a member of the Church in Woonsocket, but like most others of that denomination is steadfast in his own way without disturbing the preferences of dissenters. He is a Warden of his Church, and honors his profession.

Though successful and prosperous in so many respects, he has had his share of trials and afflictions. Besides many of the more ordinary ones, and the loss of two chn. in early infancy, his beloved eldest son, a lad in his 11th year, was drowned in a deep factory canal at Woonsocket in 1844. And when his father arrived, too late to save him, he had to rescue his corpse from the silent depth with his own hands—skillfully letting himself down to the bottom and bringing it to the surface. Then followed the sad funeral. His faithful and worthy wife, to whose helpfulness he ascribed much of his medical and financial success, passed on to the higher life Nov. 14, 1873; since which he and his eldest daughter Annah have made the best of a home with a vacant chair at table and resting place by night. Latterly their residence has been Providence, R. I.; though he spends most of his business hours in Woonsocket. He feels the impairments of hard service and the friction of time, but verges, at this writing, on his 80th birthday with more than the common vigor of such advanced age.*

Stephen^e was a skilful housewright, executive, diligent and upright in business, and a worthy citizen. His wife was a reputable and exemplary woman. They dwelt in the south-easterly section of Bellingham for many years, where all the above named chn. were born. In 1837 they removed to the State of Wisconsin. Mrs. Esther and her young dr. Abby were conveyed mostly by water, embarking first at Providence, R. I., on board a steamer for New York City. Their route thence not given. Stephen^e and his three boys started from Bellingham with a substantial horse team Jan. 8, 1837, and were 43 days on the road to their place of destination. The family finally located in Genesee, Waukesha Co., where a village at length grew up, called Saylesville in honor of Stephen Sayles. He is said to have owned 300 acres of land, to have become an influential citizen, to have been Postmaster for several years, and to have settled his elm. prosperously about him. Stephen Sayles⁶ and wife d. on their homestead in Genesee, Wis., at dates we have been unable to ascertain.

[781.] ISAIAH SAYLES⁶, Daniel (Richard, Richard, John, Thomas) and Eunice Ballou⁵, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Franklin, Mass., Dec. 11, 1785. Isaiah Sayles⁶ long ago left his native vicinity, and his record has baffled our research. We have little else to depend on than mere hearsay. He settled, lived and died in Salina, N. Y. No dates. He is said to have married, and the contrary has been said—to have had one son, and otherwise only an adopted son, bearing his name. A man calling himself Isaiah Sayles, Jr., was reported to reside in Wrentham, Mass., and to have a family. We wrote him anxiously, but he never responded. The search abandoned.

[782.] AVILDA SAYLES⁶, Daniel (Richard, Richard, John, Thomas) and Eunice Ballou⁵, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Franklin, Mass., Mar. 6, 1788; never m.; an exemplary member of the Christian Church in Cumberland, R. I., highly intelligent, well educated for her times and opportunities, an excellent school teacher for many years in various places, and spent her maturer years in dutiful ministrations to her aged parents. She left a blessed record and memory. She d. on the patrimonial homestead in Franklin, Jan. 13, 1866, a. 77 yrs. 10 mos. and 7 ds. Her grave and memorial stone may be seen in the cemetery of South Bellingham, near the little village called Rakeville.

[783.] NAHUM SAYLES⁶, the next of this family in age, seemed to have been born under inauspicious influences, was wayward in his proclivities, went off to sea, and was never heard from more.

2406—2. Willard Sayles, b. Aug. 30, '25; m. Sarah E. C. Palmer.

John Sayles^c was an intelligent, decently educated, enterprising, worthy man. He was an acceptable teacher of the common schools in the winter season during his early manhood. In 1831 he took up his residence in Providence, R. I., where he engaged at first in the grocery business and afterward, for many years, in the boot and shoe trade. He retired at length from merchandize, and with his wife resided in the comfortable home of their only son, Hon. Willard Sayles, on Pitman St. There he enjoyed himself much in caring for his son's grounds, garden, &c., keeping everthing in admirable order and productiveness, down almost to the time of his death. There he d. Feb. 18, 1879, a. 84 yrs. 5 mos. and 8 ds. And there Mrs. Hannah, his widow, in feeble health, still survived him at our last advices.

mediately to the bride's parental home in Franklin, Mass., where the marriage banquet was served. These particulars are well remembered by the writer, who acted as groomsman on the occasion. Issue.—

The above named chn. were born in different localities where the parents successively resided, which will be specified when we come to their respective family records in chronological order. Our somewhat intimate and long acquaintance with Juliana (Sayles) Bullard and her husband enables us to sketch their lives and characters with intelligent satisfaction. They were eminently worthy of the best testimonial we can give them. They were remarkably congenial and well mated companions; both highly intelligent, affectionate and amiable; both devoutly and rationally religious; both endued with regenerative moral principles, progressive aspirations and reformatory aims; and both uncompromisingly faithful to their sublimest convictions of truth and duty. Their chn. were brought into the world and trained accordingly. And the same may be said of their conduct and character in every circle of human relationship which enjoyed their influence. Neither of them was favored with great scholastic privileges, yet respectable common ones, with some extras; but they had live intellects, and were ever active self-educators. With strong common sense and persistent self-culture something may be accomplished in this world without having been drilled through college and university curricula.

Rev. Dexter Bullard was converted, baptized by immersion, and joined a church of the Christian Connection, so called, in Greenwich, Mass., while a youth between 14 and 17 years of age. He soon became an earnest exhorter, and a little later a devoted minister in the same ecclesiastical communion, from which he never withdrew. He was ordained in Cumberland, R. I., at the age of 19 years, and was for some time joint pastor with Rev.

Reuben Potter. We recollect his ordination well. It took place on Cumberland Hill, and the hardy old veteran, Elder Daniel Hix of Dartmouth, Mass., preached the sermon. Hix was a sturdy farmer, and a no less sturdy minister of the gospel. His sermons were worth hearing, strong and full of telling points, with no rhetorical daisyism at all in them. After Rev., or as generally styled, Elder Bullard left Cumberland, R. I., he had pastorates in different parts of Connecticut, and in Upton, Mass. He was a sound, sensible, earnest and impressive preacher, as well as an eminently exemplary and beloved pastor. He was rational and liberal in doctrine without laxity of faith or moral discipline. When the great Reforms of his times demanded recognition, he and his wife ranged themselves in line with the Temperance advocates and the Abolitionists. And they had to hold their ground in some stormy times. In 1833-34 a most shameful and hateful persecution arose against Miss Prudence Crandall on account of her opening, in Canterbury, Ct., a Boarding School for "colored young ladies and misses." The whole town, County of Hampton, and general region around, was uproarious with excitement. Miss Crandall's School was outrageously broken up. It was a storm from which even friends of the persecuted party were prone to hide themselves. Two had the heart and courage to face the prejudiced herd in defence of the right. These were Samuel J. May and Dexter Bullard, both neighboring pastors. In this crisis Mrs. Bullard did herself the honor to press boldly to the front with her husband, and by outspoken fidelity to principle exerted the large influence of her winning personality and character in behalf of the injured victims of inexcusable violence. We mention this exhibition of moral heroism under trying circumstances, as an index to much creditable biography which space obliges us to withhold concerning this connubial pair. As he advanced in years the husband suffered seriously from loss of hearing and general health. He spent a brief period in Virginia where he had a kind and worthy brother; but though the climate and personal relationships rendered his residence there congenial, the then social and political state of things repelled him. In 1852 he decided to settle in the State of Wisconsin. There he spent his remaining ministerial and domestic strength. And there, in Genesee, Waukesha Co., after a distressful sickness, which he bore with Christian fortitude, he laid down the burden of mortality, bequeathed his final benediction to his family, and departed in the full assurance of heavenly bliss to his mansion above, Dec. 14, 1865, a. 66 yrs. and 8 mos. Mrs. Juliana survived him over five years, residing most of the time in Grafton, Mass., in the home of her dutiful daughter and son-in-law, Julia A. and Silas A. Forbush. There she sweetened that home with maternal love and counsel, and received every kind attention that her widowed heart could crave. At last she was suddenly seized with neuralgia of the heart, and in half an hour was translated into the society of loved ones gone before. She passed into the higher life June 10, 1871, a. 72 yrs. and 11 mos. Blessed be her memory and her soul. The writer had the sacred privilege of ministering sympathy and consolation at her funeral.

We were well acquainted in youth with this cousin, and we were fellow students at the close of school life. He was an intelligent, companionable and worthy young man at that time. Afterward we personally knew little of him, except by occasional good report. He went to Providence perhaps in 1825 or '26, entered into the grocery business, and afterward became a shoe dealer, with fair success in both positions, continuing in the last until his death, Aug. 23, 1839. We hoped for more definite information concerning his life and death than has ever been furnished us. At our last advices his respected widow and daughter were residing together in Providence, R. I.

Oren Sayles^o was an intelligent, executive, thrifty, upright farmer. He received a fair common school and grammar school education. He was a responsible, respected man in the various relations of life, and seemed to break down at last with hard work, care and anxiety. By inheritance and purchase he came into possession of the old paternal homestead in the southwest part of Franklin, which he occupied and managed for many years, but finally in old age relinquished, retiring to a quiet home in the little village of Rakeville, So. Bellingham, Mass., where he d. Aug. 25, 1883, a. 81 yrs. 6 mos. and 11 ds. Mrs. Almira, his wife, was a very capable, energetic, excellent woman, a devoted wife and mother, who surmounted a vast amount of labor, care and downright usefulness in her family and neighborhood. 2432—7. Adin Ballou Whipple, b. May 8, '33; res. u. m. Woonsocket, R. I.

We have the following acceptable testimony of parental character from their youngest son. "He (my father) lived almost his entire life near the spot where he bade adieu to earth, amid the hills in the easterly part of Woonsocket, formerly Cumberland. He was brought up a farmer, and in his prime was a good one. He also learned the trade of a carpenter. He was of a mild and equable temperament, went through life without much friction, and left the world like a child going to sleep. He always sustained a good character. Friendly himself, his friends were as numerous as his acquaintances. He loved a farm-life, and had a great attachment to his acres. He lived over 16 yrs. beyond the Psalmist's three score and ten, and then, like the well ripened fruit of his orchard, was gathered into the great store-house of Nature. Mother always took the part of the Good Samaritan in life; ready and willing to lend a helping hand to those around her in their times of trouble and distress. She labored hard to accomplish the requirements of her household; believing she owed her first duty to her Maker, and the others to her family and all mankind." She d. Nov. 28, 1868, a. 77 yrs. 9 mos. and 15 ds. Her husband d. July 31, 1878, a. 86 yrs. 3 mos. and 13 ds. There is some discrepancy in the data reported to us concerning the birth of Deborah^a, and still more as to the time of her death. Her husband was a farmer, and they removed to Pelham, Mass., in 1821. There she d. prob. in 1826, but perhaps later. The Jillson Genealogy says she d. *In the writer's History of Milford, Mass., Part II., p. 1011, it is stated that these Scotts were thought to be descendants of John Scott, a servant of Laurence and Cassandra Southwick, persecuted Quakers, and took refuge in Providence, R. I., with Roger Williams. But more light, since received on the subject, seems to show that their immigrant ancestor was Richard Scott from England, who became one of the proprietors with Williams, and settled on lands in or near what is now called Lonsdale, R. I. There are good reasons for believing that this Richard of Lonsdale left but one son, whose name was Sylvanus; and that he became the father of 11 chn., among whom was Joseph of Scott Hill in Bellingham, father of Dea. Samuel, and grandfather of Saul, the husband of Selah Ballou^a. So Richard is now put in place of John Scott as immigrant ancestor.

Olney Scott^e and wife resided four or five years immediately succeeding mge. in their native town, Bellingham, Mass. There prob. their two oldest chn. were born. They next resided in Petersham, Mass., where we presume the rest of their chn. were born. They were diligent, frugal, respected farmers. After about 30 years' residence in Petersham, they returned to Bellingham. They were both exemplary members of the Baptist church, and were greatly beloved by all who knew them in the social intercourse of life. Not having received any hint of their personal worth, we wrote to their youngest son for a few words of testimony. His answer closed thus.—“In regard to their lives and character, I will just state this little incident. A few years ago, after both father and mother had passed away, I went to visit the old neighborhood at Petersham. It was a rich treat to me, and one that I shall never forget—the cordial manner in which I was received on my parents' account; and it did my heart good to know in what love and esteem they were held by all their old neighbors. Truly ‘a good name is better than great riches.’” Olney^e d. in Bellingham, Sept. 12, 1838. Mrs. Lydia d. in what is now East Providence, R. I., Feb. 6, 1854.

Rila^e and wife honored their reputable pedigree by intelligence, business enterprise, moral integrity, and eminent social worth. He was a successful manufacturer of cotton and other goods for many years; but was suddenly cut off from mortal life by a fatal casualty. He was always accustomed to manual labor when occasion required it, and was endeavoring to sink a boulder on one of his estates in the town of Douglas, Mass., by digging away the earth near and partly beneath it. The rock slid or rolled heavily against him, breaking one of the bones in an arm, and inflicting deadly internal injury. He was rescued from the excavation, and was instantly aware that death would soon ensue. But though a great sufferer, he was calm, patient, and resigned in spirit. He lived two days, evincing rational consciousness to the last. Having given an affectionate adieu to his heart-stricken wife and children, he commended his soul to the Infinite Father with a serene assurance of acceptance into the bosom of his merciful loving kindness. He was always averse to making high professions, and to courting human praise. So we refrain from further eulogy. He d. Nov. 8, 1855, and his funeral took place in Milford, Mass., his then bereaved home, on Sunday Nov. 11, following, with every suitable demonstration of public respect and sympathy. A large concourse of people assembled, the writer led the ministrations of consolation, and the Masonic Fraternity consecrated his grave. His age was 60 yrs. 7 mos. and 4 ds. His excellent wife and widow survived him over 20 yrs. She d. in Milford Sept. 12, 1876, a. 77 yrs. 11 mos. and 4 ds. Again the writer ministered.

Emery Scott^e and wife were intelligent, respectable people. He was mostly engaged in the manufacture of cotton goods, and for many years dwelt in what is now called East Blackstone, Mass. They were understood in the outset of married life to be Universalists, but later joined a small society of independent Friends under the lead of Ichabod Cook, which was organized and had a brief existence in the general neighborhood of then So. Willard B. Scott⁶ has dwelt all his days on the ancient patrimonial homestead where his father, grandfather, and gt. gd. father lived and died; we mean to say on the central portion of that homestead, on Scott Hill, long so called. He has been a quiet, industrious, orderly farmer, a good citizen and neighbor, an unpretentious, worthy man in all his relationships, and his sun is going down a calm horizon, he being now (1885) in his 84th year. His beloved companion, Mrs. Sarah A., passed on May 9, 1886, a. 69 yrs. and 11 mos.; and we trust that the hopeful faith of his father and grandfather in the Divine goodness will sustain him through the shadow of death to the immortal continent.

- 2498—4. Ophelia Hyrena Scott, b. Franklin, Mass., June 30, '42; m. William M. Comey, Dec. 7, 1865.

Col. Saul B. Scott⁶ is a man of strong mental powers, sound judgment and energetic abilities, of solid moral integrity and all the qualities of reliable manhood. He has been an active business man in manufactures, trade, and various concomitant interests. Meantime he has officiated respectably in the State Volunteer Militia, grade after grade up to Col. for 7 yrs; represented Franklin in Gen. Court during 1843 and '44; served as Postmaster of his vicinity 20 yrs.; held all the principal town offices; and been a commissioned Justice of the Peace for several successive terms. Thus he has grown old in enterprise, usefulness and public respect. His wife [who d. 1886] and family have evinced corresponding merits, and he will leave the stage of mortal activity in an honorable old age, illumed with the hope of a higher life.

[812.] JEFFERSON SCOTT⁶, Saul (Dea. Samuel, Joseph, Sylvanus, Richard) and Selah Ballou⁶, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b.

in Bellingham, Mass., Aug. 3, 1806; m. Alice Worrall, dr. of Otterwill and Ruth (Hall) Worrall, b. in Boston, Mass., Jan. 22, 1807; cer. in Bellingham Feb. 21, 1830, by the then Baptist Pastor. Issuè.—

- 2502—4. Horace Auburn Scott, b. South Mendon, Jan. 4, '41; m. Emilie J. Johnson 1872.

Jefferson Scott⁶ was brought up a farmer, and for several years dwelt on a homestead a little way down the southern declivity of Scott Hill, his birth-place. Thence he removed to So. Mendon, now Blackstone, and probably turned his hand to mechanical or other pursuits—having a dexterous genius for whatever business seemed to promise remuneration. He was eager for wealth, and when the California gold mining excitement arose he left the endearments of home in the hazardous quest for uncertain riches. If this was his mistake he shared it with thousands of adventurers. He sailed from Boston in 1849, and spent six months getting round Cape Horn to the golden coast. He had just success enough, good and bad, to hold him to the pursuit till death overtook him. He visited his family three several times—in 1854, 1857 and 1868. But he must go again. He did so. Mrs. Alice, his wife, a most excellent woman, had previously d. in Woonsocket, R. I., Nov. 4, 1861, a. 54 yrs. 9 mos. and 12 ds. He finally d. at Oroville, Cal., May 21, 1874, a. 67 yrs. 9 mos. and 18 ds. We do not hear that he married a 2d time. We presume him to have been a man worthy of respect for many commendable qualities. But we infer that it would have been better for him, had he loved gold less and home more.

The descendants of Bathsheba Ballou⁴ come next in order. Her 1st husband was Michael Keith, by whom she had two drs., Mary and Esther Keith. Mary was m., as already stated to Joseph Swift of Mendon. Of their chn., if they had any, we have never found the slightest trace, and therefore dismissed the search. Esther Keith m. Asa Thompson of Mendon. They had 8 chn., whose names we have given and numbered from 813 to 820 inclusive. But of these only three admit of tracement worth specification.

We feel warranted in registering a good name and character for Mrs. Albermarle, Mr. Brown, and their chn. He was a hard working farmer, and d. in E. Thompson, Ct., Jan. 11, 1850. We suspect the above named 3 chn. may have been b. in that town or vicinity, but have no positive authority on this point. Mrs. Albermarle (Newell) Brown d., if we mistake not, in the kind care of her dr., Mary (Brown) Cutter⁷ and husband, in Burlingame, Osage Co., Kansas, Apl. 28, 1883, a. 91 yrs. 11 mos. and 23 ds. She retained her faculties and memory in good degree almost to the last. She has carried her checkered biography, like thousands of aged care-worn pilgrims, unwritten to the world of spirits. Her dr., Mrs. Mary C. (Brown) Cutter⁷ and husband reside in Burlingame, Osage Co., Kans. They have one son. We are indebted to Mrs. C. for nearly all we have told of this family. Her son, George Brown⁷, res. in Boston, Mass., having one son and one dr. Her youngest dr., Phebe Ann (Brown) Crawford⁷, husband and one son, res. in Parson, Sullivan Co., Mo. This descent closes here.

John Newell^o has always been a hard working man, chiefly as an operative in woolen manufactories. He left R. I. in 1818, and has successively resided in Schuyler, Manchester, Marcellus and numerous other localities in N. Y., Iowa, and Mich. He is now spending his old age in the kind care of his dr., Mrs. Harriet Adams and husband, in Albronia, Mich. His pilgrimage has lasted over 90 yrs. He has always been strictly industrious, honest and temperate, never indulging in the use even of tobacco. He has never been successful in pecuniary accumulation, but may have goodly treasures laid up in heaven. At last advices he was failing in memory, eyesight and hearing, though otherwise retaining quite good health. Mrs. Lydia, his wife, d. in Marshall, Mich., Feb. 22, 1874, a. 80 yrs. and 2 ds.

2559—5. Eli Smith Newell, b. Pawtucket, R. I., Mar. 13, 1840; m. Mary J. Eaton Apl. 12, 1860.

Elisha Newell⁶ and wife spent most of their lives in Pawtucket, R. I., and vicinity. They were excellent people, kind hearted, upright, industrious, orderly and exemplary. He was a skillful, diligent, reliable Millwright, always in demand, trusty and successful. The dutiful, filial care and patience with which they took care of his poor father and mother in their old age deserves the highest commendation. Their lives overflowed with substantial and beneficent usefulness, as solid as it was unpretentious and humble. They were economical and prudent liver, and we presume left a competence to their chn. He d. in Pawtucket, R. I., Feb. 15, 1864, a. 65 yrs. 4 mos. and 27 ds. Mrs. Ruth d. there Mar. 18, 1865.

Concerning their chn. we have to report. The eldest, Harriet, m. Joshua S. White, resides in Pawtucket, and has 5 chn.—one deceased. Her son William S. White is a promising student in Brown University (at this time 1885), and the family one of good repute. Mrs. White and her son Wm. S. are entitled to our hearty thanks for the pains they have taken to post us with data and clues relating to the descendants of Elisha Newell⁷. James Newell, son of Elisha⁸, m. Ann Frances Tucker, as above written. He d. July 7, 1876, leaving 6 surviving chn., besides 2 deceased. They reside on the family homestead in So. Attleboro', Mass. William Elisha⁹ m. Emily W. Alexander. They res. in Pawtucket, R. I., but have no chn. Eli S. Newell¹⁰ m. Mary J. Eaton, resides in Pawtucket, and has two grown up drs. Here we close this branch of descent.

We have already dismissed the descendants of Elisha and Bathsheba (Ballou) Newell¹¹, through their dr. Bathsheba Newell¹², who m. Samuel Scott of Bellingham, Mass. They had a numerous family of chn., covered by Nos. [829 to 841] inclusive. We did so with reluctance, because the difficulty and expense of research seemed so formidable. No. 830, however, will come in another connection. We had previously abandoned the tracement of Jason and Patience Newell's descent, chn. of Bathsheba¹³, because we found our attempts fruitless. So now we come to the descendants of Martha Ballou¹⁴, sister of Bathsheba¹⁵.

Whipple Cook^c and wife were plain, hard working, respectable farmers, who had their hearts, heads and hands full to bring up their large family. But they did so with fair success, and their numerous descendants are a useful and busy host in various spheres of active enterprise. We should like to trace them onward, but think it wise to adhere to our general rule of closing where the third generation of female descent runs into the fourth. Mrs. Lucy is believed to have d. during the year 1830, date no nearer given. Whipple Cook^c d. in Dec. 1858, a. about 85 yrs.

[847.] AMEY COOK^c of this family d. u. m. at the age of about 20 yrs. No memorial of her character reaches us.

I., Feb. 9, 1779; m. Nancy Aldrich, her ptge. and birth-date not given; cer. in Wrentham, Mass., July 14, 1805, by Rev. William Williams. Mr. Peck says they had 4 chn., 2 sons and 2 drs.; and that they removed from Cumberland, R. I., to Waterford, Vt. Of his medical education, success, characteristics, or death, he says nothing; and we have not been tempted to prosecute the research necessary to command the desired additional data. Not knowing the names, birth-dates, or history of his chn., we consign the family to the care of some competent Cook Genealogist who may fortunately arise to do justice to their character and fame. Nahum Cook^a, if we have not mistaken Mr. Peck's memoranda, lived and died on a homestead in Cumberland, R. I. So we write him and his wife down as of the farmer class, and, in the absence of given characteristics, shall assume that they were worthy people. He d. Mar. 7, 1867, a 84 yrs. 3 mos. and 18 ds. Levi Cookⁱ was a handsome, portly man, of strong common sense and commanding abilities. He was Col. of militia, often a prominent Town Councilman, and several times member of the State Legislature. He was an economical farmer on a homestead about a mile north of Cumberland Hill, and always deservedly held in high respect for moral integrity, as well as his mental capabilities. The wife of his youth, Mrs. Rhoda, was worthy of him, and they reared children of superior intellect, business enterprise, and moral rectitude. Mrs. Rhoda d. Apl. 8, 1843. Not

The 2d child, named Olive, is omitted from the above list, having d. in infancy. So there were 10 in all. The writer's first recollection of Amos Cook^a goes back to his early boyhood, when Amos was Capt. of militia, and was training his company in the immediate vicinity of the Eld. Ballou Meeting-house, in his native neighborhood.

Capt. Amos never apostatized from the worship of Mars, and, if our memory serves, was a valiant one at advanced age, in the piping days of the quasi Dorr rebellion. He was always a resolute, enterprising and determined man in whatever he undertook. He was for many years the popular landlord of the ancient Cumberland Hill Inn. The Temperance Reform had made little headway in his prime, and he was a respectable dispenser of the best liquors. He was famous, too, as an Auctioneer in his day, and held various town offices first and last. On the whole he, his wife and family held a very reputable rank in their general community. Mrs. Olive, his wife, d. June 5, 1848, a. 68 yrs. 11 mos. and 5 ds. Capt. Amos d. May 31, 1853, a. 76 yrs. 7 mos. and 11 ds. Here we close this descent.

Ariel Cook^c, Esq., was a remarkable man in many respects. He had an admirable personal presence, captivating suavity of speech and general deportment, a keen intellect, a sound judgment, shrewd business enterprise, a calm temper, and that versatile tact which enables one to slide through this jagged world with the least friction. He was a conservative in politics, a liberalist in religion, and had fine social aptitudes. As a husband, father, neighbor, citizen and public magistrate, he won a good name and fame. He was fairly successful in business as a merchant and in manufacturing investments, held many responsible town offices, was sent several times to the State General Assembly, and for a long series of years was a popular Justice of the Peace. We never heard of his moral character being impeached in any of life's relationships. Doubtless he had more or less of our common human imperfections, known to himself and his intimates. We enter into no judicial scrutiny of these, but feel warranted in recording him, for one of his general rank and opportunities, a somewhat remarkable man. We presume that his wife in her domestic sphere exemplified corresponding commendable characteristics. So we have understood, but knew and heard less of her. They trained up their numerous family to honor their parentage; and most of them have done it conspicuously. Mrs. Eliza, their prolific and worthy mother, d. at a date not ascertained. Ariel^c, Esq., added to his other remarkabilities that of a green old [858.] DAVIS COOK⁶, Esq., Dea. Ariel⁷ (Eld. Nathaniel, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Martha Ballou¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 2, 1788; m. *Abigail Ballou*⁶, dr. of Ariel Ballou⁷ and Lucina Comstock (Ariel¹, James², James², Maturin¹), being 2d cousins; cer. in said Cumberland Dec. 8, 1808, by Eld. Stephen Place. See No. [770], ABIGAIL BALLOU⁶, which supersedes the necessity of repetition here.

[Nos. 859 and 860], grand chn. of Martha Ballou¹ through her dr. Martha⁶, who m. Amos Whipple, have already been dismissed from further tracement. So we come to her grand chn. through her son Silas Cook⁵.

[861.] REUBEN COOK⁶, Silas⁵, (Eld. Nathaniel, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter) Martha Ballou¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Dec. 27, 1776; m. Martha Whipple, dr. of Simon Whipple, b. in said Cumberland not far from 1780; cer. Apl. 25, 1802, by John Rogers, J. P. Issue, not sure whether all b. in Cumberland, R. 2679—7. Reuben Olney Cook, b. June 18, '22; m. Lydia Martin, Woonsocket, R. I.

Reuben Cook⁶ was a hard working, frugal farmer. He and his wife were in good moral and social standing among the worthy commonalty around them. They resided many years in Bellingham, on the ancient homestead of his maternal grand father, Dea. Samuel Darling, which we presume became theirs by purchase. We have not the date at which they removed thither from Cumberland, R. I., but we find the youngest 4 of their chn. recorded in Bellingham as born there, which seems to show that they settled there as early certainly as 1808. We suppose they both died on that homestead. Mrs. Martha d. May 28, 1828, in her 49th yr. We never heard whether or not Reuben^a m. again. He d. Mar. 6, 1867, a. 90 yrs. 2 mos. and 10 ds. Their chn. grew up in respected usefulness, m., had chn., and the survivors of them are now enjoying reputable old age in the midst of a goodly posterity. But our tracement must close here, except in the case of Lyman^a, whose family comes in with a later generation under another head.

[862.] PHILA COOK^a, Silas^a, (Eld. Nathaniel, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter) Martha Ballou^a, James^a, James^a, Maturin^a; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Sept. 24, 1778; m. Flavius Josephus Ballou^a, (Levi^a, Esq., Ezekiel^a, James^a, James^a, Maturin^a), b. in said Cumberland, Oct. 13, 1776; cer. Oct. 14, 1798, by Jotham Carpenter, J. P. To save needless repetition we refer to [No. 1209] Flavius J. Ballou^a.

[863.] PHEBE COOK^a, Silas^a, (Eld. Nathaniel, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter) Martha Ballou^a, James^a, James^a, Maturin^a; b. in Cumberland, R. I., July 16, 1780; m. William Gaskill of said Cumberland; settled in Pelham, Mass. Issue.—

2681—2. Orinda Gaskill, b. Mar. 12, 1800; m. Elias Cook, and d. Dec. 14, 1868.

Our memoranda concerning this pair and their family is very meagre and defective,—no parentage or birth-date of William Gaskill; no mge.-date or particulars; no more than the two above named chn. if they had others; no birth-date or mge.-companion of Lebbeus given, and no death-date of either parent. We cannot help it, and must close up.

[864.] JAMES COOK^a, the next b. of Silas^a; m. Seline Cook. Only this reported to us.

[865.] SILAS COOK, JR., the next b. of Silas^a, m. Patience Shearman, widow of Reuben Shearman of Bellingham, Mass.; cer. Jan. 1, 1822, by Rev. Abial Fisher. No issue. Nothing else told.

[867.] OLNEY COOK^a, of this family, b. June 29, 1788, d. young.

[869.] MIRANDA COOK^a, Silas^a (Eld. Nathaniel, Dea. Nicholas, Nicholas, Walter), Martha Ballou^a, James^a, James^a, Maturin^a; b. prob. in Cumberland, R. I., possibly in Pelham, Mass., Apl. 9, 1793; m. Stephen Cook, son of Aaron and Rachel (Clark) Cook (Daniel, Nicholas, Walter), b. in W. Wrentham, Mass., about 1782; cer. in Cumberland, R. 2686—5. Stillman R. Cook, b. Dec. 1, '34; m. Mary B. Fenton, 1864.

We knew Stephen Cook in early life, and thence downward to elderly age and death. He was an ingenious stone-mason. The first mill-stones for grinding grain we ever saw were wrought by his hands. He was an industrious, upright, worthy man. He d. in W. Wrentham May 21, 1862, a. 80 yrs. The writer ministered at his funeral. We have also been acquainted many years with Mrs. Miranda^a, his wife and widow, who sustained a corresponding good character with that of her husband. At this date (Sept. 1885) she must be in her 93d year, is quite broken down in her faculties and health, and is nearing “the shadow of death.” Only one or two of her chn. survive, and but four or five of her grand chn. We close her descent here.

2703—5. Otis Edward Thayer, b. Sept. 14, '28; in the Methodist ministry.

We had some acquaintance with Otis and Mercy (Paine) Thayer. They resided on a homestead in old Mendon during the latter portion of their lives, and were snug farmers. At the same time they were both speakers among the Society of Friends; she quite regularly and frequently—he occasionally. She also ministered at numerous funerals. But for reasons unknown to us they lost favor with the established order of Friends, and became associated with Ichabod Cook and others in a seceding community. They had many trials and troubles in their latter years, but finally passed on to a better world. Their death-dates are not at our command. Closed.

We have received little information concerning the life and character of Seth Ballou^e and wife, but shall take for granted they were at least of average respectability in their own social rank. They were plain farmers, and stood well with their neighbors. But he was not a long lived husband and father. He d. on his Richmond, N. H., homestead Nov. 23, 1820, a. 53 yrs. 2 mos. and 2 ds. Mrs. Sarah had a long widowhood. She d. June 3, 1853, a. 81 yrs. 1 mo. and 2 ds.

[900.] MARGARET alias PEGGY BALLOU^e, Seth^e, Jamesⁱ, James^a, James^r, Maturinⁱ; b. prob. in Cumberland, R. I., or the vicinity, about 1769; m. John Benson, son of Isaac and Martha Benson, prob. b. in Richmond, N. H., at an ungiven date; cer. in said Richmond, Jan. 25, 1789. Issue.—

 2752—4. James Benson, b. " " "

These names are given in William Bassett's recently published History of Richmond, N. H., but without birth-dates. A letter to Mr. Peek from Miss Olivia Ballou, a niece of Mrs. Margaret (Ballou) Benson, dated Wallingford, Vt., Jan. 31, 1855, names two other sons, Isaac and Lewis; but neither did she give birth-dates. We cannot depend on the accuracy of her recollections, or perhaps hearsay reports, in respect to the number and names of her aunt's chn., and shall accept Mr. Bassett's statement from record. Still, it is not impossible that other chn. were born away from Richmond, N. H., as the parents lived somewhere in Vermont for a time, and finally sett. in Jackson, Pa. Miss Olivia Ballou says that they had both been several years dead, in 1855, and also a part of their chn. We have not taken the trouble to make further research, and do not know whether any of their posterity are extant. It is probable some might be found by patient and thorough inquiry. Excusing ourselves from this, we assume only that Margaret^e, her husband and some of her chn. d. in Jackson, Pa., 35 or 40 yrs. ago, and thus close the case.

Danley, pedigree, birth-date, &c., not ascertained; place, date and particulars of cer. not given; but we infer that the mge. must have taken place in Richmond, N. H., or its vicinity, perhaps not far from 1787, when she was not more than 16 yrs. of age, and her husband at least 25. Issue.—

James Danley, Sen., d. in Warren, N. Y. in 1811. Mrs. Hattie m. 2d Israel Knapp, Nov. 30, 1803. Issue, a dr. unnamed, who d. in early infancy. We have before us an interesting letter to Mr. Peck, written by her son James Danley, dated Feb. 9, 1855, and a still more interesting biographical sketch of his mother, printed in the Attica Atlas of Apl. 29, 1853. From these we glean and condense all we have to offer concerning Hattie Ballou*. They afford us very scanty information in respect to her chn.—not a single birth-date, and only the name of one companion, the husband of her dr. Polly, inserted above, Bissell S. King. Only two were surviving in 1855, Rebecca and James. Seth, an Inn keeper, had recently d. Rebecca was out of the country, but where is not hinted, nor whether she had ever married. Of the deceased no death-date is given, except that Seth had been dead 14 months. We presume there is a posterity which might be brought to light by pains-taking research; but we have shrunk from the attempt. So we will confine ourselves to Mrs. Hattie's biography.

We are a little puzzled how to write her given name. All her relations appear to have written and pronounced it Harty and Hearty. But our Richmond historian, Mr. Bassett, writes it Hattie. We assume that he must be correct, and that others innocently barbarized both the orthography and the pronunciation. Well, it seems that Hattie's father d. in 1778, when she was in her 8th yr. He left his family poor, and his widow had to put out her children wherever she could find homes for them. Hattie went to live with Samuel Curtis and wife, Richmond, N. H., where she remained at hard household work till over 14 years of age. James Danley thinks they were better Quakers to their own chn. than to his mother, inasmuch as they gave their own offspring decent schooling, and her none—nothing but industrial education.

At length, one afternoon, Hattie went to a neighborhood quilting, staid through the evening, and was entertained with music and dancing. This was an unpardonable offence in the judgment of these strict Quakers. Mother Curtis examined Hattie the next morning, and nothing was concealed. She was at once adjudged guilty, and forthwith expelled from the family. She was probably a hale, buxom lass, good looking enough, and well versed in household drudgery, but could neither read nor write. She was now 14 or 15 yrs. old, drifted about from one employer to another, and before she was hardly yet ripe for marriage captivated James Danley, soon becoming his wife—he being about 25 yrs old. Not long afterward they removed to Westfield, now Hartford, N. Y. There they became religious and joined the Baptist Church. Meantime, Mrs. Hattie resolutely set herself about learning to read. She succeeded fairly, and always after greatly enjoyed reading her Bible and such good books as she could get hold of. She grew into a deep and thorough religiousness, and trained up her seven chn. accordingly. But her husband's regeneration failed to reach his marrow. He had a spice of Esauism in him, and was intensely addicted to hunting—thinking much more of his dog, gun and traps, than of wife, chn. and family. This left a hard row for his wife to hoe, but she worried through it bravely. They had 4 chn. in now Hartford, and then moved to Chester, now Warren, in the same County, where they had 3 more. There, finally, the husband and father died, in 1811, and, as it turned out, left his family homeless. For, although he solemnly declared on his death-bed he had paid the grantor of his forty-acre homestead every dollar due for it, he had carelessly neglected to take any legal conveyance or other evidence of it. The result was, the grantor claimed it and took possession. The widow and her orphans next made shift to hire a farm on shares a few miles distant, and there, by hard struggles, secured a frugal living.

Presently a new chapter of fate opened to the widow. From some mysterious influence she married her 2d husband, Israel Knapp, a widower with a large flock of chn., most of them still young. Therein she bowed herself to the burdensome task of ministering to their wants till old enough to take care of themselves. And this she kindly and faithfully did; while her own maturer chn. scattered and sought their fortunes. Mr. Knapp was a zealous Methodist, and Mrs. Hattie exchanged her Baptist faith and order for that of her new husband. So they went on their way hand in hand. At length he rode out one day with an unmanageable horse, was dashed from his seat, and brought home a corpse. This was another bitter draught of mourning widowhood. But it was borne with Christian resignation. Mr. Knapp was killed not far from his homestead, somewhere in the "Holland Purchase" so called, Aug. 28, 1836. Mrs. Hattie now went back to find a home with her chn. She lived a little while with her dr. Polly (Danley) King, then, much more at her ease, with her son Seth, and then preferring more quietude than a public house afforded, spent her remaining years in the family of her son James in or near Attica, N. Y. There she departed this life in the fulness of faith, hope and charity, with Christian serenity, Feb. 14, 1853, a. 82 yrs. and 12 ds.

Concerning this John Ballou^e and his wife Elizabeth we have been furnished with no biographical testimony, old or new. We suppose they were plain farmer people, and do not doubt that those who knew them in domestic and social life could have justly eulogized their worth. She seemed to have inherited the marvellous gifts possessed by her uncle, James Ballou, and was equally successful with him in satisfying many of her ability to tell past and future events. The concurrent testimony of those by whom she was best known is that she was an honest and virtuous woman, and possessed at least large powers of penetration and discernment." p. 529.

I., Aug. 11, 1789; went early with his parents to Richmond, N. H., where he spent his long life unmarried, and d. Oct. 25, 1877, at the venerable age of 88 yrs. Again we quote from Bassett's History of Richmond.—"Lived with his mother and his sister Nancy, most of the time, on the old homestead, near Tully Brook. After their decease, he resided with his nephew, Silas Whipple, Jr. His is a name which should not be passed over in silence. His long life was spent almost wholly in town. He was a student, naturally so; he obtained superior scholarship unaided by the schools, by a long course of reading and study. He was well versed in history, mental and moral philosophy, and in the current literature of the day. He mingled but little in public assemblies, and seemed instinctively to dread close contact with the noisy business world. In private discourse his conversational powers were remarkable, his command of language was great, and the bold figures of speech he occasionally used were masterly and impressive. He enjoyed largely the confidence of his fellow citizens, was repeatedly honored with the higher offices in their gift, which, from a sense of duty rather than from choice, he accepted." pp. 528—29.

We take pleasure in adding a further testimony to his worth in behalf of the compilers of this volume and its patrons. Russell Whipple^e was a very industrious, generous and helpful correspondent of Mr. Peck,—collecting and reporting much valuable genealogical data relating to James Ballou of Richmond and his descendants, all which has been woven into its appropriate section of our web. Let our readers generally, as well as his relatives, the progeny of James Ballou⁴, join us in pronouncing his memory blessed.

Bassett says Silas^a "lived at various places in town," but says nothing of his occupation or character. His youngest brother, Olney Ballou, in a letter to Mr. Peck, 1862, said Silas resided in Winchendon, Mass., but nothing more. We shall have to deny ourselves the pleasure of ranking him the distinguished son of a distinguished father. Howbeit, he and his wife must have wrought diligently to bring up 13 chn., and if we had known them we should prob. have had more than one good word to say of them: It is thought we are addicted to this extravagance, notwithstanding our tenacious devotion to what is generally considered an impracticably high code of ethics. Ballou Swan^c attained the military dignity of Col. as well as his brother-in-law, but just where is not told. He seems to have dwelt in two different localities of Richmond till sometime after the year 1833, and then removed to Townsend, Vt., where he was still living early in 1885. We suppose he was a farming yeoman, and that he and his wife were in very reputable standing. She d. in Townsend, Vt., Dec. 9, 1854, a. 55 yrs. 1 mo. and 27 ds. Closed.

Mrs. Rebecca (Ellis) Ballou d., as nearly as we can ascertain, somewhere in the State of Indiana about 1826. Subsequently James⁶ m. Sarah M. Stillz, a native of New Jersey, place, date and other particulars of this mge. not given. Issue.—

2931—6. Jasper Newton, b. in St. Mary's, O., Jan. 17, 1835; m. M. A. Wilson.

We have been much puzzled to trace the life-career of this cousin, James Ballou⁶. He seems to have served his country, before mge., in the war of 1812; but how long, where, or in what rank we are uninformed. We infer that, after mge., he followed farming as his principal occupation, partly in Ohio and partly in Indiana. Where his 3d, 4th and 5th chn. were b. is not clearly indicated, but prob. in Indiana. There he was bereaved of Mrs. Rebecca. But his youngest son, by his 2d wife, positively reports himself b. in St. Mary's, O. How long the parents resided at St. Mary's we get no hint; but our documents all concur in representing him to have d. in Indiana, though differing as to date. His youngest son, who ought to know, says he d. in 1839, and that his widow, Mrs. Sarah, d. in 1878.

[1946.] HENRY BALLOU⁶, James⁵ the Astrologer, James⁴, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., Sept. 6, 1796; m. Phebe Tanner, dr. of Jacob and Lydia (Passmore) Tanner, formerly from Chester Co., Pa., b. Nov. 25, 1803; cer. in Muskingum Co., Ohio. They settled on a farm a mile west of the Muskingum, 14 miles below Zanesville. Issue.—

2932—1. Jacob T., b. Mar. 4, 1824; m. Emily C. Evans Dec. 25, 1845.

2933—2. Ellis, b. July 9, '38; m. Laura A. Clark.

2934—3. Orrin, b. Sept. 21, '31; m. Matilda J. Price.

Henry Ballou⁶ went with his widowed mother and her other chn., in 1810, from Richmond, N. H., to Worcester, Otsego Co., N. Y. Thence the mother and chn. moved, in 1814, to Perry, Muskingum Co., O. There Henry grew to manhood and married Phebe Tanner as above. He was a man of ability, an executive farmer on an estate 14 miles down the Muskingum river, filled to public satisfaction several Township and County offices, and d. 1857, a. about 61 yrs. Mrs. Phebe, his widow, was living in Zanesville, in 1874. She was one of Mr. Peck's valuable correspondents. Two of her letters to him, filled with family statistics, were handed over to us. Ascertaining that she still survived we opened a correspondence with her, receiving two rich letters from her,—one dated Nov. 30, 1885; the other Mar. 16, 1886. They do great credit to her head and heart. She was enjoying a green old age in Zanesville, O., at the last date; which may God prolong.

She d. near Cincinnati, O., leaving 4 children. This is all that has reached us concerning this young wife and mother. Not knowing to whom or where to write for further information, we must, with regret, close her case here.

The first 4 of these chn. were b. in a log-cabin in Newburg, Cuyahoga Co., O. The 5th, James Abram Garfield, late President of the United States, was b. in another log-cabin in Orange, in the same County. Rev. William M. Thayer, in his Life of James A. Garfield, gives the following graphic sketch of his parents' experiences from marriage down to the untimely death of his father.—

"They repaired at once to his chosen home, Newburg, where a log-cabin eighteen by twenty feet, containing but one room, awaited them. It was a very humble abode, but true love put as much happiness into it as could have been there if it had been a palace. The cabin was destitute of sash or glass, though places for three windows, covered with greased paper, admitted light. Greased paper was a substitute for glass, and was the 'stained glass' of that day. The furniture was manufactured by her noble husband, of whom she was as proud as he was of her; and it was the latest style of that region, therefore fashionable. It consisted of several three-legged stools, a puncheon table, a bed in one corner, constructed of poles and slabs, a frying-pan, one iron pot, two wooden plates, with knives and forks to match, and a 'Dutch oven,' which was simply a kettle with a rimmed cover, on which live coals were laid. Here James A. Garfield's father began life in earnest, and here he lived nine years, during which time three [four including the deceased infant] were born. He tilled the soil, and also at two different times took contracts on the Ohio and Pennsylvania Canal, which was in process of construction. The young adventurer was not satisfied, however. His growing family demanded larger provision for the future; so he purchased fifty acres of land, at two dollars an acre, in Orange, Cuyahoga County, seventeen miles from the first home of his wedded life. He selected this locality because Amos Boynton, whose wife was sister to Mrs. Garfield, had purchased a tract there; and the families could remove thither together. One log-cabin was erected first, in which both families lived, thick as 'three in a bed,' until another cabin could be built. When these cabins were built, the nearest neighbor was seven miles away. It was January, 1830, when Abram Garfield removed to this new home in the wilderness. His cabin was larger and more substantial than the one he left. It was twenty by thirty feet, made of unhewn logs, notched and laid one upon another, in what boys call 'cob-house' style, to the height of twelve feet in front and eight feet or more on the back side. The spaces between the logs were filled with clay or mud, making a warm abode for winter and a cool one for summer. The chimney was constructed of wood and mud, rising from the roof like a pyramid, smallest at the top. The roof was covered with slabs, held in place by long weight-poles. The floor was made of logs, each split into two parts and laid the flat side up, hewn smooth with an axe. There was a loft above, to which the family ascended by a sort of permanent ladder in one corner of the cabin. The children slept upon the floor of the loft, on straw beds. The only door of the dwelling was made of plank, and three small windows furnished all the light possible, though not so much as was needed. This, briefly, was the pioneer home in which James A. Garfield was born, on the 19th day of November, 1831.

Abram Garfield was a tall, heavy, handsome man, capable of great endurance; just the man to plunge into a wilderness to make a home and clear land for a farm. He possessed the strength, will and wisdom for such an enterprise. His brain was in fair proportion to his body, large and active, making him a strong-minded man; and, under other and more favorable circumstances, he might have made a broad and deep mark on his day and generation. But he thought of little except his family in that day of hardship and want, and so he chose a home and occupation where honor and fame were out of the question. But, with all his physical strength, the loving husband and father was not exempt from the attacks of disease. One day, in the midst of his hard toil, he heard the alarm of 'Fire in the forest.' Forest fires were common in summer time, and often large tracts of woods were burned over; and sometimes pioneer cabins were destroyed, and crops on little farms in the wilderness were injured.

'It is coming this way certainly,' said Mr. Garfield with some anxiety, after satisfying himself as to the danger. 'I'm afraid it will make trouble for us. Mehetabel, run to the house with my axe, and bring me the shovel.' The girl was assisting her father. Within five minutes Mr. Garfield had the shovel, and Mrs. Garfield, and all the children, except the baby, were out to watch the fire. 'We must fight it,' said Mr. Garfield, 'or only ashes will be left of our home at sundown.' 'I fear as much,' replied Mrs. Garfield. 'These forest fires are terrible.'

The result was that after a most perilous, arduous and exhausting conflict, the fire was victoriously mastered, and their home saved. But a greater calamity was superinduced—the death of the brave and loving father. In his overheated condition, he carelessly exposed himself to a fatal chill, was seized during the ensuing night with a violent congestion of the chest, and in spite of all available help, his stalwart frame was soon a corpse. He d. in May, 1833. The sorrows, trials, hardships and painful struggles of the widow and children, which followed the sudden death of their family head, can be but imperfectly imagined, much less described. The subsequent history of Eliza (Ballou) Garfield^a, all the way up to the inauguration of her illustrious son as President of the United States, and down through the tragic termination of his mortal career, is so much a matter of public record, that we need not expatiate upon it in this memorial. The venerable mother, always lovingly cared for by her noble son during his life, has since been affectionately fostered in the home of his widow and children. And there she still survived at our last advices, verging on her 86th birth-day. Behold with loving reverence her adjacent likeness.

We had the promise of Dr. Silas A. Boynton, one of the above named sons, that he would furnish us full information concerning his parents and family branch; but unfortunately we have received none, and must send our work to press with very meagre and imperfect showings. We shall, however, venture to express our confident assurance that parents and children richly merit a high testimonial to their intellectual, moral and social worth. We learned from the public journals that Mrs. Alpha (Ballou) Boynton d. in Hiram, O., Apr. 22, 1882, a. 75 yrs. 10 mos. and 25 ds. Concerning her husband's life, condition, or death nothing has reached us.

[951.] BETSEY BALLOU^a, Russell^a, James¹, James², James³, Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., Oct. 6, 1783; m. Royal Blanding, son of Ebenezer Blanding; cer. in Richmond, Nov. 18, 1802. They soon removed to the State of New York, and had chn. there. But of the several letters from their relations on the Ballou side written to Mr. Peck, in which the Blandings are mentioned, not one gives their residence more definitely than State and County. Chn. are alluded to, but not a name given. So we had no clew to any Post Office address, and could write to no one for information in the proper locality. But they furnished the death-date of Mrs. Betsey; viz. Feb. 24, 1826. How many chn. she left, or what became of them, we have no facilities for ascertaining, and must close the descent with regret.

Madison Co., where Amey^a had chn., and d. Nov. 19, 1820. Precisely the remarks made above in Betsey's case apply to Amey's. It is cold pleasure, for a genealogist of our taste, to unravel such shreds and weave them into our web. Closed.

Concerning Abel and Nicena (Ballou) Bliss^e, we have something interesting to put on record,—a brief testimony from their youngest dr. Mrs. Lucena O. Balch, given to Mr. Peck in 1874.—“He was considered one of the best of neighbors, and his judgment on nearly all matters of importance, settled the question. If uncle Abel, as he was called, said so, it was enough. The man I have never met with, of so even a disposition—always pleasant. Nicena Ballou was very ambitious and sympathetic. When her children were young she would spin and weave their clothes and bedding. Hard work shortened her days. She died because she was tired and wanted rest—no other complaint.” We imagine a great deal more of good was left unsaid, for fear family vanity might be suspected. We think the characteristics mentioned must have been enclusted with various others equally creditable. Suffice it, they were very worthy Royalston farmers, neighbors and citizens. Mrs. Nicena d. We judge, from the few brief letters recd. from Dr. Russell Ballou^c, by Mr. Peck, 1853 to 1862, that he was an unpretentious, modest and somewhat reticent man. We can readily interpret this to his credit. But it would have been gratifying to his numerous relatives and friends to learn something of his induction into the medical profession, and of his progressive success. Yet of these he says not a word. We know, however, from other sources that he had then been in reputable practice over forty years. We have written for information, and waited in vain for it. So we very much regret to state that nothing later than Dr. Russell Ballou's letter of 1862 to Mr. Peck reveals the status of his family. What marriages, deaths, and other changes have taken place therein we know not. We close their record, from necessity, where the aforesaid letters left it.

Here is a family record, intelligently made up, pleasant to transcribe, and remarkable in many respects. There are twelve chn., all b. of the same mother, and who all grew up to maturity without the occurrence of a single infantile death. The names of the daughters all end with the letter a. Those of the sons all end with the letter o. The parents were eminently worthy people, both descendants of a robust, intelligent ancestry—not professed church members, but exemplars of solid moral rectitude—Universalists in religious faith, hope and charity—industrious and economical farmers by occupation, much attached to their rural home, and universally respected in the community for most commendable characteristics. They finally left their cherished homestead as age crept on, and went to live with their children—because no one of the whole twelve felt willing to settle down with them in their native vicinage. That old homestead, now owned by a distant relative, has of late years become a halting resort of visitors from a wide circuit of city and country inhabitants, who flock in large numbers, during the summer months, to view the celebrated “Royal Cascade” near by. That cascade is only about three-fourths of a mile from the domicile, and is a splendid spectacle. The water of a considerable stream falls 45 feet into a rock basin, and escapes through a narrow cleft. It is situated in a dense wood, and the huge tree trunks all around it are marked with names and various inscriptions, carved by the knives of the visiting hosts. Though the whole family chose other homes in which to push the fortunes of life, they have done honor to their parental trainers, and to the place of their nativity. Mrs. Clarissa d. in Winchendon, Mass., Aug. 26, 1866, a. 69 yrs. 5 mos. and 15 ds. Luther Ballou^e d. in Malden, Mass., Jan. 21, 1871, a. 73 yrs. 4 mos. and 14 ds.

It has been with great difficulty that we have made even an imperfect tracement of this family. We suspect, but are not certain, that the two above named chn. were b. somewhere in Vermont. Soon after the birth of the 2d the parents appear to have emigrated to Le Raysville, Pa. There Mrs. Olive^e d. in 1810 or 1811, and was the first woman buried in Le Raysville cemetery. Whether Mr. Fletcher ever m. again we are not informed. He is said to have d. somewhere in Ill. between 1845 and 1850. Nothing further told.

Otis Ballou^o was a successful farmer in Waterford, Vt., a good citizen, neighbor, husband and father. He d. suddenly of heart disease, in Littleton, about three miles from his homestead, sitting in a chair, Mar. 13, 1862, a. 68 yrs. 6 mos. and 19 ds. His worthy widow, Mrs. Betsey (Joslin) Ballou, d. Besides these a pair of twins were b. May 25, 1825, and d. nameless the same day, making 9 chn. in all. Only one of these lived to marry. A sad record! We have been favored with no testimonials of commemoration to grace this record. We presume Aaron Ballou, Jr.^s, was an humble, unpretentious, worthy man, deserving a better eulogy than some who get an enviable one. He d. on his homestead, Dalton, N. H., Feb. 22, 1864, a. 68 yrs. 9 mos. 12 ds. We have just now (Sept. 17, 1885,) learned that his widow is living with her husband's niece, Mrs. Elizabeth (Ballou) Houghton, Waterford, Vt., in her 83d yr.

Ira Ballou^c was a grocer in Boston, at first twenty-five years and over in Milk St., and then several years in the vicinity of the United States Hotel near the Boston & Albany Depot. He was one of the most upright among traders, a very kind and indulgent husband and father, friend and neighbor. Heavy reverses in business at length wearied him of the world, and he betook himself to a peaceful home with the Shaker Community at Enfield, N. H., in 1862. He was accompanied by his wife, a widowed dr., and her dr. then ten years old. His wife was discontented there and he returned with her to Boston, ministering to her comfort till her decease in 1870. He then resumed his retreat with the Enfield friends, who greatly loved and respected him. He serenely departed this life in May, 1876, in his 80th year. There his honored remains rest in peace, whilst his spirit soars in the atmosphere of immortal bliss.

[965.] CATHERINE BALLOU^c, Aaron^s, James⁴, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., Mar. 20, 1799; m. Isaac Kimball, &c. All we can learn concerning Mrs. Catherine^c is that she had 3 chn. by this marriage.—

Next that Mr. K. d. at an ungiven date; next that she m. 2d, Brigham Pike, and finally that she d. at an untold date in Waterford, Vt., without additional issue. No further traced.

3015—2. Laura Brown, b. prob. 1824; d. young.

Our information is extremely meagre concerning Lovisa Ballou^a and her husband. We have not learned a syllable about their occupation, or position in society, or their moral characteristics; but presume them to have been decently reputable. We infer that they settled, lived and d. in Lyndon, Vt., that he d. early in married life, and that she d. in the spring of 1857.

We are left in dark obscurity concerning this Pike family. Parents and chn., as above named, all reported dead, without specification of dates. Closed.

[967.] MARY alias POLLY BALLOU^a, Daniel¹, James¹, James², James², Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., May 3, 1791; m. Eli-philet Hicks, pedigree and birth-date not given; cer. in Homer, Cortland Co., N. Y., Aug. —, 1811. Issue, b. in said Homer, a very large family. By the kindness of T. Mason Loring, Esq., a Station P. M., in Cortland, N. Y., we have obtained a summary of their record. It was derived from one of the daughters, is very brief, and of course omissive; but we could not be at the trouble of further tracement. We therefore present it as recd.—

 gett's Mills, N. Y.
 3032—13. Eveline Hicks, b. not given; m. William Abbott, both dead.

How many grand chn., &c., there are not indicated. Eliphalet Hicks first lived in Plymouth, N. Y., but moved thence at an early date to Homer. He and his wife are represented by Mr. Loring as respectable people, who d. many years ago, but at dates not ascertained. We regret feeling necessitated to present so imperfect a family record. To be no further traced.

[968.] ROYAL BALLOU^e, Daniel^b, James^d, James³, James², Matu-rin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., Feb. 11, 1795; m. Polly Hix, pedigree, &c. not ascertained; cer. at an ungiven place and date.

 3034—2. William, b. “ ; “ “ “
 3035—3. Eliphalet, b. “ ; “ “ “

We regret our very imperfect information concerning Royal Ballou^e and his family. We relied on Dr. Nahum E. Ballou for the desired data, but ought to have written to each of the above named sons. The most we can say is, that Royal^e moved from Carlton, N. Y., about the year 1834 to Wayne Station, Wayne Co., Mich.
 There Mrs. Polly d. not far from 1860. We presume he was a farmer by occupation, and that his sons are one and all worthy of their ancestry. He d. some yrs. ago, date not definitely given; but at last report the three sons were living in or near Wayne, Mich. Most likely they married and have chn., &c. It is our misfortune to be ignorant of their records.

 about 18 yrs. and 9 mos. No further memorial given.

3036—1. Mary Ann, b. Oct. 16, 1821; m. William Skinner, M. D., Dec. 12, 1837.

3037—2. Nancy A., b. Mar. 17, '23; remained u. m. at last report. .

Two letters from Dennis Ballou^e to Mr. Peck, dated respectively Jan. 4, 1855, and Apl. 15, 1862, show him to have been a man of sterling natural ability, strong common sense, respectable self-improvement, and solid moral character. An extract from the first of the forementioned letters tells his life story in a brief, simple, creditable and interesting manner.—“I was left fatherless when about nine years old, remained with my mother a year, went to live with a stranger, received hard fare, ran away, and went home. This was in the fall. In the spring I went to live with a physician who carried on a large farm. I lived with him till I was twenty-one. I had little chance to go to school—not exceeding three days in a week. This I tried to improve to good advantage. Many a night I studied till eleven o'clock, and was up at four in the morning. Thus I got education sufficient to teach a common school in those days. I taught some nine winters and one summer. I left Cortland Co. in Apl. 1824, and took up my residence in Plymouth, Chenango Co., where I have resided ever since. I feel some hesitancy in stating my own notoriety, but as you have requested it, I will say, that I have held some town offices:—Inspector of Common Schools, Commissioner of Highways, Town Clerk, and Justice of the Peace for twelve years. General Taylor saw fit to appoint me Postmaster, which office I held five years. I gave my two daughters a good common school education, and both have been teachers. You will readily see what my political views are; and as to my theological views, they differ from those of many Ballous,—being more in accordance with those of Roger Williams, the founder of your little State.” So we conclude he was a staunch and exemplary Baptist; and probably his wife was in the same denominational fellowship. He was by occupation a tanner and currier, boot and shoe manufacturer, &c. Mrs. Hannah d. Sept. 5, 1861. Dennis^e d. at a date not ascertained.

[971.] NAHUM BALLOU^c, Daniel³, James¹, James^a, James², Maturingin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., some time during the year 1800, the precise date not found; m. Anna Phelps, dr. of Enon Phelps, b. in Homer, N. Y.; cer. Sept. 1821. Issue, all b. in Plymouth, Chango Co., N. Y.—

3038—1. Nahum Enon, b. Sept. 16, 1822; m. 1st C. M. Fuller, 2d C. C. Byington.

3039—2. Hosea Miles, b. Jan. 15, '25; m. Sarah H. Brown.

3040—3. Caroline Janett, b. Sept. 12, '27; m. Henry Munn.

3041—4. Daniel Rollin, b. Nov. 21, '29; m. Mary Louisa Finnie.

3042—5. Oren James, b. not given; d. a. about 2 yrs.

We had hoped for a brief sketch of Nahum Ballou's life and character from the pen of his eldest son, but have learned only that in the first stage of business life he was a tanner and manufacturer of boots and shoes, and that later he resorted to farming. He removed from Plymouth to Carlton, N. Y., in 1832. There, alas, death suddenly overtook him in the midst of his undeveloped plans. He d. Aug. 5, 1833, in the 33d yr. of his age, leaving comparatively little property to his needy family. Some two years afterward Mrs. Anna m. a 2d husband, Mr. Selah B. Beardsly. He proved to be a most excellent husband and step-father to her little ones. He took good care of their bodies and minds. He provided generously for them and educated them well—as he did for his own children by the same mother, of whom several were subsequently born.

[972.] HOSEA BALLOU^c, Daniel³, James¹, James^a, James², Maturingin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., July 6, 1802; m. Lorinda Barnes, pedigree, birth-date, &c., not given; cer. Feb. —, 1829. Issue.—

3043—1. M. Janette, b. July 16, 1831; m. Wilson A. Vandyke.

3044—2. Martha L., b. Aug. 28, '34; res. n. m. Hastings, Minn., 1862.

3045—3. Selucia A., b. June —, '37; m. John A. Anthony.

3046—4. William H., b. Nov. 25, '39; m. Arabell McDonald.

3047—5. Name not given, b. Apl. —, '43; res. Hastings, Minn., 1862.

3048—6. Francis L., b. Aug. 18, '46; d. May 18, 1854, a. 7 yrs. 9 mos.

Here again we are unfortunate. We relied on Dr. Nahum E. Ballou to ascertain and report data. Nothing recd. So we are thrown back on a letter from Hosea^a to Mr. Peck nearly 25 yrs. old. From it we have deduced the above family record. We now add the substance of its remaining contents.—M. JANETTE BALLOU^c m. Wilson A. Vandyke at a date not given, and has 3 chn. Family home in Hastings, Minn. Mr. Vandyke is a merchant there. MARTHA L. BALLOU⁷, u. m. residing with her sister Vandyke in Hastings, Minn. SELUCTA A. BALLOU⁷ m. John A. Anthony, grocery storekeeper in Hornellsville, N. Y.—one child. WILLIAM BALLOU⁷ m. Arabella McDonald, Aug. 1, 1862; then a soldier in the Union army. The youngest living son (no name given) in the store of Mr. Vandyke, Hastings, Minn. Hosea^o himself a boot and shoe manufacturer and storekeeper in Hornellsville, N. Y., Justice of the Peace and holder of minor offices,—doubtless a worthy man and citizen. Closed.

[973.] ZIMRI BALLOU^o, Daniel^o, James¹, James², James², Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., Feb. 6, 1805, the year before his father removed with his family from Richmond, N. H., to Truxton, N. Y. He m. 1st Leonora Smith, ptge. not given, b. in 1806; cer. in Plymouth, Chenango Co., N. Y., July 8, 1827. Issue.—

3049—1. Augustus D., b. Mar. 25, 1828; m. a Miss Brooks.

3050—2. George I. H., b. Apl. 23, '33; a 1st Lieut. in the Union army.

Mrs. Leonora d. in October, 1833, when her youngest son was about six months old; and that son was given immediately to his uncle Dennis, who brought him up. Zimri^o m. 2d Phoebe Wardwell, pedigree, birth-date, &c., not given; cer. in Homer, N. Y., May, 1834. They settled soon after in Delhi, Delaware Co., N. Y., where they had b. to them—

3051—3. Charles, b. Nov. 7, 1838; was a soldier in the Union army.

Zimri Ballou^o was a large, fleshy man, weighing some 265 lbs. We are not informed of his occupation, but suppose he was a farmer. We get no biographical incidents or characteristics concerning him, but presume him to have been a plain, well-disposed, worthy man of his class. We waited for promised further information, but again we are disappointed, as in the preceding cases. We cannot trace the sons of Zimri Ballou^o this side of a letter from him to Mr. Peck, dated May 19, 1862. AUGUSTUS D.¹, who m. a Miss Brooks, was then set. in Bethany, Pa., and had one son. GEORGE I. H. BALLOU⁷ was u. m., a 1st Lieutenant in Co. E, 89th Regt. N. Y. Vols., with Gen. Burnside on Roanoke Island, N. C. CHARLES BALLOU⁷, u. m., was in the Union army near Richmond, Va., in the Excelsior Brigade, Co. I, 3d Regt. Whether Zimri^o has deceased, or still survives, we are uninformed. We ought to have ascertained. Closed.

[974.] ESTHER BULLOCK⁷, Priscilla Ballou⁷ (wife of Nathaniel Bullock), James Ballou⁴, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Royalston, Mass., 1791, d. u. m. at an untold age.

H., Apl. 27, 1794; cer. —. 10, 1815. No issue reported to us, though we have sought earnestly to ascertain. All that has reached us is, that Mrs. Lovina d. May 1, 1836, and that her husband d. in Readsborough, Vt., Jan. 21, 1877. Some one ought to have informed us whether Mrs. Lovina left any chn., and whether Nathaniel Bullock, Jr.⁶, ever married again. But we were not fortunate enough to come into communication with such an informant. So the case is closed.

Amasa Cook d. on Cumberland Hill, R. I. Mrs. Mary⁶ m. 2d Jesse Brown, (Stephen, Joseph, John, John); b. in Cumberland, R. I., Dec. 26, 1760; cer. in said town June 8, 1834. No issue. Mr. Brown d. on Cumberland Hill, Apl. 6, 1837.

Mrs. Mary Wilkinson Cook Brown was in several respects a remarkable woman. She had strong passions, a strong mind, and a strong constitution. With comparatively moderate education but energetic common sense, she was very much a woman on her own account, and cut her way through the brambles of life heroically. She lived before the theory of sexual co-equality had blossomed, but was one of its practical exemplars in advance. She took care of herself without asking leave, and if she made a misstep bore the consequences courageously. She was not disposed to cower before that unjust and cruel popular opinion which tramples on female sinners as outcasts, while it excuses and coddles male sinners as favorites welcome to refined bosoms. She fearlessly presumed that there was the same moral standard for both sexes—equitable alike in its condemnations, its approvals, its consideration of circumstances, its excusabilities, and its opportunities of reform. Beyond this she asked no favors and feared no frowns. Thus, with some peculiarities, and many good qualities, she made up her life-record.

She resided on the paternal homestead in Smithfield, R. I., till 34 years of age, then built a house and settled on Cumberland Hill, where she dwelt until her second widowhood. She then removed to Lockport, N. Y., where her two enterprising sons had become distinguished citizens. There she d. at the advanced age of over 85 yrs., having lived from the commencement of the Revolutionary war to that of the Great Rebellion. She d. Nov. 5, 1861, a. 85 yrs. 9 mos. and 23 ds.

It appears that Martha^c, at the age of 28 yrs., left the old Smithfield homestead, and went with her father on a visit to relatives in Easton, N. Y. There she formed the acquaintance with her future husband. Sometime not long after mge. they removed to Chester, Warren Co., N. Y., and settled, where we presume that their elm. above named were born, married and raised families. Martha^c was a well constituted, energetic, enterprising woman. She retained her faculties with remarkable tenacity down to old age, and at 86 could readily read manuscript without glasses. Her husband d. in 1864, and she outlived him several years to a date not ascertained. Closed.

All the chn. of this numerous family were b. in Smithfield, R. I., excepting the three last named, who were b. in New Berlin, N. Y. The parents transmitted good blood, sinews and mentality to their offspring, and trained them by precept and example to substantial virtue. So with desirable heredity, nurture, and educational advantages in their favor, they have illustrated characteristics above the common average, and have done honor to their lineage. James^a long owned by inheritance and purchase the patrimonial homestead, a short distance southwest from Manville, which had come down by descent in the family for nearly two centuries. He was a respectable New England farmer. But at length he embarked somewhat in the cotton manufacture, at the Crookfall establishment in his neighborhood, which, with too much unfortunate suretyship, involved him in uncomfortable pecuniary embarrassment. The result was, that in 1831 he felt obliged to sell his revered ancestral homestead, bid adieu to the graves of his Quaker forefathers, and remove his family to New Berlin, N. Y. Just what his occupation was in his new home we do not clearly understand, but we know that later in life he dwelt in the easterly part of Cumberland, where he was bereaved of his worthy wife Apl. 26, 1859, in her 65th yr. The writer ministered at her funeral Apl. 29th ensuing.

James^e was a free discussionist, and a broad minded thinker from early youth, and distinguished himself as a religious debater and conversationist in his native vicinage. Though partially trained in Quaker principles, he departed far enough from them in rising manhood to become captain of an infantry company in the 6th Regt. R. I. militia, which distinction he attained at the age of 24 years. He had meantime won the reputation of a successful teacher in the common schools, and was always a zealous promoter of education within his own family and neighborhood. He was appointed a Justice of the Peace in 1821, and administered the functions of that office for about eight years with great credit to himself and profit to the community. He was regarded as a peace maker, securing the settlement of many a lawsuit by the parties, and saving them from much expense, as well as vexation, through his pacific counsels. He d. There are so many defects in this family record, that we may as well include in our summary all that has been reported to us of the parents, chn. and grand chn., and thus close the descent. It appears that Rufus Sheldon and Joanna Brown^c, his wife, after having David b. to them in Cumberland, removed to Oneida Co., N. Y., town not named, and afterwards settled in Greenwich, Huron Co., Ohio, where we infer that they ended their days.

DANIEL SHELDONⁱ, who m. Aurilla Sharpe, somewhere in Central Ill., had 3 chn. viz.—

2. Lavinia Sheldon^c, who m. John Gregory, was living 1883 in Ill. and had chn.

Rufus Sheldon, Jr.⁷, d. Jan. 1, 1875. His family seems a remarkably intellectual and influential one.

Here we close this descent. Having run in advance of our general order, it seemed hardly proper to number generation 8, but we have concluded to do it.

[1056.] SYLVIA BROWN^e, Elijah^s, (Stephen, Joseph, John, John,) Anna Ballou^e, Ezekielⁱ, Obadiah^s, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Cumberland, R. 3198—7. Dexter Newell, Jr., b. Franklin, Mass., Sept. — '21; m. Roxana Harrington Aug. 12, 1844.

Our information is so limited concerning this family and our prospect of extending it so unpromising, that we feel obliged to close the descent here—excepting in the case of Elijah B.ⁱ, which will reappear in connection with his wife's record. Dexter Newell d. July 22, 1830, a. 45 yrs. 7 mos. and 15 ds. Mrs. Sylvia no further reported.

[1057.] LEWIS CAPET BROWN^e, Elijah^s, (Stephen, Joseph, John, John,) Anna Ballou^e, Ezekielⁱ, Obadiah^s, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Cumberland, R. Lewis Capet Brown^e was a boat builder by occupation. He learned his trade of Maj. Noah Ballou^e, the father of his wives, and carried on the business in Cumberland, R. I., where we understand all his chn. to have been b. Later in life he settled in Franklin, Mass. He was a man of fair abilities, standing and character. He d. in Franklin, Jan. 17, 1862. Both his wives were women of excellent talents and worth. Mrs. Susanna, his 2d wife and widow, though generally deemed of slender physical constitution, lived to the venerable age of 94 yrs. and 6 ds. She d. with her son Leonard's family on the Franklin homestead Sept. 22, 1885.

It may be best to close this line of descent here, by giving what pertains to the chn. of Lewis C. Brown^e.

3211—4. Ezekiel Ballou Brown, Jr., b. Apl. 16, '21; res. u. m. Cumberland, R. I.

We are inadequately furnished with biographical data respecting Ezekiel B. Brown^e and family, and can say but little. He was ambitious to acquire a liberal education and to become a lawyer, but did not realize fully his aspirations. Whether he graduated at any college we are not informed, but we are sure he obtained a fair academical scholarship, qualified himself for a high school teacher, and devoted himself mainly to that profession. He also gave much attention to fine literature. Fortune shed few smiles on him. He d. a select school preceptor in Portsmouth, Va., of fever, at an ungiven date. His family was much broken up and scattered by his decease. His wid. has since d., but we are not informed where or when. We must close here this line of descent.

[1059.] FENNER BROWN^e, Elijah^s, (Stephen, Joseph, John, John,) Anna Ballou^r, Ezekiel^t, Obadiah^t, James^z, Maturin^t; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Oct. 21, 1791; m. Sally Follett, dr. of Capt. Joseph Follett, b. in said Cumberland, Mar. 12, 1794; cer. Feb. 8, 1817, by Jason Newell, J. P. Issue.—

	twins. Weeden.
3213—2.	Betsey Janette Brown,)	b. Oct. 11, 1819; d. Dec. 31, 1837.

Fenner Brown^e was a man on his own account, of tough sinews, strong common sense, and indomitable will, who asked no fellow-mortal's permission what to think, say or do. He was fearless, frank, outspoken, shrewd and witty. Yet he is said to have carried about a kind heart, and to have evinced many genial qualities, especially in domestic and social life. He was an uncompromising democrat, even to the extent of Dorrisism in the quasi Rhode Island insurrection. In early youth he rendered naval service under the brave Commodore Decatur, then followed the seas some years in more peaceful employment, and finally settled down as a farmer and politician. He was a popular democratic leader in his native town, was elected many times by his party to the General Assembly, and distinguished himself therein by his rough and ready oratory and his managerial adroitness. He long wielded a potent personal influence in eastern Cumberland, and if he made some enemies, he made more warm friends. We do not learn that he ever set up as a religionist, or indulged in a lower morality than the respectable general average of civil society. What more might be said of him to his credit our reporters have not informed us. He d. May 4, 1869, a. 77 yrs. 6 mos. and 14 ds. He had an eminently worthy wife, who, at this writing (1885), still survives him in her 92d year.

[1060.] RUTH BROWN^e, the next born of this family, was b. in Cumberland, R. I., Aug. 19, 1794; m. James Weatherhead, son of Nathan W. and Huldah (Whipple) Weatherhead; b. in said Cumberland, Nov. 15, 1787; cer. Nov. 24, 1813, by Ariel Cook, J. P. Issue.—

The parents are said to have settled in O., and to have d. there, leaving one son and one dr. So they must have had at least a dr. not reported to us, and one of the above named sons must have d. An unsatisfactory record.

3223—2. Marianna Brown, b. July 17, '29; d. July 10, 1844.

We had some acquaintance in early life with John Brown^e and both his wives. He was a quiet, industrious, worthy young man. His first wife was a devotedly religious woman from early maidenhood, and a member of the same church with ourself. We shall never forget her baptism by immersion, while yet hardly in her teens. The ceremony was performed by Elder Zephaniah S. Crossman, at the end of our father's mill-pond, in the dead of winter. The ice was nearly a foot thick, and a space was cleared just large enough to serve the occasion. The day was intensely cold, and the slender, red-haired candidate underwent the ordeal with unflinching religious heroism—the folds of her drapery freezing stiff before she could be conveyed to the nearest house. We never before or since witnessed such a spectacle. But she took no cold, and lived into married life, honoring her profession to the last. We do not distinctly remember whether her sister, the 2d wife, was a professor of religion or not, but always understood that she was an exemplary woman. John Brown^e d. Feb. 26, 1829. Mrs. Elmina, his widow, still survives, at this writing (1885). She resides in (Sheldonville) Wrentham, Mass. Closed.

 3232—4. Harriet Sackett Brown, b. Sept. 8, '44; d. Sept. 29, 1844.

The life-career of William Otis Brown⁶ was a somewhat remarkable one. It was sketched, just after his death, in the Buffalo Courier of Feb. 28, 1871, as follows:

"William Otis Brown commenced his business life as superintendent of a cotton mill in Pawtucket, R. I. At the age of twenty he was in New Orleans one year purchasing cotton. Soon after his return to Rhode Island, about 1825, he went to Lockport, N. Y., and in company with his cousin George W. Rogers, went into a general mercantile business. Afterward he was one of the Firm of Brown & Keep, dealing largely in grain and wool. In 1846 he found a wider sphere in Buffalo, where he was a partner of Henry Sizer on Central Wharf. He was one of the organizers of the Buffalo Board of Trade, and for twenty years one of its leading merchants. At times during this period, he conducted an enormous business in moving grain from the West to European markets; owning at one time sixteen vessels on the lakes, besides a large amount of propeller property. He had also a large interest with the late Dean Richmond in the city grain elevators. He continued the business after the death of Mr. Sizer, and opened a banking office up town—first with Mr. Caryl, and later with his old partner Mr. Keep, which was continued till 1860. The breaking down of his health compelled his retirement from business in the winter of 1867-8. The twenty years of his active career in Buffalo had seen him make and lose two large fortunes and accumulate a third. But the strain was too great, and he became a hopeless invalid. The man of iron, whose conflicts with the world had been so stern, and who had provoked and indulged the sharpest enmities, grew at last to have the loving spirit of a child. Cheerful and uncomplaining, he left the world with Christian hope. About eight months before his death he united with the Episcopal Church, and departed in the full faith of that communion. He died at Yonkers, N. Y., and was buried in Buffalo from St. Paul's church." Mrs. Olivia, his wife, had long preceded him, having d. Mar. 9, 1853.

It has been with much difficulty that we have traced this family. As nearly as we can summarize the life career it ran thus. He dwelt first after marriage in Monkton, Vt., where his oldest chn. were b. Next we find him in New Haven, Vt., where other chn.

were b. and two d. While there he went into the war of 1812, which procured him a pension in old age. From New Haven, Vt., he removed with his family to Chase's Mills, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., perhaps about 1840, where he remained two or three yrs. Thence he removed to Stockholm in the same Co. There Mrs. Rachel, his wife, d. Aug. 6, 1846, a. 60 yrs. 8 mos. and 12 ds. Not long afterward he went to Canada West to live with his dr. Louisa Ballou Coates in a locality or town called Darlington. He remained in that general vicinity during the remainder of his days. He was a shoemaker by trade, and was an expert in that line almost to the close of life. One of his nieces says of him, in a recent letter to us,—“Uncle Stephen was a very good man, and a Universalist. He was called a peace maker where he lived in Vermont.” We learn nothing of him but what is creditable to his memory. He d. in East Missouri, Canada West, Aug. 29, 1866, a. 84 yrs. 8 mos. and 7 ds.

3250—8. Edwin M., b. Feb. 6, '21; m. Louisa Daily.

Michael Ware Ballou^o was mainly a farmer. He lived in Washington, Berkshire Co., Mass., till after the birth of 6 chn., and then removed with his family to Madrid, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., early in the year 1818. There he settled down for life. There Philander and Abigail, his 7th and 8th chn. were b., as above noted. There his excellent wife, Mrs. Susannah, d. June 28, 1824. In 1828, Nov. 9, he m. 2d Mary Maudy, pedigree, birth-date, &c., not given. Issue.—

3251 9. Mary Susannah, b. Feb. 13, 1829; m. Selim Starks May 14, 1852.

From what his youngest son, Edwin M. Ballou^o, wrote of him to Mr. Peck in 1855, and other testimonies, we feel warranted in giving Michael a creditable memorial. He was then about seventy-five, with a strong constitution, vigorous health, and in full possession of all his faculties. He had reared 8 intelligent, enterprising and upright chn. and had 27 no less respectable grand chn. Edwin testified of his father.—“He has lived a life of virtue and happiness, and will go down to the grave like a shock of corn fully ripe—a sound, practical Universalist.” And his eldest son, Rev. J. M. Ballou, a Presbyterian clergyman, writing to Mr. Peck, ten years later, said that “the Great Rebellion at last furnished the only anxiety of his life.” He was an ardent lover of his country and its imperiled Union, and was proud to have several grand sons in its armies. Thus he lived to rejoice over the surrender of Lee to Grant at Appomatox Court House. He then departed in peace, June 7, 1865, a. few days over 85 yrs.

Nathaniel^l, Amariah^l, Nathaniel^l, James^l, Maturin^l; b. in Washington, Berkshire Co., Mass., Mar. 12, 1781; m. Rachel Hayworth, dr. of Mahlon and Nancy (Evans) Hayworth, b. in Philadelphia, Pa., or that vicinity, at a date not given; cer. in Le Roy, N. Chester Ballou^l, at about the age of 20 yrs., left Washington, Mass., for the “Black River country,” then so called, and set. in Le Roy, Jefferson Co., N. Y. There he found and m. Rachel Hayworth, a Quakeress, who came thither with her parents from Philadelphia, or near vicinity, about the year 1800, about the date of his own coming. She was of a good family, whose ancestors came over from England with William Penn. Whether Chester^c joined the Friends, or was m. according to their order, or how the marriage was adjusted, we are not told. Be this as it may have been, the testimony comes down that he was highly esteemed for the excellency of his worth in domestic, social and civil life. But his earthly career was comparatively brief. He d. in Le Roy July 12, 1816. The circumstances were most remarkable and distressful. Mrs. Rachel had given birth to her youngest child, Chester, only ten minutes before the father expired. Thus life and death seemed to meet in direful array at the same time in the same home, to dispute possession, and to appall its inmates. The widow survived many years to watch over and train up to virtue her fatherless chn. She d. in 1870, venerable for age and beloved for Christian worth.

[1075.] JANE BALLOU^e, Nathaniel¹, Amariah¹, Nathaniel², James², Maturin¹; b. in then Mendon So. Parish, now Blackstone, Mass., Mar 23, 1786; m. David Nye Wilson of said Mendon, now Blackstone, ptge. not ascertained, b. Friday, May 9, 1783; cer. Nov. 3, 1805. No issue.

Mrs. Jane became a member of the Restorationist church at Millville, under the pastorate of Rev. William H. Fish, and several years later joined the Hopedale Community in Milford, Mass. She was a worthy member of that Community, and had her home at Hopedale till death. She d. Aug. 4, 1872, a. 86 yrs. 3 mos. and 12 ds.

The eldest two of the above named were born in Mendon, Mass., and the younger two in Westmoreland, N. H. Mrs. Phila, their mother, d. in Westmoreland Feb., 1817. Ichabod^e m. 2d Eunice Harrey of Surrey, N. H., pedigree, &c., not ascertained; cer. 1818. Issue.—

These five chn. are understood to have been b. in Surrey, N. H. Their mother, Mrs. Eunice, d. in 1859, and Ichabod^e m. 3d Anna Wester of Keene, N. H., no dates or particulars given. No issue. She d. at a date not given. Ichabod^e served in the war of 1812. He was a hard working, honest, well disposed man, whose pilgrimage through mortal life was none too prosperous; d. in Keene, June 9, 1879, a. almost 90 yrs.

[1078.] ARTEMAS BALLOU^e of this family, d. an infant.

[1079.] AUGUSTUS BALLOU^e, Nathanielⁱ, Amariahⁱ, Nathanielⁱ, James², Maturinⁱ; b. prob. in So. Mendon, now Blackstone, Mass., Dec. 13, 1797; another of our untraceables. He m. and had at least two sons.—

3267—1. Artemasⁱ; said to reside Jewett Centre, N. Y.

3268—2. Edwinⁱ; said to reside Lexington, N. Y.

Hearing incidentally that Augustus^e and probably his wife had been some years deceased, but that their sons, above named, were living in or near Lexington, N. Y., we wrote the P. M. there for information. He answered promptly that Edwin Ballou's P. O. address was Lexington, Greene Co., N. Y., and Artemas Ballou's was Jewett Centre, Greene Co., N. Y. We addressed them accordingly, not doubting we should receive full particulars. No response. A year later wrote to each again. No echo.

3279—11. Russell, b. Oct. 19, '26; d. Sept. 18, 1827.

Amariah Ballou^e and wife were pious, zealous, and exemplary Baptists. Their son, Dea. Alanson S. Ballou, now of Northampton, Mass., speaks of them in terms of profound filial reverence. He says in one of his communications.—“My father remained on the old homestead, and there his eleven children were born. He was a man of quiet ways, but of steadfast Christian principles. He was one of the founders of the Baptist church in Peru, and put into the enterprise mind, heart and means, and served it faithfully with unswerving zeal to the last,—still praying in his mortal feebleness for its strength and growth. Thus, full of Christian virtues, at the age of 55 yrs. he dropped away, as fair and ripened fruit falls at the touch of the husbandman. Of my mother too much cannot be said in her praise. She was attacked by that relentless disease, consumption, and forced to see the cherished plans and bright hope of life slowly fading away, yet kept the spirit of resignation to the known will of God till her rest came.” Amariah^e d. June 25, 1839; and just a year later, June 25, 1840, his widowed companion rejoined him in the home of the ransomed.

[1081.] DEA. DAVID BALLOU^e, Elias^b, Amariahⁱ, Nathaniel^s, James^z, Maturinⁱ; b. in Partridgefield, afterward Peru, Mass., Aug. 19, 1786; m. Mary Raymond, dr. of Amos Raymond, b. in Peru, 1792; cer. in Peru, Feb. 18, 1808. Issue, b. in said Peru.—

3282—3. Melita, b. Nov. 23, '12; m. John Milton Ingham Nov. 6, 1833.

3283—4. Persis, b. July 9, '16; m. Eldredge Pease May 7, 1834.

3284—5. Amos G., b. Oct. 3, '18; m. Mary Look Dec. 12, 1841.

3285—6. David L., b. July 6, '24; m. 1st M. Cooper, 2d H. Van Dusen.

3286—7. Asahel, b. Oct. 15, '26; m. Adelia Warren.

3287—8. Mary Paulina, b. Sept. 26, '33; m. Edwin Warren.

Dea. David Ballou^e and wife were intelligent, economical farmers. They had a good homestead in Peru, on which they continued to dwell till May 1, 1850. Soon after mge. they both joined the Baptist church in Hinsdale, a neighboring town. When a church of their order was formed in Middlefield, nearer their home, they united with that, and he was chosen one of its Deacons. Later, when a Baptist church was established in Peru, they became members there, and his Deaconship was renewed. From about 1825 or '30 onward his fellow townsmen loaded him with responsible offices for many years. Meantime he was in great demand as settler of estates, and was full of public business in various directions. May 1, 1850, he removed with his family to Becket, Mass. There a great bereavement soon darkened his temporal horizon. Mrs. Mary, the wife of his youth, d. Sept. 14, 1852. Most of his chn. had left him to make homes for themselves. Mary Paulina, his youngest dr., became his main stay as housekeeper and nurse, and later his son Amos G. and family took up their abode with him. But he was now an old man over three score and ten, and the time of his departure was at hand. He d. July 3, 1858, a. 71 yrs. 10 mos. and 14 ds.

[1082.] MARY BALLOT^a, Elias^a, Amariah¹, Nathaniel², James², Maturin¹; b. in then Partridgefield, now Peru, Mass., Aug. 2, 1791; m. Alfred Spaulding, son of Asa Spaulding, an inhabitant of East Chester, Mass., birth-date not given; ger. prob. in Peru, Mar. 18, 1810. Issue.—

3288—1. Alfred Spaulding Jr., b. Aug. 11, 1811.

3290—3. Silas Spaulding, b. May 11, '24.

Mrs. Mary (Ballou) Spaulding^c d. Dec. 5, 1832. Whether her husband ever m. again, or what became of him we are uninformed. Also whether the sons ever m. The dr., Dorcas (Spaulding) Raymond, d. Nov. 29, 1835, without issue. Some years later Alfred Spaulding resided in Winchester, N. H., and his bro. Silas in Cornish, N. H. It is the opinion of an intelligent friend, having a general acquaintance with the Ballous of Peru and Becket, that these two brothers d. childless. If so the family is extinct. Closed.

Passing over certain descents, from Amariah Ballou¹, found to be untraceable, we reach the posterity of Noah Ballou¹—the generation of his grand chn.

[1084.] PATIENCE RAZEE BALLOT^a, Absalom^a, Noah¹, Nathaniel¹, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 14, 1787; m. Elkanah Whipple, son of Ichabod, (Nathaniel, David, John,) b. in said Cumberland, neither his birth-date, nor that of ger., given. Issue.—

3291—1. Chauncey Whipple, b. not found; said to have d. u. m.

3292—2. Mary Whipple, b. not found; said to have m. Bartlett.

At present we are very poorly posted in respect to this family. We think it prob. both these chn. were b. in Cumberland, but are not sure of it, because the parents removed to Richmond, N. H., not very long after marriage. There, we suppose, Mrs. Patience⁶ d., date not ascertained. Bassett in his history of Richmond, on p. 525, says. — "Elkanah Whipple m. Dec. 19, 1818, Elizabeth Stearns of Warwick, Mass. Lived in Warwick. Had a son Chauncey and two daughters. He d. June 6, 1852, aged 75. She d. Jan. 29, 1858, a. 67." Mr. B. found no mention on Richmond records of Elkanah's former mge., nor births of his chn. We therefore presume that Chauncey and Mary Ann were b. in Cumberland, R. I., and that the third dr. was by his 2d wife, b. in Warwick, Mass. Chauncey Whipple⁷ is said to have returned to his native vicinity, reached the age of maturity, and d. u. m. We find a few words in Mr. Peck's memoranda from which we infer that Mary Ann⁷ also returned, and that she m. a Bartlett. Unless we are fortunate enough to obtain more definite and complete information, we must dismiss this descent without further tracement.

[1085.] AMARIAH BALLOU⁶, Absalom⁵, Noah⁴, Nathaniel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Apl. 24, 1788; m. Mary Bartlett, dr. of David Bartlett, b. in Mount Desert, Me., Jan. 20, 1789; cer. in Mount Desert, Jan. 6, 1825. Issue.—

- 3293—1. Patience Razez, b. Dec. 6, 1825; d. Aug. 6, 1826.
- 3294—2. Amariah, Jr., b. Jan. 28, '27; d. Dec. 31, 1834.
- 3295—3. Jeremiah Jenckes, b. Jan. 28, '28; d. Sept. 1, 1828.
- 3296—4. Mary Ann, b. Mar. 18, '29; d. Oct. 13, 1829.
- 3297—5. Avilda Marion, b. Dec. 29, '30; d. Sept. 8, 1847.
- 3298—6. Mary, b. May 10, 32; d. July 3, 1841.

We get no intimation from the laconic data furnished us where these chn. were b. nor where their parents lived and d., nor what were their pursuits or characteristics. We recollect meeting him at the paternal family funerals a few times long ago, and we presume he must have resided in the general vicinity—perhaps in Smithfield—or perhaps at different times in various localities in or adjacent to his native town. He looked like a plain, well disposed laboring man. He is styled "Captain Amariah" on his wife's grave stone. We can all see by his family record above, that he and his companion must have drunk deeply from the cup of anxiety, care, bereavement and sorrow, bringing into the world six chn. for untimely deaths. Mrs. Mary, the mother, even preceded her youngest. She d. Sept. 8, 1846. Amariah⁶ tarried in the flesh a few lonely years longer. He died March 23, 1865. Thus the family became extinct in this mortal state.

[1086.] AMEY BALLOU⁶, Absalom⁶, Noah⁴, Nathaniel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 24, 1793; m. Henry Bragg, b. about 1799; cer. perhaps not far from 1827 or '28. Issue.—

3299—1. Ann Amelia Bragg, b. perhaps 1829; m. Daniel Olney.

3300—2. Henrietta Bragg, b. Aug. 12, 1831; m. William Thayer.

All our diligent efforts to obtain a decent family record of Amey Ballou⁶ and her husband have failed. Henry Bragg's parentage, birth-place, birth-date, marriage-date, residence and occupation, remain unknown to us. We have inquired of Mrs. Amey's kindred who ought to know, but they can tell little. Their burial-stones in Ashton cemetery, R. I., say that Mrs. Amey d. Aug. 6, 1846, a. 52 yrs.; and that Henry Bragg d. Dec. 28, 1848, a. 49 yrs. Also that Henrietta Bragg Thayer d. Aug. 12, 1878, and her br., George Henry Thayer, Feb. 12, 1853, a. 1 yr. 10 mos. We learn that Ann Amelia (Bragg) Olney d. at the a. of 49 yrs., leaving 3 chn., Ida, Anna and Georgia. No further traced.

John Adams Ballou⁶ was a plain, well disposed man. No biographical reminiscences given. He d. in Cumberland, R. Her remains were brought to Woonsocket, R. I., and there we ministered also at her funeral. She was a woman worthy to be remembered for her good qualities and many sorrows.

Amos J. Ballou^e and wife deserve honorable mention, not only in the general category of worthy people, but as staunch Temperance and Anti-Slavery reformers of the wool-dyed stamp, and in early days. Amos^e had only a plain, common school education, and grew up in a rum-dispensing Inn, in which he was for some time a knight of the toddy stick. But good influences fell upon him, and he emerged into a higher moral atmosphere. We knew him well for many years, and have cherished memories of him. He had none of the polish derived from æsthetic culture and genteel breeding, but he excelled in those better characteristics—common sense, sound judgment, a kind heart, moral integrity, and rational religion. He was for some time a member and officer in our Hopedale Community, where intimate intercourse with him in counsel and executive business enables us to appreciate him. He was a man to bear close acquaintance without losing respect and confidence; always sensible, reasonable, accommodating and comfortable to get along with. Thus with us it has become a maxim that whoever can be intimately lived and dealt with comfortably is of a high moral order; and vice versa. People may be extra religious, or literary, or æsthetic—theoretical and professional paragons—but if they cannot be lived with in daily familiar association comfortably, they need to be “born again.” Amos^e d. on his homestead in Cumberland, R. I., very near where he was born, Oct. 31, 1869, a. 69 yrs. 7 mos. and 7 ds. Mrs. Joanna, his wid., still survives in 1887, though bearing the infirmities of age.

[1091.] OLNEY BALLOU^e, Absalom^b, Noah^d, Nathaniel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 16, 1804; m. Diana Kelly, dr. of Wing Kelly, b. perhaps in Pelham, Mass., Oct. 14, 1808; cer. in the State of Connecticut Mar. 21, 1830. Issue, believed to have been b. in said Cumberland.—

3308—2. George Olney, b. July 14, '32; d. Jan. 29, 1858.

Olney Ballou^e seems to have been b. under what the astrologers would call inauspicious influences. With good capabilities and kindly predisposition, he grew up amid temptations which overcame his better aspirations, and blasted his happiness. Notwithstanding his possession of an excellent wife and friends anxiously seeking his welfare, he fell under the baneful spell of intemperance. This, in spite of some promising intermittances of reform, finally wrecked him on the shoals of despondency, and he hurried himself into another world. What he suffered, and, more sad to think of, what his wife and children suffered first and last, can be imagined only by those who have sympathetically studied such cases. How many otherwise hopeful candidates for usefulness and success in life have perished in like manner! May man take warning, and God redeem. Olney^c d. in Cumberland, R. I., near his birth-place, May 21, 1857, in his 54th yr. It was our painful duty to be counsellor and comforter at his funeral. His only son, George O., crossed the "silent sea" Jan. 29, 1858, in ripening manhood, a. 25 yrs. 6 mos. and 15 ds. Again we ministered. Mrs. Dianna was emancipated from her heart-crushing desolations, in Worcester, Mass., June 11, 1862, a. 53 yrs. 7 mos. and 27 ds.

Here we have the flower of Absalom Ballou's offspring—a magnificent and fragrant one. Ann Susan Ballou^c was b. with an admirable physical and mental constitution. She was well educated at Friends' High School in Providence, R. I. She was a superior woman. Her life-work was the motherhood and nurture of eleven chn., ten of whom grew up to maturity, and no one of whom ever caused her to regret his or her birth. So testifies her eldest son. The biography of such a wife and mother would be a treasury of gems. We leave it to be imagined. Gardner Hale was also a superior man in his sphere of life. He was a cotton manufacturer, chiefly as a trusted and successful superintendent, and later, perhaps, more or less a proprietor. He had eminent skill, judgment and moral integrity. It will be seen, by the birth-places of his chn., that he resided in several different localities in the course of his business career. In 1849 he removed to Prattville, Ala., with his family, where he had charge of a manufacturing establishment. That became his subsequent home, and there most of his family remained. At the close of the late civil war, he was sent to England to contract for and superintend the building and shipping of a large outfit of machinery to be used in a new factory near Prattville. His wife accompanied him on that mission. He accomplished it, returned, and put the machinery in operation, to the great satisfaction of all parties concerned. The parents took care to give their chn. eminent educational advantages, and some of the daughters became quite distinguished teachers. The whole family adorned the first rank in society. But death, which comes to all, has closed the mortal pilgrimage of the parents, and several of their offspring. Mrs. Ann Susan^c d. near Oxmoor, Ala., July, 1873, in her 62d yr. These chn. were b. in several different localities. We think Lucy M. and David W. were b. in R. I., perhaps Cumberland or Pawtucket, Mary A. in Boston, Mass., Henry W. in Cumberland or Pawtucket, R. I., Alfred L. and John A. in or near Columbus, O., and the youngest two in or near Milford, Union Co., O. The accounts given us are not definite enough to warrant a clearer specification. Mary Ann (Ballou) Witter furnished Mr. Peck, in 1862, as amanuensis of her father, then living, a fair family record; and since we undertook this work, we have received much more elaborate documents from two of her chn. relating to the grand parents and their descendants. For these our grateful acknowledgements are due. Thus we are unusually favored with materials for biographical sketches. These we will digest and epitomize as well as we can.

Martin Ballou^a was a well constituted, enterprising, energetic man, and took to himself a wife of kindred qualities. What his early occupation was we do not clearly make out, but he became a sturdy Ohio farmer. He began his manhood career in or near Pawtucket, R. I., whence he went to Boston, Mass., for three or four years., thence back to R. I., probably Cumberland or Pawtucket, and thence started for a new home in the West. He appears to have mounted his goods and family on an emigrant horse-wagon and to have gone through New York and Pennsylvania, by slow stages and many perilous hardships, till he reached the Scioto river, where he pitched his tent near Columbus. It was an elevated, healthy site, but proved too rough for comfortable tillage, and a little later he removed to a more facile homestead. At length he bettered himself by removal to Union Co., where he made himself master of a handsome farm. Having passed through a trying succession of pioneer experiences, in which his wife and chm. had their full share, he settled near Milford Centre, O. There Mrs. Betsey, the companion of his youth and helpmeet through many a privation, rested from her toils. She d. Nov. 13, 1851, a. 71 yrs. and 8 mos. We do not learn that her husband ever m. again. His posterity were multiplying around him, and home was rendered comfortable in old age by many dutiful ministries of his chm. and grand-chm. In these he took great delight to the last. He was a lively politician and patriot. When the great secession war broke out, he was intensely interested, but always confident the Union cause would triumph, and he lived to realize his hopes. He was fond of his newspaper, and rejoiced in grandsons that had served in the armies of their country. He had quite a vigorous old age, and at 85 could walk and work briskly. In spite of serious pecuniary losses incurred by becoming surety at various times for failing neighbors, he had at interest a goodly capital to supply his last days with ample comforts. In religious sentiment he lived and died a Universalist,—beloved by all his offspring, and highly respected by his fellow-citizens in general. He began to fail in health a year or so before his death, and finally succumbed to the death-angel Nov. 25, 1869, a. 89 yrs. and 26 ds. His remains repose with those of his wife, chm. and descendants, in a cemetery near Milford Centre, Union Co., O., commemorated by a modest monument, and his grand chm. speak of him with reverential affection.

We are not as clearly informed concerning the childhood and youth of William B. Ballou⁶ as we could wish. As nearly as we can learn, he was virtually adopted by a wealthy lady in infancy, and well educated for business competency. He seems to have been almost entirely separated from his brothers and sisters, and chose for certain reasons to write his name Ballou instead of Ballou, all through life. He became deeply absorbed in mercantile and banking enterprise, to which he devoted himself intensely and reputably almost to the end of his earthly career. In his last years he awoke to a considerable interest in the matter of his pedigree, and proposed to visit his kindred and the scenes of his native State, but never found the convenient season. He was, however, quite proud of his origin, and when the Association styled "The Sons of Rhode Island" was organized in New York City, enrolled his name among the first. He was a man of prepossessing comeliness and urbanity, and moved in a social circle of eminent respectability. He was a member of the Episcopal church, and sustained an exemplary character in all his relationships. His home was one of cherished endearments between himself and all his family. But he was suddenly surprised by the Death Angel, just as he had got ready to enjoy relaxation from the pressure of affairs, and after a brief sickness d. July 4, 1862, a. 71 yrs. 6 mos. and 29 ds. He was profoundly mourned by his family, and his worthy widow saw no more days of restful health till she followed him. Her brother, Leonard Ballou of Norwich, Ct., writing to Mr. Peck, under date of July 10, 1873, said.—“My sister Lydia taught school for several years in Cumberland and Attleborough, Mass. After her marriage she lived with her father until her death.”

HER OBITUARY

appeared in The Providence Gazette of Apl. 19, 1823. “The deceased possessed, in an eminent degree, those qualities which adorn and exalt the female character. Such was the rectitude of her deportment that she enjoyed the most respectful regard of the circle of acquaintances, to whom her premature exit is painfully afflictive. Through the vicissitudes of a distressing and lingering illness, she was supported by the cheering presence of Him on whose merits alone she relied with confidence unwavering for the security of eternal joys. In her death an afflicted husband, two children, and numerous friends are called to mourn the irreparable loss of an affectionate companion, a kind and indulgent mother, and a valued relative. And their only consolation is derived from the pleasing anticipation that they may hereafter be associated in a celestial society where their mutual felicities will be as interminable as they are perfect.”

Of him, Leonard Ballou⁶, we find a full and interesting biographical sketch, published soon after his death, in a Connecticut Magazine, giving a "History of New London County." We transfer the pertinent essentials of that sketch to these pages.

"LEONARD BALLOU was born in Cumberland, Feb. 23, 1794, and in his boyhood attended the common school of the town. He afterwards pursued his studies in a private school preparatory to a classical course, working in the mean time in his father's shop and on the farm. When he had reached the age of sixteen the non-intercourse act and the embargo which preceded the war of 1812 entirely destroyed all the mechanical industries of the country connected with commerce, and the father was obliged to abandon his plans for the higher education of his son. The next winter he taught acceptably the public school in his own district, and later had charge of a much larger school in another part of the town. Under these circumstances, finding that he must rely upon his own efforts for his future support, and having a natural taste for mechanical pursuits, as well as a facility in the use of tools, acquired in his father's shop, he sought and obtained work as a carpenter and joiner in building houses for the small manufacturing establishments just making their appearance on the Blackstone River. In 1819 he entered the employment of Jason Tower, a millwright engaged at that time in mill-work generally, and in building a water-wheel for Mr. Harris. The charge of constructing and placing the wheel, and arranging the shafting, with the gearing, pulleys, draws, etc., crude as they were in that early period of manufacturing, devolved chiefly on Mr. Ballou, a great responsibility for a young man of so little experience in that specialty. At that time there were few competent mechanics, even in Rhode Island, where the first mills were erected.

Leonard Ballou

He succeeded so entirely to the satisfaction of Mr. Harris, that soon afterwards, when Watson, Tingley & Rathbone, of Providence, proposed to take up the water-power at the present important manufacturing centre, Willimantic, Conn., then almost a wilderness, he recommended the young Ballou as a competent man for that great work, involving, as it did, not only the construction of the water-wheel, shafting, etc., for the mill, but also determining the fall of the water-power by practical engineering, which had not then been reduced to an exact science.

Young as he was, diffident as to his ability to accomplish the work, yet he saw that if he was to earn larger wages than an ordinary mechanic he must do what an ordinary mechanic could not do. Acting under the advice of his friend Harris, he went to Willimantic, surveyed the water-power, constructed the wheel, shafted the mill, and applied the water successfully, thus justifying the confidence of Mr. Harris as to his ability, and having the satisfaction of engineering the first water-power in a wild and almost uninhabitable section, which to-day teems with a large and thriving population, and whose immense and elegant mills represent the highest manufacturing skill to be found in New England. On Mr. Ballou's return to Rhode Island his services were eagerly sought after as a millwright by the Wilkinsons, the Slaters, and the Browns, who were the leading manufacturers of that period.

In 1825, having accumulated a small property as the result of this hard labor, he decided he would have a mill of his own, however small it might be, and in November of that year he purchased a mill privilege on the Five-Mile River in Killingly, Conn.

On this privilege was a small mill, built for the purpose of grinding rye to make gin, a business then very common in that part of the State. The power was so poorly applied that it was barely possible to carry one run of stones, while to-day, known as the Ballou Mills, it runs twenty-six thousand spindles.

Here came in the value of the knowledge which he had acquired of the capacity of mill-sites, and which led to his future success.

In making this purchase his father-in-law, Jabez Amsbury, a practical machinist, was associated with him, under the firm-name of Amsbury & Ballou.

During the winter they built a part of the necessary machinery. The following spring they removed their families to Killingly, and with them came George Weatherhead, another son-in-law, and Mowry Amsbury, son of Jabez Amsbury.

The entire capital possessed by the parties was six thousand dollars, but each was qualified to fill the position required in the running of a small mill, Mr. Ballou being the manager and leading spirit of the whole.

Their small capital necessitated their utilizing the old gin-mill, which was a small one-story building; but soon, under the impulses and labors of these earnest workers, it assumed the form of a factory, fifty feet long, thirty-two feet wide, and three stories in height. They started the mill in the following autumn, with only ten looms in full operation.

After running the factory for one year, Mr. Ballou discovered that an income sufficient to support four families could not be derived from the product of ten looms. He saw from the beginning that the only way to realize a larger profit was to increase the machinery, which had been contemplated in the building of the factory, but he had not the money to do this, and he hesitated.

He was in a dilemma. Instead of laying up a small sum every year, as he had been doing while working for others, he found himself losing daily working for himself. But that was not the worst of it. His father-in-law and brothers-in-law could not abandon the enterprise without great loss and even failure, and to him alone they looked for relief.

Of the Ballous it may be truly said that whatever they undertake they seldom or never stop at any obstacle to success which industry, energy, and enterprise can conquer, and this was a trait of character for which the subject of this sketch was pre-eminently distinguished.

Yet a young man and with very little experience in the management of business affairs, he sought the advice of a friend in Providence, R. I., a gentleman of excellent reputation as a manufacturer, of a kindly nature and sound judgment,—and was confirmed in his own opinion as to the necessity of the case and its remedy ; but, always careful and conservative, he hesitated about incurring so large an indebtedness, and feared he might not be able to raise the money to carry out the plan, until his friend assured him that he would give him whatever aid he might need, saying to him, “Go ahead, and I will see that you do not fail.”

The machinery was ordered the same day, and he returned home greatly encouraged by the confidence placed in him by the successful merchant and shrewd business man, who had known him but a single year, but had doubtless discerned in him qualities which satisfied him that the loan of his credit would not be misplaced.

The business at once commenced to increase, and the firm were able to meet all their payments without availing themselves of the proffered aid. Mr. Ballou always regarded this event as “the turn in the tide” of his affairs “which led on to fortune.”

Having secured these increased facilities, he made a contract with Robert Rhodes, of Providence, to receive cotton and manufacture cloth for a fixed price per yard, thus providing for the working capital to run the mill. In 1833 he commenced to buy his own cotton, and sold his goods in New York, and during the financial crisis of 1837 made no losses, while many other manufacturers were greatly embarrassed by the failure of their commission-houses. It is a notable fact that during that year the paper of every domestic commission merchant in New York went to protest excepting that of two firms, and with them alone had Mr. Ballou any business relations.

In 1834 he increased the capacity of his mill more than double, and in 1836 purchased the entire interest of his partners, whom he helped to establish in mills of their own on the same river.

In subsequent years he continued to enlarge his mill, and introduced new machinery as his means accumulated and the inventions of the age made it imperative, for he never could be satisfied if his relative cost of production, which is the key to manufacturing success, was not as low as any of his competitors.

He passed through the several financial crises of half a century without compromise of any kind and with steadily-increasing resources, relying always for success on the result of patient, honest, and skillful labor rather than on any combination of any especially favorable circumstances, promising speculations, or hazardous ventures. His unimpeachable integrity, promptness in meeting his payments, never having failed to meet an indebtedness, never having been sued, and never having sued any other person, all contributed to make him respected and honored by all who knew him.

The unusual success of Mr. Ballou in the manufacture of cotton goods in a small mill, where so many of his compeers have failed, was due in a great measure to the fact that his mechanical education and superior intelligence in the manufacturing departments enabled him to adopt or reject the various new theories or systems which were daily presented during nearly half a century of active business life, and thus he never failed to produce fabrics at the smallest possible cost.

Yet he was one of the most considerate of mill-owners to his operatives. Their counsellor and friend, to them, as to others, his name was a synonym for honesty and fair dealing, and they regarded him with respect and affection.

His opinions were sought on all occasions with reference to manufacturing changes and methods, even to the last years of his life, for even in his retiracy he loved to mark the progress of his favorite business, which he had seen rise almost from its birth, with its crude devices and surroundings, and lived to see the rapid improvements and ingenious applications which have resulted in making a modern cotton-mill one of the wonders of the nineteenth century.

He had for many years entertained the purpose of retiring from active business when he should attain the age of threescore and ten. Accordingly, in February, 1864, he closed his career as a manufacturer, and sold all his property in Killingly to the Attawagan Company. The village where he first commenced operations is now known as Ballouville.

After that time his only active business was the discharge of financial trusts in connection with various corporations in which a portion of his capital was invested. He was a director in the First National Bank of Norwich for thirty-five years, and trustee of the Norwich Savings Society, the largest institution for savings in the State, and until increasing years rendered the work too onerous his services were of great value to the institution, his long experience as a manufacturer and his thorough knowledge of machinery making him an expert in the valuation of real estate and other manufacturing properties proposed as securities for loans. He was president for many years of the Norwich Water-Power Company and at the time of his death was president of the Occum Water-Power Company, director in the Norwich Bleaching and Calendering Company, and in the Norwich City Gas Company.

Mr. Ballou was a resident of Killingly for twenty years, and in the autumn of 1845 removed to Norwich, where he passed the remainder of his life. He was married in 1822 to Ann Eliza Amsbury, of Cumberland, R. I., who died in Norwich in May, 1852. In 1854 he was again married to Mrs. Kingsley, of Norwich, who died in 1862.

He had been for many years a prominent and active member of the Congregational Church in North Killingly, and on his removal to Norwich joined the Second Congregational Church there, and afterwards became identified with the Park Congregational Church. He was an active promoter of the enterprise for erecting the church edifice for that religious society in 1873, and was one of the largest contributors for that object.

In politics he was a Whig of the old school, and a decided Republican. He was a man of strong convictions and uncompromising for the right, yet was willing to concede the rights of opinion to those who differed from him. To a fine, manly physique he added superior intellectual qualities, a well-balanced mind and sound judgment, with great kindness of heart and a calm and even temperament. Always a consistent Christian, he was a peacemaker in all difficulties, and was often looked to by friends to arrange misunderstandings. He died at his home on Washington Street Aug. 5, 1880, in the eighty-seventh year of his age."

Thurston Ballou^e attained not the distinction of his elder brother Leonard, but in a less conspicuous sphere has honored himself, his ancestry and relationship by a life of honest industry, substantial usefulness and exemplary moral character. He grew up under his father to the occupation of a boat builder, and followed the same on the paternal homestead in Cumberland, R. I., till 1844, when he sold out and located in Franklin, Mass. There he continued more or less engaged in the same business in connection with farming thenceforth through life. Respecting this family we are furnished only with what is given in the Peck Genealogy, except in the case of Ann Janette Peck, who m. Albert Ballou. We shall therefore content ourselves with extracts from that Genealogy relating to parents and chn., except in the case excepted.

"William Peck, son of Royal, settled at first in Wrentham, Mass., where he resided for many years, and from there removed to Franklin, Mass. He has been what may well be called a model farmer—industrious and successful—a man of excellent judgment and fine natural ability. Although he has kept aloof from party politics, neither seeking or accepting office, he has usually taken an interest in the affairs of his town, giving his advice or expressing his views upon matters of interest; and at public meetings few have been able to command more respect. In his younger days he was fond of military tactics, and for a long time commanded a military company. He was often urged to accept higher positions, but he chose to remain a captain. He was an excellent disciplinarian, and took much pride, as well as his men, in their being known as one of the best drilled companies. He is still known and called among his early associates, by the to them familiar name of Capt. Peck. In his 84th year he still retained his faculties." Mrs. Sarah, his wife, d. Mar. 24, 1852. He d. with his kind dr., Mrs. Albert Ballou, in Franklin, Mass., Dec. 15, 1876, a. 91 yrs. 11 mos. and 10 ds.

The author notes, as a curiosity, that when Mary Ann, their oldest child, was b., she "had two grandmothers, four great-grandmothers, and one great-great-grandmother, making seven grandmothers all living at the time." How great and grand a child she must have been!

"Rufus Arnold Peck married Abby S. Thurber, and settled in Providence, R. I. His children are Anna A., Horace G., and Helen A."

"William Edward prepared himself for a profession, and chose that of a lawyer. He entered the office of Richard W. Green, Providence, R. I., late judge of the Supreme Court, as a student, in 1847. He was admitted to the bar in 1850, and settled in Providence, where he entered into practice. He was elected a Representative from the city to the State Legislature in 1852. He was also one of the judges of the Court of Magistrates. In 1855 he removed to Greenwich, R. I., but continued his office in Providence. He was elected a Senator from Greenwich in 1857. He continued his practice, both in Providence and Greenwich, until the war, in which he took a deep interest. His patriotism did not allow him to remain neutral, or a spectator to the noble effort the State made to assist in subduing the rebellion. He not only lent his aid and influence in raising soldiers, but set the example of being one himself. He loved his country and knew too well how to prize its government and laws to remain passive during her struggle. He gave his life in their defence. He enlisted in the Rhode Island cavalry, where he received a commission as first lieutenant. After joining his regiment in Louisiana, he was appointed judge advocate, which position he held until his decease, which occurred at Napoleonville, August 13, 1865. He was taken sick at Thibodeaux while attending the duties of his office. He remained there until the adjournment of the commission, when he returned to Napoleonville, was seized with a congestive chill, and died in about two hours. He was buried with military honors. His body was placed in a metal coffin, and then enclosed in a brick vault." Peck Genealogy pp. 88, 89. This descent no further traced.

Mrs. Mary (Blackinton) Peck, an exemplary woman, and a most excellent wife and mother, d. at Woonsocket, R. I., Sept. 30, 1876, a. 67 yrs. 6. mos. and 26 ds.

Ira Ballou Peck, (Royal, Solomon, Ichabod, Jathniel, Joseph, Joseph, Robert, &c.,) is a man of intellectual genius and much distinctive merit. He was the youngest of his parents' children, and remained on his father's farm, participating in its cares, till advanced youth. Then, with a keen relish for educational advantages, he resolved on collegiate attainments at his own expense. He proposed to pay his tuition bills, stage after stage, by school teaching. He commenced as a student in Wrentham Academy. He continued studying and teaching till 1825, the summer of which he spent in the counting room of his cousin, Dexter Ballou, at Woonsocket. In the autumn he resumed his studies, and for sometime afterward prosecuted his plan, by teaching schools and seminaries of various grades, (some of them high and select for advanced pupils) in Attleborough, Medway, Canton and Dedham, Mass. He taught successfully all the upper English branches. He delighted in his vocation, which, with the constant pressure of study, proved too arduous for him. The result was such impaired health as obliged him to suspend both teaching and study, and even finally his cherished hope of a full, liberal education. On partially recovering he became interested in the cotton manufacture. In 1831 he removed to Woonsocket, where first he ran a mill for himself, then took charge of one owned by George C. Ballou, and later of the establishment in part at Waterford, Mass., owned by the Farnum brothers. Next, in 1839, he leased a mill of Edward Harris, and manufactured Sea Island cotton warps for supplying the Farnums, Edward Harris, &c. Having sold his machinery, he spent the winter of 1844 in Ashburnham, Mass., skillfully superintending the mill of George Blackburn, of Boston, and making important improvements therein. From 1845 to the present time he has been much employed, first under Samuel B. Cushing, Master in Chancery, and, after his death, under his son of the same name holding the same office, as their Deputy in the critical and delicate business of measuring, apportioning, adjusting and superintending all the water power of Blackstone river at Woonsocket among the several mill owners. This has been a responsible trust, requiring much scientific skill and judicial mentality. Meantime he executed successfully an administrative settlement of the estate of Judge David Daniels—replete with complexity and litigation. Between 1862 and '64 he was Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue. For long years he has been a Director in the Woonsocket National Bank, and at length became its President. He has been prominent as a Trustee in the Institution for Savings, in Woonsocket Hospital membership, in the Fire Corporation, in the Gas Works, and the distinctive improvements generally which do honor to Woonsocket.

Moreover, and aside from all the above indicated pursuits and responsibilities, he has found time to distinguish himself as a genealogist. In 1846 he commenced his researches and collecting of data for the Ballou Genealogy, which he followed up with great diligence, patience, and much weariness of flesh till 1850, when he suspended operations, and took hold of the Peck Genealogy. This, with his habitual industry and perseverance, he completed and published in 1868. It won for him high and deserved encomiums. Perhaps the following, from the Congregational Quarterly of July, 1870, may suffice as a sample.—“We scarcely know which most to admire, the genius to search out, arrange, and correctly set forth the lineage of a great family for thirty generations, in all its wide-spreading branches, or the patience and hard work requisite to such herculean labor. The Peck family are highly favored in having one of their own members, who has been endowed with both the genius and patience essential to give one of the best genealogies it has been our good fortune to examine.”

What he did in behalf of the Ballou genealogy, before, during, and after his elaboration of the Peck volume, can hardly be estimated. For though it was chiefly preliminary and preparatory, his successor deems it invaluable. It brought to light, from obscure depositories and traditionary recesses, so many ancient documents, mortuary memorials, and family reminiscences, and, through hundreds of answered letters, so much needed data which might not otherwise have been obtained, that all the Ballous ought, with deferential gratitude, to confess their obligations to their pioneer genealogist. Though, after expending in time, labor and cash a round thousand dollars, he became discouraged and abandoned the undertaking, we trust that partial remuneration and appreciation on the part of his Ballou cousins will reconcile him in some degree to his sacrifices. He is now a venerable octogenarian, in comfortable pecuniary circumstances, and his brows are overwreathed with some grateful honors, pronounced as well as unproclaimed. He is a respected member of the Harleian Society of London, Eng., a life member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, a corresponding member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, a member of the Rhode Island Historical Society, an ancient in the Masonic Fraternity, a Bank President, and, better than all, in old age is justly held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends.

In politics he has not been an office-seeker, demagogue, or partizan. In religion, though cherishing for himself a broad faith, hope and charity, he has been respectful to sincere people of all creeds, and uncontroversial. His only child, a son, Ira E. Peck, of infirm health and unmarried, resides somewhat variously in the general vicinity of his birth-place. The descent is therefore closed.

Louisa Ballou Miller* was b. in the village of Ashton, R. I., and Solyman Miller* in Wrentham, Mass. We recollect, among the acquaintances of our early youth, Mrs. Polly* and her husband, who were of our native neighborhood, and worthy people. She was a religious woman, and the first person we had opportunity to see baptized. It must have been soon after her marriage. She was immersed by Eld. Stephen Place, our Six Principle Baptist Pastor, with impressive solemnity, and we think the last or nearly the last, admitted member into the Cumberland church of that denomination. We always heard her spoken of as a most exemplary Christian woman through life. We do not remember that her husband was a professor, though otherwise a respectable man of our commonalty. He d. Mar. 20, 1859, a. 74 yrs. 10 mos. 5 ds. Mrs. Polly^e d. Oct. 27, 1866, a. 79 yrs. and 24 ds.

Dexter Ballou^e and wife were persons of sterling good qualities, intelligent, enterprising, and justly respected for their solid worth. He was a natural mechanic, practical machinist, manufacturer and man of affairs. His first adventure in the manufacturing line was in Co. with his father on a small stream with a large fall, near his uncle Absalom Ballou's tavern in Cumberland, a short distance from the present village of Ashton. It cost little to start and operate this petty establishment. It contained five carders, constructed by Dexter's own hands, and three spinning frames of 84 spindles each. The production was simply cotton yarn, ready for weaving. In 1817 this machinery was removed to more expansive quarters, though then very inferior ones, at Woonsocket Falls, at that time an embryo village in the westerly extremity of Cumberland. There Dexterⁱ became one of the honored pioneer fathers of a now grand and famous manufacturing municipality. Step by step, in spite of floods and fires, with successive co-partners or alone, Dexter Ballou^e climbed the heights of business success to a magnificent eminence. We need not describe in detail his upward march, its struggles, perils, and exploits. They are written in the published annals of Woonsocket. Suffice it to record, that, with most untiring perseverance, manly independence under adversity, and indomitable exertion, he triumphed over all obstacles, and inscribed his name high on enduring pillars of fame. The historian of Woonsocket says.—“With his sleeves rolled up, and his working suit on, he devoted his time and attention to his chosen calling. 'Every shaft, pulley and machine in the mill (one burnt down) were set under my personal direction', was his sad remark as he surveyed the ruins of his works on the 'saw-mill lot.' Not only did this prudent man look after his mills and machinery, but he watched over the welfare of his help with parental solicitude. The butcher, the baker, and the candle-stick maker had a hard road to travel who took advantage of his help. If in the history of American cotton-spinning there had been more Dexter Ballou's, there would have been fewer panics to record." His only surviving daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Keith of Providence, R. I., recently gave us the following reminiscences. "He took a personal interest in the welfare of all his employees. I remember, as a child, how he would come into the house, saying, 'Mother, there has a family come who haven't a bed or a table. What is there that we can spare?' Soon after his death I was visiting Woonsocket, and, passing along the street where a number of Irishmen were digging a trench for laying pipes, one of them came up out of the trench, wiping his hands on his clothes, and saying to me, 'I want to shake hands with your father's daughter, for when I came here seven years ago, I was a drinking man, and had scarce a dollar. He talked to me like a father, and asked me what I thought was going to become of me in my old age. He advised me to leave off drinking and provide for the future. I took his advice, and have now paid six hundred dollars for a small farm, and have some money besides.'" Such was Dexter Ballou^c, and such the blessings that encluster his memory. He had many virtues, and few faults. Chief among the latter was an inveterate habit of smoking tobacco. Of this the forementioned daughter thus wrote.—"He always had a cigar in his mouth except when eating or sleeping. In his last sickness he remarked more than once, 'I have no doubt I have shortened my life twenty years by smoking.'" If one in a thousand of our great and little men, enslaved to this evil habit, would take warning and abandon it, we should rejoice.

Dexter^c was a noiseless politician, and no office-seeker. He was much addicted to minding his own business. In religion he was a Universalist of the exemplary class. He died, in love to God, good will to man, and in the firm assurance of a final immortal blessedness, July 17, 1849, a. 60 yrs. 5 mos. and 20 ds. Some if not all these chn. were b. and died in Putnam, Ct. Mrs. Anna (Whipple) Ballou d. in Putnam, Ct., Mar. 11, 1872, a. 76 yrs. and 8 mos. Hosea Ballou⁶ was an intelligent, enterprising man, much engaged, at different times and places, in manufactures similar to those of his brothers, Dexter and George C., but with less success, and some serious reverses. He was much more poetic and convivial than either of them. He was a great reader of literature and especially fond of poetical works, large portions of which he could repeat at pleasure. Spicy songs delighted him, and many such he could sing with glee, as well as recite from memory. He liked a merry dance with strains of lively music, even down to old age. He had strong passional affections, and like too many of that type failed to realize the happiness he sought in that direction. Neither his affectional, domestic, or financial experiences were enviably fortunate. He had many agreeable social qualities and commendable characteristics, in spite of some wayward proclivities, and commanded the general respect of his contemporaries. He was early and long a devoted member of the Masonic Fraternity, and was honored with its funeral rites. He spent his latter years amid the kind hospitalities of a Major Van Derlip and wife in Washington, D. C., where he d. May 29, 1883, a. 89 yrs. 6 mos. and 25 ds. It was his dying request that his remains should sleep with those of his ancestors in the ancient Ballou cemetery, Cumberland, R. I. His request was sacredly fulfilled, and the writer preached his funeral discourse in the old Ballou Meeting house June 1, 1883, which was followed by Masonic rites in the presence of a large assembly.

Mrs. Ruth Eliza, the worthy wife and mother, d. in Woonsocket, Feb. 6, 1873, a. 69 yrs. 2 mos. and 20 ds. George Colburn Ballou filled up a long life with remarkable enterprise, solid usefulness, and exemplary moral worth. With unostentatious simplicity he accomplished large undertakings in his chosen line of operations, and left a life-record replete with creditable deeds. He began a farmer boy on the paternal homestead amid the rocks of Cumberland highlands, then learned carpentry of his father, then ventured into the outer circle of the manufacturing sphere, and thence gradually penetrated its inner convolutions to eminent celebrity. In 1826 we find him in the village of Waterford on the Blackstone, river, with his brother Hosea, making satinet warps, next in hovel like quarters saved from the fire ruins of his brother Dexter's mill on the "saw mill lot" at Woonsocket, spinning yarn and dressing it in an adjacent loft, and in August, 1839, the owner of the "saw mill lot" property. There he enlarged his buildings and machinery, and was on a full tide of success till Jan. 23, 1846, when the fire-fiend laid his establishment in ashes; worth $24,000, insurance $14,000, loss $10,000. Undiscouraged, he forthwith erected on the same site a noble stone edifice, furnished it with improved machinery, and resumed his prosperous march upwards. Step by step he advanced in enterprise and wealth till 1873 presented him in his palatial stone manufactory on the "Globe premises," dedicating it by feeding with his own hands the first cotton upon the apron of its lapper. Meantime he had acquired a large interest in the Clinton Manufacturing Co., was president of the American Worsted Co., and of the Ballou Manufacturing Co., was principal owner of the American Braid Works establishment, and possessed an estate embracing lands, houses, shops and mills, valued in all at a million and a half dollars. Thus by industry, perseverance, frugality, and judicious pecuniary management he became an honored pioneer of modern Woonsocket, greatly assisting in the development of its thrift, wealth and importance. He found it a comparatively wild and sparsely settled region, but left it, through co-exertion with kindred minds, the glory of Northern Rhode Island.

But his noble characteristics and unpretentious virtues are his more enduring memorial. What he was in daily habits at home among his children and grand children, in the generous and considerate treatment of his employees, in his just dealings with all classes of his associates, and in the charities he ministered to suffering humanity around, his name will outlive all his material structures. He was familiarly called "Uncle George" by old and young, and plain "Uncle George" he was to the last. Kind to all, and beloved by all, especially by children; calm, even and self-possessed, whatever might happen; with no starch, pomp or parade of dress or equipage; daily looking after the details of his affairs, and never disdaining the humblest useful drudgery; such was this man. He had no fondness for political distinction, but reluctantly consented to serve one term as a legislative representative, and also one as a State Senator in 1848—by the last acquiring the prefix title of Hon. to his name. Besides these he eschewed all political and civil office. About six years before his death he retired from most of his manufacturing superintendencies, handing them over to his only son David. Still he kept a watchful eye over affairs in a general way. But during this period he supervised personally his farming interests, and delighted himself in agricultural improvements. He had several farms, comprising in all many hundreds of acres, which he managed to good advantage. But at length the axles and wheels of his strong physical system began to fail, and he prepared for his translation to the higher life. Tenderly was he cared for, and patiently he endured his last sickness. All was done for him that could be done, and he was ready for his departure. Holding luminous views of Divine goodness and human destiny, he could say with the poet.—

Where Universal Love not smiles around,
Sustaining all yon orbs, and all their suns;
From seeming evil still educing good,
And better thence again, and better¹ still,
In infinite progression.”

He d. calmly at his home in Woonsocket, R. I., Mar. 25, 1876, a. 78 yrs. 1 mo. and 24 ds. Then, on the 28th March followed a great, solemn, sympathetic and honorable funeral, at which this writer conducted the religious services. He was one of the oldest Free Masons of his native State, and received due ritual honors from his brethren of Morning Star Lodge, and his companions of Union Royal Arch Chapter. The streets were lined with respectful spectators, as a large procession followed his mortal tabernacle to its final repose in Oak Hill Cemetery.

We add with painful reluctance and grief, that a flood of financial reverses succeeded his death, which swept from his heirs the magnificent inheritance he had accumulated and watched over with so much careful success. But his memory and the treasure he carried with him to a better world are imperishable. They shall be blessed forevermore.

But her married days were few. She d. Sept. 3, 1826, and her remains were buried with her ancestors in the Ballou Cemetery, after funeral services by the writer in the adjacent ancient meeting house.

Maj. Harris J. Mowry was an intelligent, enterprising high-spirited man, with marked characteristics of an executive stamp. He was ambitious and full of push in whatever he undertook, whether educational, mechanical, mercantile, martial, or political. He had opinions and likings of his own, and allowed nobody around him to mistake them. He was active, outspoken and uncompromising, and like such frank, sanguine people generally, as generous as he was ardent and fearless. He was three times married after he had mourned for Mrs. Sally Ann, and had in all quite a family of chn. He was engaged in mercantile pursuits in several localities—in Woonsocket, in Providence and last in Sheboygan, Wis., where he d., a member of the Episcopal Church, Sept., 1854. Jonathan Ballou^a was a merchant tailor for many years on Cumberland Hill, R. I., and later at Woonsocket. He was a rarity in his line at first, among us country folks of his native town, who had always before been mostly accustomed to home-made garments of female construction. But the new styles and more polished workmanship soon took the lead and became indispensable. Our Ballou cousin was a kind hearted, ingenious, industrious, accommodating, honest, worthy man in all his relations. And he achieved fair success in his business, though never acquiring great wealth—simply a comfortable competence. He was liberal in his religious sentiments, and humane toward suffering fellow creatures. He was for half a century much devoted to the Masonic Order, and deservedly respected for many virtues. We do not think he reached or sought much distinction in martial or political life, but contented himself with the even tenor of ordinary citizenship. As he descended into old age, he became a greiv^t sufferer from stone in the bladder, which at length wore him out. He died in the serene hope of a blessed immortality, at Woonsocket, Nov. 27, 1869, a. 77 yrs. 9 mos. and 28 ds. The writer ministered at his funeral, and his remains were buried with Masonic honors. His worthy widow d. at Woonsocket, May 1, 1884.

Charles Ballou^e was a skilful merchant tailor, well inducted by his elder brother Jonathan, and in the earlier stage of his career successful. He commenced business in So. Milford vicinage, but not long after marriage removed to Milford Centre, Mass., where he purchased a small farm, built him a snug brick shop, and seemed to have promise of continuous prosperity. He was a man of pleasant address, kind heart, and was highly favored with an excellent wife, and ought to have achieved a far better fortune than he did. Teetotalism would have saved him from dangerous habits and consequent disasters. But he failed in that direction, like many a promising candidate for distinctive prizes in life. Yet his redeeming qualities left many cherished remembrances, and the Heavens are gracious. He d. in Woonsocket, R. I., May 6, 1838, a. 41 yrs. 5 mos. and 28 ds. The writer ministered funeral consolation to his bereaved ones. Mrs. Sena, his worthy widow, long survived him. She was a relative of the celebrated Dr. Daniel Thurber's first wife, and brought up in their family. She was amiable, well capacitated, and as well trained for domestic usefulness. Her nuptials were celebrated at her foster home, and she started off in connubial life with auspicious prospects. But, like many another such, she drank unexpected sorrows from the cup of her lot. Yet her duties were faithfully performed, her trials patiently born, and she departed in peace to a better country. She d. amid the filial ministries of her children in Providence, R. I., Feb. 28, 1874, a. 73 yrs. 9 mos. and 26 ds.

No biographical characteristics furnished us of this connubial pair. We had a very superficial personal knowledge of them. Our recollection of Keziah^c is that she was more vivacious, sprightly and impulsive, than considerate and stable, but of a kindly disposition; and of her husband, that he was good hearted and substantial, rather than profound in any direction. Their merits and demerits probably rated with the common average of their social class. Keziah^c d. in early middle life Sept., 1834, in her 36th yr. Her husband d. June 6, 1861, in his 65th yr.

We had a slight personal acquaintance with Fenner^c in boyhood and youth, being fellow native townfolk, but almost none in adult years. He had good natural abilities, kind affections, and some frailties. On the whole, we suspect he had a somewhat rough voyage over the sea of mortal experience, with his full share of its woes. His career closed distressfully. In the frenzy of temporary insanity he terminated his own earthly pilgrimage Oct. 26, 1847, a. 46 yrs. 9 mos. and 8 ds. We trust the All-Merciful Father will overrule his destiny for good. Whether his widow still survives we have been unable to ascertain. There is room for merciful consideration in all such sad cases.

3442—3. Janette, b. Jan. 19, '30; d. July, 1833.

Hiram Ballou^e, according to the best of our knowledge and impressions, was an amiable, sedate, circumspect man. He was intelligent and enterprising in the affairs of life, but his career was comparatively brief. We have tried to ascertain something of his biography, and that of his wife, without success. None to whom we have applied for information could give us her parentage, birthplace, birth-date, where and by whom married, or where her chn. were born. We have always understood that Hiram^e learned the tailor's trade of his elder brother Jonathan on Cumberland Hill, R. I. He finally established himself as a merchant tailor in what is now known as Union Village, No. Smithfield, R. I., a short distance from Woonsocket. We think his chn. must have been born there, but are not certain of it. One of these, Maj. Sullivanⁱ, was well educated, and was rapidly distinguishing himself professionally, when he went into the civil war, and fell at the Battle of Bull Run. He will receive proper commemoration when we reach his generation. We presume Hiram^e was succeeding well as a business man and otherwise, when consumption fastened on him. He d. June 30, 1833, a. 30 yrs. and '6 mos. Mrs. Emeline, his worthy widow, long survived him. She d., we have not learned where, June 27, 1876, a. not given.

[1133.] NANCY GEORGE BALLOU^e, Ziba^e, Noahⁱ, Nathaniel³, James², Maturinⁱ; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Oct. 25, 1804; m. 1st Nathan Verry, son of Nathan Verry, Esq., b. in then Mendon, now Blackstone, Mass., May 24, 1801; cer. June 23, 1823. Issue, b. in then Mendon, now Blackstone, Mass.

Mrs. Nancy^e was a comely, intelligent, amiable, and worthy woman. She m. a man of corresponding merits and promise, but enjoyed a brief companionship with him. He d. June 6, 1828, a. only 27 yrs. and 12 ds. So the youthful widow was left with her two infant sons in sorrow and responsible care. Yet, with the kind aid of sympathizing relatives and friends, she reared those sons to distinctive usefulness and honor, as will be seen in their generation. Mrs. Nancy^e m. 2d Pardon Sayles, Esq., son of Capt. David Sayles, b. in Cumberland, R. I., Nov., 1784, this being also his 2d mge.; cer. prob. in Providence, R. I., Mar. 29, 1835, by Rev. David Pickering. No issue. He was a man of much ability and worth, and of public official usefulness. But a second widowhood awaited Nancy^e. Pardon Sayles, Esq., d. in the old Smithfield Union Village, R. I., June 20, 1869, a. 84 yrs. and 7 mos. The writer assisted in the funeral services, and he was commemorated with deserved Masonic burial honors. Mrs. Nancy^e at length laid aside the burdens of mortality, and joined the resurrection hosts in the deathless country. She d. in Woonsocket, July 9, 1874, a. 69 yrs. 8 mos. and 15 ds. The writer also participated in her funeral services.

[1134.] HENRY GREEN BALLOU^e, Ziba^a, Noahⁱ, Nathaniel^s, James², Maturinⁱ; b. in Cumberland, R. I., July 25, 1806; m. Sarah Little Fales, dr. of Charles and Lydia M. (Bosworth) Fales, b. in Bristol, R. I., Dec. 9, 1822; cer. in said Bristol, June 8, 1846, by Rev. Thomas Shepherd, D. D. Issue.—

3449 5. Sullivan, b. in Bristol, R. I., Oct. 30, '61; in broker's office, N. Y.

Henry G. Ballou^e was long a popular merchant tailor in Woonsocket, R. I., an honorable business man, and respected citizen. He retired from business about twenty years before his death, but was no idler in the field of good works. He was a humane, fraternal and genial man—a minister of happiness at the domestic altar, a foster-father to orphan relatives, a friend to the needy, and a brother to his suffering fellow-creatures. Many blessings consecrated his grave. In religious faith and association he was a Universalist. He d. in Woonsocket Apl. 22, 1882, at peace with God, in charity to all mankind, and firmly assured of immortal blessedness, a. 75 yrs. 8 mos. and 27 ds. His respected widow still survives in Woonsocket.

[1135.] EMMA ANN BALLOU^e, Ziba^e, Noab¹, Nathaniel¹, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 17, 1808; m. John Ward Chandler, son of Maj. Clark and Nancy (Lyon) Chandler, b. in Coleraine, Mass., Jan. 18, 1793; cer. in said Cumberland, Feb. 8, 1829, by Rev. David Pickering. Issue, b. Providence, R. I.—

3450—1. Maria Antoinette Chandler, b. Mar. 1, 1831; m. Wm. P. Whitaker.

Emma A.^e and husband are presumed to have been worthy people; though we have not been favored with a word of testimonial, and had no personal acquaintance. He went into the Texan war of 1836-7, and prob. d. in Texas. He was never heard from afterward. Mrs. Emma Ann^e d. Oct. 26, 1837, a. 29 yrs. 5 mos. and 9 ds.

3453—3. Harriet Sayles Potter, b. Gorham, N. Y., Jan. 6, '42; m. Porter C. Gilbert, M. D.

Louisa Stratford Ballou^e became the companion of a very skillful physician and surgeon. A biographical sketch of him may be found in Appleton's American Cyclopædia, Vol. xiii, p. 528, which gives him an eminent rank in his profession, especially in surgical discoveries and operations. He was graduated M. D. at Bowdoin College in 1835, practiced in Rhode Island a few months, and then many years in his native town. In 1853 he removed to Geneva, N. Y., where he enjoyed a high reputation as surgeon and consulting physician. When the great civil war broke out, he became Surgeon of the 50th Regt. N. Y. Vol. Engineers, and was present at many of the battles on the Peninsula under Gen. McClellan. Ill health obliged him to resign, but as the war progressed, he again volunteered his services, and was at the terrible battle of Gettysburg, Pa., where he treated a large number of cases and accompanied many of the sick and wounded to the New York City Hospital. He d. at Geneva, N. Y., Dec. 3, 1869, of disease contracted during his war services, a. 58 yrs. 11 mos. and 13 ds. During this active life-career of her husband, Mrs. Louisa^r proved herself his sympathizing and worthy wife, bore him three talented chn., and survives him, an honored widow at Geneva, N. Y., justly pensioned by the U. S. Government in consideration of his surgical ministrations and exposures. She is the last survivor of Ziba Ballou's large family.

3460—7. Stephen B., b. — 1838; m. Jane A. Woodman Dec. 24, 1865.

We have not received a biographical sentence concerning Preston Ballou^e or his wife. We only know that he followed the occupation of his father, that of a stone cutter and builder, and was a hard-working man. We presume that he was skilful in business, a good citizen, and an honest man. In the absence of all hints to the contrary, we register him and his wife as worthy people. He d. May 6, 1838, a. 44 yrs. 2 mos. and 27 ds. Mrs. Harriet, his widow, still survives comfortably (Jan., 1886,) residing with her children in Attleboro', Mass.

3461—1. Mary Frances Cowen, b. Cumberland, R. I., Feb. 13, 1827; unreported.

- 3462—2. Sarah Maria Cowen, b. Milford, Mass., Mar. 19, '31; unreported.
 3463—3. Charlotte Anna Cowen, b. Millville, Mass., Jan. 27, '33; m. J. Narracong 1872.
 3464—4. Horatio Nelson Cowen, b. Millville, Mass., May 2, '35; m. C. A. Narracong 1865.

It will be seen by the birthplaces of the above named chn., that Abida^e and her husband have resided in several different localities,—in Cumberland, R. I., Milford, Mass., and Millville, Mass. They are spending their old age, if we correctly understand, in Worcester. Mrs. Abida, if still living, (and we are not told of her decease), must have reached her nineties, and her husband must be in his eighties. We knew something of them many years ago in Millville, but not much latterly. He was long an operative in woolen manufactories. Both always appeared to be useful, well disposed and worthy people. We never heard aught of them to the contrary, and must presume to record their character accordingly.

[1140.] MARY ANN BALLOU^e, Eliel^e, Noahⁱ, Nathanielⁱ, James², Maturinⁱ; b. in Cumberland, R. I., July 8, 1806; m. 1st Elisha W. Bucklin, parentage and birth-date not found; cer. in Killingly, Ct., May 23, 1830, by Elisha Atkins, J. P. Issue, b. in said Cumberland.—

3465—1. David Waterman Bucklin, b. Feb. 17, 1831; res. in Pawtucket, R. I.

E. W. Bucklin d. where or when we are not informed. Mary Ann^e m. 2d Amos W. Pitts, son of Esek Pitts, Esq., b. in Millville, then Mendon, Mass., now Blackstone, date not ascertained; cer. in said Millville, May 6, 1836, by Dan Hill, J. P. Issue, b. in said Millville.—

3466—2. Esek Ballou Pitts, b. Nov. 8, 1837; m. Lizzie M. Gleason June 15, 1873.

3468—4. Maria Louise Pitts, b. Aug. 3, '49; she graduated at the Woman's Med. College in Chicago, Ill., Apl. 22, 1884; was u. m. in 1886.

Mary Ann Ballou^e and Amos W. Pitts were persons of superior mental and moral qualities—very intelligent and advanced thinkers. She was quite a scholar, a teacher, if we correctly remember, and always a great reader. She was also an interesting conversationist, and would have been very much more so, but for a somewhat privatory deafness. He had a good education in the higher English branches of scholarship, was a school committeeman and Town Clerk of Mendon at one period, was a skilled accountant, and served in his youth as a sub-manager of the woolen manufacture. In religion they were both strong Restorationists of the practical Christian type, and became, with the writer of these pages, original members of the Community which located at Hopedale, Mass. Circumstances prevented their ever making Hopedale their home, but they lived and died firm adherents to its fundamental principles. They spent their last years in the village of Rockdale, Northbridge, Mass. There the writer ministered successively at both their funerals. He d. Nov. 16, 1858, in the 55th year of his age. Mrs. Mary Ann^e survived several years in widowhood, and d. Jan. 12, 1875, a. 68 yrs. 6 mos. and 4 ds.

[1141.] STEPHEN RANDOLPH BALLOU^e, Elielⁱ, &c., b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 17, 1808; left no record that has reached us except simply that he d. u. m. When and where he d. remains untold.

[1142.] FRANCES alias FANNY BALLOU^e Eliel^s, &c.; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 26, 1810; was drowned in the flower of maidenhood, July 9, 1827; particulars not given.

[1143.] JAMES WALTER BALLOU^e, Eliel^s, &c.; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Sept. 20, 1812; left no record that has reached us, except as in his brother Stephen's case, that he d. u. m.

[1144.] ELIEL MICHAEL LARKIN BALLOU^e, Eliel^s, &c.; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Aug. 12, 1814; is merely reported as having d. u. m. We need not hint our dislike of such reticence.

[1145.] SILAS BALLOU^e, Amariah^s, Noahⁱ, Nathaniel^s, James^e, Maturinⁱ; b. prob. in Pelham, Mass., about 1795; never married. He was by trade a carpenter, removed with his father and the rest of the family to Ebensburg, Cambria Co., Pa., during the year 1815, and resided in that general vicinity, here and there, down to the time of his death, late in the autumn of 1861. He had a narrow escape with his life from the fire that consumed the dwelling house of his father in 1843; in which both parents and two of their grand chn. perished. He himself seems to have been spared only to die finally by a scarcely less deplorable catastrophe. He fell into a saw pit, probably in the night time, about eight miles from Ebensburg, Pa. No definite particulars given. He must have been not far from 66 yrs. of age. We infer that he was a well disposed, worthy man.

[1146.] LEVI BALLOU^s, Amariah^s, Noah^s, Nathaniel^s, James^s, Maturin^s; b. prob. in Pelham, Mass., about 1797; never married. He, too, was a carpenter, went with his father's family in 1815 to Ebensburg, Pa., and remained in that region till 1832. Then, having a strong desire to visit his relatives in Rhode Island, he planned for himself a passage by water, via New Orleans. He embarked at Pittsburg, went down the Ohio into the Mississippi river, and was never heard of more. His friends have always believed he died of cholera somewhere on the Mississippi—it being then fearfully prevalent in that quarter. He was of reputable character, and must have d. at the age of about 35 yrs.

[1147.] ELIZABETH BALLOU^s, Amariah^s, Noah^s, Nathaniel^s, James^s, Maturin^s; b. perhaps in Pelham, perhaps in South Hadley, Mass., about 1799; m. John H. Jones, in the yr. 1828; nothing more definite reported. They were last heard from (in 1862) as residing near Pittsburg, Pa., with the following named chn.—

- | | | |
|---------|-------------------|------------------|
| 3469—1. | Rebecca Jones, b. | not ascertained. |
| 3470—2. | Ann Jones, b. | “ “ |
| 3471—3. | Elmira Jones, b. | “ “ |
| 3472—4. | Amariah Jones, b. | “ “ |
| 3473—5. | William Jones, b. | “ “ |
| 3474—6. | John Jones, b. | “ “ |

These chn. were prob. b. between 1829 and 1842, but just when or where we are unable to say; nor whether more were b. afterwards. Waited long in hopes of information, but none came. Closed.

[1148.] PARDON BALLOU^s, Amariah^s, Noah^s, Nathaniel^s, James^s, Maturin^s; b. perhaps in South Hadley, Mass., May 24, 1814; m. Elizabeth Wright, b. in Somerset Co., Pa., Jan. 2, 1816; cer. Apl. 16, 1835.

Not long after mge. Pardon^s removed to and settled in Muscadine, Muscadine Co., Ia. We wrote the P. M. of Muscadine, Ia., early in 1886, and ascertained that Pardon Ballou was still living there. We immediately wrote and sent our printed circular to said cousin Pardon^s for his family record. He answered not. This volume is therefore minus of the names, birth-dates, &c., of his chn. and grand chn.

ningham of Cambria Co., Pa., ptge. and birth-date not ascertained; date of mge. perhaps 1836 or '37. Issue.—

3475—1. Olivia, b. not given; burned to death 1843.

3476—2. Nelson, Jr., b. not given; burned to death 1843.

Nelson Ballou^c was an industrious, worthy man. He was engaged near the Portage Railroad in Cambria Co., Pa., in arranging a large collection of heavy logs for convenient transportation. They caught advantage of him, rolled down on him, and crushed him to death. This occurred in 1840. A year later his broken-hearted widow died, leaving their two chn. to be cared for by their grand parents; and two years later in 1843, as we have already told, those grand parents and these two orphan grand chn. perished together in their burnt home. What a sad series of calamitous deaths almost extinguished the family of this Amariah Ballou^c! He, his wife, three sons and two grand chn. came to unnatural ends!

[1150.] ALMIRA BALLOU^c, their youngest child, b. at Ebensburg, Pa., in 1818; d. there in 1829, in her 12th yr.

We come next to the descendants of Stephen Ballou^c, Nathaniel^s, James^s, Maturin^c. He had a dr. Hannah^c, who m. Ichabod Brown, and had two chn. Also a dr. Sylvia^c, who m. David Staples, and had three or more chn. All these we have given up as no further traceable. Thus we reach the chn. of his son Edward.^s [1156.] MEHETABEL BALLOU^c, Edward^c, Stephen^c, Nathaniel^c, James^s, Maturin^c; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Feb. 16, 1781; m. Jabez Rhodes of Smithfield, R. I., pedigree, &c., not given; cer. m said Cumberland Dec. 26, 1802, by John Rogers, J. P. All we have been able to learn of this couple is through a correspondent of Mr. Peck, which is merely that they settled in Fairfield, O., not long after mge., and removed thence, in 1811, to Terre Haute, Ind. We despair of obtaining further information. Prob. no chn.

[1157.] STEPHEN BALLOU^c, Edward^s, Stephen^c, Nathaniel^s, James^s, Maturin^c; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 11, 1783; m. Alice alias Elsie Braley, dr. of Roger Braley, Jr., b. in said Cumberland, Dec. 17, 1777; cer. Oct. 14, 1804, by Isaac Razee, J. P. Issue, b. in Pelham, Mass.—

3477—1. Welcome, b. Sept. 7, 1805; drowned June 22, 1817.

3478—2. Barney, b. Sept. 15, '07; d. Oct. 15, 1807.

- 3484—8. Hiram, b. Sept. 19, '23; m. Elizabeth W. Arnold Nov. 30, 1843.
- 3485—9. Alonzo, b. Nov. 24, '25; m. Mary Ann Myers Oct. 21, 1852.

We have a slight recollection of seeing Stephen Ballou⁶ in our boyhood once or twice. He had then settled in Pelham, Mass., whither he removed not long after mge., by ox team conveyance, and whence he occasionally returned to his native town to visit his relatives. If we remember aright he had then joined the Society of Friends, wore their dress and used their style of language. He was a carpenter by trade, and a fair workman. We had no knowledge of his wife, but have no doubt that both were worthy people. He d. in Pelham, Mass., Mar. 5, 1859, a. 75 yrs. 9 mos. and 25 ds. Mrs. Alice d. there 1861, a. not definitely determined. Since writing the above we have been certified that Stephen⁷ and wife were both members of Friends Society in Pelham.

Angelina⁶ and husband dwelt in their native town of Cumberland until all their children had been b.; but in 1831 removed to Pelham, Mass., where they spent the remainder of their days. They were never affluent in this world's goods, but honest, industrious strugglers for an humble living, and worthy of more respect than some who leave a large inheritance to contentious heirs. Mrs. Angelina d. in Pelham, Feb. 15, 1854, a. 68 yrs. 3 mos. and 19 ds. Her husband survived her many years. We find from a letter to Mr. Peck by his son Edward B., under date of March 30, 1874, that the venerable patriarch was then living with him in Amherst, Mass., having attained to his 91st yr. We have recently learned that he d. there Oct. 27, 1878, a. 94 yrs. 9 mos. and 2 ds.

We knew Leonard^a and wife in our boyhood, as residents for a time on our father's premises. They were well disposed, honest, hard working people. He was a joiner by trade. They left their native town before the birth of their second child, perhaps in 1815 or '16, and we do not remember to have seen them afterward. While yet in Cumberland, R. I., his eldest child was born, as above told. When little Susanna was about a month old, he went on a visit to Pelham, Mass., where his elder brother Stephen resided, probably to arrange for removal of his family thither. It cost him and his anxious wife rather a bitter cup of martial experience. For he got caught while there in the war-draft then in process, and was marched off to Boston in great haste, to resist an apprehended British invasion—not being allowed to see his wife and child till at length discharged. Fortunately he was spared the glorious privilege of killing any of his country's enemies, or getting killed, or wounded or leaving a widow and orphan. But he served long enough in the war of 1812 to receive a pension. Thenceforth their home was in Pelham, Mass. Most of their offspring died young, but otherwise we presume that they passed through their mortal pilgrimage, like the average of plain living common people, without any extraordinary calamities. Leonard^a d. in Pelham, Mass., Sept. 3, 1880, at the venerable age of 89 yrs. 5 mos. and 10 ds. Mrs. Phebe d. Apl. 19, 1854, age not ascertained.

- 3509—7. Elizabeth A. Sheldon, b. Sept. 1, '26; m. Nelson White.

These 7 chn. were all b. in Cumberland, R. I. They are widely scattered over our country, mostly in the Western States, and one as far out as Oregon. Parents and chn. belonged to the hard toiling, well disposed class, and had to make the best adventures they could over the surging sea of mortal life. We are favored with the family record of Mrs. Lucina W. Thompson, the eldest dr. but have little hope of tracing the others further. Mrs. Elizabeth (Ballou) Sheldon^a d. in Cumberland Nov. 7, 1838, a. 45 yrs. 11 mos. and 26 ds. The husband m. 2d Sabra Miller, who d. without issue March 15, 1867. We have no biographical testimonials to the worth of Huldah^o and her husband, but have no doubt they ranked well among the unpretentious common people of their vicinage. They lived and died in Cumberland, R. I., their native town. She d. Mar. 26, 1866, a. 70 yrs. 8 mos. and 4 ds. He d. Apl. 13, 1866, a. 74 yrs. 5 mos. Silas Ballou^o and wife were industrious, frugal, exemplary people. We have an impression that he was a carpenter by trade, but are not certain. He was not a man of show, but of solid, homespun usefulness, who led an honest and peaceable life. So did his wife, for aught we ever heard to the contrary. Most of their days were spent in Woonsocket, R. I., and its vicinity. We believe they d. in the kind care of their son Lewis H. and family. They both passed away in 1877; she Mar. 13, a. 79 yrs. 3 mos. and 23 ds.; and Silas^o Dec. 26, a. 79 yrs. 9 mos. and 17 ds.

 3520 3. Albert, b. Aug. 29, '37; m. Harriet A. Barrow June 1, 1863.

We knew Edward^a well in boyhood. He was a fellow pupil in the little red school-house of our native district. He was not a brilliant scholar—prob. not foreordained to a literary profession, but did his best. We could beat him in the school room—but not on the play ground. There his robust muscularity was too much for us. In all rough and tumble performances he was expert. He was a good hearted, honest fellow, and grew up to manhood in that character. We scarcely ever met him in mature life, but always heard him well spoken of. He married a worthy and respectable wife. They are said to have lived a united and exemplary life, which was spent in their native town. He d. Oct. 24, 1879, a. 78 yrs. 2 mos. and 11 ds. Mrs. Olive d. previously to her husband, but we have not the date.

We were considerably acquainted with Darius Ballou^e in our youth, though not intimately, and scarcely at all with his wife—always spoken of respectfully. He was a man of strong natural abilities, little favored with education, but well trained by vigorous self-discipline. At fourteen years of age he was struck under terrible religious convictions by a sermon from Elder Abner Ballou on the speedy coming of the end of the world and Judgment Day, as then recently indicated by the fearful Dark Day. We heard him say that he could scarcely eat, sleep or work for several weeks on account of his excitement. But Will Jencks, an aged Free Thinker of those times, adroitly freed him from his terror, so that for several years he gave up all religious belief and concern. But when Universalism began to be preached in his native vicinity, he at once embraced it with ardor, and was ever afterward one of its staunchest advocates. And there were few laymen in all the country who could more ably argue in its defence. He was clear-headed, a remarkably fluent talker, and never turned his back to an opponent. He would hardly come up to the modern standard of a practical Universalist, but was fully up to that of his denomination in the old controversial epoch. Otherwise, as a man in domestic, social and civil life, he was of fair average character and standing. We have found it impossible to master his family record and biography. He was a farmer, and we think dwelt in West Wrentham, Mass., till most of his children were born. Then, about the year 1800, he moved to Boonville, N. Y., and spent several years. Thence he returned East, and finally closed his earthly life in or near Pawtucket, R. I. He d. there Jan. 18, 1829, a. 66 yrs. and 3 mos. Mrs. Sylvia d. there Feb. 5, 1839, a. about 71 yrs.

[1193.] SARAH BALLOU^e, twin with her brother Darius^e, Jesse^e, Ezekiel^e, Obadiah^e, James^e, Maturin^e; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Oct. 17, 1762; m. Barney Clarke, son of Samuel and Rachel Clarke, b. in said Cumberland Dec. 9, 1761; cer. there Sept. 8, 1784, by Levi Ballou, J. P. Issue, b. in said Cumberland.—

3596—2. Rhoda Clarke, b. July 3, '86.

We hoped to have become decently posted on this family descent, and waited long for additional data from some quarter.

But we have waited in vain, and must leave it a broken column, where it is.

[1194.] ZERVIAH BALLOU⁷, Jesse⁸, Ezekiel¹, Obadiah¹, James², Maturin¹: b. in Wrentham, Mass., May 3, 1764; m. an African, and settled somewhere in the State of New York. No more told of Zerviah⁶. A poor showing.

[1195.] EZEKIEL BALLOU⁷, Jesse², Ezekiel¹, Obadiah¹, James², Maturin¹: b. in Wrentham, Mass., Feb. 14, 1766; m. 1st Sylvia Wilcox, dr. of Daniel Wilcox, in Cumberland, R. I. We have been unable to find reliable data by which to fix the birth-date of Sylvia Wilcox, or that of her mge. to Ezekiel¹. It would seem probable, however, that the mge. must have taken place as early as 1787 or thereabouts: for it is recorded on the town books of Bellingham, Mass., that "Ezekiel Ballou, his wife Sylvia, and child Lydia, moved into town Apl. 7, 1788." We shall therefore assume that the mge. took place in Cumberland, R. I., not far from 1787. Issue.—

- 3608—9. Catherine Custis, b. Oct. 24, '28; unreported.

We had some personal acquaintance with Ezekiel¹, his last wife, and her elder chn. We were always on good terms, so far as our mutual intimacies extended, and when he died we ministered at his funeral. They had their commendable domestic and social qualities, but not always a smooth and sunny pathway. Doubtless it would have been brighter and happier, could they have mastered adverse circumstances and by living more in the upper story of their natures, and less in the basement; which, in greater or less degree is true of us all. Let justice and charity sit on the judgment seat together in all such cases. He was a kind neighbor, a genial and obliging friend, and a skilled workman in preparing animals for proper food for the table, and his services were in great demand by the farmers in the neighborhood whenever they desired to prepare their meats for the season. He d. in Millville, Mass., June 7, 1837, a. 71 yrs. 3 mos. and 23 ds. His dust reposes with that of his ancestors in the ancient Ballou Cemetery, Cumberland, R. I. Mrs. Nelly, his widow, d. in Sutton, Mass., Nov. 12, 1859, a. 79 yrs. 2 mos. and 3 ds.

[1196.] PELATIAH BALLOU^c, Jesse^s, Ezekiel^d, Obadiah^a, James², Maturin¹; b. in Wrentham, Mass., Feb. 21, 1770; m. Hannah Sheldon, dr. of Roger and Huldah (Streeter) Sheldon, b. in Cumberland, R. I., Oct. 13, 1771; cer. in said Cumberland Mar. 16, 1794, by Jotham Carpenter, J. P. Issue.—

- 3614 —6. William, b. " " Aug. 11, '11; m. Harriet Crofoot.

Between Lydia and William were two infants who d. young. We learn from Walter Ballou, Esq., of Boonville, N. Y., through a letter of his to Mr. Peck, under date of June 15, 1874, that his grandfather, Pelatiah^a, removed with his young family from Rhode Island to that town in 1802, that he purchased land of the Holland Land Company and others, (his first deed bearing date Feb. 1, 1804) till he became the owner of five hundred valuable acres—a grand homestead; that just before the war of 1812, he and his wife made a visit to their eastern relatives, during which three of their chn. d. of scarlet fever, (probably the second and the two infants above referred to), so that on their return three little graves covered the remains of those loved ones, and they could only lament their sad bereavement; and finally that they occupied their homestead reputably till death. Unquestionably Pelatiah^a and his helpmeet were very enterprising, industrious, thrifty and successful people—deserving and receiving the general respect of their neighbors. He was a Universalist and she a Baptist. He

d. amid the quiet surroundings of his ample domain in Boonville, N. Y., on the national birthday, July 4, 1837, a. 67 yrs. 4 mos. and 13 ds. Mrs. Hannah, his widow, d. there Jan. 2, 1854, a. 82 yrs. 2 mos. and 20 ds.

[1197.] WILLIAM PITTS BALLOU⁶, Jesse³, Ezekiel⁴, Obadiah⁵, James², Maturin¹; b. in Wrentham, Mass., Aug. 31, 1778. His death was a sadly tragic one. He was engaged to be married to Miss Rebecca Wilbur, dr. of Daniel Wilbur, Smithfield, R. I., afterward the wife of William Ballou, Jr. The wedding day arrived, the bride was in readiness, and her father's family, with the guests, and even the Justice Peace to perform the nuptial ceremony. Just then, lo! a messenger came in hot haste to announce that the groom was on his death bed, and desired a parting word with his bride. He had recently fallen from a building, and was fatally injured. He insisted on riding to the wedding, and succeeded in mounting his horse for a start, but his strength utterly failed, and he was borne back into the house to his dying bed. His summoned bride hastened to the heart-crushing adieu, but he had become unconscious, and soon expired, May 21, 1807. Let imagination paint the scene, and the anguish that followed! He was a young man of much promise, had many admiring friends, and was deeply lamented by all.

He was a farm employee on our father's homestead, and on many others of that general vicinity. Whether he ever acquired one of his own, we are uncertain—perhaps a small one in So. Bellingham where he closed his earthly days. He was an honest, well disposed man,—but not an aspirant for distinction in learning, wealth, or citizenship. He delighted in hunting, gunning, fishing and kindred pursuits. No one had a nicer hound, gun or fishing tackle, and no one could beat him on a fox chase by day or night. In all this he was a better man than thousands who might look down from the heights of human display upon him with disdain. His wife was one of the most industrious and quiet of women, and made their humble home rich in domestic comforts. Such a sphere of action and enjoyment would be a dreary one to us at its best, but it was their preference; and the world abounds with grand ones which would be more undesirable to us than theirs. Alden^e d. in So. Bellingham, Mass., July 11, 1852, a. about 55 yrs., and we ministered at his funeral. We had considerable acquaintance, first and last, with Philana^e, her husband and children. It was always one of cordial, mutual friendship, in seasons of joy and of funeral sorrow. The whole family, parents and children, that lived to maturity, were characterized by superior intelligence, enterprise and integrity. The late Arthur Cook, Esq., of Milford, Mass., a few months before his decease, bore testimony to us in writing as follows.—"My father was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and after peace was declared became a farmer, which was his principal occupation through life. My mother was a woman of uncommon ability, excelling in energy, firmness and integrity, and possessed of remarkable reasoning powers. She was widely known and respected." We can endorse this filial eulogy from her then last surviving child, now gone to the upper home. As to the husband and father, we could hardly rate him as the intellectual and moral equal of his companion. Still, he was not lacking in practical ability, but was shrewd, witty, ingenious, and well disposed in the varied relationships of life. Their children all inherited a marked mentality—most of them excelling as teachers of the public schools, and filling stations of responsibility with eminent credit to themselves, as well as their family stock. Rhoda (Ballou) Cook^a and husband belonged to the circle of our youthful acquaintance and friendship, though a generation in advance of us. They were of the substantial yeomanry in rank—industrious, frugal, orderly, respectable people. Their homestead was in the southerly section of Bellingham, Mass., where they spent most, if not all, their connubial life, down to a good old age. They were plain, old fashioned folks, and reared up their large family to sobriety and usefulness. Some of their sons were enterprising emigrants to the West, and one of them, Levi, became Mayor of Detroit, Mich. Mrs. Rhoda^a d. Oct. 26, 1840, a. 71 yrs. 10 mos. and 11 ds. Thaddæus Cook survived his companion several years, but we have been unable to ascertain his death date.

3674—1. Olive, b. Oct. 2, 1795; m. Daniel Sayles, Jr., Apl. 1812.

Welcome^e is uniformly reported to have been a young man of fine promise. He was cut down in the bloom of connubial life, scarcely three years after marriage, leaving his youthful widow and infant dr. to mourn their desolating bereavement, and thread their way through mortal ills as divine Providence might order. He had settled in the edge of southwest Wrentham, on a little farm comprising the northeasterly section of his great grand father Ballou's inheritance. He had departed before our birth, but we were well acquainted with his worthy widow and daughter.

Welcome^e d. Sept. 13, 1798, a. 25 yrs. 6 mos. and 12 ds. His wid. became the wife of Ahimaz Darling, in the yr. 1800, and subsequently the mother of several chn. We ministered at Mr. Darling's funeral in 1837, and at her own in July 1849.

We believe the first three of these chn. were b. in Bellingham, Mass., and all the others in Mendon, Mass. Joanna Ballou^e, like all the offspring of Esq. Levi^e, was well gifted in body, mind and moral tendencies. So she made a good wife, mother and neighbor. She married a worthy man of the middle class yeomanry. He had a nervous, sanguine temperament, was enterprising, enthusiastic, and inclined to drive business. She was a good regulator, and steadied his movements somewhat. But he was ambitious, and often overtaxed his energies. This was the greatest fault we ever heard him charged with. Doubtless he had others which might be criticised. But his repute was that of an honest, square-dealing man, and a good citizen. We do not, however, learn that he sought or received much municipal or political distinction. He d. in Mendon, Mass., Apl. 10, 1812, a. 39 yrs. 10 mos. and 7 ds.—in the prime of middle age. After some years Mrs. Joanna^e m. 2d, Ichabod Scott of Bellingham. No issue. It has been with some perplexity that we have ascertained and adjusted this family of chn. on account of the imperfect record on which we have had to depend, and we are not certain of its absolute correctness, but think it nearly reliable. These parents and chn. were also our school district neighbors in early life. Flavius J. inherited his father's domicile, a commodious two-story dwelling house, and the westerly section of the paternal homestead. His brother Levi resided on the other side of the road immediately opposite. Whether Flavius and wife took up their abode with his parents at the outset of married life, in 1798, or later, we do not remember hearing stated. But they were there from the date of our earliest recollection, 1807 or 8. Flavius J. was an enterprising, energetic, executive farmer, who looked closely to his own interest, and let nothing run to waste or loss. He was an economical accumulator of the shrewdest type, but a legally upright and orderly citizen. He dwelt in a thrifty neighborhood where there were few poor and shiftless persons, and where it was fashionable to work hard, save everything, and take good care of one's property. There were many Ballous thereabouts of this sort, and some others. Flavius held his own among them well. Mrs. Phila was of a somewhat different genius—exceedingly frank, out-spoken, generous hearted and open handed. If she felt out of sorts, she expressed it unhesitatingly. If in good humor it shone forth unmistakably. She wanted everybody to do right, and made them understand her. But she was eminently kind hearted, sympathetic with the unfortunate, and ready to spend and be spent for the welfare, not only of her own household, but suffering humanity wherever it groaned. So she was a good counterpoise to her husband's partially opposite qualities, made many grateful friends, and at last went down to her grave wreathed with benedictions. Her long life of laborious usefulness and beneficence closed in hopeful resignation. He d. March 8, 1824, a. 47 yrs. 4 mos. and 26 ds. Mrs. Phila d. March 17, 1860, a. 81 yrs. 5 mos. and 23 ds. We ministered at both funerals, and their ashes repose with those of their ancestors in the ancient Ballou cemetery of their native vicinage.

No one has given us a particle of information concerning the married life, occupation, or character of this connubial pair. We have a vague impression that Pelham, Mass., or its near vicinity, became their home not long after marriage, that most of their chn. were born there, and that there they died. It is probable they were of the farmer class; and, as they were of a good hereditary stock on both sides, we have no doubt they averaged morally and socially with their near kindred. Mrs. Rachel d. This is an admirable presentation of the family record, which we could not have made without kind assistance from a son and grand son of Emilia^a. We are pretty sure that all these ten chn. were b. in Pelham, Mass., except Levi Ballou Hall, who reports Cumberland, R. I., as his birthplace. Probably his mother was temporarily there at the time—perhaps both parents were. What the occupation of Lemuel Hall was we are not informed. We suppose him to have been a well-to-do farmer. No characteristics have been vouchsafed to us, but we always heard Emilia^a and her husband spoken of in the highest terms, as reputably intelligent, enterprising, exemplary and worthy people in all the relations of life. And we believe their numerous offspring have given ample demonstration that they not only inherited good blood, but were commendably brought up. We have been told nothing about the religion of the parents, but infer that it was one of large faith, hope and charity. Mr. Hall d. in Pelham, Mass., Feb. 17, 1849, a. 80 yrs. 9 mos. and 22 ds. Levi Ballou^l and wife were intellectually bright, and morally worthy persons. They reared intelligent and upright offspring. We knew them and their chn. well; for they were school district neighbors in early life, and we were always mutual friends. Levi^a inherited the easterly portion of his father's ample real estate, and was an industrious, judicious, economical farmer. As a citizen he was much interested in public affairs. He was well gifted in speech and orderly methods of municipal proceeding, and honored accordingly by his fellow citizens. He was often moderator of town meetings, and for many years President of the Probate Town Council. In all movements for civil, educational and general improvements, he was prominent. In religion he was a staunch Universalist, and an acute arguer. As a man, husband, father, neighbor and friend, he was deservedly held in respectful esteem even by those who differed from some of his opinions. 3719—2. Frank Olney, b. Aug. 18, '28; res. u. m. in Providence, R. I.

Olney Ballou^a and wife were intelligent minded, large hearted, whole souled people. The writer will never forget their sympathy and generous friendship towards him at a trying period of his early married life, while yet residing in his native neighborhood, near them. They were friends in need and friends indeed. We parade no details, but remember gratefully. The following biographical sketch is substantially what we received from Mr. Frank O. Ballou, only surviving child of these parents, at least in respect to essential facts.

Olney^a was left an orphan lad by the death of his father in 1805, when he was in his seventeenth year. His educational privileges were comparatively small, but well improved. He was apprenticed to Lewis Fisher of Wrentham, Mass., to acquire the trade of a brick and stone mason. He became an expert, and followed his occupation for many years with success; economizing all his leisure hours in treasuring up useful knowledge, and qualifying himself for coming responsibilities. One monument of his performances, as a master craftsman, is the oldest brick manufacturing edifice in Manville, R. I., for which he and the late Zachariah Chaffee were joint contractors. At length he established himself on a respectable homestead in his native neighborhood, where he spent the latter portion of his life. He was a hereditary democrat in politics, and a Universalist in religion. He took a lively and abiding interest in civil affairs, and was a conspicuous party leader. In Town and State he was a prominent public man. He was a member, at various times, of the State Legislature in both Houses. In 1836 he was selected to carry the Electoral vote of Rhode Island to Washington, when Martin Van Buren became President. He was a devoted promoter of the Free Suffrage movement, and always an ardent friend of Gov. Thomas Dorr, both politically and socially. And he sympathized largely with that gentleman in his adversities. When the storm of that quasi revolution subsided, Olney^e was made the first State Senator from Cumberland under the present Constitution. And he remained thenceforth a member of the Senate until his death, with the exception of the year 1847, when he was the unsuccessful candidate of his party for Governor. He d. with his political and official harness still on, Jan. 14, 1849, a. 64 yrs. 3 mos. and 17 ds. Mrs. Florentina, his excellent wid. d. in Providence, R. I., Feb. 24, 1870, a. 78 yrs. 11 mos. and 9 ds.

Rev. Barton Ballou, A. M., was the youngest child of Levi and Comfort (Thompson) Ballou, the darling of his parents, and the admired flower of their large family. He was beautiful in person, graceful in mien, aspiring in intellect, delicate in sentiment, sympathetic in his affections, and modest in demeanor. He evinced from childhood a taste for study and love of learning. His father designed to give him a liberal education, but died suddenly before Barton was quite fourteen. His share of the paternal inheritance was insufficient to carry him through a collegiate course without some privations, strict economy, and much personal earning with hands and head. But he resolved to achieve the object of his ingrained ambition, and, in spite of all difficulties, succeeded. He became a student of Brown University in 1809, graduated in 1813, and was registered Master of Arts in 1816. Meantime, between his completed college course and receiving his degree, he was the successful preceptor of an Academy in Wickford, North Kingstown, R. I. It was there that he first met and became acquainted with the intelligent, amiable, and pure minded Sarah Rathbone. She was a birthright Quakeress, and he a birthright Universalist. Nevertheless, they were mutually attracted, captivated, and conubially engaged; albeit to the grief of her Quaker relatives, and to her final disownment from a Society to whose noblest principles she was inalienably attached.

Thus far the prospective skies of Barton⁶ were bright and auspicious. But not long afterward ominous clouds began to chase each other across his horizon, and ultimately thickened into stormy adversities. He was qualified to distinguish himself as a classical educator of youth, but like most others in his circumstances, looked forward to the more active professions. He thought of the bar, but aspired rather to the pulpit; though at that time the Universalist pulpit offered very few temporal attractions. It offered much more toil and popular reproach than ease, emolument and renown. But with him it must be this or none. Teaching, however, was his immediate resource, and proved to be his chiefly available one through life, yet meagre enough at best. From Wickford, R. I., he went in 1816 to a new academy at Dudley, started as the first seminary under Universalist auspices, with much promise and expectation. He had scarcely adjusted himself to his preceptorship when a calamitous fire laid the new academic edifice in ashes, and drove him to uncertain adventures. He went down to Baltimore, Md., where he was employed for some time as tutor in private families, with considerable encouragement. But he was suddenly seized with the yellow fever, and barely escaped with his life; and what was worse, the disease greatly impaired his physical system, never very robust, and left malign effects, from which he suffered more or less during the remainder of his days. He returned North in the spring of 1820, betook himself to the study of Universalist theology under the tuition of Rev. Hosea Ballou of Boston, and in due time entered the ministry. He was an ardent admirer of his theological tutor, and always a devoted adherent of his phase of Universalism. They were mutually attached to each other, and his kind tutor did all he could to introduce him to a desirable parish. Accordingly he became a candidate for settlement in Philadelphia and some other populous places. But he was unsuccessful; not for lack of literary qualifications, or of moral character, or of denominational consecration, but probably from impaired energy, unmagnetic oratory, and a hesitant diffidence in delivery. With half his knowledge, and a fourth of his intrinsic worth, some have achieved astonishing triumphs by sheer self-assurance, push and magnetic vim. Merit must have suitable appreciators, or it "wastes its fragrance on the barren air." The result was that Barton⁶ gleaned a scanty harvest in the Universalist ministry, preached but little, and had to rely chiefly on school teaching for pecuniary subsistence.

He was married to his first wife, as we have seen, Dec. 28, 1823. She was a lovely woman. They were both characterized by refined sensibilities, who needed a home to garnish and enjoy, unpinched for means. They soon began to multiply offspring of like qualities with themselves, and their necessities increased accordingly—but not their income. They had to practice rigid economy. He secured a position in West Wrentham, Mass., long somewhat famous as an educational locality under the preceptorship of Rev. William Williams, deceased. There he had a fair patronage of his seminary for a few years, and fitted a goodly number of students for college and other spheres of intellectual distinction. Such remember his ministrations of instruction with reverential gratitude. But unfortunately he was persuaded to leave this situation for one on Cumberland Hill, R. I., under flattering assurances of double employment as minister of the vicinage and tutor of its academy. The promises made him were only partially fulfilled, and he was sadly disappointed. Meantime his dutiful and sympathetic wife, worn down by the pressure of maternity and household responsibility, sickened and died, Nov. 25, 1830. Her disheartened companion and the bereaved brood of five little ones wept together over her pallid remains, but her pure and meek spirit ascended into a heavenly mansion. Her half-sister Deborah, already a ministering angel in the family, became all that the best of mothers could be to the children, and, after Dec. 30, 1833, all that the best of wives could be to a broken spirited husband.

Perhaps it is not best to detail subsequent family experiences. It would only be a narration of well meant, but often fruitless, endeavors to overcome difficulties, drive the wolf of want from the domestic door, regain lost health, make the most of small resources, struggle patiently through adversities, and obtain divine sanctification of all painful discipline for everlasting spiritual good. The closing years of Rev. Barton's life were draped with sombre mental depression; but he lost no loving affection for his wife and children, muttered no curses on friend or foe, and breathed no murmur against his heavenly Father. He died tranquilly at Woonsocket, R. I., July 26, 1844, a. 53 yrs. and 7 ds.

The foregoing record and biographical sketch were made up partly from our own personal knowledge, but chiefly from ample materials kindly furnished us by his worthy and reverential daughter, Rachel E. (Ballou) Fry of Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Deborah (Rathbone) Ballou, 2d wife of Rev. Barton^a, long survived her husband, to be an affectionate, devoted and inestimable mother to his children. Her memorial is interwoven with the tendrils of their hearts, and sacredly cherished by all who knew her unassuming worth. She d. in Providence, R. I., Jan. 31, 1871, a. 77 yrs. 3 mos. and 2 ds.

No characteristics or biographical reminiscences given. William⁶ was an enterprising master butcher and meat market purveyor in Providence, R. I. We have always understood him to have been a reputable and successful business man, a good citizen, and of average fair standing among his contemporaries in the various circles of association. And we have no reason to doubt that his wife exemplified a corresponding worth. William Ballou⁶ d. Nov. 14, 1856, a. 70 yrs. 11 mos. and 19 ds. Mrs. Sally (Smith) Ballou d. [1233.] LAVINA BALLOU⁶, Maj. Reuben⁵, &c.; b. in Providence, R. I., Dec. 26, 1787; m. James Jones of New York city. We have obtained but little information concerning this marriage and its results. The brief sum of this is, that Lavina⁶ had one daughter, and d.; that her husband also d.; that their dr. m. a Mr. Vandervoort; and that they may have descendants. The clue seemed so unpromising that we have excused ourselves from further tracing.

[1235.] LAVINA BALLOU⁶, Capt. Asa⁵, Ezekiel⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., May 4, 1770; m. William Bowen, son of Thomas and Sybil (Burlingame) Bowen, b. Sept. 13, 1762; date and particulars of cer. not found. Concerning their issue, we can tell but little. The names and birth-dates of 4 chn.

are credited to William and Lavina (Ballou) Bowen on the records of Cumberland aforesaid, as follows.—

William and Lavina Bowen sold all their real estate in Cumberland to Silas Capron, executing deeds of the same at three several times, viz., in 1796, 1800 and 1803. No more told; and the family has baffled our further research.

Silas Ballou^a and wife appear to have been an intelligent, enterprising pair, and to have sustained a fair standing in their contemporary class. It is said that he was an officer of militia at the outbreak of the war with Great Britain in 1812. But if so, we know not what service he rendered. He removed from Foster, R. I., soon after the birth of his second child, to Fenner, N. Y., where his 6 other chm. were b. We presume he must have owned and managed a farm, though our information is somewhat meager and indefinite concerning his life there. But his career was suddenly, mysteriously and deplorably cut short. About the 10th of Jan. 1813, he left home to go to Cazenovia, N. Y., on business, and never returned. The event was most distressing to his wife and young chn.—to whose number another was added three weeks later. Nothing was heard from him, except that he was seen near a certain house in the outskirts of Cazenovia by some one who knew him. There was naturally much excitement in the general vicinity of Fenner, where he had resided during the last ten years. Wild suspicions, surmises and rumors prevailed for a considerable period. At length the new inhabitants of the house near which he was last seen discovered the remains of a human being in a shallow grave of their cellar. On exhumation and examination of the skeleton, the remnants of a man's coat were found with metal buttons bearing certain initials. These were finally recognized as those once worn by Silas Ballou, and were considered by his wife and intimate acquaintances as conclusive evidence that he had been foully murdered. But for what reason, and by whom, is still a gloomy mystery. So we must take for granted that Silas^d died by the hand of a murderer about the middle of Jan. 1813, in the 37th year of his age. Mrs. Phebe (Pray) Ballou, his widow, d. in Mattison, Mich., age not given.

[1238.] PHEBE BALLOU^c, Capt. Asa^b, Ezekiel¹, Obadiah^a, James², Maturin¹; b. in Wrentham, Mass., May 28, 1781; m. Charles Horton. All we know of Phebe^e comes through her father's Will, recorded in Foster, R. I., in which she is designated as the wife of Charles Horton, and is endowed with a legacy of $50. Who Charles Horton was—where, when and by whom married—where she resided—whether she had any chn.—and her death-date or husband's—our researcher has not reported. Probably he found no clue whereby to trace her history. We certainly have none, and therefore close her brief record.

[1239.] ESTHER BALLOU^c, Capt. Asa^b, Ezekiel¹, Obadiah^a, James², Maturin¹; b. perhaps in North Providence, R. I., about 1783; m. Dudley Wade, son of Levi Wade; cer. prob. in Foster, R. I., May 4, 1806. Issue, supposed to have been b. in said Foster.—

Daniel Ballou⁶ and family are thus characterized by his son Job Ballou of Pascoag, R. I.: "My father was a man of commanding presence, and possessed much dignity of manner. He was greatly respected in the community where he lived for his uprightness and stern sense of honor and right. During the war of 1812 he held the commission of Lieutenant in the militia, and for many days during those stirring times was in constant readiness to respond to a call to the front. There have been but few offices held in our family. But its members have, as a rule, taken a commendable interest in public affairs. While they have been conservative in politics and religion, they have invariably identified themselves with the party of progress and reform. They have generally pursued the occupation of farmers, although several of them evinced a taste for the mechanic arts. My father himself was a carpenter as well as farmer, &c." He makes no specific mention of the two wives and mothers; but we may safely presume they must have been women of superior worth—being wives of such a husband, and mothers of such children. Daniel⁷ was born, lived and died on the original homestead of his grand father, which is now possessed by his son Job Ballou. He d. there July 6, 1839, a. 58 yrs. 8 mos. and 24 ds. If we have not misunderstood our informatory documents, Amasa Ballou^t dwelt till over fifty years of age in Norwich, N. Y.; that he was first—an industrious, upright, and respected farmer; that he was entrusted with various responsible town offices, and rose as a militia officer to the rank of Major; that later on he became a woolen manufacturer, and lost his handsome property by failure; that he rallied from his misfortune, gathered a few hundred dollars, and emigrated to Fulton, Jackson Co., Iowa; and that there he has greatly prospered in securing for himself and family all needed temporal comforts. In religion he is a Universalist, and in politics calls himself a "Radical." Exactly what a Radical is out in Iowa we do not know, but presume nothing worse than being a little ahead of popular partizanship. Of his two wives we get no characteristics in the documents furnished us; probably not because they did not exemplify worthy ones, but because our informants have not yet outgrown the old fashioned reticence about the merits of ordinary women. No intentional slight meant in such omissions.

Rev. Daniel Ballou^c is pastor of the Universalist Society in Utica, and sustains high rank among the clergy of his growing denomination. He spent his early youth chiefly in agricultural labors, but qualified himself for entrance, at the age of twenty years, into the theological department of the St. Lawrence University at Canton, N. Y., whence he graduated Apl. 16, 1861. He delivered the graduating Essay on that occasion, and received from the hand of the late President, Rev. Dr. Ebenezer Fisher, the first Diploma ever conferred by a Universalist Theological School in America. He was ordained and settled as pastor over the Universalist Church in Utica during the year 1862, and has continued in his ministry there with eminent success down to the present time. He stated in a letter written not long since, that for seventeen years he had failed but once to discharge his pulpit duties every sabbath. He is still at his post, with a congenial helpmeet at his side, and a promising family maturing around him—rich in usefulness, and reverently appreciated by his people.

Mrs. Pearley (Ballou) Bates^a and husband, not long after marriage, settled in the easterly part of Mendon, closely adjacent to Bellingham, Mass., where they established themselves on an ample homestead, and reared their enterprising family. They were temperate, industrious, economical farmers of the old type, and accumulated a handsome property. They were among the most substantial members of community, and deservedly enjoyed the respect of their contemporaries. Whether they were members of any church we do not know, but have an impression that one or both belonged to the Baptist church in Bellingham. We are sure, however, that they were always attached to that church, and regularly worshipped there. He d. on his homestead Jan. 22, 1847, a. 74 yrs. Mrs. Pearley^a d. The home of the above chn. of Maj. William Ballou was the country tavern built by the Major soon after the Revolutionary War, near the "Ballou Meeting House." Cumberland furnished her full proportion of officers and soldiers for the Revolutionary army, who, when the war was over, were joined by others who had seen similar service, till there was quite a community of old veterans in this part of the town, and this tavern was their favorite rendezvous, where during the long winter evenings they held their reunions and received a soldier's welcome. Before the advent of railroads, these country inns filled an important place in every town. There were several in the town at this time, all well patronized and doing a prosperous business, viz.: The Otis Mason tavern on Diamond Hill plain, Capt. Absalom Ballou house on the road to Providence, where the village of Ashton now stands, and many others, but perhaps there was none so widely known to the travelling community or so profitable to the proprietor as Cook's Hotel on Cumberland Hill. It was no uncommon sight to find forty 4 horse teams hauled up for the night at this popular hotel. In the winter season it was the central point for the sleighing parties, within a circuit of twenty miles, and few men, of three score and ten, in the same locality, but could give glowing descriptions of the dancing parties and turkey suppers furnished under the direction of Capt. Amos Cook and his sons, one of whom is the landlord at the present time of the last of the old country taverns.

James Ballou Fiske^c, spent three years with Dr. Eliakim Morse of Boston, in learning the business of a druggist and apothecary. In 1806 he set up that business in Bangor, Me., which he soon enlarged into a general mercantile enterprise. In this he continued through life with success. He was long a member of the Congregational church, an upright citizen, and an honorable merchant—universally respected in community. He d. Sept. 11, 1854, a. 69 yrs. 8 mos. and 28 ds. But a little later he settled in Northborough, and was a substantial farmer there until death. Mrs. Betsey^a is characterized in the sketch that comes to us thus.—“A very worthy lady of strong mind, but of slender constitution. She was most faithful and devoted in all domestic concerns. She was industrious and energetic, and it may in truth be said of her, that she ‘looked well to the ways of her household, and ate not the bread of idleness.’ Harding Genealogy says.—‘A lady whose good sense, energy, and fidelity contributed much to the prosperity, position and happiness of her husband.’” She d. in Quincy Feb. 10, 1866, a. 75 yrs. 3 mos. and 17 ds.

Josiah Brigham began manhood life as a teacher of the public schools. In 1814 he engaged in trade in Quincy, Mass., where he continued half a century, an upright and successful merchant, a good citizen, an affable, courteous, Christian gentleman, enjoying through life the confidence of the community in which he lived. The biographical sketch, whose substance we are presenting, credits him with the following public distinctions and offices, viz.: Member of the Quincy Light Infantry, which rendered service in the war of 1812, in which he rose by regular gradation to the Captaincy in 1823, and thence ascended to the Lieut. Colonelcy of its Regiment in 1826; in town offices, Clerk, Assessor, Treasurer and Chairman of School Committee; in financial institutions, Clerk and Treasurer of Quincy Canal Co. from its organization in 1825, President of the Quincy Stone Bank, and Trustee and President of the Board in Quincy Savings Bank. He was meantime Justice of the Peace for several years, by appointment of Gov. Edward Everett. Horace^e commenced his business career in Quincy as a merchant, and was eminently prosperous in it. In 1836 there seemed to come an irresistible appeal to his filial piety from his aged father in Northboro', already bending over the grave, for his min-istrations. He responded dutifully, closed his business in Quincy, and took up his abode in the paternal homestead, cared for his father till death, and remained a thrifty farmer there for the rest of his own earthly life. His mother had passed to the higher life in 1819. But her four sons never ceased to hold her counsels sacred, and to revere her memory. A lady long connected with the family left on record this testimony. "I never saw four sons who had such reverence for a mother as they had. Every valuable trait of character was traced back to her influence, and it was through her influence that neither of them ever used tobacco in any form, or intoxicating liquors." Let all the Ballous and their kindred, especially the rising generation, lay this noble lesson near the very core of their hearts. Horace Sumner Fiske^c d. in Northborough, Mass., Aug. 14, 1867, a. 68 yrs. 1 mo. and 20 ds. Nothing further reported of his 2d wife.

We knew Alexander Ballou^e more or less from youth to declining life. He was an intelligent, enterprising, upright, exemplary and reliable man. His eldest son, Frederick¹, has furnished us with the following outline of his father's earthly career.—At fifteen years of age he was clerk of the popular Fisher store in Wrentham, Mass.; bookkeeper of the Social Manufacturing Co., near Woonsocket, R. I., from 1810 to 1814; in 1814 entered into copartnership with Nathan Arnold, Esq., and bought a saw and clothier's mill in Marlborough, N. H., which they sold out the next year; 1816 and 1817 was a merchant in said Marlborough; in 1818 removed to Cumberland Hill, R. I., and in Co. with Ariel Cook, Esq., kept the old John Rogers store, which stood on the site now occupied by the dwelling house of the late Fenner Brown; became Cashier of the Cumberland Bank at its organization in 1823, and continued such till made President of the same in 1839, which last position he held till 1843; Justice of the Peace in said Cumberland from 1828 to 1838; Postmaster from 1829 to 1843, and meantime constantly engaged in settling estates; resided in South Milford, Mass., from 1843 to 1848; removed to Blackstone Mass., in 1848, becoming Cashier of the Norfolk Co. Bank at its organization in 1850, and one of its Directors from 1851 to 1864,—and from that time resided with his children in Providence until his death. He was a pioneer in the Temperance and Anti Slavery Reforms, and a devoted promoter of them at a time when it required no small amount of moral courage to face the popular opposition. He lived to rejoice in great changes of public opinion on these subjects, and to see the institution of chattel slavery hurled into an abyss of irrecoverable destruction. In politics he was a Whig and Republican, but refused all political office. He was always a good citizen, conscientious in the discharge of his numerous trusts, and faithful in the performance of all his duties. He became a member of the Baptist church in 1840, honored his religious profession while he lived, and finally departed to the immortal continent in the serenity of Christian hope. He d. in Providence Jan. 28, 1869, a. 76 yrs. 5 mos. and 1 day.

Mrs. Fanny (Sweetzer) Ballou, his widow, survived him a few years. An affectionate and appreciative grand child commemorated her worth by the following obituary.—“Hers was the end of a long life of unselfish devotion—the last throb of a heart whose every generous impulse responded to the cry of the suffering—the last faint accents of a voice whose words of cheer and comfort were always ready for the weary and desponding. Her life was adorned by whatever of grace and loveliness belong to kind deeds and helpful counsels. Her Christian character distilled its influence like a sweet fragrance upon all about her. Her kind and tender affections were accompanied by a rare practical talent which guided her benevolence; while her bright and cheerful disposition rendered thrice blessed the loving labor of her hands. Prodigal of her time and strength, she spent her life in the service of others, and found her reward in the calm approval of conscience, and the loving remembrance of grateful friends. Better than any eulogy is the record of her good deeds, and the regard with which she is held is a fitting testimonial to her worth. Her love to the Saviour was the inspiration of her life, and on his merits alone she based her hope of heaven."—Woonsocket Patriot. She d. Dec. 26, 1875, a. 81 yrs. 10 mos. and 20 ds.

An intelligent, enterprising, highly respectable family. We were acquainted in early life with the parents, especially with Mrs. Lucy^a, who was born and lived much of her life in our native school district. She was esteemed in youth and in mature life an admirable woman. She is at this writing, Mar. 1886, still living in venerable widowhood in Providence. Her husband long owned the Maj. William Ballou homestead (originally that of Obadiah³) near the ancient Ballou Meeting house, and was a substantial farmer, though at times more or less engaged in trade. He lived to a good old age, and finally d., if we mistake not, in Providence, R. I., Oct. 10, 1878, a. 91 yrs. 9 mos. and 9 ds.

[1302.] STEPHEN BROWN BALLOU^a, Abner, Esq.^s, Rev. Abner¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 22, 1795; never m. He was of our native school district, and in early life we had considerable personal acquaintance with him. He sat on the highest seat in our little red school-house when we were in our abs, and a few years later was our school-master. He was intelligent, sober, circumspect in deportment, somewhat reticent, and gifted at minding his own business. Later on he was the neighborhood grocer in the little old shop near his father's, and still nearer Knight Whipple's, about one-fourth of a mile east of the far-famed Meeting house. Next he was a partner with Job Jenckes and sons in the manufacture of cotton goods at Jenckesville, less than a mile northeast of Woonsocket Falls, R. I. In 1832 he removed to Lockport, N. Y., and became an influential merchant there—one of the fathers of that flourishing city. He was a leader in the dry goods trade for twenty-five years. His industrious habits, high standard of mercantile integrity, and dignified geniality, not only ensured him great respect and confidence, but ample pecuniary competence. He erected several capacious blocks on Main street, which perpetuate his memory. He was a prominent, zealous and devoted member of the Universalist church in Lockport from its organization, spared neither time nor pains to promote its interests, and left large bequests at death for its support. He d. in Lockport, N. Y., July 9, 1861, a. 65 yrs. 7 mos. and 18 ds.

Luke Jenckes, Jr., 2d husband of Mrs. Betsey^c, d. on the paternal homestead in W. Wrentham, Mass., Mar. 15, 1843, a. about 40 yrs. Both husbands were respectable farmers and worthy men. Mrs. Betsey^c was a modest, unpretentious, substantially useful woman. She was kindly affectionate, circumspect and exemplary in all the relationships of life, and reflected honor on the ancestral stock from which she sprang. But she drank deep from the sorrows of widowhood, and had her full share of human sadness. She d. in Woonsocket, R. I., Sept. 25, 1870, a. 70 yrs. 11 mos. and 3 ds.

Dea. Abner⁶ was one of our boyhood school-fellows, generally in the same class, and often in the same seat,—a fair scholar and kind hearted lad, but brimful of fun, whereby he got us punished once for laughing out at his whispered waggery, and himself several times for his harmless drolleries. For in those days school-masters felt their dignity, and preserved order by a liberal resort to ferules and rods—sometimes when they might have used wiser expedients. There was nothing worse in Abner⁶ than exuberant mirth. But he soon outgrew that and took on all the gravity of deaconship. He learned the craft of a machinist, which he practiced for several years in Newton, Mass., or thereabouts; married a staid, exemplary wife there in 1828, joined a Baptist church in that locality, saved a nice little competency, and in 1840 returned to his native neighborhood, having, by some pecuniary arrangement, become master of the patrimonial homestead whereon he was born. Meantime he transferred his relationship to the Baptist church on Cumberland Hill, worshipped there, and was chosen a deacon. He joined the Masonic Fraternity in 1825, before he did the church, and was equally devoted to both. In 1857 he sold the ancient Ballou farm, which was closely adjacent to the Ballou sanctuary, where his grandfather ministered through so long a pastorate. The purchaser was Mr. Jason B. Adams. Soon afterward he removed to Woonsocket, R. I., transferred his relationship to the Baptist church there, and became one of its deacons. There he finished his earthly course, and entered into the joys of his Saviour. We all endorse the closing testimony of his published obituary.—“He was an honest man, and a true Christian. He strove to act well his part in all the relations of life. By his straightforwardness, his genial, kindly, unselfish ways, he won the esteem of all who knew him; and now that he is dead, one and another say of him, ‘a good man has gone to his rest and reward.’” He d. July 7, 1883, a. 81 yrs. 4 mos. and 20 ds. His worthy consort still survives.

Sumner^e was also one of our early school-fellows. He was bright, shrewd and self-possessed. He loved a little mischievous fun in teasing the small shavers, and occasionally indulged in it during school hours—such as a harmless prick of a pin, pinch of an ear, or pull of an unkempt lock; but the dexterity of his fingers in such pranks was excelled only by the saintliness of his face, which never betrayed the slightest indication of emotion. So that, though the victims of his roguery often complained to the teacher, that dignity could see nothing but perfect innocence in the face and decorous manner of the accused. How far this shrewd self-possession served him on the stage of social and business life, we know not, but have been told that it never forsook him, and gave him frequent mastery over presuming competitors. He was generally successful in his undertakings and adventures. On leaving the farm, he was for several years partner with his cousin, Varnum J. Bates, of Providence, R. I., in the wholesale grocery merchandise. Thence he removed to Lockport, N. Y., where he prosperously pursued the same line of trade till 1850. He then retired from active business, and devoted himself chiefly to the improvement of his real estate. He d. in Lockport Dec. 3, 1872, a. 68 yrs. 8 mos. and 10 ds. He was characterized in one of the Lockport papers very honorably in the following obituary tribute.—“He was generous in disposition, and had a large circle of warm friends. No one in distress ever left him empty handed. In business he was the soul of integrity and honor, and his word in this community always passed as current as his bond.” We understand his widowed companion to be still surviving in the city of Lockport.

3939 1. Ann Maria, b. Jan. 30, 1841; m. Frank J. Sawyer June 19, 1862.

Maria Ann⁶ and husband were highly intelligent and of excellent reputation. He had formerly been a merchant on Cumberland Hill, R. I., but a short time before this marriage had settled in Lockport, where he pursued his mercantile occupation till called, in 1851, to officiate as Cashier of the Exchange Bank in that city. In that position, as well as in all others, he won the highest respect, and continued to discharge its duties till his sudden death; which took place Aug. 19, 1859, a. 53 yrs. 9 mos. and 17 ds. Mrs. Maria Ann⁶, we have just learned, d. in Lockport, N. Y., Oct. 10, 1884, a. 74 yrs. 9 mos. and 22 ds.

[1308.] HENRIETTA BALLOU⁶, Abner, Esq.², Rev. Abner¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., July 12, 1812; never m. She is a highly respectable maiden lady, residing in Lockport, N. Y.

The descendants of Beulah Ballou³, Rev. Abner⁴, &c., would have come in here had they not previously fallen into the lineage of Jesse Brown, her husband. See that lineage Nos. [250] and [1064] to [1067] inclusive.

[1309.] ABIGAIL ROGERS⁶, John Rogers, Esq., and Sally (Ballou) Rogers², Rev. Abner Ballou¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Apl. 25, 1795; m. Samuel Chaffin, ptge. not given, b. in Holden, Mass., May 5, 1792; cer. in said Holden Apl. 14, 1818, by Rev. Mr. Bardwell. Issue.—

3940 1. George Rogers Chaffin, b. Holden, Mass., May 3, 1823; m. 1st S. T. Sherwood, 2d E. A. Sherwood.

3941—2. Hannah Chaffin, b. Holden, Mass., Mar. 18, '25.

3945—6. Charles Newton Chaffin, b. Unadilla, N. Y., Sept. 9, '37; d. u. m. Oct. 26, 1856.

We presume many good things might truthfully be said of this connubial pair and their family, but not a syllable has been vouchsafed to us about their character, or even the husband's occupation. Our guess is that Abigail Rogers⁶ and her husband were at least enterprising folks, as they lived in enterprising communities —Holden, Mass., Worcester, Mass., and Unadilla, N. Y. They died, though we are not told where, perhaps, in Unadilla, N. Y.; he d. July 17, 1845, a. 53 yrs. 2 mos. and 12 ds.; she, Mrs. Abigail, May 15, 1879, a. 84 yrs. and 20 ds.

3950 -5. James Rogers, b. Feb. 17, '35; m. Mary Simmons; he d. Aug. 1865.

3951—6. Martha A. Rogers, b. June 7, '37; unreported.

3952—7. Edward W. Rogers, b. Nov. 5, '39; m. Jennie Lucy Gott Jan. 25, 1866.

3953—8. Maria Rogers, b. June 6, '43; m. Charles Calvert Brown Sept. 23, 1863.

Nathan Ballou Rogers⁶ inherited largely his father's daring courage, enterprise, and business drift. He was among the early settlers of Lockport, and a considerable land owner there, but more distinctively a trader. He was conspicuous as a shoe and leather dealer, also as a partner with Geo. W. Rogers and William O. Brown in the general dry goods and grocery store. We presume he was a prominent citizen, and perhaps held offices of public trust; but as we have been favored with no specific information on those points, or other biographical reminiscences, either of him or his wife, we must close with a record of their respective deaths. She d. Mar. 26, 1848, a. 40 yrs. 5 mos. and 17 ds. He d. Oct. 29, 1878, a. 81 yrs. 8 mos. and 26 ds.

[1311.] JOHN ADAMS ROGERS⁶, of this family d. in early childhood.

[1312.] GEORGE WASHINGTON ROGERS⁶, John Rogers, Esq., and Sally Ballou⁵, Rev. Abner⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Mar. 27, 1801; m. 1st Amey Comstock. She had a dr. Amey that d. an infant, and d. herself in 1822. Her husband m. 2d Marcia A. Flaron; cer. Oct. 26, 1829. Issue.—

3954 -1. Sarah Elizabeth Rogers, b. Dec. 17, 1833; m. Dr. Josiah H. Helmer.

We have been favored with no regular return or detailed report of Geo. W. Rogers's family record, and are obliged to make the best of a few desultory gleanings. These leave no doubt that he was an intelligent, enterprising, and influential pioneer merchant of Lockport, N. Y. There probably he m. both his wives, had his two chn. b. to him, buried these four, and finally d. himself May 9, 1877, a. 76 yrs. 1 mo. and 13 ds. It does not seem commendable to present so crippled a record of such a man; but the fault is not ours.

3955—1. George W. Hall, b. Unadilla, N. Y., Oct. 26, 1831; m. Marcia White.

Another meagre, unsatisfactory family record, giving no account of James Hall from birth till death, except his mge. at an unmentioned place, on an ungiven month and day in 1830. What manner of man he was, or what became of him, are untold and prob. unknown to the present generation. Nothing said of Mrs. Eliza^c, but her blood was too sterling to have animated an unworthy woman. She d. Oct. 26, 1871, a. 68 yrs. and 7 mos.

3956—1. Unnamed son, b. Nov. 15, 1824; d. same day.

3958—3. William Wallace Davis, b. Feb. 20, '28; m. Gertrude K. Sherwood 1849.

3959—4. Henry Rogers Davis, b. Feb. 2, '36; d. n. m. July 13, 1858.

We are told of this connubial pair only that T. J. Davis, was a farmer. Of course Mrs. Eunice was a farmer's wife, and a dairy woman. There is no more respectable occupation than that of the farmer well conducted. And we dare to say, without being told, that this couple conducted theirs well. Mrs. Eunice^a d., we may say too young, Apl. 3, 1836, a. 33 yrs. and 7 ds. Whether her husband ever m. again is unreported. He d. Dec. 1, 1881, a. 79 yrs. 7 mos. and 21 ds.

[1315.] JAMES ROGERS^a, John, Esq., and Sally Ballou^a, Rev. Abner^a, Obadiah^a, James^a, Maturin^a; b. in Holden, Mass., Feb. 6, 1805; m. Mary Simmons. He d. Aug. 1865—no chn. Not another word reported. What can we, in our ignorance, add?

[1316.] MARIA BALLOU ROGERS^a, John, Esq., and Sally Ballou^a, Rev. Abner^a, Obadiah^a, James^a, Maturin^a; b. in Holden, Mass., Jan. 30, 1810; m. Rev. Benjamin Ferris, a Methodist clergyman, b. in Unadilla, N. Y., May 28, 1810; cer. in that town Oct. 29, 1837. Issue, b. in Oneonta, Otsego Co., N. Y.—

3960—1. An unnamed infant, b. Sept. 23, 1838; d. same day.

3961—2. William Rogers Ferris, b. June 19, '40; m. Sarah Jane Steele 1869.

3962—3. George Rogers Ferris, b. Dec. 7, '42; d. the ensuing spring.

No characteristics given, but doubtless good. Mrs. Maria^a d., place not mentioned, Mar. 10, 1843, a. 33 yrs. 1 mo. and 11 ds. Rev. Benjamin Ferris d. in Beach Pond, Wayne Co., Pa., Dec. 17, 1846, a. 36 yrs. 6 mos. and 20 ds.

[1317.] JOHN WILKINSON ROGERS^a, John, Esq., and Sally Ballou^a, Rev. Abner^a, Obadiah^a, James^a, Maturin^a; b. in Holden, Mass., Apl. 9, 1813; m. Eliza Faxon, dr of Samuel and Patty (Spooner) Faxon, b. in Delphi, Onondaga Co., N. Y., Nov. 11, 1814; cer. in Lockport, N. Y., Oct. 16, 1833, by Rev. William Waterbury. Issue, b. in said Lockport.—

3963—1. Helen Rogers, b. Aug. 9, 1834; still living u. m.

3964—2. Samuel F. Rogers, b. Mar. 3, '36; d. Apl. 6, 1851.

3965—3. Maria B. Rogers, b. Nov. 3, '40; d. Apl. 7, 1843.

The parents still survive, hold prominent rank in respectable society, and could have furnished us, no doubt, admirable biographical reminiscences. But they were too modest to certify their own worth. We will therefore take it for granted without testimony.

[1318.] WILLIAM THAYER ROGERS^a, John, Esq., and Sally Ballou^a, Rev. Abner^a, Obadiah^a, James^a, Maturin^a; b. in Holden, Mass., Mar. 11, 1817; m. Julia Jackson Warner, dr. of Warren and Theodosia (Parsons) Warner, b. in Sudbury, Vt., June 10, 1828; cer. in Lockport, N. Y., Aug. 21, 1848, by Rev. Charles H. Platt. No issue. But they have one adopted daughter living and had one adopted son deceased. Viz.—

- 3966—1. Annie Rogers, b. Oct. 26, 1851; m. Aaron Ford Michael 1872.
 3967—2. Frederick Alfred Rogers, b. Aug. 20, '60; d. Sept. 22, 1882.

This connubial pair also still survive in Lockport, do honor to their genealogical stock, their kindred, and the city in which they have long held a very reputable social position.

Passing over several intervening Nos. no further traceable, we arrive at the descendants of Obadiah Ballou^t through his son Dennis^s.

[1324.] OLNEY BALLOU^e, Dennis^t, Obadiah^t, Obadiah^e, James^s, Maturin^t; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Oct. 22, 1806; m. Adelia Ballou, his cousin, dr. of William and Philadelphia (Ross) Ballou, b. in Burrillville, R. I., May 29, 1809; cer. Jan. 28, 1828, by Henry Mansfield, J. P. Issue, b., the eldest in said Smithfield, the youngest in Gloucester, R. I.—

- 3968—1. Edward Jackson, b. Apl. 18, 1829; m. Caroline A. Taylor Nov. 1, 1850.
 3969—2. William Ross, b. Feb. 6, '31; m. Emily R. Bassett Apl. 25, 1859.

Only a scanty assortment of biographical characteristics and experiences have been furnished us concerning Olney Ballou^e. His marriage to his cousin, Adelia Ballou, seems to have been celebrated with considerable rural eclat. Among the presents made them on that occasion by his father, were "a cheese-tub, wash-tub, dish-tub, salt-tub, pounding barrel, two milk pails, and a churn,"—all wrought in good style from white cedar trees cut in the paternal swamp. These articles are still in use by the patriarch's great-grandchildren of Olney's lineage. But Olney^e had a brief married life. Having become convalescent from a severe lung fever, and growing ravenous for food, he seized a few moments of his wife's necessary absence in attending to domestic duties, stole into the pantry, there gorged his stomach with a heavy lunch of boiled victuals, and was a corpse before morning. He d. in Gloucester, R. I., Sept. 29, 1832, a. 25 yrs. 11 mos. and 7 ds. Of Mrs. Adelia, who was afterward twice married, we shall have two other occasions to speak.

[1325.] WILLIAM BALLOU^o, Dennis^o, Obadiah¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Aug. 13, 1808; d. u. m. Jan. 14, 1829. No characteristics given.

[1326.] RUFUS BALLOU^o, Dennis^o, Obadiah¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Nov. 17, 1809; m. 1st Julia Ann Bates, dr. of Merritt and Lydia Bates of said Smithfield, b. about 1810; date of cer. not given. The only issue d. in early infancy unnamed. Mrs. Julia d. May 19, 1840, in her 31st yr. Rufus^o m. 2d Hannah Darling, dr. of Pelatiah and Phila (Taft) Darling, b. in Mendon, now Blackstone, Mass., as I learn from her, May 7, 1811; cer. in Milford, Mass., Dec. 22, 1842, by the writer. Issue, b. in Smithfield, now North Smithfield, R. I.—

3971—2. Rufus Willis, b. Mar. 31, '55; m. Ida Frances Bates Sept. 25, 1879.

Rufus^o was an industrious farmer, good neighbor, and quiet citizen. We had but a slight acquaintance with him, but always supposed him an average worthy man in all the relations of life. Yet for some reason he sunk, like many very estimable persons, into a despondent, abnormal state of mind, in which they terminate their own lives. He did so, about midnight, June 2, near 3, 1867, a. about 58 yrs. 1 mo. and 17 ds. We ministered at his funeral, and consigned his spirit to His disposal whose "MERCIES ARE GREAT," even as we would have our own consigned. His respected widow and two chn. were surviving at our last advices. She and her widowed dr. were then residing in Providence, R. I.

[1327.] WARREN BALLOU^o, Dennis^o, Obadiah¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Apl. 15, 1810; m. 1st Mrs. Adelia Ballou, his brother Olney's widow; cer. Mar. 31, 1836, by Harris J. Mowry, J. P. Issue, b. in said Smithfield.—

3972—1. Alexander, b. Aug. 23, 1836; m. Abbie E. Adams Jan. 13, 1864.

For some reason unknown to us, this marriage was legally dissolved and both parties m. again. Warren^o m. 2d Hannah Wilson, no date or particulars given. Besides two unnamed infants, they had in Burrillville, R. I.—

3973—1. Charles, b. date not given; d. young, or at least u. m.

3974—2. Alzaida, b. " " " m. and resides near Oneco, Ct.

3975—3. Angeline, b. " " " d. Dec. 28, 1849.

[1328.] ALZADIE BALLOU^c, Dennis^s, Obadiah¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Aug. 27, 1814; m. Olney A. Mowry, son of Darius Mowry, b. July 20, 1811; cer. Apl. 18, 1833, by Henry S. Mansfield, J. P. Issue, b. in said Smithfield.—

3978—3. Samuel O. Mowry, b. Oct. 15, '36; m. Jane Cook May 28, 1862.

3979—4. George F. Mowry, b. Mar. 30, '38; m. Julia Sprague July 12, 1863.

3980—5. Mary Elizabeth Mowry, b. Mar. 2, '40; m. Joseph Mowry Nov. 1, 1860.

3981—6. Tyler Briggs Mowry, b. May 28, '41; m. Mary E. Phillips Sept. 9, 1862.

3982—7. Mercy Ann Mowry, b. Dec. 27, '42; d. June 15, 1854.

3983—8. Lydia Maria Mowry, b. June 12, '44.

3984—9. Alzadie Ballou Mowry, b. Dec. 31, '45; d. Dec. 22, 1847.

We are not told, but presume Alzadie Ballou^c and husband to have been of the plain, farmer class. No characteristics furnished us. Mrs. Alzadie d. Dec. 28, 1846, a. 32 yrs. 4 mos. and 1 day. Nothing further reported concerning her husband, Olney A. Mowry.

[1329.] SALLY ANN BALLOU^c, Dennis^s, Obadiah¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Apl. 27, 1816; m. Barton Mowry. Who this Barton Mowry was, when he m. Sally Ann Ballou^c, whether they had any issue, or what became of them, remains hidden from our scrutiny. The Mowry Genealogy mentions a Barton Mowry, son of Uriah, who m. Ruth Walker, lived in Burrillville, R. I., in early life, emigrated to California, and d. wealthy in San Francisco, about 1871. He had 4 chn., whose names are given, but not a date in the whole connection. Possibly Sally Ann Ballou became the 2d wife of this Barton Mowry. But we are left in utter ignorance on the subject.

The next two of Dennis Ballou's chn. d. without issue.

No further definitely informed concerning Dennis Ballou, Jr.^c

[1333.] WILLARD BALLOU^c, next in order of this family, d. u. m. 1842.

[1334.] MARCELIA BALLOU^c, Dennis^b, Obadiah¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Oct. 18, 1825; m. Stephen Smith, parentage not given, b. sometime during the year 1800; cer. Oct. 10, 1841. Issue, understood to have been b. in Smithfield.—

 3993—2. Ozruanna Smith, b. Oct. —, '44; m. John A. Harris July 4, 1867.
 3994—3. Stephen H. Smith, b. Mar. 5, '48; d. Oct. 21, 1865.
 3995—4. Horace G. Smith, b. Jan. 28, '54.

No characteristics given or light reflected concerning these parents. Stephen Smith, very much older than his wife, d. Mar. 15, 1877, a. not far from 77 yrs. Mrs. Marcellia^c no further reported.

[1335.] CYRIL BALLOU^c, commonly written and pronounced Ser-ril, Dennis^c, Obadiah¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Mar. 12, 1827; m. Maranda Smith, ptge. and birth-date not given; cer. Dec. 1, 1852. Issue, understood to have been b. in said Smithfield.—

 4000—5. Mason H., b. Mar. 5, '60.
 4001—6. Edwin E., b. Aug. 24, '62; d. Mar. 24, 1866.

We suppose that Cyril, alias Ser-ril, Ballou^c was a respectable farmer of Smithfield or the adjacent vicinity, but nothing concerning his occupation or character has been communicated to us, as should have been done. Nor anything respecting his wife. But one of the Rhode Island papers announced his death recently in these words.—“In Oakland, Burrillville, Mar. 21 [1886], Sirel Ballou, in his 60th yr." His exact age was 69 yrs. and 9 ds. Probably his wife and several chn. survive him. But we have received no further particulars.

[1336] AND [1337], chn. of Dennis Ballou, d. young.

- 4011—10. Augustus L. Mowry, b. June 2, '64.

Nothing has been reported concerning the occupation, character or life-career of this couple, except the husband's death—which took place Sept. 14, 1864, a. not given. So we suppose Mrs. Adaline Frances^e still survives.

[1339.] OREN BALLOT^e, youngest child of Dennis Ballou^e, d. young.

[1340.] ADELIA BALLOT^e, William^s, Obadiahⁱ, Obadiah^e, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, now North Smithfield, R. I., May 29, 1809; m. 1st Olney Ballou^e and had 2 sons. See No. [1324.] She m. 2d Warren Ballou^e, brother of her first husband, had one son, and was separated. Mrs. William Ross Ballou of Woonsocket, R. I., daughter-in-law of Mrs. Adelia, communicated in substance the following remarkable testimony to the renown of this connubial pair: "Smith Ray Mowry has held several offices of trust and responsibility in his native vicinage—such as Overseer of the Poor, Town Councilman, and Representative in the General Assembly. He is an influential and respected man, who has a kind word for every one he meets. His present wife, Adelia (Ballou) Mowry, only nine months younger than himself, proves herself a very charitable woman, whose heart is ever open to the poor and the afflicted. At the same time she is a very great worker, accomplishing whatever she undertakes. A short time ago she wove 180 yards of flannel for her family. By continuous daily labor she has earned money enough to build three comfortable dwelling-houses—one for each of children. Also to construct stone walls, and set out over 150 fruit trees,—besides maturing a slippery elm, in her son Wm. R. Ballou's door-yard over 50 feet in height. A wonderful woman for these times? Though in her seventy-sixth year, she travels two miles a day, and works executively in the Laundry. We can't begin to pen the kind deeds she has done during the past fifty years." We had neither to invent nor solicit this commendatory sketch.

But no particulars whatever concerning his life-career have been obtainable. We suppose he lived, was married, had chn. b. to him, and d. in Thurman, N. Y., or its general vicinity; and this is all we can say.

[1347.] DANIEL BALLOU⁶, Hiram⁵, Obadiah⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Thurman, N. Y., at a date not ascertained; went to sea long ago, has never been heard from, and is supposed to have been lost.

[1353.] OSCAR BALLOU^a, next child of Hiram^a, by his 2d wife, took to the sea over 20 years ago, and has never been heard from since.

[1354.] DARIUS BALLOU^a, Hiram^a, Obadiah⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. perhaps in Thurman, N. Y., perhaps in Oswego, at a dateless period. Considerable mystery surrounds the history of this Darius Ballou^a. All his relations in Oswego, N. Y., could tell of him was that he married a wife somewhere, and had one son; but he had gone off from the paternal hive more than 20 years ago, into parts unknown. Our researcher, Fred. M. Ballou, Esq., accidentally came to the knowledge of one Asa Ballou, early in 1885, and had some slight correspondence with him. He was then living in Canastota, N. Y. He said his father's name was Darius Ballou, that he had been told his grandfather emigrated from R. I. to N. Y. State, but what his name was he had no certain knowledge. He guessed it might be Hosea, or perhaps Asa. He stated that he was 54 yrs. of age, that his father d. 45 years ago, and his mother recently at an advanced age. Not another item of information concerning his parents or himself did he communicate. We have but little doubt that this Asa Ballou is the son of Darius⁶, and grandson of Hiram⁶.

Dennis⁶ d. about 1840, but where is not told. His wife d. recently at a place and date not given. Whether Asa¹ has a wife and family, he has not informed us, and probably will not. We may therefore as well say—no further traced. This branch of our cousinhood appears to have little genealogical taste for nicety of particulars and dates.

[1355.] SARAH BALLOU⁶, Hiram⁶, Obadiah¹, &c. She is said to have m. in Oswego, N. Y., or that general vicinity, and has prob. several chn., but no report or trace of them has reached us.

[1356.] MARIA BALLOU⁶, Hiram⁶, &c., m. a Mr. French, and resides in Syracuse, N. Y. Nothing further ascertained.

[1357.] HIRAM BALLOU, JR.⁶, Hiram⁶, Obadiah¹, &c., is said to be married and resident in Oswego, N. Y. Nothing further communicated.

[1358.] MARION BALLOU⁶, youngest child of Hiram⁶, is reported unmarried, and at last advices was living with her aged father in Oswego, N. Y. Here we must close this very imperfect and unsatisfactory genealogical tissue of data relating to the descendants of Hiram Ballou⁵. Unless some unexpected information shall come to us from the family relatives, we can trace the descent no further.

[1359.] MARY JEFFERS⁶, Lapham Jeffers and Martha Ballou⁵, Obadiah¹, Obadiah², James², Maturin¹; b. in a locality not specified, Mar. 21, 1821; m. Arthur Irons, his ptge. and birth-date not given; cer. July 4, 1839. Issue, b. in several different localities.—

I., Nos. 3 and 4 in Northbridge, Mass., No. 6 in Uxbridge, Mass., Nos. 7 and 8 Stafford Springs, Ct., and Nos. 9 and 10 at Baltic, Ct. Mr. Irons has won our respect and gratitude by prompt responses to our genealogical inquiries. We infer that he, his wife and chn., are intelligent, industrious, orderly, reputable people, usually employed in manufacturing localities.

[1360.] EZEKIEL JEFFERS⁶, Lapham Jeffers and Martha Ballou⁷, Obadiah¹, Obadiah², James³, Maturin⁴; b. Mar. 21, 1822; m. Elizabeth Stearns, dr. of Micah and Esther (Shove) Stearns, b. in Slater-ville, R. I., Dec. 8, 1826; cer. in Woonsocket, R.  4043— 4. Fernando Jeffers, b. no date; d. in early infancy.

Ezekiel Jeffers was a trustworthy, hard working teamster. He resided in Bernon Village, Woonsocket, where he d. some years ago at a date not given us. Mrs. Elizabeth, his widow, d. in Milford, Mass., May 1, 1862. Their three sons, as seen above, d. in early infancy. Their only daughter, Abbie Ann, who m. Geo. H. Darling of Blackstone, Mass., July 4, 1860, d. Dec. 7, 1865—leaving 2 chn., b. in Milford, Mass., viz.: George H. and Mary J. Darling. These chn. were last reported as residing in Holden, Mass. They are the only remnants of Ezekiel Jeffers' family. No further traced.

[1361.] JOHN JEFFERS⁸, Lapham Jeffers and Martha Ballou⁹,

Obadiah⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. Oct. 3, 1824; m. Caroline Brown Feb. 1841. Their P. O. address was given as Mapleville, R. I. Much pains was taken to obtain his family record, but he persistently declined to answer our inquiries, and so we are obliged to think he prefers but little notice on these pages.

The grand chn. of Zerviah Ballou⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹, who m. Simeon Thayer, have been referred for their descent to the Thayer Genealogy, and passed upon as no further traced in this work. So we come next to the descendants of Joseph Ballou⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹.

[1410.] OBADIAH KINGSLEY^a, Jedediah Kingsley and Lydia Ballou⁵, Joseph⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. twin with an unnamed infant sister that d. immediately after birth in Utica, N. Y., Oct. 15, 1793; m. Lovinia Tucker, dr. of Josiah Pascal and Lucy Tucker, b. prob. in Herkimer Co., N. Y., July 22, 1798; cer. Feb. 22, 1821, concomitant particulars not ascertained. Issue, b. in Frankfort, N. Y.—

4044—1. Jedediah Lampson Kingsley, b. Mar. 22, 1822; m. Angeline H. Myers.

4050—7. Mary Catherine Kingsley, b. Jan. 20, '33; d. u. m. June 3, 1868.

Obadiah Kingsley^a was about a year old when his parents removed from Utica to Frankfort, N. Y. He spent his infancy, youth and manhood on the farm his father rented of Gen. Schuyler. After his father's death, he bought that farm and managed it judiciously till his own death. There he d. of pneumonia, Apl. 1, 1860, a. 66 yrs. 5 mos. and 16 ds. Mrs. Lovinia d. of rheumatism at Rome, N. Y., Mar. 12, 1875, a. 76 yrs. 7 mos. and 21 ds. They are believed to have left a fair life record.

[1412.] PHILIP KINGSLEY^a, the next in age went down to an early grave. When about one year of age he fell into the open fireplace, and burned himself so severely that the wound never healed. The sore ultimately developed into an incurable cancer, and he d. at the age of 11 yrs.

[1413.] SCHUYLER KINGSLEY⁶, Jedediah Kingsley and Lydia Ballou^s, Joseph⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Frankfort, N. Y., no birth-date; m. Margaret Dedrick. We have recd. only a skeleton of this family record, wholly dateless and otherwise incomplete. Issue.—

[1414.] BETSEY KINGSLEY⁶, Jedediah Kingsley and Lydia Ballou^s, Joseph⁴, Obadiah⁴, James², Maturin¹; b. in Frankfort, N. Y., no date given; m. T. H. Nurse. Only a skeleton received. Issue.—

[1415.] ELIZA BALLOU⁶, Obadiah⁵, Joseph⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b., as we suppose, in Utica, N. Y., or the near vicinity. Said to have m. Jacob Leonard of Auburn, N. Y., a manufacturer of confectionery. Information sought, but none obtained.

[1416.] MARIA BALLOU⁶, Obadiah⁵, Joseph⁴, Obadiah³, &c.; birth-place, birth-date, &c., untold; m. Edward Rathbon, Surgeon Dentist in Auburn, N. Y. All else left in impenetrable darkness.

[1417.] HANNAH BALLOU⁶, Obadiah⁵, Joseph⁴, Obadiah³, &c.; m. A. Q. Stebbins, merchant, and moved to Brooklyn, N. Y. Proved untraceable.

[1418.] JOSEPH BARTLETT BALLOU⁶, Obadiah⁵, Joseph⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; diligently sought for, but not found. Some flitting rumors snatched at, but nothing satisfactory ascertained. It is said he never m., resided in different localities—at one time in New York City as a bookkeeper, &c. We give him up.

[1419.] WILLIAM POTTER BALLOU⁶, Jerahmeel⁵, Joseph⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Utica, N. Y., Nov. 27, 1802; m. a lady whose name we have been unable to learn, nor any particulars of the marriage. She is said to have borne one son and died. The son, too, died young. No mge.-date, no name, or birth-date, or death-date of son or mother. But William Potter^c is reported to have d. in Utica, Oct. 26, 1854, and his family to be extinct. This is rather too vague and laconic a family record to suit our taste. We craved a word about occupation, character, &c., but received nothing.

[1420.] PETER PERRY BALLOU^c, Jerahmeel^b, Joseph^a, Obadiah^s, James^z, Maturinⁱ; b. in Utica, N. Y., May 24, 1805; m. Elizabeth Gay, dr. of Samuel and Lucinda (Gillett) Gay, b. in Goshen, Ct., at a date not given; cer. sometime during the year 1826. Issue, b. prob. in Utica, N. Y. Peter Perry Ballou^c d. Feb. 14, 1851, a. 46 yrs. Mrs. Elizabeth his wife, d. Nov. 25, 1876. Our curiosity is not over indulged by some of our cousins. They seem to be highly gifted with reticent modesty, and we must respect them accordingly. It is one of our misfortunes to have been gifted with too strong a taste for particulars and dates, i. e., as the phrenologists would say, with large organs of Individuality and Eventuality. So we must bear a cross occasionally.

[1421.] THEODORE PERRY BALLOU^c, Jerahmeel^b, Joseph^a, Obadiah^s, James^z, Maturinⁱ; b. in Utica, N. Y., Mar. 18, 1807; m. Charlotte Cogshall Wells, dr. of Palmer Wells, b. in Westerly, R. I.; cer. in said Utica, Sept. 20, 1838. Issue, b. in said Utica.—

4065—5. Charlotte Louisa, b. Apl. 19, '58; u. m.; res. Utica June 1, 1885.

Theodore P. Ballou^c is a man of eminent intelligence, enterprise, and wealth. He has always resided in his native city, and, with his wife and family, held a distinguished rank in society. He is now in his 80th year, but still vigorous and energetic in business pursuits, in spite of a serious casualty some months since, which for the time drew heavily on his constitutional vitality. He was successfully engaged, in connection with Ebenezer B. Shearman, from 1831 to 1845, as a merchant and manufacturer of cotton goods and window glass. Since then, for many years, he has been largely devoting himself, as copartner with Gardner

Hinckley, to the manufacture of lumber at Garey Mills in West Canada Creek in Oneida and Herkimer Co., N. Y. He is an extensive owner of real estate in Utica, and of timber and farming lands in the northerly section of Herkimer Co. He says: "Put him down as a Clay Whig and an uncompromising Republican; educated a Presbyterian, for many years attendant and Trustee of a Reformed (Dutch) Church in Utica, N. Y." He has taken a lively interest in our Ballou Genealogy, wrote many valuable letters to our predecessor, Mr. Peck, is still a good correspondent of ours, and promises a liberal contribution to the Publishers' funds. Only two of his children survive, with their mother at this writing, May 1, 1886. May a cheering sunshine gild the declining years of himself and his worthy companion. Later. The death-angel has called for him. He d. somewhat suddenly at his home in Utica Feb. 28, 1887, a. 79 yrs. 11 mos. and 10 ds. ¹

[1422.] JANE SHEARMAN^a, Ebenezer B. Shearman and Sarah Ballou³, Joseph¹, Obadiah⁴, James², Maturin¹; b. in Utica, N. Y., 1808; m. Joseph A. Shearman, formerly of R. I.; cer. 1832. No issue. Jane Shearman^a and husband are of very respectable social standing in Utica, and both were living at our last advices in prosperous circumstances. He is an enterprising merchant and manufacturer. The modest reticence of our cousins in that quarter has furnished us no materials for panegyric. But we presume we may all take for granted that these connubial Shearmans reflect honor on their kindred.

[1423.] ANGELINA SHEARMAN, the only other child of Sarah Ballou⁵, d. u. m. in 1832.

[1424.] CYRUS BALLOU^a, Thomas², Benjamin¹, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b., place not given, Sept. 16, 1794; m. Elizabeth Frey, dr. of Jacob and Hannah (Wheeler) Frey, b. in Palatine, N. Y.; cer. at a date not given; resided in Schenectady, N. Y., and vicinity. Issue.—

It seemed for sometime that this connubial pair and their family would probably prove untraceable by us, but at length we had the unexpected good fortune to be put on their track. They are at this writing (Oct. 1886) both living in Syracuse, N. Y., at the venerable, but green and vigorous, age of over fourscore; Mrs. Freelove in her 83d and her husband in his 82d year. She is the last survivor of her father's children. She never wore eye-glasses, can see clearly to read and sew, retains her memory unimpaired, and most of her other faculties. No particulars given of him in these respects. They have resided in several places since marriage, but principally in Kirkland and Rome, N. Y. He has been a miller by occupation. Both are good Baptist church members, and have filled up long lives with substantial usefulness. May their sun set in a clear sky, and their morning of immortality be correspondingly bright. Their posterity will appear in due order.

Mrs. Betsey Kenyon (Ballou) Wheeler and husband communicated to us their prolific family record in good order, under date of Apl. 27, 1885. Their home is in Antrim, Stafford Co., Kansas. They removed from New York State over 40 yrs. ago, but do not inform us where they resided before locating in Antrim, Kas. We are therefore unable to give the birthplaces of their chn. We judge them to be decidedly enterprising, worthy and respectable people, parents and chn. Mrs. Betsey^s was 70 years of age when she wrote, and her companion 75. No further particulars communicated.

We regret being unable to give her family record. Her youngest sister, Mrs. Wealthy A. Fairchild, kindly furnished us her address, as 144 Burnett Street, Syracuse, and we wrote her, Mar. 25, 1885, sending her one of our printed circulars, but never received any response. When her father wrote Mr. Peck, May 11, 1858, he said she was the mother of 4 chn. We can tell no more.

as 14 Irving St., Syracuse, N. Y. We wrote him and sent him a circular Mar. 25, 1885, but got no reply. Such are some of the encouragements that gladden the hearts of genealogists. Case closed.

Here we have an entry that pleases us; names, events and dates in order. It seems that Helen (Ballou) Curtis' and husband began married life in Syracuse, N. Y., afterward res. in Hamilton, N. Y., later a short time in Clinton, Ia., and for several years later have been citizens of Chicago. They do not condescend to narrate their experiences, or even to give his occupation, but from the fact that their data comes to us inscribed on letter slips graced with an imposing picture of Hotel Cortland, 16 to 22 Adams St., Chicago, we infer that Mr. Curtis is interested in the premises either as co-proprietor or an influential employee. But we will not meddle with untold affairs.

[1443.] HARRIET BALLOU^o, Joseph^s, Benjaminⁱ, Obadiah^s, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Utica, N. Y., Oct. 27, 1830; m. John Clark Pierce, son of Clark and Vashti (Drake) Pierce, b. in Lafayette, N. Y., Jan. 28, 1827; cer. in Syracuse, N. Y., May 2, 1851, by Rev. Mr. Atwater. Issue.—

Another orderly family return, lacking only a hint of occupation and character. These parents res. in Auburn, N. Y., and are doubtless in some useful business, and in good social standing.

[1444.] WILLIAM BALLOU^o, Joseph^s, &c.; b. June 9, 1832; m. Mary Littlefield, and had 2 chn. So said his father in 1858. We have sought them by letter and circular in Syracuse, N. Y., where they or some of their descendants reside, but sought in vain. Case closed.

[1445.] SYDNEY BALLOU^o, Joseph^s, &c.; b. Apl. 21, 1834; m. Catherine Rivenburg, and had 1 child in 1858, probably several since; reported to us as now res. in Columbus, O. Addressed letter and circular to him there March 25, 1885. No response.

[1446.] WEALTHY ANN BALLOU^o, Joseph^s, Benjaminⁱ, Obadiah^s, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Syracuse, N. Y., July 24, 1836; m. 1st Edwin Bacon, son of Reuben and Anna (Vorce) Bacon, b. in Canada Jan. 2, 1833; cer. in said Syracuse Jan. 11, 1857, by Rev. John Fracher. Issue, all b. in said Syracuse.—

4126—4. Cora Estella Bacon, b. Dec. 27, '65.

Mr. Edwin Bacon, the father of these 4 chn., was a railroad engineer for several years, and came to his end by one of those many sad casualties which befall employees of his calling. He struck the stone abutments of a bridge, was thrown from his engine up onto the bridge, fatally bruised about the head and face—surviving only four or five hours in an insensible state. The catastrophe occurred in Scranton, Pa., June 27, 1867, at the age of 37 yrs. 5 mos. and 25 ds. His remains were buried in Syracuse amid the lamentations of the bereaved family and sympathizing friends.

Mrs. Wealthy Ann m. 2d Capt. Charles Henry Fairchild, an elderly sea-going man; cer. in Syracuse July 7, 1870, by Rev. Charles P. Lyford. No issue. Capt. Fairchild had experienced a series of bereavements and adversities before this marriage, and was doomed to more. A few months after the loss of his first wife, in Philadelphia, Pa., his only dr., a girl of 12 yrs. was burned to death by kerosene oil, his house consumed by the enkindling flames, and many valuables destroyed. And, to cap the climax, he himself was burned to death by an explosion of benzine at an establishment in Auburn, N. Y., where he was employed as a book keeper, Nov. 27, 1881. So Mrs. Wealthy⁶ survives her afflictions in second widowhood, residing in Auburn and solaced by the filial affection of her four worthy children. Our thanks are due to her for the helpfulness she has shown us in trying to put us on the track of her numerous brothers and sisters. We are only sorry that so few of them have responded to our inquiries.

[1447.] *SILAS BALLOU*⁶, youngest son and child of Joseph⁶, was living unmarried in 1858, when his father wrote to Mr. Peck. But to us he is in impenetrable obscurity, and reposes among our unsearchable cousins.

The first named five of these chn. were b. in New York City, the three last named in Brooklyn, N. Y. Prosper Ballou^s was for many years "the celebrated Herb Doctor of East Broadway, (Ward 7) New York City, until 1857," when he retired on his savings from business, removed to the City of Brooklyn, and has since lived in comfortable retirement. We infer from letters received recently, that he and his family are worthy and devoted Methodists. He, his wife, and five of their chn. still survive at this writing, June, 1886.

It is with regret, bordering on mortification, that we have succeeded so imperfectly in tracing the descent of our New York cousins beyond the 7th generation. Only one family of them has reported to us into the 8th. Money, time and pains enough might have overcome the difficulty, but these we could not well afford. So the descendants of Benjamin Ballou¹ in that general locality are left to the research of our successors.

[1457, 1458 and 1459], chn. of Levi Ballou^s, Benjamin¹, &c., seem to be beyond our reach, and must be left among our unsearchables.

[1460 to 1473] inclusive, descendants of Phebe Ballou¹ and Stephen Whipple, Sen., are passed over in the category of the "no further traced."

[1474.] HENRIETTA BALLOU^c, Jesse^s, Eleazer¹, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturin¹; b. perhaps in Gloucester, R. I., about 1778. What became of her all our inquiries have failed to ascertain. So we leave her untraced.

[1475.] DAVID BALLOU^c, Jesse^s, Eleazer¹, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., Mar. 6, 1780; m. Rhoda Phillips, dr. of Brazella Phillips, a Revolutionary musician, b. in Danby, Vt., Apl. 10, 1795; cer. in said Danby not far from 1814. Issue, b. there.—

4167—2. Sally Maria, b. July 29, '17, m. Walter Bigelow Ladd.

Unexpectedly and almost by accident we received knowledge of this David Ballou's family record. It reached us through a correspondence with his grand son, Luman Adolphus Ballou of Windham, Vt. We have found him one of the live Ballous, warmly interested in our History and Genealogy, and glad to help us. Accordingly he has taken great pains to hunt up, collect, and communicate important facts pertaining to his lineage; about which we should otherwise have remained entirely ignorant. He learned that his grandfather left his home in Richmond, N. H., a young man, went into Vermont, hired out as a field laborer, and saved up money enough to purchase a small farm near Danby Little Village, so called. Meantime he married as above stated. He was prospering and his chn. had been born, when he became surety for a venturesome neighbor, who soon failed and left him to pay the debts. It swallowed up his little homestead, and he was thenceforth a poor man—but an honest, kind-hearted one. He muttered no curses, uttered no complaints, and made the best of his hard luck. He used to say of himself and wife, when referring to his misfortune: "We have since live in peace and prosperity." He was a man of exceptionally good disposition and few words. [1476.] SUSANNA BALLOU^a, Jesse^a, Eleazer¹, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., June 12, 1782; m. 1st Dexter Brown June 2, 1801. Issue.—

4170—3. Seeley Brown, b. Nov. 16, '05; d. Aug. 6, 1806.

We get no hint of the parentage of Dexter Brown, his birth-date, the place of marriage, or where the above named chn. were b. and d. He d. in 1806. Mrs. Susanna m. 2d Joseph Warren Odell, Principal of an Academy in Troy, N. Y.; cer. at said Troy in an unspecified month and day of the year 1808. Issue.—

4171—4. Mary Ann Odell, b. June 20, 1810; d. Sept. 23, 1810.

4172—5. Julia Ann Odell, b. Dec. 21, '12; d. Mar. 7, 1836.

4173—6. Warren Odell, b. Sept. 7, '15; d. Jan. 25, 1821.

4174—7. Jesse Ballou Odell, b. Nov. 25, '20; m. Maria W. Ballou.

Three of these last named chn. are understood to have been b. in the vicinity of Buffalo, N. Y., and the only surviving one in Eden, Erie Co. J. Warren Odell was an intelligent, enterprising man, and withal eminently patriotic, serving his country through the war of 1812-14 amid many privations and perils. Mrs. Susanna was well educated for her times, with bright mental powers, and a devoted connubial sharer in his fortunes. When Buffalo was laid in ashes by the British, their home was only a short distance away from the flames. She occupied that home alone with her infant child for weeks and weeks, exposed to the frontier dangers of the war. One day three Canadian Indians, in war paint and equipment, entered her domicile, but did her no harm and gave her no further annoyance than to use her household conveniences for cooking up a parcel of old horse-flesh. After the war they traded off their property in Buffalo for a span of horses, and removed to Eden, in Erie Co. Later they had their homes successively in Dansville, Canandaigua, Rochester, Phelps, and Newark, N. Y. There the husband d. in 1846. Mrs. Susanna subsequently enjoyed the kind care of her only son, Jesse B.

Odell, and wife, during the remainder of her earthly days. She retained her mental faculties and cheerfulness to the last. She had been a devout and staunch Baptist church member for over sixty years, and departed in peaceful hope to the higher life Dec. 12, 1869, at the venerable age of 87 yrs. and 6 mos.

[1477.] JESSE BALLOU, JR.^e, Jesse^s, Eleazerⁱ, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Richmond, N. H., Mar. 26, 1785; m. Susanna Fuller, ptge. and birthplace not given, b. May 27, 1788; cer. place not given, Mar. 20, 1812. Issue.—

It seems that Jesse, Jr., settled first in Wallingford, Vt., afterward at Ellisburg, Jefferson Co., N. Y., and finally in Boylston, N. Y. No one tells us his occupation or characteristics, but we infer that he was a farmer of enterprise and thrift, and that his family occupied a highly reputable rank in society for intellectual and moral worth. Mrs. Susanna, his wife, d. in Boylston, N. Y., May 27, 1850, a. 62 yrs. He d. there Dec. 16, 1871, at the advanced age of 96 yrs. 8 mos. and 21 ds.

Silas^e was a substantial farmer, and dwelt on the homestead of his father in Richmond, N. H., till 1842, when he removed to the neighboring town of Swanzev, where he spent the remainder of his life. He was a man of good common sense, solid moral character, liberal religious faith, and respectable social standing among his fellow yeomanry of the Granite State. Mrs. Anna, his wife, d. at a date not given, and he m. 2d Mrs. Tabitha M. (Plumbley) Coombs, widow of Chester Coombs, in 1852. No issue. Silas Ballou^e d. in Swanzev, date not ascertained. Mrs. Tabitha survived him several years, dwelling with and cared for by Irving Ballou, a grandson of Silas^e. She died Aug. 28, 1883, at the advanced age of over 97 years.

[1480.] ESTHER BALLOU^e, Jesse^s, Eleazer^t, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturin^t; b. in Richmond, N. H., at a date not found, prob. about 1790; m. William Chase, Jr., b. in said Richmond Jan. 16, 1785; cer. Feb. 2, 1814. Bassett, in his History of Richmond, says.—“He remained on the homestead. He d. March 2, 1832, aged 47; she d. Nov. 16, 1877, aged 87. Had several children, one of whom, Semantha, m. Jacob Whitcomb, Jr.” We have had no means of obtaining further information. This descent closed.

[1481.] JIRAH BALLOU^e, Jesse^s, Eleazer^t, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturin^t; b. in Richmond, N. H., perhaps in 1792; m. Sylvia Phillips, understood to be a dr. of Reuben Phillips of said Richmond. We have been utterly baffled in our laborious attempts to trace this Jirah Ballou's descent. We learned that he long ago emigrated to Cedar Co., Ia., and d. there. We presumed he might have left posterity there, but we had no clue to the exact locality where he d. So we wrote a large number of postmasters in Cedar Co., and at length ascertained that there were two Ballous residing in Clarence of that Co., viz., Andrew and Asa Ballou. Then we congratulated ourself on probable success. But, alas! we wrote the said Andrew and Asa again and again in vain. They answered not. Closed.

[1482.] AARON BALLOU^e, Jesse^s, Eleazer^t, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturin^t; b. in Richmond, N. H., May 25, 1795; m. Mary Bowen, dr. of Nathan and Rachel (Stoddard) Bowen, b. in said Richmond Dec. 14, 1796; cer. Dec. 31, 1818. Issue, all b. in said Richmond.—

- 4197—4. Alonzo, b. Dec. 17, '25; m. Angelo Cass.
- 4198—5. Hannah L., b. Apl. 5, '28; m. Asa S. Starkey.
- 4199—6. Aaron, Jr., b. Feb. 17, '31; d. Oct. 14, 1833.
- 4200—7. William W., b. June 15, '33; m. Mary A. Williams.
- 4201—8. Mary L., b. Aug. 2, '37; m. Simeon Holbrook.

Aaron Ballou⁶ was a plain living, industrious farmer, and a worthy commoner of his native town. He settled on a part of his father's homestead. There he built him the necessary domicile and accessional conveniences, cultivated his soil, reared his family, and died. Nothing biographical has come to us concerning him and his wife. We suppose them to have been unpretentious people, whose homely merits averaged with the generality of their contemporaries. He d. Sept. 7, 1861, a. about 66 years. She d. Mar. 7, 1865, a. 68 years.

[1483.] BARNABAS BALLOU⁶, Jesse³, Eleazer¹, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., about 1797; m. Rachel Bowen, dr. of Nathan and Rachel (Stoddard) Bowen, b. in said Richmond Nov. 26, 1799; cer. Sept. 12, 1816. He moved West in early married life, first into N. Y., and then into Michigan, where he died many years ago. Prob. he left chn., but we have sought in vain to trace his descent.

[1484.] LUCINDA BALLOU⁶, Jesse³, Eleazer¹, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Richmond, N. H., 1799; m. Jesse Bishop, son of Gabriel Bishop, b. in Fitzwilliam July 4, 1800; date of cer. not given. Issue, b. in said Richmond.—

- 4202—1. Smith B. Bishop, b. Nov. 12, 1814; unreported.
- 4203—2. Betsey B. Bishop, b. Aug. 10, '18; “
- 4204—3. Lois Bishop, b. Apl. 22, '23; m. Harrison Taft.

This must have been a precocious pair, if the birth-date of their oldest child is correct. We give it as Mr. Bassett does in his History of Richmond. He says the parents lived in a small house near Jesse Ballou's. There, we presume, the above named chn. were b. The doggerel rhymes which Mr. Bassett gives, as a sort of epitaph or obituary, are not complimentary to Bishop, as a saint, or sage, but imply that he was a rough, tough specimen of masculine humanity. We will not quote them, but simply give the death-dates of wife and husband. She d. in 1837, a. 38 yrs. He d. about 1860. This descent closed.

[1485.] PHEBE BALLOUⁱ, Jesse^o, Eleazerⁱ, Samuel³, James², Maturinⁱ; b. in Richmond, N. H., perhaps in 1803; m. Nathaniel Whitcomb, and dwelt, as long ago as 1862, in Searsburg, Vt. No more told, and we consign these Whitcomb cousins to the realm of our unsearchables.

[1486.] CANDACE BALLOU^e, Jirah^o, Eleazerⁱ, Samuel³, James², Maturinⁱ; b. in Glocester, now Burrillville, R. I., at a date not found; m. Samuel Mathewson, son of Joseph Mathewson, b. in Smithfield, R. I., at a date not given; cer. Nov. 26, 1801, by John Armstrong, J. P. Issue, b. in Burrillville, R. I.—

- 4206— 2. Susanna Mathewson, b. Oct. 15, '03; no further reported.
- 4207— 3. Charlotte Mathewson, b. Aug. 17, '05; " "
- 4208— 4. Julia Ann Mathewson, b. July 27, '07; " "
- 4209— 5. Polly M. Mathewson, b. May 17, '09; " "

- 4213— 9. Laura Mathewson, b. Mar. 15, '17; " "
- 4214—10. Esther Mathewson, b. Nov. 30, '22; " "

Candace^e and husband, after the birth of these chn., removed to the State of Connecticut, town not specified, prob. some one in the easterly section, near R. I. There, we suppose, they ended their earthly days, but we have been favored with nothing more concerning them.

[1487.] ROBA BALLOU^e, Jirah^o, Eleazerⁱ, Samuel³, James², Maturinⁱ; b. in Glocester, now Burrillville, R. I., Jan. 9, 1785; m. Allen Thayer, son of Silas and Esther (Allen) Thayer, b. in Braintree, Mass., Sept. 20, 1780; cer. Dec. 1802. Issue, b. in Burrillville, R. I.—

 4227-13. Elnora Thayer, b. Aug. 16, '27; d. Aug. 1849.

A large family. No characteristics. We copy from The Thayer Genealogy, pp. 175-178, with slight variations. Gen. Thayer, the author, says Allen Thayer was a boat-builder by trade; that he removed from Burrillville, R. I., in 1830 to Franklin, O.; that Mrs. Roba^d d. there May 22, 1854; and Allen himself in 1861. There must have been uncommon stamina and enterprise in the parents of such a family. Descent closed. |

 4237-10. Abby J. Mathewson, b. Jan. 19, '27; unreported.

Somebody might have made, no doubt, a creditable report of these cousins, but have left us to guess the best of both parents and chn. We have the death-dates of Mrs. Aurelia^e and her husband; also some fragments of data concerning one or two of their chn., but too few to carry down to the next generation. Mr. Mathewson d. Aug. 7, 1841, a. 58 yrs. 4 mos. and 9 ds. Mrs. Aurelia^e d. July 21, 1859, a. 71 ys. and 6 mos.

We received only the occupation of Mr. Wade—blacksmith—and the death-date of Mrs. Phebe, viz., March, 1830, a. 41 yrs. But we have a report of 13 grand chm., through Phebe's dr. Hannah Wilmarth. We reserve these for notice in the next generation.

4241 -2. Paulina Mead, b. Jan. 20, 1817; m. Orison Jillson Apl. 16, 1835.

David Mead d. or was separated from Mrs. Prusia, and she subsequently m. 3d Clark Jillson. She d. Sept. 7, 1853. Too few dates and other particulars in this record. Perhaps we had better close it by subjoining what would otherwise be deferred to the next generation, viz., Mrs. Prusia's descent. Her son LAWTON LAPHAM¹ m. 1st Laura A. Darling, b. in Burrillville, R. I., Jan. 21, 1823; cer. there Apl. 12, 1846, by Rev. D. P. Harriman. Issue.—

Mr. Orison Jillson⁷ and wife were last reported as residents of Richmond, N. H. This closes the descent of Prusia Ballou⁶, Jirah⁵, &c.

[1491.] FENNER BALLOU⁶, Jirah⁵, Eleazer⁴, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., at a date not found. All our researcher could obtain for us relating to this Fenner Ballou is, that he m. Mary Luman, and d. in Mendon, Mass., leaving 2 chn.—a very meager record.

Nothing more told; nothing of residence, occupation or character. Deborah's grand chn. deferred to next generation.

[1493.] BARTON BALLOU⁶, youngest born of Jirah Ballou⁵, &c., is handed down, with a dateless birth; and m. 1st Celinda Handy, supposed sister of the above named Stephen, who soon d.; and he m. 2d Hulda Phettiplace, by whom he had 2 chn., and then left for parts unknown. Our researcher reports no name of the dr.—only her early death. The son bears the name of his grand father.

4256 1. Jirah Ballou⁶; birth dateless; u. m.; res. near Lime Rock, R. I.

We wrote him courteously, but got no response. He is said to be an eccentric bachelor, with a goodly estate, successful in business, and partial to the law as a means of straightening crooked customers. He was probably unambitious of notice in this volume, and we greatly desired to obtain a more satisfactory family record than the one here presented.

Of the 10 chn. of Susanna Ballou^b, dr. of Eleazerⁱ, who m. Esek Harris, our researcher has sent us the family record of but one, and that imperfect; which is.—

[1493.] RUTH HARRIS^o, Esek and Susannah Ballou^b, Eleazerⁱ, Samuel^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Glocester, R. I., June 16, 1782; m. James Clemens, b. Nov. 20, 1778; cer. Aug. 7, 1807. Issue.—

Concerning the descendants of CHARLOTTE BALLOU^b, dr. of Eleazerⁱ, &c., who m. Stephen Harris, and settled in Richmond, N. H., we have given already what we could learn from Bassett's History of that town. See [361.]

The next sister, PRUSIA BALLOU^o, who m. Russell Wood, was left among the unreported. See [362.]

The next sister, AURELIA BALLOU^b, Eleazerⁱ, Samuel^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; m. Israel Aldrich, and we gave the names of 11 chn. in No. [363], 5 of them on reliable authority, as b. in Douglas, Mass., and 6 of them on doubtful authority, without birth-dates. We hoped our researcher, or some other helpful cousin, would come to our relief, and tell us what became of the children. But we were left in Egyptian darkness, and can tell absolutely nothing more. Descent closed.

Next come the 13 chn. of ROWENA BALLOU^b, dr. of Eleazerⁱ. See [364]. She m. Aschel Sherman of Burrillville, R. I. We hoped to receive full family records from all these, but only two or three have met our expectations. From the others mere fragments have reached us.

Stephen L. Sherman^c was the 13th child of Asahel and Rowena (Ballou) Sherman, and evinced no diminution of parental vigor, for he seems to have been abundantly endowed with both physical and mental stamina. He remained on the paternal homestead in Burrillville, occupied with the usual homely pursuits of rural life, and securing what education his school district afforded, till 1835, when he had reached the ambitious age of 17. He then embarked on the career of trade, as clerk in the grocery store of Benjamin Potter, on Westminster street, Providence, R. I. At the expiration of a year he entered the employ of Willard A. Handy, merchant tailor, No. 1 Washington Row. There he continued till the death of Mr. Handy in 1841. He then went into partnership with Josiah Cushing and Robert Almy, under the firm name of Cushing, Sherman & Almy—succeeding to the business of the deceased Mr. Handy, on the same premises. Prosperity crowned their enterprise. Many changes followed. His senior partner went for gold in California, and was killed by the Indians. Mr. Almy, his junior, went to Illinois, and died there. Circumstances took the establishment from one locality to another, under his thrifty management, till it settled down at No. 16 N. Main St. Meanwhile he entered somewhat largely into the carpet business in a store at 99 Westminster St. Thus his energy and genius found ample and profitable scope, until summoned from mortal activity by the messenger of death. He was much interested in several circles of social and public life. He was a member of the Board of Trade, of the Society for the Encouragement of Domestic Industry, of the old Volunteer Fire Department in connection with Hydraulion Co., No. 1; of the famous Marine Corps of Artillery, that figured memorably in 1842, as also of the Veteran Association of that Corps; belonged actively to the Masonic Fraternity, as also to the Lodge and Encampment of Odd Fellows. He and his family enjoyed life well amid the general respect of the social circles in which they moved. He d. at his residence in North Providence Feb. 20, 1874, a. 55 yrs. 10 mos. and 10 ds. His worthy widow and three of their sons survived him at our last advices.

We are not told, but suppose that this son of Stephen L. Sherman, and his two brothers, entered into the wealth of their father, and are illustrating his enterprise in the same, or some more eligible line of commerce. How our pages would have expanded if all these cousin Shermans had been reported with any such fulness as this thirteenth has! Perhaps our readers will be reconciled to the detention of further information, whether we are or not.

[1531.] PERRIS BROWN^c, Asa Brown and Orbe Ballou^c, Eleazer^c, Samuel^c, James^c, Maturin^c; see [366], and what is said in connection therewith [1531]. The postmaster of Mansville, Jefferson Co., N. Y., answered our inquiry concerning Perris Brown, that he was living in that vicinage. But at this writing, June 15, 1886, he has made no response to our letter and circular, sent him more than a year ago.

Passing over several untraceables, we come to

The foregoing is from a letter written to Mr. Peck by Mrs. Mary (Byles) Gayton, under date of Jan. 28, 1877, according to our best interpretation of the somewhat imperfect text. What changes have since occurred we know not. No further traced.

Several of the above named chn. married and have chn. But the statements in the forementioned letter to Mr. Peck are so made that we cannot understand them, and we therefore refrain from further particularization. This descent must close here.

[1543.] ESTHER A. SMITH^e, Thomas Smith and Ruth Ballou^s, Samuelⁱ, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Columbia, N. Y., or that general vicinity, at a date not ascertained; m. a Mr. Gilmore, and was residing in said Columbia, 1853. Nothing more ascertained concerning her family record.

We close here all our genealogical tracement of the posterity of Samuel Ballouⁱ, who settled in the British Province of New Brunswick.

We now pass over sundry untraceables to

[1554.] PAULINA BUFFUM^e, Joshua Buffum and Sabra Ballou^s, Davidⁱ, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Nov. 20, 1788; m. Nathaniel Bowditch, pedigree, birth-date and marriage-date not ascertained. Issue, all understood to have been b. in said Smithfield.—

- 4303—8. Elizabeth Bowditch, b. Dec. 23, '29; m. Darius Heath.

We are left quite in the dark concerning Nathaniel Bowditch, not only as to his pedigree, &c., but as to his occupation, character, and even his death-date. And we get merely the death-date of Mrs. Paulina^e, his wife, which occurred Feb. 28, 1869, a. 70 yrs. 3 mos. and 8 ds.

We have too little information concerning her chn. to carry down to the next generation, and had better insert what we have here. Her oldest son, MOSES S. BOWDITCHⁱ, is simply reported to us as having been twice m., without the names of his wives or anything but the facts that he had no chn., and d. Feb. 6, 1880, a. 75 yrs. 3 mos. and 2 ds.

JULIA ANN BOWDITCHⁱ, b. Nov. 1, 1807; m. 1st Dutec Wilcox, and 2d Abel Robbins. She has been the mother of 10 chn., 8 of whom survive with herself. We have the pleasure of considerable acquaintance with her and her chn., having met her and them on several occasions, especially at funerals. And we formed most respectful opinions of their moral worth. They are on our list of estimable friends.

After writing the above, we found among our memoranda, previously overlooked, a sketch of Mrs. Julia Ann's children and gd. chn., which we think proper to present.

- 4318—6. Lizzie A. Robbins^r; m. George B. Richardson; chn.—Louis D., Alice, Ida and Willis. All worthy Rhode Islanders.

We know almost nothing of Paulina's other chn. and gd. chn., but if they rank in character with Mrs. Julia Ann and her flock, their standing need not be better.

JOSEPH BOWDITCHⁱ, b. June 25, 1810; m. 1st Harriet Young, and 2d Sarah Jacobs. He was the father of 5 children, 2 of whom survive.—

This Mansfield family, parents and children, have been distinguished for intelligence, enterprise, business talents, and reputable social standing. Although Henry S. Mansfield's parentage was not given us, as perhaps deemed unnecessary, we understand there is a published Mansfield Genealogy, which traces his pedigree back to Richard Mansfield, a Puritan immigrant to New England, of early date. Henry S. began his business career as an accountant of Brown & Ives, Providence, R. I.; thence came to Slaterville in the same capacity for Almy, Brown & Slater; later became cashier of the bank at Slaterville, until Aug. 1839, when he gave place to his son, H. S. This record is quite defective on several points, but we suppose was difficult to obtain. We are told nothing of the distinctive life-career or character of David Ballou Buffum^e; nor where his chn. were b.; nor much of his marriage or death data; nor aught of his grand chn. We occasionally saw him, long ago, in Millville, Mass., where he then resided. We are told that he was a machinist by occupation, and followed the same in Millville, as afterward in other manufacturing villages of his native region where he subsequently dwelt. It seems that one of his sons, Edwin R. Buffumⁱ, fell a sacrifice to the Union in the bloody battle of Antietam, 1862. David B. Buffum^e d. at his home in Burrillville, R. Mrs. Tyla (Buffum) Holbrook^e and husband were among our estimable personal friends. They were excellent people, of sound common sense and solid moral worth. They appreciated our religious principles and ministrations, and we comforted them at their funerals. They were justly respected by their neighbors, and left fragrant memories. Their children, too, belong in the same category of character, though but one remains in this mortal sphere. The other two are with them in the higher life. Here is another family whom we are happy to include among our choice religious and personal friends, steadfastly such through a long life, and who have left many memorials of reverential regard, all most gratefully appreciated by the recipient. We have received a biographical sketch of Col. Buffum and wife from the hand of their youngest son, Charles H. Buffum, the substance of which we will here present, with such modifications and additions as seem to us appropriate:

Moses Buffum^e was left an orphan at the age of nine years; both parents having died in the ripeness of middle life, only five months apart, in the year 1809—the mother first. Though modest and unassuming, he proved to have been made of the stuff which distinguished his ancestors. He went to live with his relatives as a chore-boy, privileged for compensation to receive winter schooling in their district. Next he went to work in the card room of a cotton mill at Slaterville, R. I.—diligently pursuing his studies every night. A little later he learned cotton weaving, in which employment he was allowed all he could earn over a stipulated day's work. At sixteen he had saved money enough to buy a family Bible, now preserved as a treasure by his children. Hoping to better his fortune, about this time he journeyed to Providence, R. I., in quest of a position in some dry goods store and found several chances, with a proffered salary of $50 a year—out of which he must board and clothe himself. He declined engaging. He next tried farm labor in Burrillville for two years, but found he could do better at weaving satinets for Esek Pitts, his future father-in-law, at Millville. Later he engaged as clerk in the store of Mr. Pitts—afterward hiring and running the store for himself awhile. He next embarked with Joseph Underwood in the manufacture of cotton hats. This business occasioned his first trip to New York city. There were then (1820) only two lines of public travel between his general neighborhood and that city, both tedious compared with subsequent facilities—overland by stage-coaches, and through the Sound by sailing vessels. He took a schooner from Providence, and, in spite of baffling winds, achieved the voyage in three days.

He was married in 1823, as above stated, to Louisa, dr. of Esek Pitts, Esq., and the same year commenced woolen manufacturing at Millville in Co. with his father-in-law. They made Satinets, and also kept the Village Store. This partnership continued until the death of Esq. Pitts in 1834, after which he assumed the entire business, and also acted as agent for two or three kindred establishments. In 1837 he erected for himself and family a handsome mansion, in which they dwelt for several years. Meantime he had taken a prominent interest in local military affairs, rising from grade to grade till he reached the colonelcy of the 2d Regt. Infantry in the 1st Brigade, 6th Division of Massachusetts Militia. During the same period he and his wife were devoted supporters of our Restorationist society, church and ministry in Millville. And they were also early adherents and promoters of the Anti-Slavery movement. After some severe reverses in business, which tested the indomitable firmness and courage of Col. Buffum, he removed in 1852 to Oxford, Mass., where he successfully prosecuted the manufacture of fine woolen goods. There he and his wife spent the remainder of their earthly days in a prosperity only disturbed by the infirmities of age. In 1863 he took into partnership his son Moses Henry, and in 1868 his son Charles Hudson, who with dutiful enterprise and efficiency stayed up their father's failing energies till death. In politics Col. Buffum was a Whig, and later an Anti-Slavery Republican. In religion he and his wife were Universal Restorationists, and exemplified their faith, hope and charity by their works. They both died under the consolations of that gospel. Louisa Pitts Buffum was a model wife, mother and neighbor, and her memory is precious, not only to her children and near family relatives, but to all who knew her. Col. Moses^e was long a great sufferer from chronic rheumatism, but bore his pains with commendable patience, and died in calm resignation to the divine disposal, at his home in Oxford, Mass., Nov. 20, 1874, a. 74 yrs. 4 mos. and 10 days. His funeral was celebrated with appropriate religious, civic, and Masonic honors, Nov. 24th ensuing; in which it was our privilege largely to share. His remains repose in the family lot of Rural Cemetery, Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Louisa, his beloved and revered widow, d. in her Oxford mansion a comparatively painless apoplectic death Jan. 13, 1885, a. 79 yrs. 2 mos. and 14 days. On the following Friday, Jan. 16, we united with her former sympathetic pastor, Rev. William H. Fish, in funeral ministrations over her remains, which were tenderly borne away to Worcester, to rest by the side of her companion's in Rural Cemetery. We append the records of their children.—

MARIA LOUISAⁱ, their eldest, b. Sept. 26, 1825, remains a worthy single lady, and resides in Oxford, Mass.

MOSES HENRY^r, 1st of that name, d. in infancy.

FANNY PITTS^r, b. Sept. 26, 1827, d. a. m. June 8, 1865. She deserves special commemoration. She entered the Ladies Collegiate Institute of Worcester, Mass., in 1856, and graduated with honors in 1859. The following quotation is from one of the city journals of the day.—“The closing exercise was by Miss Fanny P. Buffum of Oxford, who read an elaborate and thoughtful essay on the ‘Immortality of Images’; closing with farewell addresses to the officers, pupils, and friends of the Institution. They were delivered in good taste, and with much feeling. At the close, the diploma of the Institution was awarded to Miss Buffum by the President, who took occasion to mention the fact, that she had completed the prescribed college course in three years—most young men requiring four years to complete the same course.” She undoubtedly possessed a fine literary genius and uncommon executive abilities as a student. We have heard her spoken of always as a young lady of brilliant intellectual promise and eminent moral excellence. But probably her ambition for achievement overtaxed her physical powers and rendered her “a shining mark” for Death. However that may have been, she was ere long smitten by his fatal arrow, and d. deeply lamented by all who knew her, a. 37 yrs. 8 mos. 12 ds.

MOSES HENRY^r, 2d of that name, also d. in infancy.

4392—2. George Ernest Mason^s, b. in Washington, D. C., Oct. 28, '72.

The wedding was a joyful occasion, replete with guests and appropriate festive display; and we believe all its promising auspices have been realized in connubial life. The groom was then a reputable high school teacher, as he had been and continued to be for some years. Afterwards he removed with his family to the National Metropolis, and at a later period, as we are told, engaged largely in the erection of dwelling houses and other structures. He has been deservedly prosperous in business, and his family are in eligible circumstances. They are intelligent, enterprising, exemplary and happy people.

CAROLINE ELIZABETHⁱ, b. Apl. 1, 1836; remains a single lady of reputable intelligence and moral respectability.

MOSES HENRY^r, 3d of this name, b. July 10, 1839; m. Lucy Maria Freeman, dr. of William T. and Augusta (Briggs) Freeman, b. in New Salem, Mass., July 17, 1845; cer. in said New Salem June 12, 1867, by Rev. Alpheus Harding. Issue, b. in Oxford, Mass.—

We joined the Episcopal clergyman of Millville, who had solemnized her mge., in ministering consolation at her funeral. The bereaved husband remains a widower at Oxford, Mass., co-inheritor, with his brother Moses Henry, &c., of the parental virtues, as well as their manufacturing establishment at Buffumville, so called.

ELLA AMELIA⁷, the youngest of the family, b. July 1, 1850; remains a worthy and respected maiden, and is presumed to reside mostly on the parental premises in Oxford. This closes the descent of Sabra (Ballou) Buffum through her son Moses^a.

We are so unfortunate as to have no information whatever concerning the birthplaces of these chn., the occupation, residence or character of Thomas M. Buffum^c, or whether he and his wife Rosannah still survive. And all we are told of their chn. is comprised in the following sentences.—

LEANDER ANGELL⁷ enlisted in the 2d Regt. R. I. Cavalry, and served in the Union army three years, lacking 6 weeks.

We expected to show a fairer record than this. In July, 1886, we had an interview with Abel B. Traskⁱ, and supposed he gave us the name of his elder brother; but either he did not give it or we have mislaid it. That brother grew up to manhood, and went out South, where the Secession war overtook him, and he died during or soon after that war. But whether he had any family, or what his business was, we know not. David B. Trask was reported by his brother Abel to reside in Providence, R. I. Also their sister Mary Ann, who is the wife of George Morris. Abel gave me their exact addresses, and promised to prompt them to send us their respective records. We wrote them at once on the subject, and confidently expected a speedy response, fully posting us on all needed data. But not a syllable has been received. Elijah Trask d. in Uxbridge, Mass., Mar. 31, 1862, a. 77 yrs. 11 mos. and 15 ds. We understand that Mrs. Anna^e has since d. with her chm. in Providence, R. Here is one of our inscrutable cases. From the little we can learn of this James Ballou⁶, he emigrated to La Salle County, Ill., sometime between 1852 and 1862. The last heard from him was through a letter written to Mr. Peck, under date of Meriden, Ill., May 21, 1862—in which he gives the names and birth-dates of the above written 10 children. His only surviving sister has heard nothing from him for over 20 years. We tried to get into communication with his eldest son, Hiram K.,⁷ said to have resided not long ago on the road between Uxbridge and Worcester, Mass., but failed. So we are utterly uninformed as to parents and chn., who are living, or dead, or what has befallen any of them. Closed.

This connubial pair have spent their active married life chiefly in farm management and kindred business pursuits. They have resided much in Cumberland, R. I., but are now in charge, we understand, of the farm long known as the Luke Jenckes place, in the southwest corner of Wrentham, Mass., more recently the homestead of William Sherburne, decd. Susanna^e and husband are worthy people, and are in the enjoyment of a vigorous old age. We think we will excuse ourselves from continuing their family descent into the 8th generation. Their son Wilderⁱ is reported resident in the State of California, but how many chn. he has, if any, we are not informed. We understand their dr. Lavinaⁱ and husband to be residents of Woonsocket, R. I.; chn. unreported. Nathanielⁱ, if we mistake not, res. also in Woonsocket, but d. in Feb. 1877—no chn. reported. Henryⁱ m. 1st Amelia Wilcox of Bellingham, Mass., 1867. Almedaⁱ and husband are understood to res. in Woonsocket; no mention of chn. Ellenⁱ and husband, we think, res. in Providence, R. I.; no mention of chn. No further traced.

The Town Clerk of Petersham, Mass., kindly put us on the track of these Knapp cousins, likewise of all the descendants of Joel Ballou⁶, and we plead guilty in having failed to push the research for detail with our usual persistency. This accounts for the omissions of desirable data throughout the descent. Mrs. Fidelia (Ballou) Knapp⁶ d. in Petersham, Mass., May 14, 1879, a. 72 yrs. 11 mos. and 1 day.

[1572.] CAROLINE H. BALLOU⁶, Joel⁵, David⁴, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Petersham, Mass., July 11, 1809; m. her cousin, Joshua W. Ballou of Slaterville, R. We have been favored with no biographical sketches of Joel Ballou's daughters, but we feel sure their moral character and social standing deserve a good testimonial. His descendants must excuse us from further tracement.

[1575.] NELSON BALLOU^e, Welcome^s, Davidⁱ, Samuel^s, James^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Burrillville, R. I., June 26, 1810. It is among our other genealogical trials, that we can obtain no family record from this cousin. We have repeatedly and respectfully solicited one from him and his son. From his silence we inferred he might have passed into the other world, but on inquiry of his postmaster we ascertained that he was still living in Northville, La Salle Co., Ill., and that his son Mowry Ballou was residing with him so late as July 8, 1886. So we wrote again, but in vain. We know not whom he married, nor when, nor how many chn. he has. He emigrated over 30 yrs. ago to Northville, Ill., and we presume became a wealthy farmer there. We should have been glad to hear from him, and to have given a good account of him and his descendants. As it is, we will credit him with one son, and bid him a kind adieu.

Worthy and reputable people, of the industrious farmer class, though sometimes engaged in other pursuits of useful enterprise. They had charge of Uxbridge Town Asylum a few years since, and perhaps at other times of similar establishments elsewhere.

Mrs. Abby was a long and patient sufferer from the old-fashioned consumptive cough, but bore up under it bravely and cheerfully till its final consummation. She d. calmly and hopefully in Mendon, Mass., in the arms of her beloved and affectionate son, Aug. 25, 1887, a. 49 yrs. 10 mos. and 8 ds. It was our privilege to minister consolation at her funeral. Mrs. Sarah (Ballou) Bartlett^e furnished us her family record, but gave us no hint of her husband's occupation, character, or social standing. We understand Willard Haile Ballou and family to reside on the ancient James Ballou premises, and to own a considerable portion of the original homestead, especially that portion where the first buildings were erected. The present corn-crib contains several sturdy timbers that have come down as relics of the Block House provided by the first Ballous of that settlement to protect their families against hostile Indians. The present inheritors are worthy representatives of the ancestral stock.

4629—4. Bertha Lovie Follette, b. Aug. 25, '73.

4630—5. Lewis Whipple Follette, b. Apl. 6, '75.

This is still another and no less remarkable case of deaf muteness, triumphantly transcended by the favored education of excellent natural capabilities. There are several points in the family records above given, from papers sent us, on which we wish we had found opportunity to obtain more critical information. As we make these digested entries, we feel a curiosity to know whether the parents on both sides were born mutes, and whether any of the chn. have been so born. We regret that it is now too late and inconvenient for us to ascertain the facts desirable. We have given what we received, with the simple addition of personal qualities and characteristics otherwise reported to us. In respect to Mrs. Minerva's two chn. by Daniel Smith, the papers in hand did not indicate their birthplace, but we think it was probably some part of old Smithfield, now existing in four new towns. The spelling of the name Follette with an e at the termination was new to us, but we have "followed copy" without change. Nothing new has come to us since early in 1885 concerning these mute cousins or their families. So we presume them to remain substantially as then represented. We have barely heard that Mrs. Minerva^a was very much interested in the Ballou Genealogy, and is anxiously waiting for its publication. This descent closes here, unless fresh data are sent us.

[1654.] SARAH BALLOU^a, Jonathan^c, Aaron^d, Samuel^s, James^z, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Feb. 20, 1795; m. Pardon Davis of Providence, Saratoga Co., N. Y., or the near vicinity. We have no definite and satisfactory information concerning this marriage or family. We infer that the nige. must have taken place not far from 1818, and Mr. Davis is said to have d. in 1828, or thereabouts, leaving the following named children.

4633—3. Henry Davis.

4632—2. Jonathan Davis.

4634—4. Phebe Davis.

We suppose these chn. to have been b. in Providence, N. Y., or vicinity, between 1818 and 1828, but cannot say with certainty. What became of them or their mother, Mrs. Sarah^a, we have received no intelligence. No further traced.

This Aaron Ballou was a carpenter and farmer. He continued to reside in Providence, N. Y., or vicinity until about the year 1835, when he removed to Three Rivers, and thence, about 1850, to Mendon, both in St. Joseph Co., Mich. There he settled on an ample farm, and devoted himself chiefly to its cultivation during his remaining earthly life. No biographical characteristics of him or his wife have reached us. Presumed to have been reputable people. On that Michigan homestead Mrs. Anna, his wife, d. Apl. 12, 1855, and he followed her May 12, just a month later, a. 58 yrs. 10 mos. and 23 ds. We understand Emor Smith Ballou to have been taken into the kind care of his grandfather, Aaron Ballou¹, being then virtually an orphan. He was brought up in his grandfather's family, and therewith emigrated from Adams, Mass., to Galway, Saratoga Co., N. Y., in 1810. He seems to have married at the age of about 24 years, and settled as a farmer in Providence, N. Y. There he remained till after his twelve chn. had all been born, the first of whom to die was his dr. Melissa, Sept. 2, 1859. Meantime in the year 1855 he emigrated to Girard, Branch Co., Mich. There Mrs. Lydia, his wife, d. Nov. 10, 1861, a. 56 yrs. 6 mos. and 29 ds. He is said to have d. in Hart, Oceana Co., Mich., but we have been unable to learn the date.

Passing over Nos. [1657 and 1658], Lillis and Melissa Ballou, the youngest chn. of Jonathan⁶, who d. young, we come to

4653—1. Charles Celestine, b. Mar. 24, 1853.

4654—2. David H., b. Apl. 4, '57.

It pains us to say that we have made repeated endeavors to obtain this cousin's full family record, and received repeated promises that it should be communicated to us; yet it has not come. We understand that he is a respectable farmer, resident in Ather-ton, Indiana. We suspect he has other chn. later born than the above named, or at least one dr., having received two brief letters from a Mr. George F. Ayres reporting himself Celestine's son-in-law. Prob. his sons m. and have chn. But we are favored with no further data.

4664—10. Luna Louisa Whitaker, b. Mar. 1, '64; m. Arthur Springer.

What a record of births and early deaths! Worthy, yet sadly bereaved parents! Dr. Whitaker began married life as a joiner and carpenter, but soon after qualified himself and became a Dr. of Physics. At the breaking out of the great war, in 1861, he enlisted in the 14th Regt. Ind. Vols., Co. I, under Capt. Lindsey, and marched to the front. Within a year he contracted a debilitating disease, which clung to him for life. He was unfitted for hard military service, and assigned to the hospital as assistant physician. But his health so completely failed that, in January, 1863, he was discharged for disability and sent home. He never recovered his original vigor, and finally d. Dec. 27, 1875, a. 58 yrs. and 3 mos. He was a staunch Republican in politics, and a Baptist in religion. His respected widow, an exemplary Baptist, resides at No. 710 North Ninth St., Terre Haute, Ind., having survived 8 of her chn. and the companion of her youth. She is comparatively hale and well preserved for one of her years and many sorrows. We will subjoin the little that remains to be said.

Mr. Denny is a reputable farmer in the vicinity of Terre Haute, Vigo Co., Ind., where he and Mrs. Luna L. (Ballou) Denny⁶ have spent most of their married life in useful industry, in rearing to maturity their intelligent children, and in faithfully discharging the various duties of their domestic, social and civil relationships. It was their privilege to minister to Mrs. Luna's mother in her last days, and to close her dying eyes. Neither of them are church members, though Mrs. Luna has strong Baptist attachments. Both sustain an exemplary moral and social standing. Mr. Denny is a loyal Republican in politics, but has never been involved in office holding. Their health was not good at last advices, but tolerably comfortable. For convenience we annex here the records of their married children which seems too brief to defer.

Mrs. Mercy⁷ d. March, 1832. This is all we can glean from several letters, recd. by Mr. Peck from two family relatives. There are doubtless full details of genealogical data concerning these cousins, but we have no clew to their depository, and must be excused from attempting to trace them further.

[1664.] JOSHUA WHITE BALLOU⁶, Isaac⁵, Aaron⁴, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Adams, Mass., Sept. 12, 1799; m. *Elizabeth Ballou*⁶, dr. of William⁵, Moses⁴, &c., b. in Fenner, N. Excellent common people of the agricultural class, both parents and chn. They removed from Fenner, N. Y. while their chn. were still young, and settled on a goodly farm in Sullivan, Ashland Co., O. There the parents spent the remainder of their days in honest industry, and in the exemplary discharge of their domestic and social duties, justly respected by all who knew them. Their death was singularly simultaneous. They d. within fifteen minutes of each other, about 5 o'clock P. M., June 11, 1870; he a. 70 yrs. 8 mos. and 29 ds.; she a. 68 yrs. 4 mos. and 2 ds.

We find three letters from Mr. Woodworth, written to Mr. Peck during 1861, in behalf of his wife, giving desirable solicited information concerning her branch of Ballous. These letters evince kindness and intelligence, but say not a word about the date of their marriage, occupation, or life-career. We learned from other sources that they had no chn., that their home had for some years been in Auburn, N. Y., and that Mr. W. had some position or employment in connection with the State Prison there. We have later ascertained from family relatives that Mr. Woodworth was a moulder by trade, and that he d. in Auburn, N. Y., Mar. 21, 1886, a. 82 yrs. 4 mos. and 22 ds. Also, that Mrs. Cynthia⁶, his wife, d. before him in that city June 17, 1877, a. 75 yrs. 11 mos. and 2 ds.

4689—3. Jane Ann, b. Nov. 8, '36; m. John P. Kelly Nov. 26, 1856.

Nothing has been communicated to us concerning the character and social standing of James Ballou⁶ and wife, but we are confident they were worthy commoners. He was an industrious farmer. Their principal residence after marriage was East Otto, N. Y. He d. July 9, 1838, a. 35 yrs. 1 mo. and 7 ds. She d. suddenly of heart disease, at her dr. [1667.] MALINA BALLOU⁶, Isaac⁵, Aaron⁴, Samuel³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Adams, Mass., Sept. 4, 1804; m. Pardon Allen of Galway, N. Y. We hoped to obtain Mrs. Malina's family record, but were disappointed. All we could learn was that she died in 1836, leaving two sons.—

It may be our fault that we neglected an appeal to these sons for further information.

This is not only one of our large families, but one of our most energetic, enterprising, executive and successful in their pursuits. Major Sylvester A. Ballou, the second son, thus summarizes the life-career and character of his father.—“Born in Massachusetts; removed to Tompkins Co., N. Y., with his father in 1814; thence to Galway, Saratoga County, in 1818; thence to Cuyahoga Falls, Summit Co., O., in 1832; thence to Brecksville, Cuyahoga Co., O., in 1841; thence to California in 1851, mining two years, and returning to Ohio in 1852; thence to Napierville, DuPage Co., Ill., in 1853; thence to Santa Rosa, Cal., in 1874; and finally back to Napierville, Ill., in 1884. There (in 1886) he was living in a green old age with his wife, both 80 years old, having been married 60. His education was confined to the elementary studies, and his life has been one of unremitting labor, either as a mechanic or farmer,—a man of the most unblemished reputation and singularly pure morals, having always been held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. His recollection is clear concerning the stirring times of 1812 and '14. He gave five sons, who served in various capacities in the Union army during the late Rebellion.” The scenes, experiences, events and incidents of such a life would require a volume to describe, and would afford materials for most interesting elaboration. We leave particulars to the knowledge of the family and to the imagination of outsiders. The history of the sons and daughters will be briefly given in connection with their respective records, when we reach the Seventh and Eighth Generations.

[1669.] MARY PECK BALLOU^a, Isaac^b, Aaron^c, Samuel^d, James^e, Maturin^f; b. in Adams, Mass., Mar. 12, 1808; m. Reuben Head, said to have several sons and two drs.; one of the latter the wife of Daniel Winter in Joliet, Ill. Failed to communicate with them.

[1670.] LYDIA BALLOU^a, Isaac^b, Aaron^c, Samuel^d, James^e, Maturin^f; b. in Adams, Mass., Apl. 29, 1810; m. Jacob B. Gee. Hoped in vain for further information.

[1671.] NORMAN BALLOU^a, Isaac^b, &c., d. in boyhood.

[1672.] VOLNEY BALLOU^a, Isaac^b, Aaron^c, Samuel^d, James^e, Maturin^f; b. in Fairfield, N. Y., June 14, 1814; m. Margaret Crawford. Issue, b. in Chatham, Medina Co., O.—

4705—2. Alfred, b. '41.

4706—3. Erwin, b. '50.

Volney Ballou is said to have been a shoemaker and farmer. He has been some years dead. We have tried to open a correspondence with his sons, Alfred and Erwin; but either they failed to receive our communications, or were indisposed to report their family records. We presume they have families, but are uncertain, and must close the descent where it stands.

Passing over several untraced descendants of Nehemiah Ballou³ in the line of his son Peter¹, we reach the chn. of Seth⁵, son of Peter¹.

[1676.] PHILANDER BALLOU^c, Seth⁵, Peter¹, Nehemiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Litchfield, Herkimer Co., N. Y., during the autumn of 1800; m. Sarah Comstock, dr. of George and Mercy Comstock, b. in New London, Ct., at a date not ascertained; cer. in Independence, Cuyahoga Co., O., 1823. Issue.—

4710—4. Adaline A., b. Ypsilanti, Mich., —, '30; m. A. L. Scoville.

We understand Philander Ballou^c to have grown up a farmer, and to have remained such through life. He seems to have been an intelligent, enterprising, worthy specimen of his class. He removed at an early day from his native place, Litchfield, N. Y., to Independence, Ohio, about twelve miles south of Cleveland. There he was m., and three chn. were b. to him. Thence he removed, in 1828 or 9, to Ypsilanti, Washtenaw Co., Mich., and settled. There his dr. Adaline was b., and he was prospering, when at length he took the mumps and they proved fatal. He d. in the prime of life, Oct. 12, 1835, a. about 35 years. His wid. subsequently joined the Mormon ch., and became the wife of Amasa Scoville, a member of that denomination. They set. in Utah.  4714—4. Cynthia Teresa, b. Sept. 4, '49; m. Eugene R. Sheldon.

Intelligent, enterprising and worthy cousins these. The parents resided first after marriage, in Mayfield, O., but later in Park Township, Mich. They were of the agricultural class, educated their children well, were exemplary Methodists, and good democratic citizens. Their beloved eldest son, William Seth, passed to the higher home soon after they settled in Mich. The father d. there Jan. 23, 1875, a. 72 yrs. 10 mos. and 27 ds. His venerable widow still survives, and has a comfortable home with her eldest dr. Mathewson and husband in Mendon, Mich. The records of their chn., will appear reputably in the next succession of generations.

Mr. Fitch Comstock was a respectable farmer in Independence, O., and d. there Nov. 4, 1827, in early manhood, a. only about 24 years. Mrs. Lillis⁶ m. 2d Edson Barney, son of Royal and Rachel (Barney) Barney, (cousins) b. in Ellisburgh, N. Y., June 30, 1806; cer. in Amherst, Loraine Co., O., Jan. 1, 1831. Issue.—

Mrs. Lillis⁶ and her 2d husband are both loyal devotees of the Mormon Church, wherein they hold respectable rank, and are waiting in the ripeness of old age for their translation into the immortal blessedness promised to all faithful Latter Day Saints. Mr. Barney's occupation has been that of a millwright and carpenter. Their principal places of residence since marriage, have been Kirtland, O., Nauvoo, Ill., and various localities in Utah Ter. They were last reported as abiding in St. George, Utah. The surviving children of this 2d marriage are all presumed to belong to the Mormon denomination; but we are too imperfectly informed of their family records to attempt giving details. The eldest and only surviving dr. of Mrs. Lillis^e by her 1st husband, Mrs. Minerva Ann (Comstock) McClureⁱ, has no affinity with Mormonism, and has several married children. We have written to her, and hope for definite information concerning her family. If we obtain it, we shall insert the particulars in our next series of generations. Otherwise this descent closes here.

- 4730—7. Eleanor Eliza Leslie, b. Norwalk, O., Apl. 5, '42; d. u. m. Mar. 5, 1865.

A very intelligent, enterprising and reputable family throughout. Mrs. Eliza has long been a devout member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as were her parents before her. She has adorned her Christian profession by a most exemplary performance of her duties in all the relations of life. She was a valuable correspondent of Mr. Peck in 1876, relating to her branch of the Ballous; and, though latterly in feeble health, still retains her mental faculties in remarkable vigor, and cherishes a lively interest in the publication of our Genealogy. She is at this writing (Oct. 1886) a venerable widow in her 79th year, and resides on a farm in Northport, Mich., owned jointly by herself and youngest son, Byron O. Leslie. Her husband, Manning Leslie, d. in that town Mar. 8, 1874. Of him we take pleasure in extracting some interesting biographical testimony from the pen of his eldest son, Col.

Daniel S. Leslie. He says in a recent letter to us:—"My mother has told you that my father, Manning Leslie, was a millwright, carpenter and joiner. That is true, but is not all. He was studying for a Civil Engineer, when four or five young men of his acquaintance determined on going to Ohio, and persuaded father to accompany them. He then lived in Johnstown, N. Y., and was the more easily induced to join the party, as one of them was also a young Civil Engineer, going out to work on the Ohio Canal—intending to complete his studies afterward. Grandfather Seth Ballou settled in Independence, Ohio, the year that father went there (1819), and had purchased a large tract of land. In surveying the Canal, which ran through that tract, the Engineers all boarded at his house as long as they could conveniently during its survey and construction. Father was in it all to the end, a term of several years. Meantime he completed his knowledge of Constructive Engineering. This branch he preferred, and practiced more or less through life. But the country was new and there was not much to do in that line. Therefore, being full of energy and ambition, he went to work at building mills, churches, dwellings, &c. He built, also, some of the finest vessels on the great Lakes, and thus he became carpenter, joiner, millwright, shipwright, &c. All through northern Ohio, parts of Pa., N. Y., and Mich., stand to-day the monuments of his industry and skill."

In politics he was a Jeffersonian Democrat originally, but became "a Republican from the time the Charleston, S. C., National Democratic Convention refused to nominate Stephen A. Douglas for the Presidency. Though quite an active and always a warmly interested politician, he yet steadily declined nominations to office, saying that politics would ruin his business, should he pursue it in a manner to ensure success. Though decided in his convictions, he was not a 'machine' or partisan politician."

In religion "he never united with any church, though a strictly moral and Christian man. He sent his children to the Sunday School and church, and approved of our joining any but the Roman Catholic denomination; cheerfully paying mother's and the children's church dues." Such is the record of Manning Leslie. His children will receive just notice in their proper genealogical order.

[1692.] SETH BALLOU, M. D.,^a Asa^b, Seth^c, Nehemiah^d, James^e, Maturin^f; b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., July 3, 1781; m. Mrs. Polly Willis, widow, maiden name Talbot, dr. of Samuel Talbot, birth-date not given; cer. in Rehoboth, Mass., July 7, 1808, by T. Blanchard, J. P. Issue, b. in said Rehoboth.—

4734—2. Seth Talbot, b. Nov. 4, '12.

4735—3. George Albion, b. June 5, '16.

Where and how thoroughly Dr. Seth Ballou^a was educated for his profession, we are uninformed. Nor to what distinction he attained as a medical practitioner. But we presume his education, attainments and success were at least respectable. He seems to have settled, practiced and remained till death in Rehoboth, Mass. He d. there May 1, 1824, a. 42 yrs. 8 months and 29 days. Seneca Sanford, Esq., administered in the settlement of his estate. Total inventory, $4,478.21. His widow became guardian of her three chn. We tried anxiously, but unsuccessfully, to ascertain the subsequent history of the widow and children. We obtained only vague and unreliable rumors. There is prob. a considerable descent, but we must leave it in obscurity. Mary Maria (Ballou) Bailey, husband and chn. were last heard from in Texas.

4741—6. Sally, b. not found; nothing reported.

4742—7. Betsey, b. “ “ d. u. m. in Providence, R. I., Aug. 1883.

Where these chn. were b. precisely we are not informed; prob. in several localities of R. I. and Conn. adjacent to the County of Providence; perhaps one or more in Killingly. Joseph Record Ballou^a is said to have been a machinist, and was much employed in setting up and adjusting machinery in cotton factories. In 1819 he and his family were located in Lawrence, N. Y. During that year he and his brother Jeremiah, of the same avocation, had a contract for building and setting up spinning frames in Lawrence or its general vicinity, when suddenly both of them mysteriously disappeared. Divers rumors prevailed; some that they went to Canada to buy lumber, and were murdered for their money; others, that they designedly absconded. But whatever were the facts, nothing reliable was ever heard from them more. Not long after, Mrs. Betsey procured assistance and returned with her family, wretched and disconsolate, to her native neighborhood, where she at length died.

[1694.] SARAH BALLOU^a, Asa^a, Sethⁱ, Nehemiah^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Gloucester, now Burrillville, R. I., Mar. 7, 1785; m. John Armstrong; cer. Jan. 1, 1805. Issue, all b. in Gloucester, R. I.—

Of the life-career of Sarah (Ballou) Armstrong and husband, nothing has been reported to us; nor of their deaths, save only that he d. in Woonsocket, in his 80th year.

- 4755—5. Albert Harris Clark, b. Mar. 19, '25; m. Elizabeth C. Foster Jan. 1, 1850.

We infer that Celinda^a and husband were plain, unpretentious, worthy people of the old-fashioned yeoman class. Their characteristics have not been reported to us, but are safe on the divine record. She died July 1, 1832, a. 41 yrs. 1 mo. and 16 ds. He died March 23, 1861.

4758—3. Nelson Sayles, b. Nov. 24, '25; m. Martha Ann Thurber.

Dr. Asa W. Ballou, we are sure, deserved an excellent biographical commemoration, as also his wife,—judging from general report. We anxiously sought the necessary materials for one, but could obtain nothing definite. He was long a skilful and popular physician in (Greenville) Smithfield, R. I., and that general vicinity. So much we can confidently state. Much more is due, but must remain untold. He d. in said Greenville Dec. 23, 1855, a. 60 yrs. 7 mos. and 2 ds. Mrs. Marietta d. there Dec. 12, 1864, a. 64 yrs. 10 mos. and 5 ds.

Edward Harris' left a very remarkable life-record. We were so desirous of doing justice to his merits and memory, that we copied largely from "The Biographical Cyclopædia of Rhode Island," an excellent sketch of his career from boyhood to the culmination of his fame. But as he was only the grandson of a female Ballou, and our pages are expanding almost fearfully, our "second sober thought" is that we are claiming more for kinship than is warrantable. We have therefore curtailed our memorial, and present barely the following.—

Commencing with a masterly brain, but moneyless hands, he reached an acme at which the aggregate business transactions of his estate were $3,000,000 annually. But he was mindful of others. The sum of his donations is believed to have been $500,000. He spent $100,000 on new streets, donated sites for High and District Schoolhouses, the elegant "Harris Institute" $75,000, the beautiful Oak Hill Cemetery, &c., &c. He distinguished himself in connection with the Banking Institutions of Woonsocket. In middle life he was a member of the State Legislature in both Houses several times. He was an uncompromising Temperance man and Abolitionist at the height of his career, regardless of all unpopularity and opposition. He would not truckle a hair to the proslavery merchants, but labelled his manufactures distinctly and two-fold with his own name on all his bales and parcels. He sent John Brown $100, which reached him, and was acknowledged the day before his execution. Such were the general genius and characteristics of Edward Harris'. A singularly peculiar, great and noble man in his sphere of human activity. In the latter part of life he took care to have his vast estate legally incorporated, that it might be handed down to his heirs, successors and posterity intact. He d. on his princely premises in Woonsocket, Nov. 24, 1872, a. 71 yrs. 1 mo. and 21 ds., receiving merited and appropriate funeral honors.

Warren S. Ballou^u was in the mercantile business at North Scituate, R. I., for forty years, where he was widely known and much respected. He was a director of the Citizens Bank and of the Scituate National Bank for many years. It is fairly presumable that Mrs. Sally was his worthy helpmeet. Besides their other merits, we can all see, in the number of their chn., undeniable evidence that they maintained well the old-time Ballou reputation of nurturing up a large family of promising children. Warren S. d. in No. Scituate, R. I., June 16, 1883, a. 70 yrs. 3 mos. and 4 ds. Mrs. Sally was still surviving, in Pawtucket, R. I. in 1885.

ALBERT JENCKS BALLOU^u, b. and m. as above, is reported without children.

HERBERT ALLEN BALLOU^u, b. and m. as above, has an undated marriage, and no chn. credited. His wife, Emma Ballou, is a dr. of Chauncey Ballou, a distant cousin; perhaps we shall come across her lineage later on. Herbert^u enlisted in one of the R. I. batteries, and served faithfully through the civil war.

LEANDER A. BALLOU, b. and m. as above, had three children, two nameless that died in early infancy, and one living.—

MARIA ROWENA BALLOU^u reported u. m. in 1885.

FRANK IRVING BALLOU^u, b. and m. as above; no children in 1885.

Whether the forenamed children of Warren Simeon Ballouⁿ are fully represented as to his grandchildren, we are not sure; but we have given all we received.

4964—8. Mary Ann Tift, b. Dec. —, '26; m. Charles Gleason 1847.

James Tift was the grandson of Peter Tefit, a non-conformist, who left England on account of persecution. His father was a Six Principle Baptist minister of some note, who preached considerably in Smithfield, North Providence, Johnston, R. I., and the neighboring regions. The name got changed from Tiffit early in the present century by one of those orthographical transformations so common in former times, and has ever since been spelled Tift. Joanna (Ballou) Tift was a pious Baptist, full of physical as well as spiritual energy, who could ride long distances to religious meetings, and look well to the affairs of her own household all the week through. She was blind for the last twenty years of her life, but still ever industrious, and when she could do nothing else, her busy fingers executed an incomputable amount of knitting. She was a most exemplary, serene minded, hopeful Christian. Her last words were.—“Come, welcome death! thou art the end of all my fears.” She died Dec. 27, 1863, a. 75 yrs. 2 mos.

and 18 ds. We are not told the characteristics of her husband, but presume he was a worthy farmer, citizen and man—perhaps pious withal. He died Aug. 3, 1873, age not given.

WAITY TIFFT^e, eldest child of James and Joanna (Ballou) Tift^t; b. as aforesaid; m. 1st Arnold Paine Apl. 1, 1824; and 2d David Carpenter. No chn. She died in Franklin, Mass., July 30, 1872, in her 66th year. Nothing more reported.

RANSOM TIFFT^e, b. and m. as aforesaid; d. childless in Franklin, Mass., Feb. 19, 1870, in his 57th year.

There is certainly one merit in these brief, fragmentary furnishings of data, however otherwise unsatisfactory; they do something to diminish verbosity in a volume threatening to be too large. We now come to a more generous record.

OTIS BALLOU TIFFT^e, James and Joanna (Ballou) Tift^t, Abraham Ballou^e, Simeon^e, Abraham^e, John^e, John^e, Maturin^e; b. in Smithfield, R. I., Jan. 1815; m. Lorinda Gleason, in June, 1837. Issue, b. as we suppose in now North Smithfield, R. I.—

 4976—9. Franklin E. Tift⁹, b. Aug. 2, '58; m. Clara Coff.

We are not favored with quite as distinct indications as we could wish concerning the life-career of Otis Ballou Tift. We infer from what has come to us and what has not come, that he still survives with his 2d wife; that he lives on the ancient Peter Tift place, in now North Smithfield, R. I., with his son William G. Tift; and that his chief occupation has been that of a farmer. We presume that he and his two wives have made a fair record, and that, if we were fully informed, we could say much to their credit. We will now offer what we have received respecting their chn.—

GEORGE W. TIFFT⁹, b. July 29, 1838; m. Arletta D. Gove, in Slaterville, R. I., at a date not given. He was by trade a scythe maker. He enlisted in one of the R. I. Regiments, and set out resolutely to help suppress the Rebellion; but his wife secretly prevailed on the Governor to get him discharged, and he was sent home. He never knew how this came about till the war was over. He d. at Slaterville Nov. 27, 1866, a. 28 yrs. 3 mos. and 28 ds. He left one dr.—

HIRAM B. TIFFT⁹, b. July 3, 1840; m. 1st Laura A. Harwood; cer. at Slaterville, R. I., in 1861. No issue reported. Mrs. Laura (Harwood) Tift died Dec. 6, 1876; and he m. 2d Lucy H. Stevens of East Machias, Me.; cer. in Franklin, Mass., in the autumn of 1877. No issue mentioned. He went to the great war in the 1st R. I. Regt., and helped fight the first battle of Bull Run. How long he continued in the army is not told; prob. for the term of his enlistment. He was for many years a scythe maker, but has latterly taken to farming. At last advices his family residence was in Canton, Mass.

MARY A. TIFFT⁹, b. Sept. 24, 1842; m. Robert Sandford; cer. at Slaterville aforesaid, date, &c., not given. They reside in Worcester, Mass. He is a superintendent machinist. They have one daughter—neither name nor birth-date reported.

WILLIAM G. TIFFT⁹, b. Nov. 8, 1844; m. Francesca L. Davis; cer. in Webster, Mass., Jan. 8, 1870. Issue, two children—a daughter aged 14 years, and a son about 5; their names and birth-dates strangely omitted. William G.² is a farmer, residing on the ancestral estate in now North Smithfield, where five generations have honored the same calling, except that great great-grandfather Peter Tiffit devoted himself chiefly to raising tobacco, which his later descendants have wisely transcended and eschewed. He, too, was a soldier patriot in the war for the Union. He says in a letter.—“I was about the first man to enlist at Springfield, Mass., April, 1861; but the Company was not accepted, and I afterward went out as a U. S. Volunteer. I served through all the campaigns on the Peninsula, and lost my leg on the 12th of May, 1864, while charging Longstreet's rebel batteries in front of Spottsylvania Court House.”

CHARLES C. TIFFT³, b. Feb. 14, 1847; m. Jane Donald; cer. in the autumn of 1878 at Glenville, Ct. They have two sons and one daughter—names and birth-dates unreported. He also served his country in its triumphant conflict with the Secessionists. He was in the 9th R. I. Regt. Vols., and later in the navy. In the latter he was on board the Vanderbilt at the capture of Fort Fisher. His occupation is that of a stationary engineer, though recently principal fireman at Beacon Falls woolen mill, Ct.—his present residence.

HERBERT L. TIFFT³, b. Oct. 13, 1855; m. Hattie L. Pierce; cer. in Putney, Vt., 1873. Issue, three chn.—two sons and one dr. Names, &c., not given. Occupation, bricklayer Res. Fitchburg, Mass.

FRANKLIN E. TIFFT³, b. Aug. 2, 1858; m. Clara Coff; cer. in Brattleboro', Vt., 1883. They have one son. He is also a bricklayer, last reported as res. in Fitchburg, Mass.

Among all these sons of Otis B. Tiffit there is but one tobacco user, and no habitual drinker of intoxicating liquors. We commend their example.

We have received no definite indication of Theodore Taylor's principal occupation in life. We infer that he was perhaps a handicraft mechanic, perhaps a farmer, perhaps both. He and Mrs. Lucy' seem to have commenced married life in Smithfield, R. I., though some of their children think it was Providence. It is possible, however, that they lived a part of these years in Providence. It is pretty certain that the eldest four of their chn. were b. in the County of Providence, R. I. They removed thence to the Co. of Cheshire, N. H., probably about 1813, where, in the town of Langdon or vicinity, three or four more of their chn. were b. About 1821 they removed to Lewis, Essex Co., N. Y. There five or six additional chn. were b. Some years later they took up their abode in Albion, N. Y., where their youngest child was b. Meantime, not far from 1832, the husband and father went to Branch Co., Mich., in advance of his family, and took up a select tract of land for the family residence. Whether they actually settled there we do not clearly understand from the statements communicated to us by their sons. However this may have been, the mortal career of both ended at last in the State of Michigan. He is said to have been away from his family at the time of his death, among strangers, attending to his recently purchased lands. There he died very suddenly Aug. 14, 1845, in his 63d yr. Mrs. Lucy spent her last days with her dr. Mary, Mrs. Southard in Rome, Mich., and d. July 15, 1853, a. 62 yrs. 11 mos. and 3 ds.

He was bright and promising, but soon summoned from mortal aspirations to the realization of immortal ones.

An eminently intelligent, religious and professional family. Rev. Warren Taylor^s, the husband and father, "spent his early youth on the farm in Essex Co., N. Y. His academic studies were pursued at Geneva Lyceum and Union College, N. Y. In the years 1841 and 1842, he kept the Academy at Somerville, N. J., and fitted young men to enter Rutgers College in the junior year. He was ordained to the ministry of the gospel by the presbytery of Trumbull, Ohio, April 24, 1844. He has served as pastor of churches at Farmington, Gallipolis, Cincinnati, Wilkesville and Concord—the two latter places being within the bounds of the presbytery of Chillicothe, O. At Wilkesville, where he held a pastorate of ten years, he was allowed to see the church greatly revived, a new and commodious house of worship erected, and an academy founded which has been in successful operation 20 years. He has three sons,—Rev. Charles Boardman Taylor, Rev. Vinet Erskine Taylor, and Rev. Park Walton Taylor—now (1887) in the full work of the ministry.

LITERARY LABORS OF REV. WARREN TAYLOR.

The most noticeable of these are—

1. A volume published in 1870. Title—"Fragments from the Shelf and Drawer of a Country Minister."
2. An Essay on "The sins of Bible Saints."
3. Two letters on "Revivals of Religion."
4. Two letters on "A weak but genuine Faith."
5. An Appeal to Ministers of the Gospel. Subject—"Freemasonry."

His conjugal companion is presumed to be worthy of him. They were recently resident in South Salem, O., but removed thence in 1885 to Constitution, Washington Co., Ohio. He has evinced a lively interest in the publication of this work, and obliged us much by furnishing the above sketch, and helpful data pertaining to his family branch of our great Cousinhood. Concerning his own chn. he has enabled us to present the following particulars. His oldest living son—

THEODORE TAYLOR, JR.,⁸ Theodore Taylor, Sen. and Lucy Bal-lou⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁵, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b., he says, in Providence, R. I., Jan. 17, 1816; m. Lydia A. Day in Adrian, Lenawee Co., Mich.; cer. there May 31, 1848. No issue reported.

Theodore, Jr.,⁸ informs us that he served three years as clerk in a New York City book store, and then settled in the same business for himself in Adrian, Mich. He continued in it there successfully for thirteen years, when he retired on account of his health. He has since remained in Adrian, with his worthy wife, in the enjoyment of a comfortable competence, and doing good, as they have opportunity, to all about them, "especially to the household of faith." We have understood, though not from himself, that he is a staunch and influential Episcopal Methodist. And we infer from his own words, that though not a clergyman, he is an occasional public speaker, perhaps an exhorter and more or less a lay preacher. He, too, has taken a warm interest in this Genealogy, and furnished valuable matter for its pages respecting the records of his numerous relatives.

LEWIS TAYLOR*, M. D., Theodore Taylor and Lucy Ballou*, Abraham*, Simeon*, Abraham*, John*, John*, Maturin*; b. prob. in Langdon, N. H., Oct. 2, 1818; m. Effie Linda Bird, dr. of Edmund and Sarah Bird, b. in Tarrytown, West Chester Co., N. Y., July 6, 1822; cer. Feb. 3, 1841. Issue.—

5036—5. Mary Effie Taylor*, b. July 25, '64; m. Chas. H. Green Oct. 10, 1883.

Lewis Taylor*, M. D., is a respectable physician, resident in Flushing, Genesee Co., Mich., where we suppose his chn. were b., though his family record does not specify their birth place. It is also modestly reticent about biographical particulars; so that we are unprivileged to say anything concerning his medical graduation, progress or success, or concerning his general character and social standing. Doubtless these are all commendable.

Her brother, Theodore Taylor, says she d. "in great peace and joy two years later," which her bro., Rev. Warren Taylor, specifies as May 30, 1854. This would make her age 33 yrs. 8 mos. and 19 ds.

Mrs. Phila⁸ is said to have given promise in early life of a useful and prosperous career; being a poetic and prose writer of more than average merit. But a marital blight of disappointment fell on her sensitive nature. Her home became desolate. Her husband is in California, and she in Clayton, Michigan, broken down in health and spirits. Her brother Theodore exclaims, "Poor, dear woman! she has had a sad life," &c. May she find rest on a divine pillow at last.

Our information is too limited and indefinite to say more.

5096—3. Isabel C. Weaver⁹, b. Mar. 24, '55.

The names of the 4 grand chn. and their birth-dates are given in the scanty scrap of data furnished us; but as nothing is said of their parents' marriages, we conclude that a little more omissive reticence is excusable.

ANNA MARIA WEAVER', b. Apl. 20, 1825; m. William Jackson; cer. in Providence, R. I., Sept. 8, 1842. They have one adopted daughter, named Harriet Anna Jackson. She was m. to George F. - 5108—12. Melissa, b. at Central Falls, R. I., June 1, 1859.

Otis Ballou' and both his wives are spoken of by our correspondent in terms of very high respect, but they have omitted to furnish us the specific biographical details we desired. We regret this, for we are very sure, from the little that has reached us, that they deserved a rich record, and one that would have adorned our pages. No one has even told us the principal occupation of his long and useful life. Otis⁷ is said to have been modest and reticent, and eminent for minding his own business. We suspect his surviving children inherit the same qualities, as they have not been over-communicative concerning the merits of their parents, or their own. We infer, from the births and deaths reported to us, that the family home was several times changed. At first it was in Westmoreland, N. H., then in Hartland, Vt., then in Walpole, N. H., and finally, for 28 years, in Central Falls, R. I. There Mrs. Louisa (Baker-Means) Ballou d. Oct. 2, 1883, a. 67 yrs. and 17 ds. And there the venerable patriarch himself passed on to the higher life Nov. 7, 1884, in his 89th year.

LYDIA BALLOU⁷, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Westmoreland, N. H., Dec. 9, 1818; m. 1st Lewis Perry of Claremont, N. H.; cer. in Irving church in said Claremont, Dec. 25, 1837, by the rector, Rev. Mr. Howe. No issue. Mr. Perry d. Jan. 20, 1866. Mrs. Lydia⁷ m. 2d Charles Mortimer Bingham of the same municipality, in the same church, Apl. 2, 1869, by the rector, Rev. Mr. Hubbard. No issue. It will be readily inferred that Mrs. Lydia⁷ and her husbands have been and are Episcopalians, and of course respectable people. She has manifested an encouraging interest in our Genealogy, and been quite helpful. She tells us nothing of her own family circumstances, but we learn from others that she has a beautiful and pleasant home. She thinks no incidents of her life have been of sufficient importance to interest our genealogical readers, and so declines furnishing any. She incidentally mentions a year's visit to her brother, John Q. A. Ballou, in San Jose, Cal., which she greatly enjoyed; though the journey thither and back was made before railroads had provided present facilities. She is evidently an intelligent and enterprising woman, but not ambitiously communicative about her personal affairs.

WARREN SIMEON BALLOU⁷, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Westmoreland, N. H. He is said to have a family, and to res. in Orange, Mass. We have repeatedly written him for his family record, but have never received a syllable in response. This is not to our comfort.

SOPHRONIA BALLOU⁷, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³,

John², Maturin¹; b. in Westmoreland, N. H., Oct. 2, 1821; m. Ebenezer Wellington Titus, b. in Walpole, N. H., 1815; cer. in said Walpole, in 1840, by Rev. Abraham Jackson. Issue, b. in Walpole.—

Her husband's occupation, religious views, &c., not given. Family social standing and home circumstances good. Mr. Titus d. in Bellows Falls 1863, a. about 48 yrs. Mrs. Sophronia⁸ continues her residence in that locality, in pleasant connection with her only son and family.

HENRY AUGUSTINE TITUS⁹, b. as above; m. Mary Eliza Brooks, eldest dr. of John Brooks of Sherburne Falls, Mass.; cer. 1864, by Rev. J. F. Moors of Greenfield, Mass. Issue, b. in Bellows Falls, Vt.—

5110—1. Mary Annie Titus¹⁰, b. May 30, 1865.

5111—2. Kate Bardwell Titus¹⁰, b. Feb. 18, '70.

Henry A. Titus⁹, wife and eldest dr. are members of the Congregational church in Bellows Falls. He has been a conductor on the Cheshire Railroad since 1864.

ALMIRA EDSON BALLOU⁸, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁵, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Westmoreland, N. H., Mar. 29, 1823; m. John Titus; cer. in Walpole, N. H., Oct. 10, 1844, by Rev. Abraham Jackson. Issue, b. in Holden, Mass.—

5112—1. Clara Almira Titus⁹, b. Mar. 25, 1849; unreported.

5113—2. L. Jennie Titus⁹, b. Apl. 26, '52; m. Melzar A. Bartlett.

Residence, Holden, Mass. Social standing reputable. Circumstances pleasant. Mrs. Almira⁸ united with the Congregational church in Holden in 1859. Occupation, religion, &c., of Mr. Titus not given.

L. JENNIE TITUS⁹, b. as above; m. Melzar A. Bartlett of Worcester, Mass.; cer. June 8, 1874. Issue.—

5114—1. Jennie Belle Bartlett¹⁰, b. July 31, 1879.

5115—2. Ralph M. Bartlett¹⁰, b. Oct. 11, '83.

Residence presumed to be Worcester. Mr. Bartlett is an ingenious wood-turner. Social standing of the family respectable.

MARIANNA BALLOU⁶, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Hartland, Vt., Sept. 4, 1824; m. Corydon Gates of Hubbardston, Mass.; cer. May, 1847. She died in July, 1857, without issue, a. about 33 yrs. No characteristics given.

DIANA MOWRY BALLOU⁶, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Hartland, Vt., Jan. 24, 1826; m. George Washington Black, son of Simon and Lucy (Davis) Black, b. in Holden, Mass., at a date not given; cer. in Hubbardston, Mass., Feb. 16, 1853, by Rev. S. Barber. Issue.—

5116—1. Grace Black⁹, b. Orange, Mass., Feb. 21, 1854; d. Mar. 27, 1854.

5117—2. George Ashton Black⁹, b. Orange, Mass., Mar. 1, '55; m. Emma Panton.

5118—3. Gertrude Leone Black⁹, b. Orange, Mass., July 25, '57.

5119—4. Ralph Waldo Black⁹, b. Athol, Mass., July 15, '62.

Mr. Black is a dealer in custom and ready-made clothing. He and Mrs. Diana⁷ appear to have dwelt first in Orange, Mass., next in Athol, and latterly in West Gardner, their present home. Their business and social standing has obviously been respectable; and they have evinced a laudable ambition to give their children a superior education.

GEORGE ASHTON BLACK⁹, b. as above; graduated from Harvard College in the class of 1879, and m. Emma Panton Aug. 17, 1883. In what sphere of human activity he has embarked, we are not informed.

GERTRUDE LEONE BLACK⁹, b. as above, is not reported in respect to her educational accomplishments, but it is unlikely that they have been neglected. We infer from silence that she remains as yet unmarried.

RALPH WALDO BLACK⁹, b. as above; graduated at Harvard in the class of 1886, and perhaps has not yet chosen his profession at this writing.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS BALLOU⁶, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Hartland, Vt. This cousin is reported by his sisters as having an eligible home in San Jose, Cal., and being in prosperous circumstances. We presume he has a worthy family, whose names and genealogical data would enrich our pages. But alas, either the U. S. Mail is in fault or he is too happy in his surroundings to care for any registration in this volume. For we have repeatedly written him for his family record without a word of recognition.

GEORGE WASHINGTON BALLOU⁷, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham¹, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Hartland, Vt., 1829; d. in Coloma, Eldorado Co., Cal., a. about 20 yrs. No particulars or characteristics communicated. He was one of four brothers who tried the promising but hazardous and uncertain adventures of gold-mining in California.

ROSALIN FRANCES BALLOU⁷, who usually writes her given name simply ROSA; b. in Hartland, Vt., May 4, 1830; unmarried. We shall let her speak somewhat for herself, as she wrote us in answer to a letter of inquiry early in 1884. "Father is a fine old gentleman; we all love and respect him. Mother was a refined and cultured woman, and is fondly remembered. Our family also live apart. I am the youngest and only unmarried one of the first mother's children now surviving. My brothers and sisters all have beautiful homes, and are highly respected in the different places where they reside. My brothers are business men, and some hold responsible positions. My sisters have their family duties—church and circle of friends. I write all the family gossiping letters, and many, many other letters; read a great deal—newspapers—everything; love to know what is going on all over the world. I am somewhat of a recluse; in the pleasant summer weather visit among these brothers and sisters, but in winter never leave the city; am petite, and afraid I shall be blown away like thistle down in some of these gales. * * I am not ambitious to be in print, but love to read of and admire others. Hence my pile of papers, books and cosy quiet." Her home has been in Boston for many years. We trust she will pardon our publishing the above extract without permission, and accept our cordial thanks for the kindly interest she has manifested in the preparation and success of this work.

LUCY EMELINE BALLOU⁷, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Hartland, Vt., 1832; d. in North Charlestown, N. H., Apl. 4, 1849, a. about 17 yrs.

LIEUT. CHARLES OTIS BALLOU⁷, Otis⁷, Abraham⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Hartland, Vt., Apl. 8, 1834. He gave up his life a sacrifice to his country, having been slain in the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 13, 1862, a. 28 yrs. 8 mos.

and 5 ds. The following biographical sketch and war record is condensed from the Claremont, N. H., War History.

Soon after Lieut. Ballou's birth his family moved to Walpole, N. H. In 1850 he accompanied his brother, John Q. A. Ballou, on his return to California, where he remained several years, engaged in mining, and as a book-keeper. He had received a respectable education in the public schools and an academy, supplemented by diligent useful reading in his leisure hours. In California he made himself master of the Spanish language, and was much employed as interpreter on board vessels arriving at San Francisco. His habit of close application to study continued to the end of life. At length, his health having become somewhat impaired, he returned to New Hampshire—making his home mostly with his sister, Mrs. Perry, (now Mrs. Bingham) in Claremont. At the breaking out of the war, he enlisted as a private, Aug. 1861, under Capt. Long. He was chosen 2d Lieutenant of his company, designated Co. G, of the 5th Regt. He recd. the Governor's Commission Oct. 12, and marched soon after to the front. He was promoted to be 1st Lieut. Feb. 1862, and assigned to Co. K. He was constantly with his Regt. till death. While at Camp California, during the winter of 1861-2, his Regt. was attached to Gen. Howard's Brigade, in which was a school for officers. Each officer was required to devote certain hours in this school to the study of military tactics and recite to a superior. Lieut. Ballou passed the best examination before a Board appointed by Gen. Howard, of any officer of his rank in the Brigade. Capt. Cross of his company wrote, under date of Dec. 17, 1862.—“Lieut. Ballou fell in advance of his command, and very near the enemy's works. He was shot by one of the sharpshooters of the enemy who occupied the rifle pits, the ball entering his neck and severing the jugular vein. He died almost instantly. He died like a soldier, loved and respected by all who knew him; and as long as the banner of the glorious Fifth continues to wave, so long shall the memory of our gallant comrade and brother officer be remembered.” His body fell into the enemy's hands, and was never recovered. His name is cut in marble with other names, officers and privates, of Claremont's honored dead, and the tablet hangs in its fine Town Hall. He had few confidants or intimate friends. Those who knew him best love and respect him most.

MELISSA BALLOU^s, Otis^s, Abraham^s, Simeon^s, Abraham^s, John^s, John^s, Maturin^s; b. at Central Falls, R. I., June 1, 1859, was the child and solace of her parents in their old age. She ministered comfort to them in their last years, wept over their dying beds, and saw their earthly forms housed in the grave. She remained unmarried at our last advices, the lonely survivor of their last mortal home. She is an intelligent and worthy lady, and has evinced a laudable interest in this volume.

[1763.] ALANSON BALLOU', Abraham^c, Simeon^s, Abraham^t, John^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Smithfield, now North Smithfield, R. I., Mar. 28, 1802; m. Priscilla Sherman, dr. of Elijah and Sarah (Bachelor) Sherman, b. in Grafton, Mass., Mar. 27, 1807; cer. in Westport, N. Y., 1827. Issue.—

- 5123—4. Sarah Diana, b. May 7, '36; m. Norman Hamilton.
- 5124—5. Lewis, b. Apl. 19, '38; m. Lois D. Wright.

The eldest three of the above named were b. in Essex Co., N. Y., the others in Plymouth, Ashtabula Co., O. Alanson Ballou' and his wife, as we learn from their son, Sanford Ballou', removed from Essex Co., N. Y., in 1834, to the Western Reserve, so called, and settled in Plymouth, Ashtabula County, Ohio, then a wilderness. There they cleared up and subdued their purchased acres, enduring the toils, hardships and privations of a pioneer life for twenty years, till they reached competency and comfort. There, in 1847, their eldest son, Benjamin F., went down to an early grave, at the age of about 19 years. In 1858, while on a visit further West, husband and wife were both attacked by severe sickness, from which she died, and he never wholly recovered. We may confidently record them as substantially useful and worthy people. Mrs. Priscilla d. Sept. 16, 1858, a. 51 yrs. 4 mos. and 19 ds. Alanson' d. Dec. 17, 1878, a. 76 yrs. 7 mos. and 19 ds.

GEORGE WASHINGTON BALLOU', Alanson', &c., was b. and d. as aforesaid.

SANFORD BALLOU', Alanson', Abraham^c, Simeon^s, Abraham^t, John^s, John^s, Maturinⁱ; b. in Essex Co., N. Y., June 14, 1830; m. 1st Sophia Phillips, dr. of Simeon and Esther (Deusmore) Phillips, b.  5128—4. Ernest^o, b. Mar. 22, '62.
 5129—5. Benton^o, b. May 3, '64.
 5130—6. Anna Sophia^o, b. Feb. 14, '67.

Mrs. Sophia, the worthy mother of these chn., d. Dec. 19, 1867, a. 35 yrs. 6 mos. and 7 ds. All her chn. are living at this writing (Dec. 7, 1886), and neither of them married. Sanford^m m. 2d Kate Hamilton of Rural Grove, Montgomery Co., N. Y.; cer. Mar. 14, 1871. No issue reported. With this companion he is now living, prosperous in a goodly degree, and rejoicing as the father of his intelligent and enterprising children. He gives us the following brief, unsophisticated autobiography.—

“In March of my 16th year, I left home to learn the carpenter's and joiner's trade, for which I served 3 years' apprenticeship with Cornelius Udell of Jefferson, O. I followed that business and ship-building most of the time for ten years, until I located in this place. Since then I have made farming my principal business for upward of thirty years. Not being particularly ambitious as regards office, we have never held any above those of Township and County. We are not aware of doing anything so very good or so very bad as to make us notorious in either direction; consequently we have but little to boast of.” Very well, cousin; you shall be registered a fair, average Ballou.

GEORGE WASHINGTON BALLOU^m, Alanson^o, Abraham^o, Simeon^o, Abraham^o, John^o, John^o, Maturin^o; b. in Essex Co., N. Y., Oct. 28, 1832; m. Martha Udell, dr. of Frederick and Laura (Waters) Udell, b. in Jefferson, Ohio, Jan. 11, 1836; cer. in said Jefferson Mar. 1, 1857, by Bradford Wakefield, J. P. Issue.—

5131—1. Frank A.,^o b. Plymouth, O., 1858.

5132 2. Horace Mann^o, b. June 29, '60; m. Grace E. Mather.

We learn from Mrs. Martha (Udell) Ballou, the intelligent and estimable widow of George W., that he “was a good student and quite a literary man, but was engaged in farming, when he enlisted in the Union army at Maysville, Franklin Co., Ia., in 1862.” We have no particulars of his war record, except the single sad fact that he was killed in the battle of Pleasant Hill, La., Apl. 9, 1864, aged 31 yrs. 5 mos. and 11 ds. So his mortal life went out in its bloom,—a patriot's sacrifice to his country's national integrity. What a ruthless monster is war! Since the foregoing was written, his son Horace has sent us a sketch of George W.'s life, which shows him to have been a man of noble aspirations, and many trying struggles to realize them. Mrs. Martha bears her desolation with commendable fortitude, and leans on her now only son Horace, as the principal stay of her remaining earthly pilgrimage.

FRANK A. BALLOU^o, b. as above, was a very promising child and youth, with a most active literary genius and taste; became a zealous religious devotee of the Baptist persuasion, but overtaxed his delicate constitution, broke down, and died a too early death in the summer of 1886, aged about 28 years.

HORACE MANN BALLOU^o, George Washington^a, Alansonⁱ, Abraham^o, Simeonⁱ, Abrahamⁱ, John^o, Johnⁱ, Maturinⁱ; b. in Maysville, Franklin Co., Ia., June 29, 1860; m. Grace E. Mather, dr. of Gen. Frederick and Mrs. Ellen (Pomeroy) Mather, b. at 213 East 18th St., in New York city, Apl. 22, 1861; cer. in Emmetsburg, Palo Alto Co., Ia., Nov. 13, 1884, by Rev. C. E. Cline. Issue, b. in said Emmetsburg.—

5133—1. Frederick E.,¹⁰ b. Aug. 12, 1885.

Horace Mann Ballou^o bears a given name highly honored in literary and civic annals. It evinces the genius and taste of his parents, and we have no doubt he wears it worthily. He resides in Emmetsburg, Ia., is a tinner by trade, is engaged in the hardware business, and is in comfortable circumstances. His letters show him to be a man of intelligence and enterprise, as well as of generous humanity. He honors a worthy lineage, and we have been gratified by the interest, helpfulness and liberality he has manifested in our genealogical work. May his prosperity and welfare flourish under the divine Providence.

SARAH DIANA BALLOU^o, Alansonⁱ, Abraham^o, Simeon^o, Abrahamⁱ, John^o, Johnⁱ; Maturinⁱ; b. in Plymouth, Ohio, May 7, 1836; m. Norman Hamilton, son of Henry C. and Emeline (Shepard) Hamilton, b. in Charleston, Montgomery Co., N. Y., date not given; cer. in Farmersburg, Clayton County, Ia., July 1, 1855, by J. R. Cameron. Issue, all b. in said Farmersburg.—

These chn. were b. in Essex Co., N. Y., and in or near the town of Essex. Collin Ballou' was an industrious, frugal farmer. "He was a man of kind and genial disposition—full of mirth and pleasantry—always spreading around him a gleam of joyous sunshine. He was a member of the Methodist E. Church," and had for a wife a member of the same church, "an estimable christian lady." She d. July 31, 1848, a. 38 yrs. 10 mos. and 11 ds. She left seven young chn. to her sad husband's anxious care, and he cared for them well. They all lived to adult age. In March 1865 he removed to Farmersburg, Ia., where, for the most part, he made his home with his dr. Lucy Ann, Mrs. E. P. Hall, until his death. He d. very suddenly and painlessly, of heart disease, at Red Oak, Montgomery Co., Ia., while sitting in his chair surrounded by the family with whom he had been pleasantly conversing a few minutes previously, Jan. 9, 1882, a. 75 yrs. 10 mos. and 3 ds.

Iowa Infantry Vols., 1861, and served gallantly during the war. He participated in over thirty engagements, among which were the battle of Pea Ridge, the siege of Vicksburg, the capture of Lookout Mountain, Sherman's March to the Sea, the capture of Savannah, &c. He was appointed Sergeant at Woodville, Ala., in Jan. 1864, and honorably discharged at Dubuque, Ia., in 1865; serving through the great war of the Rebellion without receiving wound or injury, or having been in hospital a single day. After the war he had a contract on the Union Pacific R. R. in Nebraska. He bought considerable tracts of land in the far west, but came at length to an untimely and mysterious end. He was found dead by the roadside in Boliver, Polk Co., Mo., Aug. 29, 1870, supposed to have been murdered for his money. He had never been married, and his age was 37 yrs. 7 mos. and 18 ds.

Intelligent, excellent parents and children. The good wife and mother reports her family thus.—“William J., eldest son, is now a telegraph operator, employed by the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad Co. He is located at Solon, O. Edward L. is now attending the State Normal and Training School at Fredonia, N. Y. He intends to graduate in June, 1887, after four years of scholarship, in the Classical course. He is a member of the Methodist E. church. Our children have been kind and obedient, and are worthy and respected young men. They bid fair to be useful and honored, and have been very successful so far. My husband and myself are both members of the M. E. church in this place (Braceville, Ohio). He has been an official and a financial agent therein for a number of years. He has pursued the mercantile business here for about fifteen years.”

Y.; cer. in the winter of 1866, at or near Westport, N. Y. No issue reported. Chauncey Alanson⁶ was a devoted martial patriot. In 1861 he enlisted in Co. A, Regt. 77, N. Y. Vol. Inf., belonging to the 3d Brigade, 2d Division, and the 6th Army Corps. He served bravely during the war, and was honorably discharged. At the battle of White Oak Church his Regt. captured two brass field-pieces and several prisoners. In one of the bloody struggles before Richmond, Va., his Regt. lost 182 men and had but 150 left. Yet he lived to recount with satisfaction his perilous experiences, and to die on a peaceful bed,—always declaring that he was never sorry he enlisted, but glad to have fought and suffered for his country in her time of need. But his married life was lamentably brief. He died in Westport, N. Y., Aug. 1868, in the 29th year of his age. Nothing reported of his bereaved companion. We presume she is still living in her native vicinage.

The last named three sons, if not the first, were b. in the pleasant city of Burlington, Vt., where the parents long resided, occupying the front social rank. Hon. Phineas^r, the husband and father, was a man of active temperament, intelligent, enterprising, trustworthy, and eminently adapted to the transaction of public as well as private business. Few men have held more municipal offices. Besides a multitude of minor ones, in Burlington, he was an Alderman in 1866-7, President of the Aldermanic Board in 1867-8, and Mayor of the city for two consecutive terms in 1869 and '70. He was also City Representative in the Vermont Legislature in 1872. He was a very prominent Mason, being of the 33d Degree, and among the Odd Fellows Grand Master of the State. Meantime he patronized education, and gave one or more of his sons a full course of studies in the Vermont University.

At length his aspirations drew him to the far west. In 1874 he visited Nebraska, and a year later removed his family to Omaha. They remained there till 1876, when for some reason he went to Deadwood, Dakota Ter. There he soon after met with a fatal accident which terminated his life. No particulars given. He d. LUCIUS BALLOU^s, William^r, William^s, Simeon^s, Abraham^t, John^s, John^s, Maturin^t; b. in Essex, Vt., June 1, 1821; unmarried. He became a soldier in the Mexican war. He was a private in Co. E, 8th Regt. Infantry, Gen. Worth's Division; was at the capture of Vera Cruz, and in all the engagements to the capture of the city of Mexico. Thence he went with his Regt. to San Antonio, Texas, where he d. May 22, 1850, a. 28 yrs. 11 mos. and 21 ds. He seems to have inherited the martial spirit of his maternal grandfather, David Enos, who served seven years and a half in the Revolutionary war, having fought in the battles of Long Island, Monmouth, Germantown, storming of Stony Point, Brandywine and Yorktown. In 1812, the old veteran took the field again, and fought under Gen. McComb at the battle of Plattsburg. Thus blood and tales of glorious blood-shedding tell in children's children.

Harmon H. Ballou^s had the grit of soldiership. He enlisted, for the suppression of the Rebellion, in Co. F, 13th Regt. Vt. Vols., and served 6 mos., but had to be discharged for disability from rheumatism in his left hip-joint. This has since been dislocated, and he is now a cripple, but favored with a government pension of $24 per month. He went West in 1871, and his present home is on a fruit raising homestead in or near Juniata, Neb., with his chn. close about him. His sons carry on the farm successfully. They had not married at last advices, but one of them was expecting to be soon. Harmon^r is laudably interested in our Genealogy, and has encouraged us to the extent of his pecuniary ability.

Ballou⁷ to furnish us full family records of the whole descent. His address was given us as Dalton, N. Y. We wrote him once or twice, requesting the desired information, but received no reply. We regret our inability to do justice to the case.

Mrs. Maranda (Blair) Ballou d. June 18, 1854, a. 48 yrs. 5 mos. and 18 ds. Rev. Ransom' m. 2d Mary A. Green, dr. of Clark and Permelia (Joyce) Green, b. in Middlebury, N. Y., Mar. 14, 1817; cer. in Walcott, N. Y., Jan. 1856, by Rev. Matthew Swift. Issue, b. in Hannibal, N. Y.—

We have received the following biographical sketch of Rev. Ransom Ballou' from the pen of his youngest living son, William Hosea Ballou of Chicago, Ill. We perceive some errors in it which we will point out, and some doubtful statements which we will indicate in brief comments.

"Ransom Ballou was born in Brattleboro', Vt., (Charlestown, N. H., probably,) July 31, 1803. He was graduated at Yale College, or at least was educated there; entered the Protestant Methodist ministry; and spent four years and three months in travel about the Holy Land. On his return he became a celebrated divine,—preaching in Troy, N. Y., and other large cities. He was a great favorite of his uncle Hosea Ballou, the distinguished Universalist divine, with whom he often divided time in the pulpit, jointly discussing, before large congregations, the relative merits of Methodism and Universalism. [Rev. Hosea was not Rev. Ransom's uncle, but 2d cousin to his grandfather, Simeon Ballou.] At one time he was possessed of no little wealth, which was swept away by several disastrous fires, before the days of Insurance. As a result of his wide extended travels, he wrote a large volume entitled—Gems of Travel, illustrative of passages in the Holy Scriptures. This work was copyrighted, but, owing to his sudden death by quick consumption, was never published. In the Holy Land he led a great Caravan safely across the country, and his name became a terror to the Arabs. They believed the Evil One dwelt in his piercing black eyes, and were put to flight in every attack. He was a man of great physical strength and endurance. He was noted in New York as a foremost and uncompromising Abolitionist, and was one of the earliest founders of the Republican party in that State."

Though most of these alleged facts are new to us, we record them as authentic with some doubts on two points. 1. The intimacy between Revs. Ransom and Hosea Ballou, as exhibited in those joint pulpit discussions. Such may have taken place, but we recollect no mention or hint of it from the tongue or pen of Rev. Hosea, or in any of his Memoirs, which, if real events, it seems natural to have expected. 2. Rev. Ransom's ecclesiastical connection. William Hosea connects him with the denomination called Protestant Methodists. Another near relative, one of our correspondents, calls him a Wesleyan Methodist preacher. Hence we are left in some doubt with what sect of Methodists to place him. This, however, is a matter of small consequence. Evidently he was a man of stirring religious enterprise, executiveness and influence. He left a well illustrated life record, and ascended to a goodly mansion in the great Parental house. He d. of consumption at Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 9, 1866, a. 63 yrs. and 9 ds. His grave is in Blake Cemetery, in or near said Ogdensburg. His second worthy companion was surviving at last advices.

PHILANDER BALLOU^r, eldest son of Rev. Ransom, was born and died as above. He was a deaf and dumb child.

RANSOM BALLOU, JR.,^r b. as above, is supposed to have perished in what our informant calls the Cuban deluge—a catastrophe in the Island of Cuba of which we have no knowledge. His sister Matilda had a letter from him in 1868. He was then in Havana, Cuba. She never heard from him again. But we have just learned from his eldest sister, Mrs. Maranda (Ballou) Davenport of Brooklyn, N. Y., too late for correspondential research, that two sons of his are now residing in Bridgeport, Ct., viz.—

Charles Y. Davenport was of Albany, N. Y., when m. to Maranda Ballou, and there they spent the first two years after mge. Their eldest child was b. there, but in May, 1852, they moved to Buffalo, N. But death cut him off in the prime of middle age, Nov. 16, 1875, in his 51st year, leaving his stricken widow with seven chn. to care for, the youngest a babe of 7 weeks. She has been a woman of many maternal responsibilities and afflictive sorrows—aggravated by fraudulent deprivations of the property her husband left at his death. But the widow's God has sustained her through all her sad experience. Her present home is with her kind children in Brooklyn, N. Y. We subjoin what she has given us concerning her married children.

Mrs. Matilda⁶ is a live woman. She responded promptly to our call, gave us much information about her family relatives, and manifested an earnest desire to post and be posted on the Ballou Genealogy. This, of course, greatly pleased us; for sluggishness and stolidity are not refreshing to genealogical inquirers. They naturally like prompt and communicative respondents. She does not tell where her chn. were born, but we take for granted it took place in the family home, Fulton, N. Y. Her husband is a millwright, an ingenious mechanic, and a successful inventor. Her oldest son inherits his father's genius, and displays it in the artistic line of fancy painting and music. Her three younger sons have bright capabilities, and promise well. All remain unmarried as yet, and the family home is cheerful.

PHILENA BALLOU⁷, 2d of the same name, b. as above; m. John McBride, in Oswego Co., N. Y.; d. Dec. 9, 1862, a. 23 yrs. 11 mos. and 23 ds. No chn. reported. Her husband was also short lived.

ABIGAIL JULIA BALLOU⁷, b. and d. as above, a. 17 yrs. 6 mos. and 6 ds. She was a promising school-teacher, and died at Fair Dale, N. Y., of dropsy on the brain.

MIRON SMITH BALLOU⁷, b. as above; said to have a family and home in the Black Rock district of Buffalo, N. Y. Sought anxiously to find him by correspondence, but he gave back no echo.

WILLIAM HOSEA BALLOU⁷, Rev. Ransom⁷, William⁶, Simeon⁶, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Hannibal, N. Y., Sept. 30, almost Oct. 1, 1857. He is a literary bachelor, yet comparatively young, but already distinguished for his genius, accomplishments and authorship. As we do not consider ourself a competent judicial connoisseur in the realm of high literature, and might fail to describe intelligibly the varied learning illustrated by this cousin, we have chosen to insert the following sketch kindly furnished by his own hand.—

“ His father was a celebrated Protestant Methodist clergyman, a leading Abolitionist, and a persistent traveller in Oriental lands. The father, at one time a man of wealth, died in 1863, leaving the son and mother in straightened circumstances. At an early age William Hosea persuaded his mother to reside with the children by her first husband, who were well-to-do, and leave him free to earn his education. He earned his own support while receiving a common school education, and an academic one at Mexico, N. Y. This he did easily by stuffing birds and mammals and performing the duties of janitor of the academy. These duties, in the days of 1871–2–3, consisted of sweeping the rooms, building the fires, and filling the big wood-boxes of the three stories with cord-wood. He then entered the service of the United States Lake Survey and of the Mississippi River, rising from the ordinary service of oarsman to a high office. He was recorder of the scientific survey of Niagara Falls and Canyon, in 1876, to determine the wear of the former and the depth of the latter, etc. While in the Mississippi River service, he made archæological collections for the Smithsonian Institution. In the fall of 1879, he entered the Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, and pursued an eclectic course, mainly in natural science. He earned his University expenses as correspondent of Chicago dailies, and as assistant literary editor of one of them. His first contributions to the press were made, at the age of 17, to the Mexico, N. Y., Independent, on the origin of words. His first magazine article was published in the American Naturalist, while he was in the University. In 1881, he left the University and entered the ranks of journalism. With no intention of becoming a scientist, he has always made a study of science with a view of keeping abreast of the real progress of modern times. While pursuing these studies as a recreation, he accomplished some original research. His paper on the life history of the white pine, read before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and that on the life history of eels, read before the Chicago Academy of Sciences, are standards; as is also much of his studies in the physics of rivers and the Gulf Stream, the habits of animals, etc. His very large collections of specimens he donates to the University. Influenced, no doubt, by his favorite author, Goethe, a many-sided man, he has travelled this continent thoroughly, and a mass of his illustrated sketches have appeared in the publications, so far, of Frank Leslie, the Harpers, etc. His art and nature poems are as widely copied and known as those of any of the writers of the younger generation. His best efforts in literature so far, and those which have attracted the widest attention, appear in the North American Review. As might be expected from his ancestry and training, he is an evolutionist, and thinks and writes along the forward edge of the most advanced line of thought—advancing it further with every effort. His favorite work is the novel, and, as he abhors realism in fiction, he exerts his creative thought in the direction of a new school. In all his literary efforts a lofty spirit of intellectual good to the human race and even the lower animals underlies his work. As a result, his personal associates, at the age of 30, are the most distinguished men and women of the times. In 1885, a New Orleans paper said of him:—‘It can truly be said that no young man of twenty-eight years now living carries such a weight of honors for varied accomplishments. The best part of this history of a brilliant career is that Mr. Ballou’s genius commands and receives both acknowledgment and remuneration.’ At the present writing he is a bachelor, and a contributor to thirty-five of the leading magazines and periodicals.”

John Kerr Moore had quite a distinguished parentage and ancestry. His father, Rev. Thomas Moore, was a graduate of Dartmouth College, certified by a diploma dated 1774, and bearing the seal of King George III. He was long a regular Presbyterian clergyman, and was a Chaplain of the Revolutionary Army during much if not the whole of the war. His family claimed lineal descent from the old English Dukes of Argyle—how warrantably we know not.

Yet, if her husband had an ancient and honorable descent Mrs.

Sarah his wife was not his inferior in personal worth. She was a capable, intelligent and executive woman, as well as a virtuous and good one. She was an approved school teacher from the age of fourteen years to the time of her marriage, and never disappointed the promise of her youth in riper life as a wife and mother down to widowed grey hairs.

Mr. Moore did not betake himself to professional learning, but to industrial agriculture, and necessary homely usefulness; in which his wife proved herself his efficient helpmeet. For several years their family residence was in Somerset, O. Later in life they were induced to remove to Monticello, Ind. Their social standing was highly reputable, and they became the parents of an intelligent, enterprising family. There Mr. Moore d. in the prime of middle age, Feb. 19, 1844, a. 40 yrs. 10 mos. and 6 ds.

Mrs. Sarah was left with a fatherless brood of young chn., but bore her responsibilities with a worthy bravery. She finally d. in Williamsport, Ind., while on a visit to her dr. Bryant's, June 24, 1871, a. 67 yrs. 8 mos. and 2 ds.

Thomas Moore^a is an intelligent, enterprising, reputable man, worthy of his progenital stock, a professional lawyer, a patriotic soldier in the late civil war, engaged in various public and private business, now for several years settled in Santa Fe, New Mexico, and much interested in our Ballou Genealogy. Social standing of himself and family prominent.

Welcome B. Moore³, has his home and business in Bloomington, Ill. By occupation he is a marble cutter, and a master workman in it. He is a man of strong mental ability, executive enterprise, and toilsome industry. He had a good physical constitution and a generous, self-sacrificing heart. He was but 12 years of age at his father's death. Being much more robust than his elder brother, and capable of great working force, he became his mother's main dependence in providing for the family's support. The consequence was, as he represents the case, that he got little education or pecuniary gain, but contributed largely to the advancement of his juniors. And he describes his whole life-career as very much a similar service in behalf of his beloved relatives, of nearer or remoter affinity. He concludes a letter, referring to these matters, thus.—“I have not a single reflection because I am left as I am. I have still my family, whose reputation stands as fair in this world as the best in the land, and this is a great satisfaction to me.” His surviving sons and daughters are all doing eminently well.

John K. Moore, Jr., is at par with his race. He was well educated, studied law, and has practiced it more or less; served in the Union army during the civil war, first as private in the 94th Regt. Ill. Vols., soon, by promotion, became Hospital Steward in the regular U. S. Army, reporting to, and confidentially assisting Medical Inspector Lient. Col. Geo. W. Stipp of that army, all the time, in writing out his reports to the Department; and at length honorably discharged. Since marriage the principal places of family residence have been, first, in and near Bloomington, Ill., on a farm; then on a farm some years near Wellington, Kansas, then toward three years on a large Stock Farm in Kingman Co., Kansas, owned by a strong Cattle Co., who employed him as manager; and finally, as their permanent home, on the aforesaid farm near Wellington, Kans., where the whole household now reside in health and prosperity.

Thomas W. F. Bryant is a man of solid intelligence, enterprise and character—an attorney at law, civil officer and respected citizen. Mrs. Sarah Matilda honored her ancestry as a woman, wife and mother. They removed several years ago to Wellington, Kans., where a fatal casualty befel Mrs. Sarah Matilda, which caused her death. She was thrown from a carriage, and in consequence d. May 25, 1883, a. 43 yrs. 7 mos. and 27 ds. James P. Moore^r is represented by his kinsmen as an admirable specimen of humanity. His elder brother, Welcome B. Moore, seems to be proud of him, and all the more for having fostered him in childhood, and in youth given him a very liberal education to set him up in the world. He went into the war for the Union soon after its outbreak with most patriotic devotion, and was made captain of a company either immediately or soon after its organization. His uncle, Dr. Leander T. Ballou, in a letter to Mr. Peck dated July 11, 1862, spoke of him thus.—“He is Captain in the 68th Regt. Ill. Vols., Inftry., now in Washington—not yet 21 years old—and is as fine a specimen of manhood in appearance, and I think in principle, as we have in the service.” He went through the contest, and came out with unsullied honor in safety. We have had no communication from him, but understand from his brother Welcome B., that he has latterly resided in Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., where he is a business man of influence—a railroad director, operator in real estate transactions, and held in high esteem.

Dr. Welcome Ballou' is spoken of in the highest terms by all our correspondents who refer to him. Where he acquired his medical education is not told, but it must have been an adequate and accomplished one. Nothing is said by our correspondents about the excellencies of Mrs. Celia Ann⁷, but her husband is highly extolled. We shall assume that she was worthy of him, and was only overshadowed by his merits. He was primarily a distinguished farmer, but something more. He resided in Cumberland, O., till 1866, and then removed to Shirley, Ill. His brother-in-law, Dr. Leander T. Ballou, says of him, in a letter to Mr. Peck, dated June 5, 1862, what follows.—“John Foster, my sister’s husband, is now about 55 years of age, and with him life has been a success; he is wealthy. He first made himself, and then his property. He is a man of extraordinary shrewdness in business, though fair and honorable. He is a farmer, and the best one I ever saw. He has been engaged in merchandise, also ware-housing, in Chicago. He has held no office, because he would not accept any. He was pressed for Congress by his friends two years ago, but declined in Convention, when he stood a fair chance for nomination. He can make a good speech, and is generally intelligent on all subjects. In short, he is a character that is creditable to any age or country.”

Mr. Wartenbe came with his parents, while a young child, from Winchester, Va., to Salt Creek, near Zanesville, O. His father was a millwright and mill owner. He was trained to the same calling, and distinguished himself therein. After marriage and the birth of two chn. in Zanesville, he removed with his family in 1842 to Duncans Falls. There two more chn. were born, and the only son d. of scarlatina, much lamented. In 1851 he undertook an excursion further West, hoping to find a more eligible location for business and a home. Unfortunately the change of water proved fatal to his health, caused an attack of dysentery, and he d. on his way home, in the fraternal care of a very kind physician in Cincinnati, O., June 2, 1851, a. 41 yrs. 2 mos. and 14 ds. His remains were conveyed to the bereaved family abode at Duncans Falls, and received appropriate funeral honors amid the lamentations of all who knew him. Mrs. Lorinda^r bore her sore affliction with exemplary Christian resignation, devoted herself to the care and education of her fatherless little ones, and was divinely sustained under all her trials. She has lived to see her eldest marry and die, and to be a fostering grandmother to her four orphans. Her home is in Granville, O., being still capable and vigorous, at the age of 72 years. She has been very helpful in promoting this genealogical work.

Mrs. Laura Ballou (Wartenbe) Spellman^r died in Shirley, Ill., Nov. 7, 1872, a. 33 yrs. 3 mos. and 19 ds. Her four little ones went into the fostering care of her kind mother and equally kind unmarried aunt Emma Wartenbe. The latter has found no time to think of marriage, but has consecrated herself day and night to the welfare of these four loved ones, coöperatively with their grandmother, till now they are graduating most promisingly in scholastic attainments and qualifications for solid usefulness.

EDITH WARTENBE^r, Lorinda Ballou^r, Welcome^e, &c.; b. at Duncans Falls, 9 miles below Zanesville, O., Jan. 13, 1850; m. Rev. James Brayton Stone of Brooklyn, N. Y.; cer. in Granville, O., Aug. 28, 1873. He was a young Baptist clergyman of eminent promise, but brief mortal life. He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1849; graduated at Dennison University, O.; spent three years at the Baptist Theological Seminary in Rochester, N. Y.; and finally became pastor of the First Baptist church in Lebanon, O. There, in the flower of prospective usefulness, he d. of typhoid fever, Oct. 23, 1874, a. 25 yrs. 1 mo. and 22 ds. He left no issue. His youthful and worthy widow has resided since her sad bereavement in Granville, O., contributing all she could, with her mother and sister Emma, for the maintenance of a common, comfortable home.

Aurelius Ballou' is a man of fine mental endowments, a natural thinker on many subjects, of humane sensibilities, religious aspirations, and high moral character. He was intellectually predisposed to scholarship, but cramped by adverse circumstances; studied for the medical profession awhile, but the fates baffled him; was a popular school-teacher for several years; is quite a literary reader and writer; is gifted with poetic inspiration, and delights in rhythmic versification. He has favored us with two specimens of his effusional pen, which we should be glad to insert, had we not become alarmed at the threatening over-size of our volume. One of these effusions is on his old parental family Bible, and the other a partly prosaic and partly poetic description of a remarkable geological formation called Flint Ridge, in Franklin Township, Licking Co., O. At the base of this Ridge he and his son Charles Edward have their farm home, their families residing happily together. Aurelius says.—“Flint Ridge, at the base of which is our home, long since went into history as the home of the Mound Builders. Quite a large part of the summit is covered with flint stones. Many of the smaller ones are densely covered with crystals—the depositions of silex or silica. These crystals are generally transparent, but many reflect all the colors of the rainbow. They are often found in the crevices of larger stones, which mingle with the earth to a great depth. Ancient quarries and the outlines of ancient fortifications and mounds obtain. I have been a half-invalid for thirty-seven years. It became necessary for me to live an out-door life. I succeeded in getting about eighty acres of unimproved land, where we now live. As a nest in the hills, it is quite comfortable and rather pretty now. We have been working twenty-six years to make it so. I heard my father say, two weeks before his death, that no child of his ever made him blush with shame; and I can say the same of mine. We have had the approbation of every community in which we have lived; and I worked for it, when I could do so without sacrificing principle. In many instances I have held positions that were responsible, though subordinate. They were not very lucrative, but made me useful, or seemed to, and gave me some notoriety—not fame. As a family, we have an abiding faith in God, in Christ, in the atonement, in the Holy Spirit, and in the Resurrection."

We learn from his letters to Mr. Peck an outline of his general character and history. It seems that he chose the medical profession in his ripening youth, and passed through the requisite studies mainly before his brother, Dr. Welcome Ballou⁷, died in 1844. That event devolved such an amount of care and business upon him that he did not formally graduate till 1850. He received his diploma with the degree of M. D. from the Medical Institution in Cleveland. Meantime he had married in 1845, and was already a practitioner. He pursued his practice for 9 years in Cumberland, O., and then in Newark, O., for the remainder of his days, always with fair success. What his religious predilections were, we do not learn, but he maintained a high moral tone, and claims that his Ohio branch of Ballous were all of the same stamp. He says.—“There has as yet been no stain or blot on their fair character; and, God willing, we intend to keep it pure. Some may have been more successful, but none more honorable.” In politics, he seems to have been proud to claim conservative attachments, first to the old Whig party, and then to the Republican party, “as opposed to slavery in any form, and yet free from the extravagance of ultra abolitionism.” At the outbreak of the Secession war, he wrote.—“We have no traitors to our country in this branch of the Ballou family, and I ardently hope you have none there.” Dr. Leander T. Ballou died in Newark, O., Nov. 2, 1874, a. 52 yrs. 10 mos. and 23 ds. His respected widow resides in said Newark.

We get no hints from our communicated papers concerning the occupation, life-career, or distinctive characteristics of this William Ballou or of his wives. But we infer from the places of his residence—Belchertown, Springfield, Ware, etc., that he was a man of enterprise, and probably some kind of trader or mechanic. Waiving such considerations, we find that he d. prob. in Ware, Mass., Nov. 6, 1873, a. almost 73 yrs. Mrs. Angelina, his 2d wife, d. Mar. 30, 1876, a. 60 yrs. 11 mos. and 5 ds.

Thomas Howard Ballou is a respectable farmer of Belchertown, Mass., with a worthy and fruitful wife. As may be seen above, they have faithfully performed their duty in multiplying the Ballous. Meantime he has been a patriotic soldier of his country in her time of need. He went to the bloody war in Co. H., 46th Regt. Mass. Vols. Enlisting Sept. 1, 1862, he passed into camp at Springfield, and in due course of transportation arrived in Newbern, N. C. He fought in the battles of Newbern, Goldsboro', Kingston, Sandy Hook, Antietam, &c., and survived them all to share in the general triumph of a restored Union. He takes a laudable interest in our Genealogy, and we hope he and his family will enjoy it.

Only two others of this family survive the ravages of death—two sons.

He belongs to a considerable class of such well-wishers.

This has been one of our most difficult families to trace. Between several fractional informants we have been sorely puzzled to digest the imperfect data above presented. We were so unfortunate as to get no responses from several of the families to whom we addressed respectful calls for information. We must therefore crave some allowance for our errors and defects. If we rightly understand our informants, Hiram Ballou⁷ settled first at Crown Point, N. Y., as a marble worker, and afterward in Smyrna, N. Y. He carried on the marble business through life with fair success, and left a reputable record. He d. in Smyrna, N. Y., Apl. 3, 1843, a. 39 yrs. 2 mos. and 12 ds. Mrs. Betsey, his wid., d. Daniel F. Ballou⁸ is a worthy man. He responded comendably to our call for his family record, gave us some valuable information about his father, and subscribed for a copy of the Genealogy, and all this though suffering privation from blindness, and being otherwise in moderate circumstances. He followed farming in Belchertown till 1872, when his eyesight failed him in consequence of a severe blow received on his head in boyhood. Since then he has done the best he could as a canvasser for the Illustrated Bible and other works.

ABIGAIL BALLOU^o, Hiram^r, George^e, &c.; no birth-date found; said to have m. a Mr. Jenness, and to have d.—all somewhere in the State of N. Y. We do not feel certain whether this indefinite report from one of our informants can be depended on. We give it as received.

WILLIAM BALLOU^r, Hiram^r, George^e, Simeon^s, Abrahamⁱ, John³, John², Maturinⁱ; b. in Smyrna, N. Y., June 2, 1833; m. Julia A. Holloway, dr. of Whitman and Mary (Brown) Holloway, b. in Springfield, Mass., Apl. 28, 1834; cer. in Ware, Mass., Nov. 28, 1851. Issue, b. in said Springfield.—

We wrote this William Ballou^r at Springfield, Mass, and sent him our printed circular, but received no response. If we had we should have known much better what to say in this entry. There seems to have been a mysterious and very unpleasant truancy from his family in 1863, which lasted for many years. The most we know about it is derived from an item printed in one of the Springfield papers, and sent to us in 1885. It is as follows.—

"William Ballou, formerly a policeman in Springfield, who went to the Idaho mines in 1863, and from whom nothing has been heard for about nineteen years, returned home a few days since with sufficient wealth to keep his family in good circumstances. He was supposed to have been dead, and his wife long ago had a divorce on the ground of neglect. He had heard she was married again, and so never made himself known."

We inferred that a reconciliation and reunion might have taken place, and that all was probably going well. If he had only told us so, we should have been glad. As it is, we will hope so. Respecting Mrs. Julia and her three sons, our researcher and informant, who visited her in 1883, Rev. Anson Titus, reported all things of character and standing most favorably. May they all see better days.

LUCINDA BALLOU^u, Hiram⁷, George⁶, Simeon⁵, Abraham⁴, &c., b. prob. in Smyrna, N. Y., at a date not ascertained; said to have married Samuel Wood and to be, or to have been, resident in St. Joseph, Ia. We have had no communication from this family, and must leave them out of our record.

HIRAM BALLOU, JR.,^u Hiram⁷, George⁶, Simeon⁵, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b., we presume, in Smyrna, N. Y., date not ascertained. Hiram⁷ is another of our non-responding cousins. We were told he resided in Westfield, Mass. We addressed him there, but obtained no reply. We are therefore obliged to speak of him in broken genealogical phrases. He is reported to have m. 1st Julia —, by whom he had 3 chn.—Carrie, Lizzie and a son. No birth-place or birth-dates being given of the daughters, and not so much as the son's name, we will not bring them into numeral order. Mrs. Julia obtained a divorce, and with it the custody of the chn. Their residence E. Brookfield, Vt. Hiram⁷ m. 2d Laura —; 3d Betsey —; and 4th Sarah J. (Drake) Ballou, widow of his nephew Charles Ballou, as before mentioned. He has one child by this 4th marriage,—no name given. This is all that has reached us; and we are not half as well pleased with it as if he had himself reported and explained his own record. But we must give this or nothing.

ABRAHAM BALLOU^u, Hiram⁷, George⁶, Simeon⁵, Abraham⁴, John³, John², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Smyrna, N. Y., not far from 1839; m. 1st — Wellington, dr. of Levi and Mary E. Wellington, birth-place, birth-date, &c., not given; cer. Jan. 13, 1860. Issue.—

5421—1. Della M.,⁹ b. Milford, Mass., Mar. 5, 1861; d. June 4, 1865.

5422—2. Carrie M.,⁹ b. Northfield, Vt., Dec. 9, '62.

5423—3. Eckly³, b Keokuk, Ia., Apl. 6, '65; d. Sept. 19, 1867.

5424—4. Helen M.,⁹ b. Barre, Vt., Dec. 6, '71.

5425—5. Fred E.,⁹ b. Spencer, Mass., July 6, '75.

First wife died at a date not given. Abraham⁷ m. 2d Sarah F. Barnes; cer. in Lynn, Mass., Sept. 25, 1885, by Rev. A. A. Williams. No issue reported. Abraham Ballou⁷ has resided in several different localities, as must be inferred from the birthplaces of his children, and passed through various vicissitudes of prosperity and adversity. He has now for some time been well situated in Lynn, Mass., No. 4 Chapman Place, where he successfully manufactures "Ladies' Fine Hand-sewed Boots and Shoes." May his last days be preëminently his best.

ISAAC BALLOU^r, Hiram^r, George^o, Simeon^o, Abraham^r, John^o, John^o, Maturin^r; b. prob. in Smyrna, N. Y., at a date not ascertained; was reported to us as resident in Lebanon, N. Y., and we addressed him accordingly. We hoped he would give a good account of himself and family, but profound silence was the only answer.

RHODA ANN BALLOU^o, youngest dr. of Hiram^r; m. 1st William Shye. He died in the Army. She m. 2d a Mr. Dunbar, and is reported to reside in West Eaton, N. Y. She is said to be the mother of 2 sons and 2 drs.—no names or birth-dates given. We made an appealing call on her for her family record, but got no answer. So we leave the above as our only received data in her case.

[1788.] AMOS BALLOU^r, George^o, Simeon^o, Abraham^r, John^o, John^o, Maturin^r; b. perhaps in Providence, R. I., or its general vicinity, not far from 1805. We once received a hint of this Amos Ballou's residence somewhere in the State of N. Y., but never obtained any sufficient clew for his tracement. He has eluded our net, and we must hand him down to our successors in Ballou genealogy, with a considerable number of other stragglers.

Here would have come in the descendants of George Ballou^o, by his 3d wife, had any of them been reported.

There are descendants of David Ballou^o, Abraham^r, John^o, John^o, Maturin^r, scattered over the West, which ought to be noticed in this part of our work. But we regret that we have found it impracticable to open correspondence with them and ascertain their recent status. There are not many of them, and of the few known to us we have only fragmentary reports made to Mr. Peck 25 yrs. ago. To some of these we will briefly refer.

[1805.] ASIA BALLOU^r, Asa^o, David^o, Abraham^r, John^o, John^o, Maturin^r; b. in Gloucester, R. I., 1798; m. Smith D. Thornton; cer. in Foster, R. I., Sept. 22, 1816. We do not clearly understand from her letters to Mr. Peck, but infer that they emigrated soon after marriage to Chenango Co., N. Y., and thence a little later to Roscoe, near Beloit, Wis. Mrs. Asia^r reported herself the mother of five chn.—2 sons and 3 drs. But she gave the name of her youngest son only.—

5426—1. Orcus F. Thornton.

No birth-dates were given. All were grown up, and most of them married. The oldest son and the daughters were well settled—the son in Illinois and the drs. in Wisconsin, at no great distance from Beloit. Orcus F. was in California at Silver Mountain, an influential managing officer in a large mining company. We judge the whole family to have been intelligent and enterprising. The father, Smith D. Thornton, died March 20, 1860. Whether Mrs. Asia' is living or deceased, we have not ascertained.

[1806.] VARNUM S. BALLOU', Asa^a, David^a, Abraham', John^a, John^a, Maturin'; b. in Glocester, R. I., 1802; m. Freelove Thornton, dr. of Capt. Jonathan and Freelove (Turner) Thornton, b. in Norwich, N. Y., Feb. 11, 1800; cer. in said Norwich sometime during Feb. 1825. Issue, b. in said Norwich.—

5427—1. Lydia, b. May 23, 1826; m. 1st Jno. O. Barr, 2d J. O. Bright.

Varnum S. Ballou' d. in Norwich, N. Y., Sept. 1853, a. about 51 years. Mrs. Freelove (Thornton) Ballou died Mar. 2, 1852, a. 52 yrs. and 22 ds. Both believed to have been reputable people of the farmer class.

LYDIA BALLOU', Varnum S., Asa^a, David^a, Abraham', John^a, John^a, Maturin'; b. in Norwich, N. Y., May 23, 1826; m. 1st John Orson Barr, son of Matthew Barr, b. in Norwich aforesaid, Nov. 16, 1820; cer. in Norwich Mar. 30, 1842. Issue, the eldest b. in Norwich, N. Y., the others in Avon, Wis.—

5430—2. Mary Adelaide Barr^a, b. Sept. 27, '52; m. Dec. 22, 1870; name not given.

5431—3. John Orson Barr, Jr.,^a b. Nov. 16, '54; m. June —, 1879; name not given.

Mr. Barr was an industrious, respectable farmer. He died in Avon, Wis., Dec. 25, 1861, a. 41 yrs. 1 mo. and 9 ds. Mrs. Lydia^a m. 2d John Osman Bright, son of John and Mary (Osman) Bright, b. in Axbridge, Somerset Shire, Eng., Nov. 9, 1834; cer. in Avon, Wis., Nov. 9, 1863. Issue, b. there.—

5432—1. Leander Bright^a, b. Dec. 23, 1864.

5433—2. Edwin Bright^a, b. Mar. 3, '66.

Mr. Bright is also a farmer. He and his companion are in good social standing among the yeomanry of their vicinage. She is a pious Second Adventist; he a christened Methodist, and as a citizen a loyal Democrat.

LEANDER ANDERSON BALLOU^r, Varnum^r, Asa^e, David^s, Abrahamⁱ, John^s, John^r, Maturinⁱ; b. in Norwich, N. Y., Aug. 25, 1830; m. Mary Handlin Beals, dr. of William Chapman and Mary Ann (Beals) Beals, b. in Cuyahoga Falls, Summit Co., O., Sept. 3, 1836; cer. in Beloit, Rock Co., Wis., Mar. 5, 1855, by Judge E. P. King. Issue.—

John S. Ballou' is a very intelligent, enterprising, self-sustaining man, happily married, in good employment as a bookkeeper, and enjoying a comfortable home. His history is almost romantic from the peculiarities of his father, mentioned in his remarkable record [552]. His mother, being from Scotland and little informed of her husband's family connections, and his father dying while his son was an infant, the latter grew up to a young man in wondering ignorance as to his paternal ancestry. But he was smart enough to find out by beginning with the Boston record of his father's marriage, and tracing the clew to Tunbridge, Vt. There he soon presented himself to the paternal relatives, who were utterly astonished to behold a living fac simile of Sanford Jackson Ballou^a, of whom they had heard nothing for over 22 years, and never expected to more. There was rejoicing on both sides. In a well-written letter to us, narrating his research and subsequent experience, he says, among many interesting things.—“You cannot imagine how pleased I was to find myself of New England stock. I have a nice little home, being very happy with my wife. I have had to look out for myself, and am at present [Apl. 1885,] bookkeeping at Hancock Oil Works, E. Boston, Mass. I am very proud of my name, and will have one of the books when ready.”

A cloud of melancholy would enshroud this family record, were death the hopeless abyss of oblivion which skeptical philosophy imagines. They have all passed out of this mortal state, parents and children, without a single descendant to inherit their excellent blood, name and fame. But they inherit together the deathless mansions of that Christian immortality in which they firmly believed, and whose bow of hope ever glowed in their mundane skies. Hosea Ballou, 2d, was a superior man, intellectually, morally and socially. He had none of that brilliancy that dazzles, astonishes and captivates the multitude, or even the comparatively small multitude who gyrate in the literary atmosphere and sip only intoxicating nectar from the flowers of genius. Such would deem him dull and common place. His whole make-up was of solid and intrinsic worth—free from glitter, ostentation, assumption and pretension. He attained to very considerable learning and knowledge, but earned it all by diligent and persistent mental application. He was a profoundly religious man, without the help of artificial stimulants, and without exuberant demonstrations, or formalistic sanctity. He was an exemplary moralist from well settled general principles, and with few specialties. He was a clear, discriminating thinker and reasoner, under the inspirations of patient common sense, downright honesty and unsophisticated natural logic. He was fallible, but his errors and misjudgments, like those of all just and truthful men, never originated in the base motives of a corrupt or careless heart. As a preacher, he was somewhat slow of utterance, simple, plain, lucid, direct to the point, eminently instructive—free from all rant and fanciful rhetorical flourish. He was not equal to his great uncle in popular address and the use of striking illustrations, but superior to him in soundness of doctrinal premises and logical deduction. They agreed in their grand doctrinal conclusions and in their ecclesiastical relations, but not always in their minor theological speculations, positions, reasonings and conclusions. In private life and ordinary social intercourse, though both were kind-hearted, Hosea, 2d, was the more approachable and genial—more winsome to strangers and diffident persons, and more adapted to inspire confiding personal friendship. He was a man to be loved, as well as respected and trusted. What such a man must be in his domestic circle and intimate associations, need not be specifically described. He must be pleasant, agreeable and lovable; especially when inexhaustible and witty good humor, as in this case, spiced all the other qualifications.

He commenced his life career a farmer boy, in the southerly part of Vermont, on the eastern slope of the Green Mountains, with scanty prospect of ever becoming a learned man. The common schools of his vicinage were rudimental and meager, but eagerly improved; and while faithfully performing the ordinary duties of his home life, his bosom burned with aspirations for higher knowledge. He acquired the rudiments of Latin under the tuition of Rev. Mr. Wood, and never let go of it. He had a few other semi-academic helps, and thenceforth helped himself till he was master of an excellent classical education. At the age of seventeen he became the subject of a deep religious experience, which gave tone and stamina to all after life. It tempered down into firm convictions of the Universalist faith, and resulted in his becoming a luminous preacher of that gospel, on the general ground of what has since been termed Restorationism. This probably prevented his ever being swept away by specious magnifications of Divine Sovereignty from the indispensable necessity of human agency and concurrence in the process of personal salvation.

After the best preparations which circumstances permitted for the ministry, he settled as pastor over a society in Stafford, Ct. There he remained five years. Next he settled in Roxbury, Mass., where his pastorate lasted seventeen years. His next and last pastorate settlement was in Medford, Mass, and continued sixteen years. Few pastors ever watched over their flocks more diligently, faithfully and successfully, and few were more beloved by the old and young. But pastoral and pulpit duties comprised only a part of his labors. He was a hard student of the higher knowledges; a careful examiner of books in the great Library of Harvard University, and other institutions in the neighborhood of Boston; a literary critic; an editor of weekly, monthly, and quarterly periodicals, and a standard author. His Ancient History of Universalism, published in 1829, will remain for ages a monument of his vast research, critical discrimination, and historic reliability. It gives the doctrine of universal salvation a pre-eminence, dignity and influence which time will only magnify. We cannot go farther into the productiveness of his toil-earned, patiently acquired learning. It procured for him, in 1845, the well deserved Honorary title of D. D., conferred by Harvard University. Such titles are of little intrinsic value when weighed in Christ-like scales, but in the scales of human literature they are of honorable account. And one bestowed on Rev. Hosea, 2d, never honored a worthier recipient. It had never before decorated one of his denomination. He wore it to Europe on an enjoyable tour of one year in 1854, and then in 1855 into the Presidential chair of Tufts College. In that distinguished and influential chair he remained till his death. For all that is really admirable and promising in the present status of the Universalist denomination, it is probably more indebted to Hosea Ballou, 2d, than to any other of its apostles. He could not have done what his great-uncle did, in moving public assemblies and founding societies, but a time had come for training, modifying, organizing and building up the denomination. It was an incoherent mass of theological and moral contrarieties—a stormy cloud of anti-orthodoxy, full of electrical elements, and driven to and fro by discordant winds. His was the genius to reconcile, solidify and direct its boiling forces. He did this very noiselessly and quietly, but very effectively. Why and how? 1. He was naturally and by self-discipline a conservative, cautious, prudent man on his own plane—a moderator. 2. He was a modest, genial, lovable man, in whatever circle he moved. 3. He was both a religious and rational man, earnestly intent on rendering individuals and societies something better than boisterous anti-errorists—exemplifiers of higher truths and principles. He was a builder with well-tempered mortar. 4. He was a head taller in sacred learning than most of his associates, and commanded the veneration of the rising generation—the young men preparing for the ministry. 5. He was a determined institutionalist in his denomination by gentle but persistent means, and averse to scatterationism in all its forms. Thus he proved himself “the right man in the right place.” The writer of this sketch did not always agree with him in particulars, but he always loved and respected him. He d. on College Hill May 27, 1861, a. 64 yrs. 7 mos. and 9 ds.

Mrs. Clarissa (Hatch) Ballou, his estimable widow, who had done all in her power to render her husband eminent and happy, d. Apl. 30, 1876, a. 80 yrs. 11 mos. and 23 ds.

Giddings H. Ballou* was commemorated by an obituary of his pastor, published in the Christian Leader of June 17, 1886, from which we extract the following testimonial sentences.—“He never possessed vigorous health, but yet had always led a busy, active and useful life. His mind was of the higher order, and he found his enjoyment in the higher duties and finer relations of life. An artist of good ability, for forty years he painted portraits that now, in a double sense, are cherished mementoes in many homes; also landscapes that are highly prized. Combining literature with art, and blending with both his genial humor, he furnished some of the most enjoyable illustrated articles that appeared in Harper's and other magazines. During the war he was secular editor of the Gospel Banner, and gained for that paper credit for an exceedingly carefully prepared and readable summary of the stirring events of that time. Later, for eight or ten years, he was in Government service, preparing statistics for the Bureau of Agriculture. Conscientiousness and fidelity were the leading traits of his character; and although so modest and retiring as to shrink always from public notice, he was thoroughly respected and esteemed by all who knew him well. He died, as he had lived, a Universalist. He left a widow to mourn his loss, but no children. With him the family record ends. There now remains no living descendant of Rev. Hosea Ballou, 2d." Giddings H. Ballou^c died in Chatham, Mass., where he had long lived, June 8, 1886, aged 65 yrs. 6 mos. and 28 ds.

CLARISSA HATCH BALLOU^c, next in age of Rev. Dr. Ballou's chn., was b. and d. as above specified. Her age was 4 yrs. 11 mos. and 5 ds.

CHARLES HOSEA BALLOU^c, Rev. Dr. Hosea^a, Asahel^a, Benjamin^a, Rev. Maturin^a, Peter^a, John^a, Maturin^a; b. in Roxbury, Mass., Dec. 1, 1826. He d. u. m. in Medford, Mass., May 2, 1880, a. 53 yrs. 3 mos. and 1 d. No obituary testimonial has been furnished us, or is recollected to have been published.

JULIA CREHORE BALLOU^c, next in age, b. and d. as aforesaid, was commemorated by an appreciative obituary in the Christian Leader of Dec. 6, 1883. She d. u. m. in Medford, Mass., Oct. 28, 1883, a. 55 yrs. 3 mos. and 18 ds. It is testified in her obituary as follows: "Julia inherited many of the characteristics of her father—his habitually cheerful disposition, his rare conscientiousness, and a measure of that genial humor which made his conversation always so delightful to his intimate friends. Faithful in the church, constant in the Sunday school, and always interested in the social circle, she filled her place in a quiet, pleasant way, which gladdened all hearts about her, and made her always welcome. Few lives have been more correct than hers. She is remembered with the sincere respect and tender affection of those who knew her best."

HARRIET ELIZA BALLOU^c, b. as above stated; m. Rev. Russell A. Ballou, and will be noticed in his family record. She died at College Hill, Mass., after a brief connubial life, Jan. 19, 1859, aged 28 yrs. 1 mo. and 18 ds.

MARY JANE BALLOU^c, Rev. Dr. Hosea⁷, Asahel^c, Benjamin⁵, Rev. Maturin¹, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Roxbury, Mass., Jan. 17, 1833; d. u. m. in Medford, Mass., June 16, 1885, a. 52 yrs. 4 mos. and 20 ds. Her character and worth were commemorated in the Christian Leader of July 16, 1885, thus.—“Mary, like her sister Julia, who but recently preceded her to the better world, was a woman of rare excellence—intelligent, self-possessed, conscientious, strong in Christian faith and trust, patient in suffering, and always considerate of those about her. These two sisters had lived long together in closest intimacy, and to them, could they have known it, it would have been a pleasant thought that their separation was to be so brief. While their earthly remains lie side by side beneath the green turf in Mt. Auburn, they still live, and will be long and pleasantly remembered by those who have known and loved them.”

CAROLINE MARIA BALLOU^c, youngest child of this family, died, as shown in the above record, a tender infant, in the 2d yr. of her age.

It has been rather difficult for us to obtain desirable information concerning Asahel Ballou, Jr.⁷ Somehow his family record, life, and character have remained untold by those from whom we naturally expected a recital of the essential facts. What educational advantages, of lower or higher grade, Rev. Levi had, we are not informed, but have always supposed that they were comparatively moderate, and that he was largely self-taught. But he diligently improved the privileges within his reach, and by indomitable application made himself master of English scholarship, and perhaps to some extent of the classics. He thus qualified himself as a competent teacher, and successfully exercised that function for several years of his early manhood in his native State. Afterward, when settled in the ministry at North Orange, Mass., he long served as an efficient superintendent of the public schools. He studied theology with his brother, Rev.

William S. Ballou, and entered the ministry not far from the age of thirty years. To what societies he ministered in Vermont at the outset, we are not informed; but in 1843 he settled permanently in Orange, Mass., where he continued until death—some nineteen years. It was an eminently useful and happy pastorate. Between him and his parishioners there was a deep, affectionate and uninterrupted regard. He was the faithful servant and friend of all classes, and by all reverently appreciated. One who knew him well testified of him in an obituary notice.—“We never knew a more pure minded, upright man than he. He was possessed of a very kindly disposition and charitable spirit. One could not know him long and well without revering his manly, Christian qualities of mind and heart. He was a kind, devoted husband, an affectionate and faithful father, and in all his relations a genuine Christian gentleman.” He died somewhat suddenly of pneumonia Oct. 27, 1865, a. 59 yrs. 5 mos. and 17 ds. Mrs. Elvira, his estimable widow, survives him, and is still resident at N. Orange, Mass. In the absence of special testimonials, we must content ourselves with presuming confidently that both wives were eminently worthy of their revered husband. We believe there are now five children who remain to bless his memory and to honor their parental nurture.

[1860.] REV. WILLIAM S. BALLOU⁺, Asahel⁺, Benjamin⁺, Rev. Maturin⁺, Peter⁺, John⁺, Maturin⁺; b. in Halifax, Vt., Sept. 17, 1808; never married. The particulars of his education and preparation for the ministry have not been communicated to us; but however less or more favored in these respects, he became an able preacher in the Universalist denomination. He was settled six years in Hartland, Vt., then considerable periods in West Brattleborough, Strafford and Springfield in the same State, and later in Cheshire, Mass. His health was somewhat delicate, and he removed to Illinois, where, besides itinerant ministrations here and there, he efficiently interested himself in the business of raising funds for the Theological Department of Lombard University. He was always a devoted worker for educational institutions. Meantime he embarked somewhat extensively in secular affairs, and became a large landholder. His enterprise and sound judgment insured him ample prosperity, and he seemed to have large promise of financial means to help forward the good causes he loved. But sudden death supervened, and his spirit was translated to a higher sphere. He d. in or near Princeton, Ill., Aug. 27, 1865, a. 56 yrs. 11 mos. and 10 ds. It was testified of him in his obituary.—“He was a very able preacher, and a very upright, honorable man—worthy of his relationship to his two brothers of the same profession. Whoever listened to his preaching had the privilege of hearing the discussion of important themes in clear and concise reasoning. He felt a deep interest in the purity and prosperity of his denomination, and desired that its foundations should be firmly laid on Christ the rock of ages, and there abide.”

Hon. Martin Ballou' studied law three years with Hon. Charles K. Field, in Wilmington, Vt., attended Harvard Law School in Cambridge, Mass., one Term of six months, then completed his legal acquirements in Hon. Mr. Field's office in Fayetteville, Vt., and was admitted to the Bar in June, 1859. He soon removed to Princeton, Ill., opened a law office, and has remained there ever since. He has held the honorable position of Circuit Judge and various others of responsible trust in Ill., discharging their duties to general acceptance, and mantling his ripening age with deserved public respect. We have made up his family record from a letter written by him to Rev. Russell A. Ballou in Feb. 1881. We sought more definite information from him on details of data, but he deemed what he had already written sufficient. We therefore acquiesced in his reticence. In the aforesaid letter he says of his children, in substance, what follows.—

CHARLES T. BALLOU⁺, b. as above; m. Luella Bates, dr. of Jacob Bates of Princeton, Ill., who came to Ill. from Cummington, Mass.; cer. Sept. 18, 1870. He is a dry goods merchant in Marshaltown, Iowa.

Dr. Alvin Ballou is too modestly reticent to furnish us even the rawest materials for a biographical sketch. He gives no hint about his medical education or success. But he cannot prevent our taking for granted that all these matters have been creditable to his constitutional worth. We will obtrude no further. He is now a resident in Grand Forks, Dakota, where we wish him abundant prosperity.

Darius Ballou⁷ was a Captain of militia in early manhood, and later held various offices of trust in the towns of Monroe, Mass., and in Readsboro', Vt.; was a sturdy subduer of the forest, and cultivator of the soil; was noted as a hunter of bears, &c., in the mountains of his general vicinity; and in a vigorous old age emigrated to Wisconsin. His record is full of startling encounters with fearful beasts, and he still delights to play Nimrod with the smaller animals of his adopted region; being yet hale and active at the age of eighty-two years. He is often out gun in hand, with his grand-children, thinning off the squirrels, when nothing more formidable calls forth his prowess. He can tell the young folks blood-curdling tales of the ferocious quadrupeds he mastered in his New England hunting exploits, and gives them to understand that they are puny heroes in that line. His present home is in Hilbert, Calumet Co., Wis.; but just when he removed thither our data in hand do not inform us. Mrs. Esther (Bishop) Ballou, his 2d wife, d. Jan. 24, 1884, but where is not specified—probably in Wisconsin.

Dr. Albert Darius Ballou^s, has led an eventful life. He left New England in 1852; staid in Ohio a few weeks, where he had an attack of Asiatic Cholera; crossed the Lakes amid the perils of an Equinoctial storm, which lasted five nights and four days—landing at Green Bay in Oct. He settled on the east shore of Lake Winnebago, where the Indians were still roaming, and there were no roads but their wonted trails. Privation and danger begloomed the pioneer life of the scanty population. The town of Harrison was organized the next year, and he was elected Town Clerk, an office which he held for the seven ensuing years. In attending elections, he was often obliged to remain at the polling stations till after midnight to complete his returns; and then to thread his way home alone, along the devious trail, sometimes crawling on his hands and knees over deep ravines on a fallen tree, his nerves thrilled by the distant howl of wolves. Such experiences, he says, were "not pleasant, or safe, but quite frequent."

Next came the civil war. He enlisted in Co. C, 10th Regt. Wis. Vols. Infantry, Sept. 1861; served in hospital of the Regt., till the summer of 1862; was then detailed to hospital No. 1, Huntsville, Ala., by order of the Division commander, Gen. O. M. Mitchell; was captured there, having volunteered to remain in care of the sick and wounded, when Gen. Buell evacuated the place; was paroled, and spent the winter in St. Louis, Mo., in camp of paroled prisoners, acting as Assistant Surgeon and Druggist; was exchanged and joined his Regt. at Murfreesboro' in Mar. 1863, being appointed its Hospital Steward, and remained with the Regt. till it was mustered out, Nov. 1, 1864. He participated in the battles of Tunnel Hill, Hoover's Gap and Peach Tree Creek, there serving as Assistant Surgeon. He was also on duty in the same capacity in the battles of Chickamauga and Mission Ridge, as also in all the battles and skirmishes shared by his Regt. during the Atlanta campaign.

Again he enlisted, Nov. 1864, and served in the hospitals at Madison, Wis., as Druggist and Assistant Surgeon until the war closed. He subsequently attended Lectures at Rush Medical College in Chicago, Ill., graduated with the class of 1869-70, and has practiced his profession most of the time since. Meantime he has taken an active part in the Temperance movement wherever he was—organizing Conventions, Lodges, &c., but considers his services in the army the great work of his life. His present home is in Delphos, Ottawa Co., Kansas. He has manifested a lively interest in the publication of this volume.

5700—2. Oscar.

We deplore such a presentation, chiefly because of its barrenness, and partly because we omitted to write to the father and sons for specific data. But we supposed, down to our final entry, that we had been furnished with all the documentary information needed. Yet on looking over our papers we found them vague and insufficient. We learn from them that Leavitt Ballou⁷ m. and had the above mentioned chn.; that he is, or was, a farmer in Blendon, Mich.; that 4 of his chn. d. long since; that his eldest son was at one time resident in Illion, N. Y., first as an artizan in the Remington Rifle manufactory, and later as a merchant; that Oscar, the second son, was a farmer residing near his father in Blendon, Mich.; that the youngest son, Perry E. Ballou, was for several years a travelling lecturer on Phrenology, &c., but at length settled down as a physician in some locality unmentioned; that all three had married and were probably raising offspring. This is all. Who of them all are now living, and how many grand chn. are growing up, we know not. Thus facts, names, dates and numbers elude the grasp of this compiler—perhaps to be found and registered by some more fortunate successor. This is a sample of too many cases.

 5707—6. Adelbert Maturin, b. W. Seneca, N. Y., Aug. 8, '57; d. Feb. 4, 1863.

Levi Ballou, Jr.,⁷ was in several respects a remarkable man—a born genius of his own general type—of quick perception, apt intellect, enterprising, executive, shrewd, full of good humor, social, and well adapted to make his way through a thorny world. He was thrown on his own resources in boyhood, saw some tough fare, passed through various adversities, but generally came out uppermost. From small, hard earned beginnings he rose to competence and a very considerable wealth. For many years he was largely engaged in the lumber business, and at his zenith held many responsible public offices in Buffalo, N. Y., his later home. He illustrated his filial reverence and devotion for his parents in their needy old age, kindly cherished them under his own roof, and laid their mortal remains in honored graves. He was very genial, and a great favorite among his numerous associates. He d. in Buffalo, N. Y., July 27, 1878, a. 68 yrs. 3 mos. and 17 ds. We do not find a word about his wife in any of the papers from which we have derived the foregoing family record and sketch—to tell us of her character, life, or death. But we do not thence infer anything to her disparagement, knowing the old time-worn fashion of estimating women, even the best, as mere appendages and relicts of their husbands. It is time, however, that such semi-barbarous fashions were buried out of sight.

Nor do the papers at our command tell us much of the five surviving sons and daughters of Levi Ballou⁷. We suppose most of them have chn. of our 9th generation. We will give what we have.

ELZINA AURELIA BALLOU⁸, Levi⁷, Levi⁶, Rev. David⁶, &c.; b. as above; m. William Evans, at Cowlesville, N. Y.; cer. Nov. 1861. They made Buffalo, N. Y., their permanent residence, and in 1884 had 5 chn.—no names given.

No children reported. She is said to be a woman of superior natural abilities, and has been engaged chiefly in teaching for more than 25 years.

AUGUSTINE LEROY BALLOU^a, Levi⁷, Levi⁶, Rev. David⁵, Rev. Maturin⁴, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. in East Hamburg, N. Y., Nov. 10, 1844; m. Fanny Smith, in Buffalo, N. Y.; cer. April, 1873. They res. in said Buffalo, and in 1884 had 3 chn.—no names given. He is highly intellectual, of literary habits, and genial disposition, much liked in the social circle, and a writer for the press.

LOVISA JANE BALLOU^a, the next of this family in age, b. as above; m. William C. Smith; cer. at Boston, Erie Co., N. Y., Oct. 4, 1868. They reside in Buffalo, and in 1884 had 4 chn.—no names given.

[1941.] CYNTHIA BALLOU^a, Levi⁶, Rev. David⁵, Rev. Maturin⁴, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Monroe, Mass., Aug. 17, 1812; m. John Hancy, at a date not given, but, as incidentally said, when she was between 40 and 50 yrs. of age. When the great civil war broke out, he enlisted in the Union army, and died in the service. Mrs. Cynthia, as his widow, recd. from Government several hundred dollars, and afterward a pension for life. They had no chn. She died Oct. 17, 1883, a. 71 yrs. and 2 mos. "Died, as she had lived, a consistent Christian."

[1942.] FATIMA BALLOU^a, Levi⁶, Rev. David⁵, Rev. Maturin⁴, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Homer, N. Y., May 2, 1816; m. William Sampson of Concord, N. Y.; cer. Mar. 15, 1840. Issue, b. in said Concord.—

5709—2. Luthera Sampson, b. Dec. 27, '46; u. m.; res. with parents.

This is an intelligent and morally high-toned family. One who knows and reverences Mrs. Fatima^a thus testifies.—"She is a true type of the Ballou family, as I understand them,—a thinking, sympathizing friend of humanity; in her every-day life conscientiously scrupulous in its minutest detail; cheerful and hopeful; a natural teacher—ever forgetful of self and thoughtful of others." Some of us hardly come up to this. The parents have always had their connubial home in Concord, N. Y., and dwell in a post-office locality called Woodward's Hollow.

DIANTHA SAMPSON^a, Fatima Ballou^a, Levi⁶, Rev. David⁵, &c., b.

as above; m. George D. Conger of North Collins, N. Y.; cer. Feb. 16, 1865. Issue.—

David^a, &c., b. as above; of rather delicate constitution and health; has never married, remains in the parental home, has a studious mind and cheerful disposition, “and is never so happy as when, with brush and pencil, she works out the wonders of lights and shadows.”

Y., Nov. 20, 1823; m. young a husband unfit for tolerable companionship, obtained a divorce, and thenceforth devoted herself to single usefulness. She resides in Buffalo, N. Y. One of her appreciative nieces says of her.—“She is a woman of remarkable fortitude, able to look through and beyond the dark clouds of adversity, with a faith that knows no fear. She has a noble, generous nature, in which selfishness has no part.”

[1944.] PHEBE BALLOU^a, Levi^a, Rev. David^a, Rev. Maturin^a, &c., b. in Otisco, N. Y., June 11, 1827; m. Suel Briggs, date of cer. not given. No issue. Their home is in New Amsterdam, Lacrosse Co., Wis. Only half these chn. remained on the mortal side of being in 1874, when the father reported his family record and other valuable information to Mr. Peck. Whether the survivors, or any of them, have since married and become parents, we have not been informed. We have only learned incidentally that Orsamus' passed away between 1874 and 1881. We presume Mrs. Mary, his consort, and the 4 chn. alive in 1874, to be still resident in Dryden, N. Y. It may suffice to add that Orsamus Ballou was a hard toiling, economical farmer, and highly respected for the virtues which characterized his progenitors.

William Terpenning of said Virgil, son of Marenus and Margaret Terpenning, b. June 2, 1817; cer. Feb. 2, 1845, by Sanford Bouton, J. P. Issue, all but the son b. in said Virgil.—

5722—4. Polly Annet Terpenning, b. Mar. 18, '54; d. Feb. 17, 1869.

A devout and exemplary family of Methodists throughout, and justly respected in their community. Mr. Terpenning is an industrious carpenter and joiner, yet more or less a farmer. Mrs. Clarissa^g grew up amid the toughening experiences of a pioneer settler's dr., and made an executive housewife, as well as a good mother. They have spent most of their days in Virgil, N. Y., where they still resided when last heard from—which was in 1874. What changes have since occurred, we know not. Probably some by marriage, birth or death.

EMMA DELANA TERPENNING', b. as above; m. John McWatters, b. in Ireland July 3, 1847; cer. in Virgil, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1873, by Rev. S. A. Luce. No issue reported. Mrs. Emma had much sickness in childhood; and does not enjoy good health in mature life.

EDDIE DUANE TERPENNING', b. in Lapeer, N. Y., at the above date; was u. m. in 1874, but may now be a husband and father. He was then a diligent toiler with hand and brain, quite a scholar for his opportunities, a school teacher, a Superintendent of Sunday School, and a pious Methodist.

ABIGAIL EVELINE TERPENNING^c, b. as above; m. George Gallagher, son of Andrew Gallagher, b. Sept. 9, 1842; cer. in Virgil, N. Y., Dec. 25, 1871. Issue.—

[1947.] ASA ALONZO BALLOUⁱ, Silas^c, Rev. David^c, Rev. Maturinⁱ, Peter³, John², Maturinⁱ; b. in Otisco, N. Y., Mar. 7, 1827; m. Harrriet Rebecca Bowen, birthplace, birth-date, parentage and date of cer. not communicated in any of the family letters—two of which are from his own pen. No issue. Asa A. Ballouⁱ reports himself a dentist, resident in Binghamton, N. Y. He has been there for many years, and in his letters pleads pressure of professional practice as an excuse for brevity and reticence. So we fail to learn much about himself, wife or experiences. We presume he might give an interesting account of his education, induction into his profession, and success therein; but as he has not chosen to do so, we acquiesce.

[1948.] POLLY ANN BALLOUⁱ, Silas^c, Rev. David^c, Rev. Maturinⁱ, Peter³, John², Maturinⁱ; b. in Otisco, N. Y., Dec. 13, 1828; m. Garrison H. Lowe, b. in Fallsburg, N. Y., Feb. 6, 1825; cer. in Virgil, N. Y., Dec. 2, 1847, by Rev. Stephen Jones. Issue.—

Given by the husband and father June 16, 1874. Nothing recd. since. The family believed to be living entire at present in Virgil, N. Y., all in health and prosperity. Myron W. Ballou⁷ has always been an industrious, respectable farmer—an honor to his worthy ancestry.

[1951.] IRA BALLOU⁷, Leavitt⁶, Rev. David⁵, Rev. Our last received, brief intelligence concerning this Ira Ballou was that Mrs. Martha, his 2d wife, died in Sept. 1879, and that his only son, Hiram A., was living with him on his farm in Adams, Mass.

[1952.] CHARLES CUSHING BALLOU⁷, Leavitt⁶, Rev. David⁵, Rev. Maturin⁴, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. prob. in Lawrenceville, Tioga Co., Pa., Sept. 4, 1824; m. Emily H. Wilbur of Adams, Mass., b. Oct. 4, 1839; cer. there July 9, 1856. Issue, b. in South Adams, Mass.—

We infer that George Henry⁷ is a farmer, and, from a letter written by him to Rev. Russell A. Ballou in 1881, that his family home has latterly been in Bondville, Vt. He has been a much bereaved man, but is rich in the consolatory assurance that none of his loved ones are "lost, but only gone before." He is said to be a carpenter and millwright.

It fell to the lot of Willard and wife to cherish his aged father, Maturin⁶, and to minister to him in his last sickness. From the letter of Mrs. Elizabeth to Mr. Peck, relating to her father-in-law's closing months, we infer that they, and she especially, entitled themselves to the meed of praise, for their faithful discharge of filial duty. The early home of Rev. Russell A. Ballou⁷ was in the semi-mountainous region of Monroe, Mass.,—rough and rugged, but healthful vicinage. He was brought up a plain farmer boy, with plenty of work and a wholesome subsistence. But he had the kindest of parents, who took care that he should enjoy the best school privileges afforded in their neighborhood, and were ambitious to make a capable man of him. So he grew up an industrious lad and well taught common scholar. Later he had tuition at Whitingham Academy in Vt., Melrose Seminary in Brattleboro', Vt., and Drury Academy in North Adams, Mass. From sixteen to twenty-three years of age, he worked on the farm in summer, and taught school in the winter.

Feeling strongly inclined to the ministry, he preached several times on his own responsibility, without waiting for ecclesiastical authority. In 1849 he received a Letter of Fellowship from the Winchester Association of Universalists in session at Monroe, his native town. In the fall of 1850 he went to Medford, Mass., for a course of theological study with Rev. Dr. Hosea Ballou, 2d, and continued therein most of the time a year and a half. Meantime he received several calls to settle over societies, which he declined. But in 1852 he accepted one from the Union Congregational society (Unitarian and Universalist) in West Bridgewater, Mass., and was ordained its pastor April 28th of that year. Eminent Universalist and Unitarian clergymen solemnized his consecration. He remained in his pastorate there about four years. He then removed to College Hill, Mass., taking pastoral charge of the Unitarian and Universalist society in Chelmsford, Mass. On his 28th birthday he was united in marriage with Miss Harriet Eliza, dr. of Rev. Dr. Hosea Ballou, 2d, with whom he lived happily till Jan. 19, 1859, when she passed to the better life. While resident at College Hill, besides other exercises in the line of mental culture, he improved himself in elocution under the instruction of Prof. Tweed, and disciplined his poetic genius. On two public occasions he won applause by delivering poems especially prepared for them. In 1858 he was invited to the pastorate of the Universalist society in Augusta, Me., and removed thither the next spring. He had been successful in all his preceding settlements, and was still more so in this, 94 members being soon added to the church.

But a new vocation induced him to resign his ministerial charge at Augusta, in June, 1862. He became editor and principal proprietor of The Gospel Banner, a Universalist weekly publication of note in Maine. This prospered under his management, and its patronage was largely increased. In this enterprise his brother Stephen was his minor associate. His home was still in Augusta during these years. On the 30th of Sept. 1863, he was married to Miss Augusta J., dr. of Hon. George W. Woodman of Portland, Me., his present excellent wife, and the mother of all his children. In 1864 he sold The Gospel Banner to Rev. George W. Quimby, intending to remove to Portland, but accepted an invitation to become General Agent of the Universalist Publishing House, Boston, Mass. He successfully discharged the duties of that responsible position for three years, during which its prosperity continually increased. Meantime his secular interests in other directions demanded his personal attention, and he resigned, in order to attend to their management. He went into the purchase and sale of real estate, and in the course of seven years became comparatively wealthy. But adversity swept nearly all away. The great Boston fire of 1872 and consequent panic made him what he terms "a poor man"; but not in spirit and energy. "For the past fifteen years," he says, "I have done the best I could to better my fortunes, and take care of my large family; having given my time mostly to real estate operations, and to the promotion of manufacturing and patent interests, and to inventions of my own. I have given my leisure hours to study and writing upon various subjects which I believe to be important to individuals and the public. My contributions to various publications, on improvements in the city of Boston and its railroad facilities, on the causes and cure of hard times, on the prevention of property loss by fire, and on various political, metaphysical, moral and religious subjects, have, so far as I know, been received with favor, and I trust have done some good. I still, as in earlier life, find my highest enjoyment in literary work; and if I were still in it, and circumstances were such that I could properly attend to it, I should find my truest enjoyment and most satisfactory work in the ministry, which I respect as the highest calling in which man can engage."

It is due to this cousin that we gratefully acknowledge our indebtedness to his helpfulness in furnishing much valuable data for this work. Since the foregoing was written, we understand Rev. Russell A. has made an interesting visit of business and pleasure to Europe.

Mrs. Cassandana, the mother of these chn., was a very exemplary and estimable woman in the domestic and social circles of life. But she came to a sudden and deeply lamented death. In Oct. of 1872, amid the political excitement of the pending Presidential election, she was instantly killed by the falling of a liberty pole, which the people were raising and lost control of. The multitude were shocked, and the family relatives overwhelmed with grief. The above named chn. had grown up, married, and were raising families of their own. There were many mourners of various kindred ties, and a host of sympathizers. Dr. Wheaton m. 2d Juliette Card; cer. May 1, 1873. Issue.—

William Windsor Wheatonⁿ was naturally a very intelligent and enterprising man. Rising bravely above early disadvantages, which obstructed his aspirations till after marriage, he betook himself to the study of the medical profession. He pushed rapidly forward, graduated from the Eclectic College in Rochester, N. Y., planted himself in his native vicinage of Jackson, Pa., mastered the situation, won a successful practice as an eclectic physician, surgeon and dentist, and became a man of respectable wealth, as well as professional influence.

We ought to have been better posted on his family record and biography. But he has been too much crowded with business to answer calls from genealogists. He took his parents under his fostering care in their old age; and, if we are rightly informed, has dutifully laid the remains of one or both in honored graves; perhaps by this time his beloved mother's. If not, he and his family are tenderly cherishing her second childhood.

Rev. James Henry Ballou¹, is a man of superior natural abilities, an original, independent thinker, a self-taught and academic scholar, a well trained theologian of the Universalist denomination, an acceptable public speaker, and in all respects an honor to his family name. He had small educational advantages in early life, but worked up, by persistent diligence, through the rudimental schools, to the Academy, and thence after much public teaching, to the Theological School in Canton, N. Y.,—from which he graduated creditably in 1865. While yet in his teens, he read and thought himself into Universalism, from the study of the Bible alone, before reading any books or hearing any preaching on the subject. He soon aspired to the ministry, and preached his first sermon at the age of 24 in 1860. After graduation at Canton, he went to St. Cloud, Minn., as a sort of missionary preacher. Thence, in the spring of 1867, he removed to Seneca, Kansas, where the first Universalist church in that State was built. There, besides his preaching ministrations, he was made County Commissioner of the Public Schools. In May 1869 he was called to Lawrence in the same State, where he saw the second Universalist Kansas church built. After a successful pastorate of two years in Lawrence, he prosecuted missionary operations in Iowa, and built up a ch. in Osage, Mitchell Co. He was in that general vicinity five yrs. He then returned to his native State, and has since ministered with much appreciation to several parishes, a recent one being in Southold, Long Island. He and his family have a reputable standing in all their relationships, and are enfolded in human as well as divine favor.

We have spoken so amply already of Murray Roberts Ballouⁱ, in connection with his father's record, that more is hardly necessary. He is a man of Collegiate learning, and a financial prince among the Boston Brokers—having long presided over their famous Board. Of course he and his family have a high social standing, and are in honorable public esteem.

We now reach a large family, concerning whom it has been so inconvenient to trace their family records, that we feel regretfully obliged to leave them where their uncle William P. Ballou of Alexandria, N. H., now dead, reported them to Mr. Peck twenty-five years ago.

All these families of good report. Doubtless they have increased considerably since reported 25 yrs. ago. Ours is the loss in genealogical names and numerical array.

[2142.] IRA P. BALLOU⁷, Hosea⁶, Oliver⁵, Peter⁴, Peter³, John², Maturin¹; b. in Bristol, N. H., Sept. 8, 1823; m. Ellen C. Compton of Chicago, Ill.; cer. at a date not given. He went to the Island of Cuba on the last mentioned business, contracted to build 100 miles of railroad, set 200

He may or may not be the head of a family. If we could have found a correspondent in this branch of Ballous as able and willing to communicate genealogical data as William P. Ballouⁱ, deceased, was, the above blanks and others to occur would have been filled. We tried for it, but had small success.

[2152.] LUCIAN BALLOUⁱ, Horace^c, Oliver^c, Peterⁱ, Peter³, John²,

Maturin'; b. in Alexandria, N. H., May 4, 1844. Here we are left in the dark, and must lose a desirable family record. When the P. M. of Alexandria, N. H., wrote us, Sept. 22, 1884, that the wife and family of Horace Ballou were in "the West," but himself, the father, was boarding in Alexandria, we confidently expected to learn from Horace^c whereabouts in "the West" Lucian was, what he was doing, and especially his domestic situation. So we wrote at once for the desired information. We got no response. In May, 1885, we wrote again, but no echo returned. Our courage was chilled, and we kept silence. Hence Lucian Ballouⁱ has no further record on our pages.

Here is another family which, through lamentable remissness, must be closed with the seventh generation. It consists of several sons and drs. of Sarah Ballou^a, Oliver^c, Peterⁱ, &c. They were b. and early resident in Hill, N. H. We tried to obtain their family records, and wrote to one of them for information without response. See No. [666]. We regret that the pressure of our work obliges us to leave them no further traced.

Hiram P. Ballouⁱ is an ingenious machinist, and an inventor. He has patented two different kinds of knitting machines; one a Cardigan Jacket Machine, some twelve years ago; the other a Kersey Machine, of later date, both said to be valuable. His business takes him over a wide area of country, but if we mistakeⁱ not, his family home has recently been in Needham, Mass. Worthy and reputable people.

Worthy people, understood to be of the agricultural class. Family home in Bristol, N. H.

Next come the children of Elijah Ballou^a, Oliver^a, &c., seven in number, from whom we have heard nothing. They were all b. in Hill, N. H., between Apl. 5, 1841, and May 28, 1855, but what marriages, births and deaths have taken place among them, we have no information.

The same is substantially the case in respect to the twin brother of Elijah, viz., Elisha Ballou^a, and his seven children; excepting two or three reported facts, that Elisha^a had died in Alexandria, N. H., at an ungiven date, that his eldest son, Charles E. Ballou^a, had settled in Boston, and that his widowed mother resided with him. Of the others, nothing heard. It is a pity we must leave out of account so many scions of this worthy stock. We lacked the necessary helpers to gather them in.

[2183.] LAFOREST S. BALLOU^a, William P.,^a Oliver^a, Peter^a, Peter^a, John^a, Maturin^a; b. in Alexandria, N. H., Feb. 11, 1849; m. Elvira B. Gale, dr. of Hiram and Elvira (Simonds) Gale, b. in Danbury, N. H., Jan. 14, 1848; cer. in said Alexandria Feb. 6, 1870, by Rev. Benjamin McMurphy. Issue, b. in said Alexandria.

5992—1. Lola M., b. Apl. 1, 1873; d. Nov. 28, 1883.

Mrs. Elvira died in 1882, and the very promising dr., as above shown, in 1883; two very afflictive bereavements, yet borne with calm fortitude by the husband and father, who remains in his loneliness. He is an ingenious, executive and successful blacksmith—a respected citizen of Bristol, N. H.

[2184.] QUINCY A. BALLOU^a, F. D. S., William P.,^a Oliver^a, Peter^a, Peter^a, John^a, Maturin^a; b. in Alexandria, N. H., Jan. 23, 1852; m. Silette S. Colby, dr. of Stephen N. and Adelia M. (Roby) Colby, b. Mar. 9, 1856; cer. in Bristol, N. H., Oct. 19, 1881. No issue reported down to June 8, 1885. Dr. Quincy A. Ballou^a is settled as a dental surgeon in Bristol, N. H. He has been well trained to his profession, is a successful practitioner, sustains, with his family, an excellent social standing, and reflects credit in all respects on his lineal descent.

All the remaining children, grandchildren and descendants of Oliver Ballou^a, son of Peter^a, are left in the unexplored limbo, whose existence we have been deploring; probably 30 or more of them in all.

Blake of Woonsocket, R. I., dates and specifications ungiven. No issue reported. Mr. Cyrus W. Ballou is a somewhat reticent, but very worthy and respectable mercantile gentleman. He was steadily engaged in the millinery, dry and fancy goods business at Woonsocket for over 20 years; but if we are correctly informed, has recently retired with the handsome accumulations of his success. If he had been a grain more communicative on dates and particulars respecting his immediate branch of our Ballou cousinhood, we should have enjoyed it. Yet cordial thanks for what we received.

We do not distinctly understand what Mr. Winsor's principal occupation has generally been, but infer that he has been more or less engaged in farming. Of Mrs. Amanda we can state from her own testimony, that she is bearing the cares of boarding-mistress and farm-wife's management. Her venerable mother, in her 77th yr., and an elderly aunt in her 73d, dwell with her, and receive her kind ministrations. She is an intelligent, as well as hard working woman, and has been one of our most helpful correspondents. She writes a nice, readable hand, is ready with her pen, and has generously posted us with data relating to her branch of relationship which we could have obtained from no others. She has evinced sterling worth, and we gratefully acknowledge her assistance. Residence, Georgiaville, R. I.

We are sorry to have found no convenient opportunity to trace the remaining descendants of Peter Ballou¹ through his eldest dr. Susanna (Ballou) Blaisdell, his son Daniel who died in Vermont, and his youngest dr. Elsie (Ballou) Pierce. There is a considerable number of them all, especially the Pierces. The few scraps that have reached us, in addition to what has been already given, are not worth repeating.

In arriving again at the descendants of James Ballou^r, Maturinⁱ, we should naturally resume the posterity of Jemima (Ballou) Rounds, eldest dr. of Ariel Ballouⁱ. But we have already exhausted our information on her lineage, and dismissed its further tracement. We therefore take up that of her next oldest sister, Jerusha (Ballou) Cook.—

Nahum Cook^r and wife settled in Bellingham, Mass.; were industrious, peaceable and upright farmers, and deservedly respected by all who knew them. Mrs. Sybil (Balcome) Cook died June 26, 1858, a. 59 yrs. 2 mos. and 27 ds. Nahum^r has ever since had the best of homes and care in the family of his son Nathan A., where he has done his utmost to be useful, in his sphere, all the way down to a remarkable old age; living now (Apl. 1887,) in his 92d year.

These are plain, hard-working, frugal agriculturists, and none the less intelligent, benevolent, upright people in their various human relations—domestic, social, civil and religious. Nathan A., Esq., is a prominent citizen of his town, a trusted official in its responsible positions, an excellent Justice of the Peace, and turns his hand with equal facility to the affectionate demands of home, to prudential husbandry, to neighborly charities, and to the public duties of good citizenship. So can his companion and only surviving son in the measure of their opportunities. We are indebted to Nathan A. for much welcome aid in this work.

We do not know these cousins so intimately as we do the family of Nathan A. Cook^t, but well enough to be sure they are worthy of the same upright ancestral stock. Their family home was in Bellingham, Mass., though partly of late is in Franklin, Mass. If we do not mistake our data, Alvah Aldrich^t died Feb. 9, 1879, a. 76 yrs. 2 mos. and 23 ds. We seldom saw Ziba Cook, Jr., after he m. and had a family. We always understood him and his family to be of good repute, but are poorly informed concerning his life-career. His wife is said to have d. in Milford, Mass., about 1836. He d. July 8, 1878, perhaps in Uxbridge, Mass., a. 74 yrs. 3 mos. and 29 ds. Whether he ever m. a 2d wife, we are not told. 6052—3. Alonzo Ariel Cook, b. Nov. 17, '24; m. Louisa H. Thayer.

We are so imperfectly posted on the family records of Ariel Cook⁷, and of his eldest sons, that we will not attempt much specification. We have had more or less personal knowledge of them all, and can testify to their general good character, but have not found it convenient to ascertain particulars. Ariel¹ and wife passed away more than 25 years ago. Their son Gilbert² never had any chn. and has seen much domestic adversity. Aldrich Barton Cook² had 3 chn. by his first wife, of whom only one dr. survives. She is m. and has a family in Norfolk, Mass. He himself is happily m. to a widowed sister of his first wife, and in comfortable circumstances.

6070—7. Justin Aldrich, Rev., b. May 14, '34; m. Maria A. Darling.

Rev. Ahaz Aldrich was a devout, consistent and faithful Six Principle Baptist minister, pastor for many years of a small church in Uxbridge, Mass., now extinct. Like all the Elders of that order, he conscientiously eschewed money compensation for gospel services, and supported his large family by manual labor. He had the best of wives to sympathize with him and share his burthens. He was a most faithful and affectionate husband and father, and for over half a century a devoted Christian minister—never swerving from his highest convictions of doctrine or duty. He d. in full assurance of divine acceptance and the life everlasting, in Millbury, Mass., Sept. 1884, at the venerable age of 86 yrs. His excellent widow was surviving there, and able to correspond with us in the summer of 1885 in her 86th year. Her seven chn. were then all living, and most of them had offspring. But as she did not give the names or birth dates of her grand chn., we will not go into much specification. Her dr., Sabra S., m. Elias Ballou of Becket, Mass., and will come under further notice in his family connection. Her youngest son, Rev. Justin Aldrich, was ordained a regular Baptist minister over twenty-five years ago, was first a settled pastor, and later State missionary of the Baptists in Rhode Island some twelve years, but lost his health, and now lives retired in Worcester, Mass. He has six surviving chn. and some grand chn. We refrain from further detail. The whole lineage of Rev. Ahaz and Mary (Arnold) Aldrich are of good report.

We infer, but are not certain, that Adams J. Barber, Jr., has his family home in Bellingham, Mass.

ADIN BARBER^c, Adams Barber and Orinda Arnold^c, Daniel Arnold and Jerusha Cook^c, &c., b. Sept. 1, 1834; we presume has a wife and several chn. His address was given us as No. 9½ Elm street, Brooklyn, E. D., N. Y. It is our fault that his family record does not appear. We forgot to write him till too late.

EMELINE BARBER^r, Adams Barber and Orinda Arnoldⁱ, &c., b. July 15, 1837; m. Thomas Bartlett. This is another connubial pair whose record is absent through our default. Their home is in Charlestown, Mass. We had their address, but failed, as in her brother Adin's case, to write them seasonably.

[2271.] PAMELIA ARNOLDⁱ, Daniel Arnold and Jerusha Cook^e, Ezekiel Cook and Jerusha Ballou^r, Arielⁱ, James^r, James^z, Maturinⁱ; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Sept. 4, 1807; m. Justin Aldrich, a brother of Rev. Abaz. Their address was given us as Medway, Mass. We ascertained their exact whereabouts, sent them our printed circular, and wrote them urgently for their record. They made no response, and so in their case certainly we are blameless.

We very imperfectly understand what little has reached us of this family record, and must leave it no further traced. Obviously intelligent, worthy and substantial people. Our latest information from them was in a communication from Mrs. Pamela (Hawkins) Osborn to Mr. Peck, dated Mar. 1, 1875. She evinced much interest and helpfulness towards this undertaking. But what changes have transpired since in her family we know not. We can give only what was then reported. It seems that Mr. Osborn was a trained carpenter and joiner, but grew out of it into other business, and especially public official responsibilities. The family home was at different periods in Hamburg and Buffalo, Erie Co., N. Y., in both of which municipalities Mr. Osborn was honored with various official positions—such as those of Assessorship, Justice of Peace magistracy, &c. The family were last reported at Abbott's Corners in or near Hamburg aforesaid.

He was taken prisoner at the battle of Cedar Creek, under Gen. Philip Sheridan, Oct. 19, 1864, paroled in April 1865, and honorably discharged June 15, 1865. He went to Meridian, Mich., in the fall of 1865, and set up business as a builder. There he m. and had remained down to 1875, when his mother reported to Mr. Peck. Intelligent, enterprising and respectable farmers. Mr. Maurice Osborn was cut off in the prime of middle age by a tragic casualty. He was assisting at the erection of a hickory liberty pole in the autumn of 1868, when the machinery being used for its rearing suddenly broke, and a portion of the ruptured chain struck his head with such violence as to fatally fracture his skull. He soon after d. in Hamburg, N. Y., Oct. 21, 1868, a 54 yrs. 11 mos. and 14 ds. A local newspaper of the vicinage called the Courier thus noticed the event and the man,—

DIED FROM HIS INJURIES.—It is with real sorrow that we announce the death of Mr. Maurice Osborn, of Hamburg, which took place at his residence at 5 o'clock P. M. Wednesday. It will be remembered that Mr. Osborn met with a serious accident on Saturday last, while assisting in a pole raising at Craig's Corners, mention of which was made in the Courier. Dr. Miner was the attending surgeon and did all that lay in his power, but from the moment of the accident but little hope was entertained of Mr. Osborn's recovery. Mr. Osborn was aged 56 years; a man of considerable wealth; a sterling democrat, and highly esteemed by all who knew him for his earnestness of character, manliness and integrity. He has served as a member of the board of supervisors, and has always taken an active part in politics. His untimely death will long be mourned by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Concerning the worthy bereaved widow no later intelligence than is given in her letter to Mr. Peck of 1875. Her report at that date of her chn. and grand chn. follows.—

6142—1. George Anna Hawkins, b. Aug. 15, 1858.

6143—2. Chatman Drew Hawkins, b. May 6, '60.

Mrs. Amarilla, the wife and mother, a very exemplary and devoted Methodist, died in Hamburg, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1870, a. 43 yrs. Philipⁱ spent 5 years of his infancy in his birthplace, 10 in Buffalo, then passed active middle age on a farm in Concord, where his chn. were born, and finally returned to reside in Hamburg. All his homes were in Erie Co., N. Y. We gather so much from his letters to Mr. Peck in 1875; and have made no later inquiries. He speaks of his wife and dr. as members of the Methodist Episcopal church, but makes no religious specification about himself and son. Nor does he give any intimation of daughter or son being married. What has taken place since in his family, of course we leave untold.

6144—1. Francis Lewis Boyden, b. June —, 1835; m. Sarah E. Sullivan.

6145—2. Sarah Jones Boyden, b. June 17, '37; no further reported.

We are posted on this family record only down to 1874, and imperfectly to that date. If we do not misunderstand our correspondent's data, Mr. Lewis Boyden died in Dec. 1870. If not he, then it was his son Francis Lewis, who m. his wife in Foxborough, Mass. However this may have been, Mrs. Sally Clark Boyden took up her abode for a time in Foxboro'; but of later changes we have no information.

[2313.] RICHARD ADDISON SAYLESⁱ, Richard Sayles^a, Elisha Sayles and Catherine Ballou^a, Arielⁱ, James^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Medway, Mass., Sept. 14, 1808; m. 1st Polly Bangs of Walpole, Mass., date not given. 6150—2. Edmund Walker Clark^a, b. Mar. 18, '72.

So stood this family record Sept. 9, 1874. More recent data not at command. Occupation not given, but whatever it was or is, it has been undoubtedly prosecuted with successful enterprise.

[2315.] BETSEY MARIA SAYLESⁱ, Richard Sayles^a, Elisha Sayles and Catherine Ballou^a, Arielⁱ, James^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in North Wrentham, now Norkfolk, Mass., Aug. 3, 1820; m. Jacob A. Brague of Chelsea, Mass.; residence in Everett, Mass. No more told us in 1874. But we blame ourselves for not having hunted up, by special inquiry, a more ample record. We have such a multitude to look after, that our temptation to these omissions is strong.

The children of Lavinia Sayles^e, dr. of Elisha Sayles and Catherine Ballouⁿ, who m. Hansell Kimball, denoted by Nos. [2316] to [2320] inclusive, have already been dismissed as extinct. So we come to those of her brother Willard Sayles^e. There were 10 of these, of whom 4 d. in infancy. Passing over these 4, we will notice their survivors.

[2323.] CAROLINE FRANCEUR SAYLESⁱ, Willard Sayles^e, Elisha Sayles and Catherine Ballouⁿ, Arielⁱ, James^s, Jamesⁱ, Maturinⁱ; b. in Wrentham, Mass., Mar. 4, 1826; m. John Reed Brewer, son of Thomas and Abigail (Stone) Brewer, b. in Boston, Mass., Apl. 8, 1818; cer. in said Boston July 24, 1843, by Rev. 6154—4. Fannie Reed Brewer, b. Apl. 9, '58.

We have no biographical furnishings from this family, but they are in eminent social and financial standing, and enjoy corresponding advantages in all the immunities of substantial respectability. Their winter home is at 12 Avon Place, Boston, Mass., and their summer one in Hingham, Mass. Mr. Brewer is in somewhat delicate health, and favors himself by business moderation and necessary relaxation. Mrs. Caroline F. and her eldest son have evinced a laudable interest in this work, and obliged us by much acceptable information concerning their family branch. Our last advices from them, Nov. 23, 1885, reported the marriage of Helen R. Brewer to Gen. Wilmon W. Blackmar, as having taken place Nov. 17, 1880. No grand chn. reported, nor other marriage of children.

No further reported.

[2329.] HENRY SAYLES^r, Willard Sayles^a, Elisha Sayles and Catherine Ballou^a, Arielⁱ, James^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Boston, Mass., Sept. 11, 1834; a wealthy bachelor, retired banker, gentleman of convivial leisure, and a congenial companion in genteel society. His residence is in Boston and neighboring summer resorts. We feel warranted in this summary statement on credible report, but not from anything received directly from himself. For it is our misfortune to have written in vain to him for a cousin like word or two of personal information. We infer that he is not ambitious to appear in our genealogical cabinet, but trust he inherits too much of his father's politeness to take offence at this brief record.

[2330.] HELEN SAYLES^r, Willard Sayles^a, Elisha Sayles and Catherine Ballou^a, Arielⁱ, James^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Boston, Mass., Mar. 11, 1837; m. John Cauldwell Sharp, M. D., of Boston; cer. Mar. 17, 1858. Issue, b. in said Boston.—

6166—3. Helen Sayles Sharp, b. Apl. 20, '64.

6167—4. Maria Francœur Sharp, b. Aug. 1, '66.

Of the same eminent social rank and standing as their family relatives. Winter home in Boston. Summer home No. Scituate, Mass.

We close this descent of Willard Sayles^a with cordial thanks to our kind cousin F. W. Brewer^r, without whose assistance and that of his good mother, we could not have made a decent showing of the above family records.

[2331.] MARIA KELLY^r, John Kelly and Alpha Ballou^a, Duty^r, Arielⁱ, James^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Mendon South Parish, now Blackstone, Mass., Mar. 23, 1802; d. a worthy single woman Dec. 15, 1854, a. 52 yrs. 8 mos. and 23 ds.

Mrs. Rebecca⁷ and surviving chn. are in reputable social standing, and have their home in E. Blackstone, Mass. They have drunk their cup of domestic tribulation, but are bearing up, by divine favor, with exemplary fortitude.

- 6173—1. Edward Esty⁹, b. Nov. 11, 1869.

Occupation, nativity and family home not specified. But we infer that Amanda Maria⁸, husband and offspring are settled in Blackstone, Mass., near her mother.

[2333.] JOHN B. KELLY¹, John Kelly and Alpha Ballou⁶, Duty⁵, Ariel¹, James⁴, James², Maturin¹; b. in Mendon South Parish, now Blackstone, Mass., Feb. 17, 1808; m. Susan Wood, dr. of Reuben Wood; cer. in Mendon, Mass., Feb. 28, 1832, by the writer. Issue.—

- 6173½—1. Harriet Kelly, b. E. Blackstone.

An unfortunate marriage, with some unhappy consequent experiences, which friends could only deplore, but which God can overrule for good. The dr., Harriet Kelly, is reported to have m., name, &c., not given, and to have d. leaving five chn. Nothing more communicated.

[2334.] ALPHA KELLY¹, John Kelly and Alpha Ballou⁶, Duty⁵, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Mendon South Parish, now Blackstone, Mass., Mar. 23, 1810; an excellent maiden lady, full of kindly usefulness. She won appreciative respect for dutiful ministrations to her parents in their old age, and now has a comfortable home with her worthy brother Andrew and family.

6177—4. Alpha Maria Kelly, b. Nov. 15, '55; d. Oct. 14, 1861.

Andrew Kelly⁷ and family have made and are filling out a commendable life-record, replete with intelligence, moral rectitude, and substantial usefulness. They are justly respected in all their relationships. He has been more or less engaged in various kinds of manufacture, and always in honest industrial pursuits. The whole family rank well in their general community.

ANDREW JAY KELLY⁷, b. as above; m. Eldora Elizabeth Joslin, dr. of Otis and Sarah T. (Billings) Joslin, b. Oct. 13, 1854; cer. Mar. 26, 1879. We have already made record of this nuptial pair and credited them with one son, Waldo E. Kelly, b. Apl. 5, 1881.

MARY LUCY KELLY⁸, b. as above; m. Rollin A. Woodworth; cer. Oct. 4, 1879. No issue reported, and nothing further told.

The grand chn. of Uranah Ballou⁶, Duty⁵, Ariel⁴, &c., who m. Reuben Darling, ought to come in here, but have been sought for unsuccessfully. She had three sons, Ellis Darling², Warren Darling², and Horace Darling². We are pretty sure they all m. and had families in R. I., at no great distance from us, but somehow we had no luck in ascertaining their records.

[2341.] ROSINA BALLOU⁷, Nathan⁶, Duty⁵, Ariel⁴, James³, James²,

Maturin'; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Oct. 1, 1817; m. Metcalf Marsh, M. D.; cer. in Smithfield, R. I., May 7, 1845. Issue.—

6178—1. Metcalf Ballou Marsh, b. May 6, 1846.

6179—2. Rosina Ellen Marsh, b. Jan. 25, '50.

We are miserably posted on this family record. We always understood that Dr. Marsh was a respectable medical practitioner. He and his family resided near Slaterville, now No. Smithfield, R. I. We have no knowledge of his pedigree, or educational induction into his profession. We have been told that he entered zealously into the Rhode Island agitation for a new Constitution, which culminated in the so called Dorr Insurrection, and suffered considerable hardship in consequence. He d. near Slaterville Apl. 10, 1854. We recollect having once called at the residence of his widow, and found her under the same roof with her widowed mother, and very aged widowed grand mother, a remarkably smart and intelligent old lady then in her nineties. It was an interview not to be forgotten. We had always known and respected the grand mother and mother from our childhood, and had good reason to presume Mrs. Marsh worthy of her descent. But we did not then dream of ever compiling this work, and took no memoranda of the data we might have secured. When we came to need it, we had no ready means of obtaining it. Our impression is that all three of those widows passed away some years ago. And of the two Marshes, Metcalf B. and Rosina Ellen, no report has reached us.

[2342.] ALPHA BALLOU^r, Nathan^a, Duty^s, Ariel^l, James^s, James^s, Maturin'; b. in Cumberland, R. I., July 11, 1819; m. James H. Clapp, son of James and Triphenia (Slade) Clapp, b. in Smithfield, R. I., May 27, 1816; cer. at a date not found. No chn. Mr. Clapp was a mason by trade. He d. Jan. 29, 1863, a. 46 yrs. 8 mos. and 2 ds. Not another syllable obtained.

[2344.] LUCY SUSAN BALLOU^r of this family, d. in infancy Sept. 18, 1825.

[2345.] JAMES M. BALLOU^r, Nathan^a, Duty^s, Ariel^l, James^s, James^s, Maturin'; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Aug. 15, 1826; d. in the prime of early manhood July 8, 1853, a. 26 yrs. 10 mos. and 24 ds. Whether he was m. or u. m. no hint is given—presumably unmarried.

[2346.] SUSAN ELLEN BALLOU^r of this family, b. Aug. 14, 1828; d. Oct. 10, 1833, a. 5 yrs. 1 mo. and 27 ds.

[2348.] HELEN WAITY BALLOU^r, the youngest child of Nathan and Lucy (Arnold) Ballou; b. prob. in Smithfield, R. I., Sept. 12, 1833; d. July 2, 1836, a. 2 yrs. 9 mos. and 21 ds.

[2349.] ELIZA ANN ARNOLD^r, Nathan Arnold and Rosina Ballou^c, Dea. Ariel^s, Ariel^l, James^s, James^s, Maturin^l; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Jan. 6, 1812; d. an amiable, promising and tenderly loved maiden, July 14, 1824, a. 12 yrs., 6 mos. and 8 ds.

[2350.] NATHAN ARNOLD, JR.,^r Nathan Arnold and Rosina Ballou^c, Dea. Ariel^s, Ariel^l, James^s, James^s, Maturin^l; b. in Troy, N. H., Oct. 2, 1817; m. Mrs. Maria Green Bright, widow of Jonathan Bright, and dr. of Phineas and Sarah C. (Adams) Harding, b. in Boston, Mass., Aug. 1, 1815; cer. in East Medway, now Millis, Mass., Feb. 4, 1839, by Rev. Luther Bailey. Issue, b. in then Medway, Mass.—

6183—4. Adin A. B. Arnold, b. Oct. 18, '52; m. Martha H. Congdon 1874.

Nathan Arnold, Jr.,^r was an expert joiner, a man of good mental abilities, but whose history is one of lights and shades too strongly marked for desirable depiction. His wife and chm., notwithstanding painful trials, have inscribed and are inscribing a favorable life-record.

EMILY ROSINA ARNOLD^c, b. as above; m. Charles H. Belding, son of John and Abbie Belding, b. in Boston, Mass., 1840; cer. in South Malden, Mass., Sept. 5, 1864, by the bride's gt. uncle, the writer of this work. Issue.—

6184—1. Nellie Annie Belding^o, b. Oct. 6, 1865.

6185—2. Nettie Louise Belding^o, b. Mar. 29, '73.

Mr. Belding is a reputable provision dealer in the Boston market. Alas! Mrs. Rosina was soon taken away from her weeping family. She died Apl. 5, 1885, but calm and happy, aged 42 yrs. 5 mos. and 11 ds.

WILLIAM JERAULD ARNOLD⁵, b. as above; m. Emma H. Davis; cer. Jan. 1, 1866. Issue.—

6188—3. Willie Elliott Arnold⁶, b. Aug. 4, '72.

If we mistake not, Wm. J. Arnold⁵ is in the provision business, and the family home in Boston, Mass. Character and prospects good.

6189—1. Bessie M. Arnold⁶, b. Oct. 26, 1877.

We lack desirable particulars concerning the occupation and family home of this gt. nephew; but think his business and residence are in Boston, Mass. He and his are of good report.

[2351.] ROSINA ARNOLD⁷, twin with Eliza Ann, Nathan Arnold and Rosina Ballou⁶, Dea. Ariel⁶, Ariel¹, James⁴, James², Maturin¹; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Nov. 29, 1825; m. William Bartlett, son of Elijah and Sally Bartlett, b. in Cumberland, R. I., Aug. 12, 1812; cer. in the village of Manville, R. I., Apl. 7, 1845, by Rev. Leonard Wakefield. Issue, b. in said Manville.—

6190—1. Nathan Arnold Bartlett, b. Feb. 12, 1847; m. Bridget Doherty.

A well disposed, frugal, industrious pair. Rosina⁷ was left a helpless infant by her mother, and grew up through most of childhood and youth in the household of her grandfather, Dea. Ariel Ballou, and later in that of his son, Maj. Alfred Ballou, her uncle, on the old patrimonial estate in Cumberland. We have an impression that she left her uncle's at the age of 18 years or before. She was m. in her 20th year to Mr. Bartlett, as aforesaid, who seems to have been about 13 years her senior. Only one child is reported, as above. Mr. Bartlett d. Oct. 18, 1876, a. 64 yrs. 2 mos. and 6 ds. She has since lived in widowhood with her only son and his family. Their home, at last advices, was in the village of Hamlet, Woonsocket, R. I.

NATHAN ARNOLD BARTLETT⁸, William Bartlett and Rosina Ar-

[2352.] ELIZA ANN ARNOLDⁱ, twin with Rosina, Nathan Arnold and Rosina Ballou^a, Dea. Ariel^a, Arielⁱ, Jamesⁱ, James², Maturinⁱ; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Nov. 29, 1825; m. Moses Hill, Jr., son of Moses and Persis (Phipps) Hill, b. in said Bellingham Mar. 22, 1823; cer. Feb. 26, 1840, by Rev. William Coe. Issue, b. in East Medway, now Millis, Mass.—

6195—1. Lucina Maria Hill, b. June 2, 1848; m. Frank Irving Howe.

6196—2. George Russell Hill, b. Nov. 26, '58; m. Carrie Frances Clark.

Eliza Ann Arnoldⁱ, like her twin sister, was left a helpless infant only a few days old, but fell into kind arms, was tenderly nursed, and grew up to womanhood in a home of adoptive love, amid many privileges. Mrs. and Mr. George Harding, of then East Medway, became her foster parents, and did for her all that they could for a child out of their own loins. They were plain, hard-working, frugal farmers, and could not pamper her with indolence and luxuries (which would have been a misfortune to her), but brought up in all needful respects commendably to intelligent usefulness and virtue. Besides a good common school education, she was inducted into vocal music, for which she had a natural gift, and became an admired singer in church choirs and other philharmonic circles. Mr. Hill, her husband, was a skilful handicraftsman, and could prosecute various kinds of work successfully. At the outbreak of the Rebellion, when Gov. John A. Andrew raised a Company of Sharpshooters, Mr. Hill flew with patriotic alacrity to its ranks. But it cost him his life, for he was soon seized with a fatal camp sickness, and came home to die. He joined his comrades in Aug. 1861, and died Oct. 31, 1862, a. 39 yrs. 7 mos. and 9 ds. Mrs. Eliza Ann has remained in widowhood ever since, very actively and usefully employed as a family nurse, and spending her surplus time with her children.

LUCINA MARIA HILL⁷, b. as above; m. Frank Irving Howe, son of Charles and Eliza (Weatherbee) Howe, b. in Sherborn, Mass., June 29, 1841; cer. in said Sherborn May 31, 1866, by Rev. Edmund Dowse. Issue.—

GEORGE RUSSELL HILL⁸, Moses Hill, Jr., and Eliza Ann Arnold⁷, Nathan Arnold and Rosina Ballou⁶, Dea. Cyrus Ballou, Jr.,⁷ was an intelligent, energetic, executive man in all the pursuits of business life, and his wife possessed corresponding qualities. Both were upright, honest, hard workers, and distinguished for solid usefulness. He spent his boyhood in the family of his great-grandfather, Nathan Comstock of West Wrentham, Mass., then a venerable patriarchal farmer, who down to old age was a most remarkable manager of all his prudential affairs. Thence Cyrus emerged, well qualified, into husbandry and housekeeping. He and his wife resided as farmers in Hopkinton, Mass., a few years, and then later for a much longer period in Milford, Mass. There, among other positions, they were conspicuous as keepers of the Town Asylum, and won the general esteem of all parties concerned. Later he went into partnership in the lumber business, and took the laborious brunt of clearing a large timber tract in Bellingham, Mass., and vicinity. There he overtasked himself and died Feb. 14, 1852, a. 39 yrs. 3 mos. and 17 ds. About the same time, only a little later, his bereaved companion had two drs. stricken down by death in the same Bellingham home, viz., Minerva, Feb. 20, and Anna M., March 30. The clouds of affliction hung in blackness over the family, surcharged with desolating bolts. Still the widowed mother bore up bravely under her calamities. She again became an approved Matron of Milford Poor Asylum, outlived her trials, and survived to a green old age. She died suddenly in the kind filial care of her dr., Mrs. Spaulding, in Milford, Mass., Nov. 6, 1887, a. 74 yrs. 4 mos. and 21 ds.

Y. Having succeeded financially well, he decided on settling in Massachusetts. In 1885, while the family were on their way to their new prospective home, they met with a sudden and distressing bereavement, in the death of their eldest son, a fine little boy, in his 8th yr. He d. in Pittsfield, Mass., of diphtheria, July 2, 1885. His remains were brought to Milford, Mass., and buried with marked demonstrations of affectionate lamentation. The family have since resided in Milford, Mass., until quite recently. They are now eligibly situated on a pleasant homestead in Medway, Mass.

- 6271—1. Lucy Florence Heywood, b. Hopedale, Mass., July 28, 1861.

Abigail Sayles (Ballou) Heywood⁷, or, as she now chooses to write her name, Abbie B. Heywood, is a woman of talents, accomplishments and christian character such as to rejoice the hearts of her parents, near relatives, and a host of friends, whose privilege it has been to know her in the various circles of intimate association in which she has moved from childhood to middle age. Her home training was the best that her parents could give, in all the departments of true usefulness, and she has honored those privileges. She was sent early to good common schools, and soon after the Community settlement at Hopedale, while yet in her early teens, commenced primary school teaching. Later she was thoroughly qualified in the State Normal School at West Newton, Mass., of which she became a graduate, to instruct in the higher branches, and distinguished herself as an educator for many years before and after marriage. Later, as a pastoress, she has been eminently successful in the management of Sunday Schools, classes, concerts, &c. She is a woman of affairs and influence wherever her services are demanded; being not only a theoretical but practical worker in whatever position she finds herself. Beyond all this, she understands the fundamental principles of truth and righteousness, and reveres them as the bases of all efforts at human improvement; never contenting herself with the parrotry, imitation and superficialism of so called christian civilization, where so many respectable religious teachers fondly find their congenial element. So she is the efficient wife and co-operative companion of a worthy husband, thoroughly imbued with kindred principles, devoted to kindred objects and full of kindred aspirations.

Rev. William S. Heywood was endowed with a superior mental and moral constitution, enjoyed what might be called a semi-collegiate education, and has diligently improved all his opportunities in many branches of useful knowledge. He became early interested in the great moral reforms of the age, and, being attracted to Hopedale, as the practical focus of those reforms, took up his residence there in 1848. He prepared himself for the Christian ministry, was approbated, commenced preaching, and was regularly ordained as an evangelist May 25, 1849. His executive abilities in various directions readily advanced him to responsible positions in the Community, culminating at length in its Presidency. Plenty of pulpit service, and not a little in the associate editorship of our then Community organ, "The Practical Christian," constantly ripened his experience and gave him commanding influence. Meantime he took a deep interest in the solidly useful education of the rising generation, as did his wife. This led them to establish "The Hopedale Home School"—an institution of high merit, which had a successful run of seven years, and graduated numerous students, who cherish fond recollections of its privileges. Since leaving Hopedale in 1864, Mr. Heywood has been settled in the ministry as pastor, for a series of years successively, in Scituate, Mass., Hudson, Mass., Holyoke, Mass., and in Boston, Mass. His last settlement in Boston was as Minister to the Poor at the North end of the city in a chapel station supported by "The Fraternity of Churches." Failing health has just obliged him to resign the onerous responsibilities of this last charge. In all these pastorates he has successfully fulfilled his duties, and won the high respect of those he served, as well as of those with whom he was naturally associated. And in them all his wife has been his popular co-efficient helpmeet. They have but the one child above credited to them, Lucy Florence Heywoodⁱ. She has a well endowed constitution, physically, mentally and morally, graduated reputably from Smith College in Northampton, Mass., about two years ago, is a sensible and accomplished young woman, is ripe for solid usefulness, and is a living fund of enjoyment to her parents, relatives and numerous friends.

[2367.] PEARLEY HUNT BALLOUⁱ, Rev. Adin⁶, Dea. Ariel³, &c.; b. in Milford, Mass., Nov. 23, 1830; d. in Mendon, Mass., Feb. 27, 1833, a. 2 yrs. and 3 mos. He was a bright, affectionate child, but not healthy, and fell a prey at last to scarlet fever.

[2368.] ADIN AUGUSTUS BALLOUⁱ, Rev. Adin⁶, Dea. Ariel⁵, Ariel¹ James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Mendon, Mass., June 30, 1833, and died in early manhood, at Bridgewater, Mass., Feb. 8, 1852, of typhoid fever, a. 18 yrs. 7 mos. and 8 ds. He was eminently worthy of a more ample memorial than our crowded space seems to allow. Yet we must be excused for touching a few chords of hallowed endearment. He was preëminently rich in all the qualities and characteristics that could delight his parents, relatives and friends, or give promise of a nobly useful manhood. His talents, capabilities, aspirations, principles of action, ruling motives and life-aims were of the highest order. He received the best scholastic tuition and moral training we could give him under the family circumstances. And all that was provided for him, said or done, was seed that fell on good ground. He never failed to respond worthily to every lesson given him, or to improve admirably all privileges and opportunities for mental culture. It was so from earliest childhood all through to ripening youth, even to his last earthly moment. In his tenth year Augustus was placed in the then Hopedale community printing office to acquire the art of a typographer. He accommodated himself to his new avocation, acquired a taste for the art, and ere long became exceedingly expert in the dispatch of business. In his thirteenth year he conceived the project of publishing a miniature semi-monthly paper, whereof he was to be editor, printer and proprietor. He carried this project into execution, and ran his little periodical successfully through several volumes. It was a small sheet, even with later enlargement, and was facetiously entitled The Mammoth. In 1847, when entering his fifteenth year, he was made foreman of the Hopedale printing office. Under his management The Practical Christian, a semi-monthly periodical of considerable size, was regularly printed and mailed, job work satisfactorily executed, and all the business of the office executively dispatched. Meantime he improved every spare moment in the acquisition of useful knowledge in scholastic directions. But he needed and well deserved higher privileges. Accordingly in August, 1850, he entered the State Normal School in Bridgewater, Mass., then under the Principalship of that excellent educator, Mr. Nicholas Tillinghast. There he passed through the three customary terms, made remarkable proficiency, and graduated with the highest honor. He then added an extra term, and accepted a pressing invitation from his Principal to become an assistant teacher in the institution. He was most auspiciously discharging the functions of this office, when a dark cloud suddenly obscured his skies, and the death-bolt ushered him into the world of spirits. There was indescribable mourning in the parental sanctuary, and profoundly sympathetic lamentation of the various circles in which he had moved. For he was greatly admired and beloved by all who intimately knew him. His father commemorated his worth in a duodecimo volume of 192 pages, entitled "Memoir of Adin Augustus Ballou." It was published in 1853, and has been read by old and young with a tender interest. A few copies still remain on hand, and should any reader of this work desire one, he will furnish it at small cost. And he is confident no person will ever peruse it without mental pleasure, satisfaction and profit.

[2369.] ARIEL ALCIDUS BALLOU⁷, Ariel⁶, M. D., Dea. Ariel⁵, Ariel¹, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Woonsocket, R. I., Nov. 23, 1833; calamitously drowned in a deep canal of his native village, Sept. 11, 1844, a. 10 yrs. 9 mos. and 18 ds. He was a promising lad, dearly loved by his parents, and his untimely death correspondingly lamented. His father arrived at the fatal spot only a few moments too late, and had to recover his body with his own hands. He had acquired a masterly command of himself in and under water while a youthful swimmer, and readily achieved what none of the gathered spectators had either courage or skill to execute. He deliberately sunk himself several feet under the surface of the canal, seized the lifeless form, and emerged with it on the bank. The feat was as wonderful to the beholders as the occasion was sad. But the spirit of the loved one had fled to the heavenly home.

[2370.] ANNAH BALLOU⁷, Ariel,⁶ M. D., Dea. Ariel⁵, Ariel⁴, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Woonsocket, R. I., Jan. 1, 1837; u. m.; a well-educated, intelligent, high spirited, resolute maiden, whose principal theatre has been the paternal home. Since the death of her mother in 1873, she has been her father's chief domestic manager, servitor, companion and nurse in sickness. This important function very largely demanded her devotion during her father's last year, which was one of painful illness to him. Their home was formerly in Woonsocket but latterly in Providence, R. I. He continued an imprisoned and suffering invalid there, through all the sad winter months of 1886-7, and Annah found urgent occasion for her incessant filial ministrations. The growing geniality of spring and summer gave promise of his improved health, and we were vainly hoping he might live to see this darling object of his ambition and financial patronage, The History and Genealogy of the Ballous, in print. But, as already noted, he passed away July 15, 1887.

6276—5. Daniel M. Edwards, Jr., b. Dec. 26, '80.

Laura Ballou⁷, like her elder sister, enjoyed ample privileges of education, and grew up an intelligent woman. She added to her mental accomplishments those afforded by a tour in Europe. Dr. Edwards was regularly inducted into his profession through the tuitionary training by which modern physicians reach their diplomas. They are a well married pair, occupy a reputable social position, are blessed with promising children, and are auspiciously launched on the stream of life. Like Dr. Ballou himself and his elder daughter, they are attached to the Protestant Episcopal Church, and rejoice in the immunities of its communion.

They tenderly and assiduously ministered to their father in his last sickness.

Mr. Tebb was an influential and trusted accountant, for some years previous to marriage, in the large manufacturing establishment at Blackstone, Mass. He soon after returned to his native country, and has long been a successful grain merchant in London. He is a man of ideas and high moral principles, as well as of affairs, does his own thinking, stands in the front rank of humanitarian reform, and makes his large influence tell in favor of the world's progress. And in all this his wife delights to share. They are blessed in their chn., who are giving auspicious promise of high toned intelligence, virtue and usefulness. They celebrated their silver wedding with festive family demonstration, at their pleasant home in London, Dec. 4, 1881. Mrs. Tebb has evinced an encouraging interest in the compilation of this volume, and will welcome the arrival of a copy in her household at the earliest convenience of the publishers.

We assume as probable that more or less grand children have sprung from these marriages, but that they were intentionally unmentioned. Col. Sayles was among the honored martyr heroes of the great civil war, who d. for the preservation of the National Union. We have been furnished with the following biographical and obituary sketch, taken from "Memories of Rhode Island Officers," and said to have been written by Hon. John R. Bartlett.—

"WELCOME B. SAYLES.

Welcome B. Sayles was born in Bellingham, Mass., July 4th, 1812. [Bell. Recs. say 1813.] He came to Rhode Island upwards of thirty years ago, and first settled in Woonsocket, where he became a prominent citizen. In 1845, while still residing there, he was appointed postmaster of Providence by President Polk. He held the office until June, 1849; and again, after a respite of four years, was reappointed by President Pierce, in 1853, and remained in it until 1857. Subsequently, he was appointed by President Buchanan to transact important business connected with the war, post office and interior department, in Arizona and other western districts; and, still later, and near the close of his administration, to visit the principal cities of the south and effect such settlements and arrangements with the postmasters there, as would secure the government from losses and other embarrassments which threatened to result from the secession movement then beginning. This last appointment extended some months into the term of President Lincoln, and, indeed, the service it involved was rendered to some extent, under the advice and direction of gentlemen who expected to be connected with his administration. It is but justice, to say that when this mission had been completed and Col. Sayles returned to Washington, his work received the unqualified approbation of the postmaster general. And this is true also, of his labors as a public officer. As postmaster of Providence his success was not surpassed by that of any other postmaster in New England; and his promptness and accuracy were as highly commended by the government, as were his other qualities and characteristics of service by the public. Mr. Sayles was, however, best known to the people of this and other States, as a consistent defender and supporter of the democratic faith. His first appearance upon the stage of political strife was at the time of the free suffrage movement in 1841 and 1842. Mr. Sayles several times represented the democracy of the State in the democratic national convention, and was a leading and influential member of the State assemblages. He was once the democratic candidate for congress in the eastern district, and received a support far beyond the expectations of the party. The political sentiment of his district was overwhelmingly against him; but the majority against him at this election was so small, as to make his opponents fearful of his popularity. Mr. Sayles was the originator and one of the first publishers of the Providence Daily Post, and retained his connection with the paper during the first ten or twelve years of its existence. During a portion of the time he was its sole editor, and at all other times rendered important service as counsellor and contributor. He was a good writer, but was not so pleasing with the pen as upon the platform. His thoughts were too swift for the pen, and he exhibited far more brilliancy before a public assemblage, than in the editorial chair. Yet he was by no means unguarded and reckless in his expressions, no matter in what circumstances he might be placed. His quick perceptions saved him from many difficulties, into which far less excitable temperaments frequently fall.

When Governor Sprague determined to raise the seventh regiment, Mr. Sayles tendered his services to him. They were at once accepted, and on the 5th of June, 1862, a commission was given him as Lieutenant-Colonel. He set to work immediately, and by his personal efforts raised one of the finest regiments which the State sent to the field. Both officers and men state that Col. Sayles soon became the idol of his regiment, and was kindly spoken of as a man and highly praised as an officer by all with whom he came in contact. He accompanied his regiment to Washington, and took part with it in the battle of Fredericksburg, Virginia, Dec. 13, 1862, when he was killed at the head of his men by a shell, which exploded at the moment of reaching him. His remains were brought to Providence, where they were interred with military honors.

But it was in social life—as a husband, a father, a neighbor and a friend—Col. Sayles was most highly prized. His qualities of heart were such as could not fail to establish between him and congenial souls the warmest and most enduring friendships and the most devoted affection. His whole nature was noble, and all his acts in private walks were kindly. His heart and hand were always open to pity and aid for the unfortunate, and he had no enemy with whom he would not have shared his last meal, had he found him in distress, or whom he did not forgive nightly as he laid his head upon his pillow. Such was Welcome Ballou Sayles, as we have known and loved him for nearly twenty years."

Thus the barbarism of the battle-field tore out the life of Col. Sayles in the flash of a moment, as it has of almost countless millions. He d. in the prime of middle manhood, Dec. 13, 1862, aged 49 yrs. 5 mos. and 9 ds. His worthy widow was surviving at last advices, but no particulars as to her residence, health and circumstances have specialized our information.

We learn from John W. Sayles' that his father, John O. Sayles', "is supposed to have died during the fall of 1867, at New Orleans, La., but we have not as yet been able to find his dust." We have before us two letters from John W., containing valuable data, but they leave us uninformed on several points of anxious interest. We could wish to have learned where the four drs. were born, what his father's chief business was, what occasion he had to be in New Orleans, whether he died suddenly of contagious disease, and what became of his second wife. Yet we thought it might seem indelicate to inquire into these particulars. We have an impression that John O. Sayles' was more or less engaged in mercantile pursuits, but are uncertain. We always understood him to be an intelligent, upright and kindly disposed man, though never enjoying the robust health and successful aptitudes of his brother Welcome B. But we trust it is well with them both in the realm of the departed.

Mrs. Sarah, his wife, d. in Providence Sept. 29, 1854, and he has since remained a widower. The outlines of his life-career will appear from the following sketch copied from the Rhode Island Cyclopædia.—

“COL. WILLARD SAYLES.”

“He graduated from Brown University in 1844, entered the law office of Gen. Thos. F. Carpenter, completed his law studies in 1846, and commenced the practice of law the same year. About 1854 he became City Solicitor of Providence. In Sept. 1861 he raised three troops of cavalry in one week, and was commissioned Maj. of 1st Battalion of 1st New Eng. Cavalry—afterward the 1st R. I. Cavalry. He was commissioned, Feb. 21, 1862, Lieut. Col. of the command, was in the expedition sent to recover the bodies of Slocum, Ballou and Tower from the Bull Run battlefield—was in the gallant and successful charge on Mount Royal, May 30, 1862, one of the most brilliant deeds of the war. In July, 1863, Gov. Smith called on him to organize and command the 3d Regt. R. I. Cavalry—his commission dating from July 1, 1863. He was sent to the Department of the Gulf, where he was in constant and active service. The field of his regiment's operation was nearly the whole State of Louisiana, where he manifested his characteristic ability, efficiency and devotion to his country, in this most complicated arm of the service—as of it was required the most constant, severe and perilous duties. Rhode Island had no truer officer and soldier in the war. He was mustered out of the service with his regiment Nov. 20, 1865. After the war he opened a law office in New Orleans. He returned to Providence early in 1867, where he resumed the practice of his profession. In the same year he was chosen Attorney General of the State, which he continued to fill till 1882 with honor to himself and to the State he served so long and so faithfully.”

His only daughter, CLARA E. SAYLES^a, was m. to Thomas S. Gladding Nov. 26, 1877, and their family home is in New York City, but whether they have any chn. we are not apprised. Col. Willard Sayles himself is now living in quiet retirement on his comfortable premises, dutifully fostering his venerable mother, enjoying his fine library, and employing his energies with only the comparatively light duties of his necessary personal affairs.

Dexter Bullard and Juliana Sayles^a, Daniel Sayles and Eunice Ballou^a, Arielⁱ, James^a, James^a, Maturinⁱ; b. in Franklin, Mass., Apl. 28, 1821; m. Juliana Bachelor, dr. of Enoch and Susan (Warren) Bachelor, b. in Upton, Mass., at a date not given; cer. in said Upton Sept. 1845, by groom's Rev. father. 6342—3. Re Ella Bullard, b. “ “ 1860; m. Francis De M. Dunn.

Truman S. Bullard was a bright, intellectual, generous, fearless man, and had been of like character from childhood. He exhibited marked ability as a scholar, speaker and occasional newspaper writer. He naturally espoused the reforms which his parents advocated, especially Temperance and Anti-Slavery, but run them into the mold of his own independent convictions. He became a boot and shoe manufacturer as his main business in life, and in 1850 removed with his wife and their only child to Snowville, Pulaski Co., Va. There he prosecuted his occupation executively. When the war of the Rebellion broke out, he was suspected of loyalty to the Union and threatened with some violence, but managed to hold his adversaries at bay, and outrode the storm. At length he died in his Virginia home at a date which either we never received, or have lost from our memoranda. His worthy widow d. in Snowville, Va., in July 1878. Their three chn. have grown up intelligent, reside in Va., are well married and auspiciously situated. This is the sum of our information concerning these cousins.

A lamentable preponderance of deaths! Only 4 survivors out of 11 births. And the exhausted mother joined 6 of her departed loved ones Aug. 29, 1871. William Chester Bullard, Esq., came of a right worthy stock, and honors it. He is intelligent, enterprising, upright and influential. His family home is in Polk Township, Macoupin Co., Ill. But the data furnished us do not tell us when he settled there, nor give the birth-place of his chn. He fills quite responsible positions in his community—holding such offices as Town Treasurer, Justice of the Peace, &c., in prolonged continuance. And he thinks well enough of his pedigree to bespeak spontaneously a copy of this work.

[2397.] JULIA AVILDA BULLARD', Rev. Dexter Bullard and Juliana Sayles^c, Daniel Sayles and Eunice Ballou', Ariel', James', James^c, Maturin'; b. in Upton, Mass., Jan. 25, 1826; m. Silas Augustus Forbush, son of Silas and Clarissa (Eames) Forbush, b.

The family home of Mrs. Julia A. and Silas A. Forbush has always been in Grafton, Mass. He is an intelligent, enterprising, upright and successful boot and shoe manufacturer. He stands deservedly high in business circles and among his fellow citizens. Mrs. Julia inherits and exemplifies eminently the high mental and moral qualities of her parents, and is respected accordingly by all who know her. The connubial, domestic, social and religious life of such a pair and such a family is fragrant with all the virtues that bless home and the community. Mrs. Julia and husband have evinced a commendable interest in the publication of this volume.

Unfortunately we have been furnished with only the above un-specific data concerning this family record. But we have more definite information relating to the life-career and death of Dexter, Jr.^r We infer that the two children issued from the 1st mge., but cannot be positive. The husband and father became devoutly religious in early youth, joined a church of the Christian connection, and always sustained a character worthy of his profession. He was long afflicted with deafness, but was persistently executive in business. He settled in Waukesha, Wis., in 1860, and owned a farm near Saylesville, so called. In 1873, he located in Waukesha Village, where he was proprietor of the Arlington House. He prospered in temporal affairs, but at length had a shock of apoplexy. From this he seemed to be fairly recovering, and attended to his business hopefully, until suddenly cut down by a dismal casualty. He was on a visit to his farm, looking after certain improvements, when one day he went out gunning. He was soon after found dead from the accidental discharge of his gun, his ramrod clutched in one hand. He died thus, Oct. 31, 1884, a. 56 yrs. 5 mos. and 18 ds. The bereavement was almost insupportably distressing to his widow and chn. His remains were buried with very sympathetic demonstrations of funeral honor.

6365—4. Irene Ballou Bullard, b. June 20, '76.

It is enough to say that Daniel O. Bullard and family proved themselves intellectually and morally worthy of their progenitors. Snowville, Pulaski Co., Va., became their chosen home, but exactly when, we are not told. His death was another lamentable catastrophe. It seems that his domicile was adjacent to a considerable river, which flowed through his estate. On the day of his death he crossed the river to attend to some wood on the opposite shore, taking his dr. Metta, aged 14 years, with him. The clouds threatened rain, and he sent her homeward with the boat. A severe shower ensued. As soon as it was over, the girl rowed back for her father to bring him home. Just as she neared the shore where he was, which was overhung by a high cliff, a boulder, loosened from its bed, crushed down the trees into the water. It had stricken her father a fatal blow. She flew to his side, held his bleeding head, and screamed for help. With wild alarm and in perilous haste, Rev. William Bullard and at length the agonized wife reached the scene. The case was hopeless, and they could only bear the corpse to a suddenly desolated home. Bitter mourning, a tearful funeral, and the whole sad retinue of death followed. Daniel O. Bullardⁱ died Aug. 17, 1886, a 56 yrs. 5 mos. and 9 ds.

Mr. Loomis Gay d. in Lebanon, Ct., 1855. Mary S.ⁱ m. 2d William Danforth Potter, b. in Springfield, Mass.; cer. Nov. 1864. No issue reported. Mrs. Maryⁱ inherits the marked characteristics of her father and mother, and does them no discredit. She was in Virginia, visiting her relatives, when the war of Rebellion broke out, intending to stay only a year. But she was unable to get home until the third year of that bloody struggle, because Gen. Stonewall Jackson said she looked as though she could reveal so much. She succeeded at last in obtaining a pass, and through much romantic adventure reached the Union lines. We are not informed where her present family home is.

Willard Barton Scott⁷ is an intelligent, enterprising, trustworthy man, with a companion presumed to be of like general character. Their business and family home are now at Abbott Run, R. I.

He very kindly and seasonably reported his family record, and put us on the track of his brothers and sisters as well as he could. Trusting partly to other informants and partly to a more convenient season, we deferred making suitable inquiries till the printers were at our heels, and so lost our opportunities, as hereinbefore intimated. Our only apology is the general pressure of too large an undertaking.

We found in this cousin a willing, prompt and cordial correspondent. He frankly communicated all we could expect concerning his parents and himself. His lot seems to have been cast for him in the far West. He rendered a brief service to his country in the Union army of 3 months, as a private in the 9th Regt. Illinois Vols. He has lived in Camden, N. J., Seymour, Ind., Warsaw, Ill., San Francisco, Cal., and for the last twelve years in Osceola, Neb. There he is a dealer in general merchandise, he says, "with no great financial success, but having all the comforts that life in a new country will afford." He desires to know what this volume can tell him of his ancestry and kindred, and has subscribed for a copy.

Passing over several series of dismissed Nos. we come to—

6546—1. Charles Elliott Cook, b. June 15, 1843.

6547—2. George Hamilton Cook, b. Oct. 10, '46.

Elliott W. Cook' emigrated from Cumberland, R. I., to Lockport, N. Y., in 1837. He raised a company for the Mexican War, but did not go. In 1849 he went to California as Treasurer of the "Niagara and California Mining Co.," residing there and in Central America a year and three months. Returning to Lockport, he opened a store in which he continued till the Rebellion broke out. He then left business, joined in raising the 28th Regt. N. Y. Vols., went to the seat of war as captain, distinguished himself by his martial prowess, fought several bloody battles, was taken prisoner and barely escaped an outrageous death from his captors, got exchanged, returned to his post, was promoted to the Colonelcy, survived terrible perils, and finally returned to honorable civil life with rich laurels on his brow. He is spoken of in the "Wilkinson Family Memoirs" in very laudatory terms. His war record is therein given with considerable detail. His biographical sketch closes thus.—"He has a natural talent for military tactics, and is considered a superior officer. Col. Cook is an accomplished gentleman, highly respected by his fellow citizens. He still resides at Lockport, N. Y." Concerning his sons the same author says.—"Charles Elliott Cook is a physician and surgeon, and graduated at Bellevue College, New York, settled in Tonawanda, N. Y. He was in the Union Army during the Great Rebellion. George Hamilton Cook was Captain and Brevet Lieut. Colonel of Vols. in the Union Army, receiving his Brevet for honorable and meritorious service. He is now a Lieut. in the Regular Army." pp. 195-6.

Passing over numerous closed tracements, we arrive at another generation of descendants in the line of James Ballou'.

 6551—4. Hannah L., b. Livermore, Me., Dec. 17, '20; m. Gustavus Gilbert.

We are greatly indebted to Mr. Melvin Ballou Gilbert of Portland, Me., an intelligent grand son of Seth Ballou, for all we know of his family record, descendants, and other of his near relatives. Mr. Gilbert has taken a deep interest in the matter, and been at much pains to collect the valuable data we have digested in this connection. We have depended on Mr. Gilbert for a short biographical sketch of his grand father, which he promised us, but which the pressure of his business has probably prevented his furnishing. From the few hints given, we learn that Seth Ballou was an ingenious mechanic and inventor. Among his inventions were an excellent threshing machine, still in extensive use on its original merits, and also a water wheel—both patented and successfully placed on the market. We infer conclusively that he, his wife, and children, held good rank in society for sterling worth and respectability. Mrs. Mercy, his wife, d. July 7, 1857, a. 70 yrs. 6 mos. and 5 ds. He d. Loren Ballou was a very ingenious mechanic, and rose to be a trusted superintendent of several important mechanical establishments, viz., Colt's Armory in London, Eng., another in Syracuse, N. Y., &c. We have been favored with only a very meager outline of his characteristics, but infer from this that a full delineation would give him a rich record. It seems that his talents and skill were demanded in various prominent localities. He d. in Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 17, 1880, a. 55 yrs. 11 mos. 20 ds. Whether Mrs. Polly still survives no one has informed us. It has been inconvenient for us to trace their grand chn., and we have merely learned a few fragmentary facts respecting their sons, James Monroe² and John Madison³. James M.² has been twice m., had 3 chn., by his first mge., and resides in Swanzey, N. H. John M.³ who m. Lucinda Botting, is said to reside in Fitchburg, Mass. Whether they have any chn. no report reaches us.

We hoped to have been posted on this lineage, but failed of the favor. Mr. Bassett says the husband and father, was a shoemaker, and removed to Coleraine as above. We are unable to trace the family record farther.

[2748.] JOHN BALLOU¹, youngest son of Seth Ballou, b. perhaps about 1810; has eluded our pains-taking research. We heard of him in Windsor, Vt., and wrote for information; he had gone west. We followed his alleged trail, but could not overtake him.

He made no response to our calls. Mr. Bassett, the historian of Richmond, N. H., says he lives in Cleveland, O. If so, he may be a husband, father and grand father; but it is not our good fortune to know and tell.

We received the foregoing from Mrs. Laura E. (Ballou) Wells, eldest surviving dr. of William Ballou⁷. She indicated that her father had deceased, but that her mother was yet living. Desiring to learn the date of his death and several other unspecified particulars, we wrote back to her, Aug. 26, 1885, for the desired information. Unfortunately we recd. no response. We must therefore make the best of what data we have. We are not apprised of this William Ballou's occupation, but suppose him to have been a farmer of respectable standing in Springville, N. Y. We have good reason to presume that himself, wife and chn. are entitled to a reputable record.

We find no indication of the occupation or characteristics of David Ballou⁷ in any of the documents communicated to us, but infer that he was an enterprising, active man. He appears to have resided in several different localities during life, viz., Wallingford, Vt., Worcester, N. Y., East Otto, N. Y., and Ashford, N. Y. Charles F. Ballou* was left an orphan by the death of his mother when 7 years of age, and resided with a sister till 19 yrs. old. He then betook himself to educational accomplishments, and to teaching country schools during the winter season. On the 17th of Sept. 1861, he enlisted in Co. I, 44th Regt. N. Y. Vols., at Albany, and his Regt. soon joined the Army of the Potomac. He participated in the battles: Siege of Yorktown, Hanover Court House, Gaines Hill, Malvern Hill, 2d Bull Run, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. At 2d Bull Run he was taken prisoner by the Confederates, starved 5 days, paroled, and with 5 comrades sent into the Federal lines near Yorktown. At the battle of Gettysburg he received a gun-shot wound in the left hip. The bullet divided on the hip bone. One piece was cut out of the fleshy part of the hip, and the other passed inside the hip bone, lodging against the spine, where it caused a fistula of the bowels. It was thence removed after 7 months of suffering, and the wounds healed permanently. He was discharged at Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 21, 1863, for disability. He draws a pension of $6 per month, and is employed as storekeeper in the New York Department of Customs. He communicated his family record and other valuable data, as well as his war experiences, from 40 West street, New York. His family home is in Ashford, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y. He is a subscriber for one copy of this work. We judge him to be an intelligent, patriotic, upright, but modest, unpretentious man.

HERBERT E. BALLOU*, David^r, John^a, Seth^o, Jamesⁱ, James^o, James^o, Maturinⁱ; b. at Ashford, N. Y., Feb. 25, 1845; u. m. at last advices. He was a child of 3 years when his mother d., and had no permanent home during his early life. At the age of 16, on Oct. 8, 1861, he enlisted in Co. A, 100th Regt. N. Y. Vols. His regiment was quartered in Buffalo during the ensuing winter. There he had a severe attack of Tonsilitis which greatly impaired his health. In March, when his Regt. started for the Potomac, he was offered a discharge, but refused and went to Virginia. He participated in the following named engagements.—Siege of Yorktown, Battle of Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Seven Days Battles, Siege of Charleston, S. C., which lasted several months, Drury's Bluffs, Va., Petersburg, Deep Bottom, besides many nameless actions and skirmishes, during Grant's campaigns around Richmond, Va. He served out his enlistment of 3 years, was retained several months longer, and finally discharged at Buffalo, N. Y., in Feb. 1865. He was never wounded, nor had any hospital record, after he entered service at Yorktown, Va. He was of slight figure when he joined the army, but when mustered out was 5 feet 10 inches tall, and weighed 175 lbs. He saw extremely hard service at the siege of Charleston, S. C., but on the whole came out of the war a fortunate hero, with laurels wreathing his bronzed brows. He is a Taxidermist by occupation, and resides in Ellicottville, N. Y.

We confess to some mortification for our ignorance concerning this cousin. He lived many years in Blackstone, Mass., only a few miles from us, and finally died there in 1880 or '81, a. about 80 years. Our principal researcher once knew this Silas^r, but all he could communicate concerning him was, that he died as aforesaid, his remains being buried in Blackstone, Mass., without a headstone—had been twice m. with only the issue above named from the 1st, and leaving no record of the 2d wife's name, or of the mge. Ebenezer Ballou⁷ is a sensible, orderly, reputable farmer in Gardner, Mass. He settled down, immediately after marriage, on the farm where his wife was born, and became its owner. When the war came on to save the Union, he felt it his duty to serve his country as a volunteer. He enlisted in 1862 for three years. Mr. Coplen says.—“Much of our lives thus far has been spent on the frontier of the Western States and Territories, having moved from Ohio to Indiana in 1839, and reaching the Territory of Colorado in its pioneer days, 1861, where we have been ever since.” Their intelligence and enterprise are obviously of the staunchest type, and their general characteristics are correspondingly reputable. Their family home is in Denver, Col.

John L. Coplen.

John D. Coplen, Esq., is a man of marked ability and notable life-experiences. He has done business for himself since the age of 15 years. In the spring of 1861 he enlisted in the Union Army at Leavenworth, Kansas, but was rejected as too young—being only 16. He returned to the new Territory of Colorado, where he engaged in mining and other pursuits. Later he enlisted in Co. G, Third Regt. Colorado Vol. Cavalry, and plunged into the then raging frontier Indian war. Among other perilous conflicts with the hostile Indians, he participated in the famous so called "Sand Creek Massacre." Concerning this bloody battle he says.—"In justice to myself and comrades, I must brand that charge of massacre as a stupendous falsehood, conceived in jealousy and envy, as a few of the facts will amply attest. Our forces numbering 500, after an all night's ride from Fort Lyon, at sunrise on the 29th Nov. 1864, encountered the Cheyennes and Arapahoes, numbering 1000 or more at their camp. Although surprised at the discovery of our approach, the Indians advanced to meet us, and by firing upon us engaged us in a conflict that lasted until late in the afternoon. Eleven of our comrades were killed and forty wounded, some of whom subsequently died of their wounds. The Indians had extensive fortifications, fresh made, consisting of long deep cuts in the sand, and under the then dry Sand Creek. Scalps of men, women and children, recently taken from our white neighbors, were recovered. The number of Indians killed was not definitely known, but the majority of them retreated and made good their escape. As to the killing of squaws and pappooses, only a few were killed, and that mainly the result of accident; the squaws fighting as desperately as the males, and in a dress and equipage scarcely distinguishable from that of the men." Thus the battle was calumniously christened "a massacre," not truthfully but falsely and enviously by military and political aspirants for influence, office and commanding power on the general frontier. Such is Mr. Coplen's vindication of himself and comrades against obvious slander and injustice. Alas! war is war, and at its best involves more or less all the lower passions of human nature, among rivals as well as actual contestants. But truth and honor have their claims in all departments of mortal activity.

When again in private life John D. Coplen continued on the tide of stirring activity and success. He was called to fill numerous minor territorial offices in the County of Bent, Colorado, and was at length tendered the Judgeship. But he declined and betook himself to broader fields of enterprise. He went to the San Juan mines, where in company with Dr. John Russell, he engaged extensively in gold mining. His success has been eminently satisfactory, and he now commands the privileges of ample wealth. He is a gentleman of very independent and liberal thought on all subjects, and is using his prosperous accumulations, as well as his talents and social influence, with commendable regard to the welfare of humanity. He takes pleasure in encouraging this Genealogical work, and its readers will see that he has furnished us his excellent likeness. The family home and seat of business is in Denver, Col.

Mrs. Harriet was left motherless by the decease of her mother in Indiana. At the age of 6 years she was recd. into the fostering family care of her uncle Henry Ballou in or near Zanesville, O., where he was kindly reared to womanhood. At the age of 18 yrs. she became the wife of Warren Sperrier, as above told. He was an intelligent man engaged in merchandise at mge., but soon sold out his interest in business, and moved with his young wife in 1839 to Johnson Co., Iowa, engaged in farming, represented the Co. in the State Legislature, sold out there, and finally settled in Lisbon, Lima Co., of the same State, which has ever since been the family home. We judge him and his whole family to occupy a prominent social standing in their community. For the foregoing data we are wholly dependent on letters received by Mr. Peck in 1874 from the foster mother of Mrs. Harriet and from her husband. Some important changes have naturally transpired since in the Sperrier family, which we should have gladly added. But we wrote and sent our printed circular to Mrs. Sperrier, without response, and therefore can tell no more.

[2929.] HENRY BALLOU, James', James', James', &c.: b. prob. in Indiana in 1822. The very little we can tell of this cousin comes from his sister, Mrs. Ruth Ellis (Ballou) Coplen, who says: "I know but little about my two brothers, Henry and Rufus. Henry was born about the year 1822, and died at the age of about 24 years, leaving a wife and one child (daughter)."

[2930.] RUFUS BALLOU "was born about the year 1825, and died about the same age, 24 years; leaving a wife, who died three months later". We knew not where to look for more definite information concerning Henry and Rufus Ballou, and therefore could only offer the above.

Jasper N. Ballou responded promptly and cordially to our call for his family record. He also gave us by letter a frank and full account of his experiences from youth to middle age. It appears he was left fatherless at about four years of age, and had meagre youthful privileges of any kind. In 1847 he enlisted to serve in the Mexican war, but was taken from his rendezvous by a relative, perhaps his step-father, on the ground that he was a minor, and thus prevented from gratifying his patriotic ambition. In 1851 he went to Iowa, and has ever since dwelt in the Hawkeye State. In August, 1862, he enlisted in Co. A, 30th Regt. Vols., Ia. Inf., to aid in suppressing the Rebellion. He spent nearly 3 years of perilous service in that great conflict, participating in the following engagements:—Chickasaw Bayou in Miss., Fort Hindman in Ark., Vicksburg and Jackson in Miss., Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge in Tenn., Resaca, Kennesaw Mountain, Peach-tree Creek, Atlanta and Lovejoy Station in Ga., &c. After the capture of Atlanta and a brief rest, he marched in Sherman's triumphant host down to the sea at Savannah; thence through South Carolina at their pleasure; thence through North Carolina, where they fought their last battle in Bentonville, and bade farewell to Johnson's disbanded army; thence to Washington city; and finally to Davenport, Ia., where he and his comrades were mustered out in June, 1865,—surfeited with soldierly hardship and laureled with glory enough for one life. He seems to have escaped the deadly missiles of the gray-coats, but will carry to his grave the fatal effects of a sunstroke, which prostrated him in 1863, and from which he never expects more than imperfect recovery.

He had scarcely any knowledge of his pedigree until the publication of Gen. Garfield's Life, and is exceedingly interested in obtaining the knowledge of his paternal progenitors, which he hopes to derive from this volume. He says,—“The only item of my ancestry that I am able to contribute is the history of a flask now in my possession. This dates back to 1777. While my grandfather, James Ballou, with others was engaged in the patriotic work of waging war for the independence of the United Colonies, he with others was detailed to bury the enemy's dead. Seeing this flask in the pocket of a dead Hessian, he drew it forth, and carried it during the rest of the campaign. At death he bequeathed it to my father, who at death requested my mother to preserve it for his youngest son, Jasper Newton Ballou. This is the legend as it came to me. Now at my death the flask goes to my eldest son, James Newton Ballou."

Jasper N.⁷ learned the carpenter's trade, but followed farming till the debility caused by his sunstroke obliged him to seek milder employment. He styles himself "a graduate of the world's school, having never been allowed the privilege of a district school when a boy." He says he left his step-father's roof when 13 years old to make his way in life, as thousands of other orphans do; yet as for education, has found ample time to learn whatever his business required, and has not ceased to learn. He is not ashamed to confess his honest poverty, but subscribes for three copies of this work notwithstanding. He reports his eldest dr., Eleanor, who m. George W. Gilbert, Sept. 6, 1883, to be well settled with her husband in Marshalltown, Ia., but mentions no grandchildren. His family home is in Montrose, Lee Co., Ia. Finally, he says.—"I have the respect of my neighbors and the love of my friends; but my work is almost done. Soon the last roll-call on earth will be answered by the one who pens these lines, and he is ready to answer here or there."

Ellis Ballou⁷ was named and recorded by his parents James Ellis; but at 10 years of age he conceived a great dislike of it for some reason, probably thinking it overworn in his branch of the Ballous. So he discarded it, ever after calling himself simply Ellis Ballou. We comply with his request to register his name according to his own preference. He and his wife are gifted with an intellectual genius and literary taste. She was at one time a Teacher in Hiram College, O., and did not wholly relinquish her profession at marriage. He also practiced the same calling more or less before and after marriage. He commenced the publication of a newspaper in McConnelsville, O., of which he was editor and proprietor. We are not told the name or how long he continued its publisher, but only that he sold out and went west, about the breaking out of the Southern Rebellion. There he enlisted as a private, joined the army, was soon appointed Brigade

Postmaster, got taken prisoner by the famous guerrilla, Gen. Morgan, and was liberated, became agent of the Christian Commission at Camp Chase, Columbus, O., his wife being appointed Post School Teacher at the same place. After the war he engaged in the Real Estate Business in Zanesville for a while. Since then the family removed west into Montana—seeking a healthier home for Mrs. Laura and her children, who greatly needed it. There he resorted to teaching again for a season or two; but at last advised he had found a more remunerative business as travelling agent for a Medical Firm, and was on the wing in the Southern States, meantime the family home was in Dearborn, Montana. The children were being educated for professional positions, and the youngest daughter was finishing a regular medical course at a Female College in Philadelphia, Pa. They are all struggling bravely for honorable usefulness. Success to them.

Orrin Ballou' is an intelligent, enterprising, executive man, both in private business and public affairs. He has a valuable farm on the Muskingum river, 6 miles below Zanesville, on which are productive coal mines, and a landing where the steamboats supply themselves with fuel. Also a rich salt well, which is worked to good advantage. Such an estate is no common possession, and in enterprising hands furnishes plenty of employment for miners and other laborers. Some 25 men are required to handle the coal, besides a considerable number engaged in the salt furnaces. The farm has also extensive beds of clay suitable for the manufacture of fire brick. Orrin was tempted into official public life, and entered on the duties of County Sheriff Jan. 1, 1877. He served two full terms, four years, to general satisfaction. In order to discharge the duties of this office conveniently, he moved his family from his farm to Zanesville. There a great bereavement overtook him. His dear and accomplished companion died July 20, 1879. He also suffered pecuniary reverses, which added to his discomfort. He has since removed back to his farm, and is endeavoring to make the best of his trials. As seen above, his children all remained single down to the close of 1885. Henry was at that date mining in Montana, William Franklin collector and receiver for the boats in Zanesville, Sarah A. her father's housekeeper, Harriet E. teaching school, and Annie giving music lessons preparatory to becoming a teacher. Finally, the venerable grandmother, from whose communications all these data are derived, encourages us to hope that her descendants will want several copies of this volume.

James Abram Garfield, late illustrious, martyred, and universally lamented President of the United States, needs no historic glorification from our pen. The nation, and, we might almost say, the whole civilized world, is familiar with his name, character and biography. It would seem little better than ostentatious affectation to attempt adorning these pages with a sketch of what he was, did and suffered. It is indelibly chronicled on thousands of public tablets, and in millions of memories. Nor is it much more necessary or pertinent to make record here of what personally relates to his honored widow and promising chm. The American people generally are well informed of their whereabouts, circumstances and experiences. We therefore refrain from specification.

Dr. Silas A. resides in Cleveland, O., where he has long been a prominent physician. He will be remembered by most of our readers as one of the distinguished medical attendants on his illustrious cousin, the assassinated President Garfield. We sent him one of our printed circulars, with a request for his family record and all the genealogical data at his command concerning his brothers and sisters. He courteously promised to comply with our request. Not hearing from him, as we fondly hoped, we reminded him of his promise, but got no response. The result of our disappointment is that we have had to depend almost entirely, for all we are registering relative to the descendants of Elizabeth and Alpha Ballou, on summary data communicated by Gen. Garfield to Mr. Peck in 1874. This must partially excuse us for the brevity and ommissiveness obvious in these several records.

Y., soon after marriage, to Milo, Ill.; thence a year later to Atkinson, Ill., and thence, after a year and a half, to Prairie City, Ill. There Dr. Shipman d. Mar. 6, 1886. His worthy widow recently returned to Hamilton, N. Y., where she now resides.

It will be recollected [see page 436] that we dismissed the record and descent of Dr. Russell Ballou^a with regret, as unascertainable later than 1862. But we were fortunately surprised to receive a letter from his above named dr., Mrs. Shipman, under date of Nov. 8, 1887, saying that, on her return from the West, she found no response had been made to our printed circular, received by her sister two years ago; that she wanted a copy of our work, and that, late as it was, she wished to communicate the more important data of the family record not yet given. We answered that we would do our best to comply with her wishes. She includes in her communication some biographical information respecting her parents, unknown to us at our former writing. We needed this information then, and will now give its substance.

It appears that Dr. Russell Ballou^a studied his profession with old Dr. Batchelder of Royalston, Mass., and perhaps commenced practice by accompanying him among his patients' for a while. He settled first as a physician in Plymouth, N. Y., where he staid three years; next in Pitcher, N. Y., where he remained five years; and last in De Ruyter, N. Y., where he spent the rest of his mortal life. He had a very extensive practice, though suffering sadly from asthma over fifty years, but never neglecting his patients, even when having to be helped into and out of his carriage. He loved his profession, delighted to relieve pain, and was uniformly the friend of suffering humanity. His dr. says he had strong likes and dislikes, hated shams, and was down on quackery of all kinds. In politics he was originally a Whig, and later a Republican. He took a deep interest in the war for the Union, was a trusting admirer of President Lincoln, and on all occasions a devoted friend of the soldiers. She characterizes her mother, Mrs. Lucy Darling (Norton) Ballou, thus.—"She was a very mild and truly pious woman—the best of mothers—a friend to the poor and afflicted—and always ready to lend a helping hand to the needy." She d. Jan. 18, 1865, aged 62 yrs. and 7 mos. Dr. Russell Ballou^a died Nov. 10, 1866, aged 72 yrs. 2 mos. and 1 day.

Almando Ballou's history, had we done our duty in obtaining it from his own hand, would have enriched these pages with incidents of romantic interest. But we failed, through misdirection, to open a correspondence with him. We can present only a brief summary of it furnished us by his son DeForest Ballou, Esq., of Philadelphia. In a letter under date of Oct. 2, 1882, he gave us an outline sketch of the family biography, which we cannot do better than quote.—“So far as I am concerned, nothing more than ordinary has occurred which would be of interest in your book. I was born in Richmond, N. H., Apl. 29, 1854, whither my father had removed shortly before from Boston. We lived there till I was 9 years of age, attending the district school of that town.

We removed to Boston in 1863, where my father was engaged in mercantile affairs. I attended the schools of that city until we removed, in 1871, to Philadelphia. I was with him in his business office till Jan. 1, 1872, and then commenced the study of the law in the office of A. L. Heenessbrotz. I continued there until April 1, 1876, when I was admitted to the Bar, and have been in active practice in this city ever since. My father and mother are both living, and residing with me at 1536 Master St. My father is in no regular business. I have also three sisters, all unmarried and residing with me. [He then gives their names and birth-dates as above.] My father was one of the old ‘49’ adventurers who went to California in that year, and with his partner was the first to erect a frame building in Sacramento City. He also furnished the necessary lumber and erected the first church, as he calls it, in that city, by placing boards and boxes under a large tree, at which divine services were first held in Sacramento, before any buildings had been erected there. It might be well for you to correspond with him as he passed through an eventful part of the history of the Golden State, and can furnish you many interesting matters.” We attempted such a correspondence, but suppose our letter failed to reach Almando⁷, through misdirection or miscarriage, for we never received any response. DeForest⁷, Esq., was unmarried at the date of the foregoing letter, and prob. still is. It seems that the whole family were then enjoying a pleasant home together. His card, then sent us, announced “De Forest Ballou, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, 135 South Fifth St., Philadelphia.”

Ira H. Ballou⁷ has been a Commission Dealer in Country Produce for many years in Boston, Mass. He last reported himself as residing at 14 Baldwin St., Boston. We regret to find his papers reticent respecting several desirable genealogical particulars. They give us no hint concerning the birth-place of his chn., nor whether his surviving sons are married, or how they are employed. We must therefore be correspondingly reticent. We infer and presume that he and all his family are laudably pursuing their life-career in the home of their choice.

It will be readily inferred from the titles above appended that we are called to sketch the biography of an eminently distinguished relative in Dr. Nahum Enon Ballou⁷. He commenced his education in a log school-house. The death of his father left him in straitened circumstances, and obliged him to rely mainly on his own efforts for success in the world. Fortunately he was befriended by a kind-hearted Englishman of his neighborhood, who was as well educated as he was benevolent. Under his fostering care the youthful orphan was inducted into the elements of knowledge, and inspired with the ambition to climb its heights. This proved a great blessing—a tutelage which he appreciated with unwaning gratitude through advancing years. About this time the school districts of N. Y. were provided by legislative enactment with Harper's Serial Library, rich in excellent works for the mental improvement of aspiring youth. Of these, Nahum E. was one, and eager to devour such mental food. He had so far acquired the shoemaker's trade under his father that he could command a seat in any shop. Thus he could supply some of his financial wants, when farming or school teaching afforded him too little. Meantime he always kept himself well supplied with helpful books, on which he regaled himself at every available opportunity. In reasonable time he mastered the curricula of Gaines and Yates Academies in Orleans county. French, Latin and Greek were studiously acquired, and he entered on the special studies of his chosen medical profession. He began under the tuition of Drs. Nicholson, Paine and Hull in Albion, N. Y.; next studied with Dr. Babcock of Gaines, in the same county; then took his first course of lectures at Geneva, N. Y.; and then his second at Berkshire Medical College, Pittsfield, Mass., receiving his degree of M. D. in 1846. He practiced ten years in Carlton, N. Y., then attended his third and most profitable course of lectures in Buffalo Medical College. Marriage and its concomitants came in at the convenient period. He has always had an extensive business, and long ago attained a high professional rank. He has been in practice over 41 years. In 1856 he settled in Sandwich, Ill., where he has been a successful physician and surgeon for 30 years. He has been a resident of that city almost from its beginning, witnessing its prosperous growth, and aiding by every laudable endeavor to strengthen its educational and moral instrumentalities for promoting the general welfare. His scientific studies, in different fields of research, have received merited appreciation. He is a member of the Ottawa (Illinois) and the Cleveland (Ohio) Academies of Science. He was chosen President of the "Sandwich Naturalists Association," is a member of the "British Association for the Advancement of Science," and also of the "American Economic Association." He is a practical meteorologist, having made this branch of science a study for 40 yrs. He has recently published 33 years of observations, including every phase of weather, using all the latest physical instruments. He has written much on this subject of meteorology which has been published in the State Reports of Ill. In addition to all this, he has given special attention to natural history in relation to Ornithology, Ichthyology and the Arachnida—the spider being one of his favorite subjects. He spent many years in promulgating methods of artificial fish production for the re-stocking of barren streams. His rewards and tokens of recognition from scientists have been abundant. On Nov. 19, 1884, he was made Fellow of the Royal Meteorological Society of Great Britain. He is in correspondence with eminent scientists in Europe, as well as America. He is the author of several published essays on agricultural and horticultural themes. One on "Dairy Husbandry," and another on "Agriculture," received not only high commendations, but also cash prizes. For over 20 years he has been a statistical correspondent of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, a contributor for many years to the Smithsonian Institute, and now manages a "Voluntary Signal Service Station"—reporting monthly. He deems his connection with the Smithsonian Institute one of preëminent benefit to him. Besides his strictly professional business while in western N. Y., he held the responsible position of Custom House Officer at Oak Orchard Harbor, in the Niagara District. Since 1863 he has been U. S. Pension Surgeon, being now one of the oldest. Meanwhile the degree of Doctor of Philosophy has been conferred on him by the University of Florida. He was favored to receive the high testimonials necessary in such cases from numerous distinguished public men of the country, for which he makes his grateful acknowledgments. He has probably one of the largest medical, scientific and miscellaneous libraries in his section of Illinois. Withal, he claims to be gifted generously by the Muses as a poet. He composed a pathetic elegy on the martyrdom of President Lincoln.

In religion, the Dr. says he "is a rigid Calvinist, a firm believer in the Bible," and "considers the tenets of that old, old book better guides to the formation of character and a well ordered Christian life" than can elsewhere be found. In domestic relations, he accredits both his wives as model Christian women in all that can bless a pious home or a religious society. Having no children of his own loins, he adopted a widowed sister's infant daughter, bestowed on her an excellent education, and had the pleasure of seeing her develop very rare musical talents. She will be noticed in her mother's record.

The Dr. must excuse us for condensing and abridging somewhat the document he kindly furnished as the basis of the foregoing sketch. We have done so under serious admonition imparted to us, that we are in danger of making too large a book.

7047—4. Harry G., b. Jan. 15, '69.

This is the status of the family as the father reported it in 1873. We appealed to him for later data, but received no response. We presume his home is still in Carlton, N. Y., and we should have been glad to present facts and circumstances as they stood in 1886. We are not privileged to do so. Hosea M.¹ is doubtless a man of creditable record, and has a family equally reputable. In his letter to Mr. Peck of 1873, he said.—“I have been employed, for the last six years, by the U. S. Govt. as Deputy Collector of Customs at Oak Orchard, N. Y.” He was then, and prob. still is, in the enjoyment of satisfactory temporal prosperity.

[3040.] CAROLINE JANETTE BALLOU⁷, Nahum⁶, Daniel⁵, James⁴, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Plymouth, N. Y., Sept. 12, 1827; m. Henry Munn in 1860. Issue.—

Mr. Munn d. in 1862, and we regret to say that from no quarter have we received any information concerning the subsequent experiences of Mrs. Caroline Janette. We infer that she is still living and in comfortable circumstances. We expected full particulars from her eldest brother, but they came not.

EDITH MARIA MUNN⁸, Henry Munn and Janette Ballou⁷, Nahum⁶, &c., b. as above; m. Charles E. Bennett Apl. 19, 1887. Mrs. Edith⁸ was adopted into the family of her uncle, Dr. Nahum E. Ballou, in 1864, when she was two and a half years of age. The Dr. says concerning her.—“I gave her an excellent education, and, having developed musical talent of a high order, she became a successful teacher of music.” Such has been her genius and profession for several years, till at length she has entered into wedlock. Her future seems auspicious for usefulness and happiness. We suppose her family home must be in Sandwich, Ill.

[3041.] DANIEL ROLLIN BALLOU⁷, Nahum⁶, Daniel⁵, James⁴, James³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Plymouth, N. Y., Nov. 21, 1829; m. Mary Louisa Finnie, dr. of Thomas Finnie of Fox, Kendall Co., Ill.,—a lady of brilliant intellect and excellent judgment; cer. in the month of June, year not given. Issue.—

7049—1. Jay Phelps, b. Mar. 14, 1868.

7050—2. Burt Finnie, b. Sept 30, '73.

Daniel R. Ballou⁷ was a man of talents, enterprise and marked character. He made history by his own energies. He was three years old at his father's death. He found in his step-father, Selah B. Beardsley, a new father, not only as loving as the one he had lost, but more able to train and start him on an auspicious life-career. Everything was done for him that he needed. He graduated at the “Buffalo Commercial College,” after a thorough course of studies. He had already learned the use of carpenter's tools, and been well inducted into industrial habits. He next applied himself to the study of architecture, and soon became an expert draughtsman, as well as a skillful mechanic. His first undertaking was the erection of a church for the First Presbyterian society in Carlton, N. Y. It is still standing in good condition and occupied, after 36 years of constant use. In 1856 he went to the young town of Sandwich, Ill., containing only 250 persons. There he engaged at first in the grain trade. But the officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad soon discovered his superior business qualifications, and appointed him their Station Agent. He proved to be the right man for them, gave good satisfaction, and was trusted accordingly. Then came the great Rebellion, and he went in for its suppression with alacrity. The following is a summary of his war record:—Enlisted Aug. 1861, as a private in Co. H, 10th Regt. Illinois Infantry, but on the death of Capt. L. H. Carr was raised to the command of his Co. He made an excellent officer, ruled with firmness, and won the love of his men by kind moderation. At Tusculum, Alabama, he was stricken down with typhoid fever. A telegram was sent to his brother, Dr. Nahum E., who immediately went to his relief, took him from the hospital to a farm-house where he could be better provided for, and soon had him sufficiently convalescent to make the journey home. This was effected by affording him frequent rests on the long route. He returned to his Regt. in Oct. 1862, but being still unable to perform heavy duties was appointed to a seat on the Board of Court Martial. Still his health remained feeble, and feeling that he was more burdensome than serviceable to his country, his sense of honor impelled him to resign the captaincy of his Co. He did so, went home, and was again made Station Agent. He had fought fewer battles than he enlisted for, but secured a soldierly reputation for coolness in danger, courage in conflict, and a generous regard for the welfare of his subordinates. In his old position, which he continued to occupy for several years, he won the implicit confidence of the railroad officials by his orderly, systematic and judicious management of business, who frequently commissioned him to discharge important trusts in various matters outside of his own particular agency. After marriage he built a house in Sandwich, and settled down in business with seeming permanence. But at length an overmastering desire to become a farmer induced him to sell his pleasant home, purchase a farm in the valley of Fox River, and devote himself to its improvement. He amplified it till it embraced 400 acres. It was rich and beautiful land, admirably located, and well adapted to stock raising. Capt. Ballou was now happy. Moreover, he was loved, trusted and honored by his fellow citizens. He was elected to various public offices, appointed by Gov. Cullom a Trustee of Jacksonville Insane Asylum, and made Chairman of the Board, discharged large responsibilities to universal satisfaction, was called to arbitrate important controversies, and consulted by business men all around him as a safe counsellor. But in the midst of all this enviable prosperity a fatal catastrophe lurked to cut short his earthly life. The great Viaduct across Fox River was in process of construction. He took lively interest in it, and while in the act of supervising the operations on it, toward the evening of Feb. 18, 1884, he fell from an abutment, and died in a few hours. Thus ended his useful and honored career, at the age of 54 yrs. 2 mos. and 25 ds. He left an estimable widow and two promising sons to bewail their untimely and calamitous bereavement. They endured it as well as could have been expected, and still survive. His farm and property were valued at $50,000. The sons are pursuing a course of liberal education in an Institution selected by their father before his death. Their prospects are eminently hopeful.

There is scarcely a relation in life where his loss will not be felt and deeply deplored.” His estimable widow still survived at our last advices.

We are not so well informed concerning Dr. Philip C. Ballou and his chn. as we could wish. He is reported to have been a skillful physician of successful practice in his general vicinity, and otherwise a man of sterling character. We sent him a printed circular for his family record, which was returned Feb. 22, 1884, with the above given names, birth-dates, &c.; also some valuable data relating to his father's family; but all quite laconic, insufficient, and unexplanatory. It purports that Mrs. Anna Bird Ballou d. Feb. 11, 1880, a. 74 yrs. 3 mos. and 8 ds.; that his daughter Martha Ann^e, who m. Dr. Truman B. Dailey, res. in Avon, Lorain Co., O., without chn.; that his son Clark Atwood^r, who m. Mercy M. Williams, is a machinist, res. in Dixon, Ill., and has 4 sons; that his son Charles Wesley, who m. Emily Henderson, is a farmer in Wedron, Ill., without chn.; and that his son Erskine Judson^r, who m. Annah Wheeler, is a farmer in Piper City, Ill., with 4 chn. Of his own personal affairs nothing. We wrote twice to Clark Atwood and Erskine J. Ballou, hoping to get not only their own respective family records in full, but something more definite about their father. We recd. no reply. Perhaps if we had appealed to the other two chn., we should have been more fortunate. As it is, we must make this summary answer for them all. We have an impression of hearing that Dr. Philip^r had deceased since Feb. 1884, but are uncertain whether he still survives or not.

Huldah Angelia^s is a moral heroine; severely trained in hardship and sorrow, and of indomitable executive energy. In her 7th year her mother died, and circumstances obliged her to leave home and go out as a servant girl. At 19 she went to Canada with an aunt; at 21 was m. to Mr. Dearborn, toiled hard for ten years, and gave birth to three chn.; then emigrated to Minnesota among utter strangers, poor in pecuniary means, gave birth to another child, and soon after lost her husband. He d. Aug. 10, 1868, a. 36 yrs. 4 mos. and 6 ds. Thus she was left with her four chn. in destitute and desperate circumstances. Yet she girded her loins with divine strength, and by extreme efforts of toil and pinching economy held her family together, surmounting her privations. Her story is one of romantic pathos, and would make a readable volume. But we must cut it short, by merely mentioning that her mechanical genius was at length wrung out, and she invented a useful Cutting and Basting Table, which she Patented, and with co-partners is now manufacturing. May it prosper and prove remunerative. Her family home is in Austin, Minn.

Rev. John M. Ballou⁷ was a man of good natural and acquired abilities, religious from his youth, and an early conscientious aspirant for the gospel ministry. His boyhood was spent in the labors and experiences common to the young in newly settled agricultural districts, but he had tolerable common school privileges and some higher tuitional opportunities, all which he studiously improved—becoming at length a successful teacher of the winter schools in the vicinity of Madrid, N. Y. Having gained a thorough English education and considerable knowledge of the Greek language, he applied for admission into the Auburn Theological Seminary in 1832, was examined, without a college diploma, and cordially accepted. After a course of three years in that institution, he graduated creditably, received a Presbyterian license to preach, began to supply pulpits, recd. a call to settle as pastor of the church in Gainesville, N. Y., and was installed there in the fall of 1837. Meantime he had married, as above told. He continued in his pastorate at Gainesville nearly twenty years; then preached a few months in Albion, Mich.; then ministered in Clarence, N. Y., eight years; then in Byron, N. Y., three years; and finally, on urgent recall to Clarence, spent his remaining years in pastoral service there to the end of his ministry. We are not accurately informed whether he continued his pulpit ministrations until near the time of his death, but presume he may have done so. However this was, his ministry must have been a long one of between forty and fifty years. That it was an acceptable and approved one in his religious denomination, there is no doubt. If his father left the world serenely, a true patriot and a good Universalist, he did so in peace, an equally true patriot and equally good Presbyterian. He d. in Clarence, N. Y., Dec. 9, 1882, a. 76 yrs. 10 mos. and 23 ds. His excellent widow still survives him, residing for the last 3 yrs. in Jersey City, N. J., at 22 Crescent Ave.

Philander Ballou and wife were a well mated connubial pair, physically and mentally. They belonged to the substantial yeoman class, and had a good social standing. Their family home was in Waddington, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y. They have raised up a portly, robust family of sons and drs., who have lived to maturity, married well, and are on the highway of prosperous enterprise. The eldest two served bravely in the war for the Union some 3 to 4 years each, and came out unscathed. They are all staunch Republicans in politics. Four of them are railroad employes of some grade, and one has a commission house in Chicago. Mrs. Abigail d. June 29, 1884, a. 63 yrs. 8 mos. and 3 ds. Philander' still survives. Rev. Eli Ballou⁷, D. D., was a man of superior natural abilities, very respectable educational acquirements, large mental discipline, and elevated moral character. An ample volume would be required to do justice to his experiences, ministrations and accomplishments. We can condense into this memorial only a summary of his biography. He was an uncommonly intellectual and morally susceptible child. He mastered the alphabet so early, that at maturity he could not remember when. He was an apt pupil in the common schools of his neighborhood, notably at the head of his classes, and without a peer in spelling, often matched against the smartest, and winning prizes offered to competitors amid the plaudits of rural assemblies. His father's death and the distressing circumstances, while he was but about eight years old, made a deep and lasting impression on his plastic nature—rendering him ever afterward habitually thoughtful and religiously reflective; yet it greatly abridged his school privileges by necessitating his constant manual labor on the family homestead, which his father had just cleared up from its wilderness state. His spiritual culture meantime was largely derived from his good mother, and maternal grandmother, both devoted members of the Society of Friends, and from the meetings of that Society which he regularly attended—now and then interlarded with Methodist ministrations. He became well indoctrinated with Quaker principles, and imbibed a portion of their good ethics permanently. But his mother and grandmother, while uncompromising anti-Calvinists, were scarcely less anti-Universalists, and warned him against their tenets. Yet, happening to live some years in the family of a Universalist, hearing his arguments, listening occasionally to a Universalist preacher, and reading some of their publications, he at length became an enthusiastic believer, and felt strongly impressed to become a preacher. Accordingly he availed himself of his best opportunities to prepare himself for the Universalist ministry. He had various hindrances to surmount, and persistent efforts to make, for the accomplishment of his objects, but succeeded fairly—being much of the time both a teacher of the public schools and a theological student. For he was of the sort that had both the will and ability to help himself. He had encouragers, but under God he relied mainly on his own exertions. At the age of 22 years he preached his first sermon in West Pottsdam, N. Y.—still continuing his studies. In 1831 he recd. a Letter of Fellowship from the St. Lawrence Association, and Ordination from the same body in June, 1832. Thus his work opened before him, and he pursued it with great zeal and perseverance through life. The Universalists had no more executive laborer in their ministerial vineyard. A few of the places in which he preached need only be named to attest this. The year of his ordination showed him busy in Massena, Fort Covington, Malone and Constable, N. Y., also in Huntingdon, Canada. In 1833 he appeared in Swanton, Vt., where he remained four years, preaching meantime more or less at St. Albans and Berkshire in that State, and in Boone and other places in Canada—doing much missionary work in the regions all around him. Next we find him pastor of the societies in Stowe and Morristown, Vt., for four years—still plowing missionary fields in the general neighborhood. In holding a four days oral debate at Danville, Vt., he took a severe cold which settled on his bronchials, and for a time threatened his entire disablement as a public speaker. But after several discouraging months, he so far recovered as to undertake the purchase, publication and editorship of the Universalist Periodical entitled the Christian Repository. To this he devoted the next thirty years,—i. e., from 1840 to 1870. He was an able and hard worker in this position, yet not to the exclusion of pulpit service and correlative labors, which filled up his commandable time and opportunity. He was now in a province of activity which called forth his masterly abilities, and gave him great influence in his Denomination, as well as over the people generally within his wide reach. He was a free discussionist both inside and outside of his paper, and kept an open arena for all classes of correspondents, holding firmly the reins of a progressive conservative, and handling all his discussions with a fearless candor. At length circumstances, and especially his own impaired health, rendered it prudent for him to sell out his periodical in 1870. Soon after this change, he went to Kansas and preached three months, and then a year in Maquoketa, Ia. He returned to Vt. in 1872, preached in So. Woodstock till 1879, and in Barnard and Bethel till 1882. He then ministered again to his old parish in E. Montpelier until his last sickness. All through his ministry he was continually sought for to officiate at funerals and weddings, being eminently sympathetic and genial on such occasions, as well as edifying and impressive. Few ministers in Vt. equalled him in the number and wide range of these ministrations. All his preaching was characterized by a high rational, moral and spiritual tone, which carried conviction to his hearers and softened the prejudices of his doctrinal opponents. He never limited the divine retributions and discipline to this mortal state, but always left the solemn impression on the minds of his auditors that whether in this life or the future, the one indispensable preparation for acceptance with their Heavenly Father, and for true happiness, was a penitent, contrite, humble and dutiful heart. He had a pleasant home in Bethel, Vt., was the revered and happy head of his family, lived joyously with the wife of his youth over half a century, and finally received the boon of his translation to the immortal home in a manner becoming his sublime faith, hope and charity. He d. Mar. 12, 1883, a. 74 yrs. 3 mos. and 11 ds. He received funeral honors worthy of his deserts, and his remains repose in the beautiful Green Mountain Cemetery in Montpelier, Vt. His venerable widow was still surviving, at our last report, in her Bethel home Vt. It may be proper to add that his title of D. D. was conferred on him, about 1860, by a College in Kentucky, entirely without his knowledge. He did not reject it, but his manhood was of too noble a quality to appreciate it as of any great value.

J. B. Fisher, about 8 o'clock last Thursday morning. Mr. Ballou walked down to the store, apparently in his usual health, and was getting ready to begin his work. Intelligent, enterprising, worthy people. We have found Loring Voloros Ballou' a live cousin, a prompt, frank, helpful correspondent, anxious to furnish us data, and assiduous to encourage our work. In early business life he was a shoemaker, but after settling in Cleveland, O., in 1837, he became a popular teacher of dancing, and followed his profession successfully till advancing years admonished him to retire into quietude. Hiram Ballou^r does not mention his occupation, but we presume he may be a farmer, and a prosperous one. He commended himself to our good opinion by a very prompt, orderly and intelligible family record, in response to our call. He says.—“My family are all pretty well educated—much better than I ever was.” This also does him credit. And we perceive that his youngest dr. Josie^t, who is an accomplished school-teacher and professional writing mistress, proved her qualifications by serving as her father's amanuensis in writing out, in nice arrangement and good chirography, her father's report. We presume that both parents are enjoying the family home in Blandinsville, Ill. Nothing is said of grandchildren. But we were advised of the residence and occupation of the surviving sons and drs., and might have written for further information, had we not been overloaded with work in other directions. It may be proper to note some of these particulars.—

Mrs. Sarah A. (Ballou) Bradbury* and husband reside in Winfield, Kan. She is a school-teacher there.

Charles E. Ballou* is general agent for the Fire Insurance Co. of Blandinsville, Ill.

Mrs. Lillis C. (Ballou) Deener* and husband res. in Blandinsville. She is a popular dressmaker. We will specify what we had not space to insert before, that she was married to her 1st husband in 1875, and to her 2d Sept. 11, 1884.

Mrs. Florence A. (Ballou) Hainline and husband have their home, too, in Blandinsville.

Mrs. Fannie E. (Ballou) Turner and husband reside in Canton, Ill., one or both devoted to music.

Mrs. L. Adelaide (Ballou) Converse and husband dwell in Lacrosse, Ill. Occupation not named.

Miss Josephine Luella's calling has been indicated. She remained with her parents to cheer the parental home.

Dea. Alanson S. Ballou has quite an interesting history. In temporal and material affairs he began married life a diligent farmer on a homestead in his native town near the one on which he was born, and managed it with toilsome prudence for 20 yrs. He then sold out, emigrated to Illinois, bought an 80 acre farm, built him a house, and subdued a portion of the soil, under discouraging circumstances. In 1859 the Pike's Peak gold mine fever seized him and several of his neighbors, and he united with them in an expedition to the promising regions of underground wealth. They went with ox and cow teams over a long route, abounding with anxiety, perils and stirring occurrences, reached their destination, were disappointed, tried their fortunes further along with no better success, and returned home to Illinois, having accomplished with their slow teams over 2000 miles of profitless travel. The full story would make a romance. On reaching home he found his family had just left for a visit to Mass. He sold his farm at once and followed; settled 4 years in No. Becket, got badly wounded by a circular saw, removed to Northampton in 1864, took charge of a paper mill as overseer for 14 years; saved a little property, and finally bought his present home, No. 26 Market St., in said Northampton, Mass. In religious concerns he became experimentally pious in his 16th year, and joined the Baptist church of Middlefield, Mass., 1831. He was chosen Dea. of the Baptist church in Becket 1860, and in 1865 of the church in Northampton. He served faithfully in his office and is commended by his Northampton pastor as an eminently exemplary and competent Christian Deacon. In respect to this History and Genealogy, he has manifested a lively interest from the beginning, and has taken a great deal of pains to furnish us valuable data relating to his branch of our general family.

He left Mr. Austin in 1859 in quest of better fortune. When the Secession War broke out, he entered the Union ranks in Co. F, 6th Regt. Infantry Iowa Vols., served out his three yrs., and re-enlisted during the war. He shared largely in the perils of camp and field, was twice wounded—once dangerously—and finally discharged at Louisville, Ky., July 21, 1865, coming out 2d Sergeant. He soon applied himself to business, began to accumulate property, and in 1870 was elected sheriff of Clark Co., Ia. He retained that office by repeated re-elections for 10 yrs. He next went into the employ of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. Co., as Claim Agent, overseering 900 miles of road. He still occupied that responsible position at our last advices. He resided in Osceola, Ia., but owns a splendid farm of 200 acres, under good cultivation, near Weldon R. R. station in Decatur Co. In fine, he has made mortal life a success. He says.—“I have had my ups and downs in life, but have always been able to keep up, and to-day I owe no one anything but good will.”

Elias Ballou and wives have all been devoted Baptists, in high religious and social standing. In 1847 or thereabouts he purchased a large farm in Becket, Mass., and removed thither from his native town of Peru. Becket was then very sparsely inhabited, and had no central village. The farm of Elias was admirably located and well adapted for such a village. He had the sagacity to lay it out at once into house-lots, which he sold out at rising prices, till now it is covered with habitations and public structures. Thus he became gradually a wealthy man. He has held various responsible town offices, and will go down to an honored grave.

She died deeply lamented in Venango, Pa., Mar. 22, 1873, aged 39 yrs. and 3 mos. Monroe Elias Ballou^a accompanied his father from Peru to Becket at the age of 11 years, has grown up into business and influence there, is a miller on a large wholesale and retail scale, is in comfortable pecuniary circumstances, represented his District in General Court during the winter and spring of 1875, is a member of the Baptist church, together with his intelligent wife and children, and has a rich abundance of divine blessings to be thankful for, both temporal and spiritual. His well educated and promising son, Willis Dwight Ballou^a, is Special Agent for the New York Life Insurance Co., and has an office in 811 Chapel St., New Haven, Ct. He evinces marked enterprise, takes a lively interest in this genealogical work, and has commended himself to our respectful gratitude by doing much to aid us in acquiring valuable data relating to his Berkshire kindred. But for him our gleanings in Becket, Mass., &c., would have made a poor show; though others, through his promptings and suggestions, have been helpful contributors, especially the lady Ballous.

Evidently intelligent, enterprising and cultivated people. Dr. Harris graduated from Michigan University in the spring of 1864.

He served two years in the war for the Union, and after his graduation became a surgeon during the last year of the war, in the naval service of the South Atlantic Squadron. In 1865 he moved his family to Madison, O., and there practiced his profession for several years. In April, 1883, he moved to Chicago, Ill., the present family home, and engaged in the banking business of N. W. Harris & Co. Their son Arthur, unmarried, was, at last advices, a cashier of the firm. Mrs. Elvira is interested in our genealogy, and will doubtless secure a copy.

We sent application for family records, but obtained only a part of one. We suspect that group of our cousins are not ambitious to expand this rather ponderous volume by their numerous names and birth-dates. We must excuse them. Mr. Willis Dwight Ballou tells us that Mrs. Persisⁱ and husband raised a large family, and is now living in Huntington, Mass., with her sons; has married grandchildren; has several children who have been quite successful in business, and held official positions, both political and religious, &c. He advised us to write to Edward Pease, Esq., for desired information. We did so, and obtained only the following.—

EDWARD PEASEⁱ, Eldredge Pease and Persis Ballouⁱ. Dea. David^e, &c.; b. in Middlefield, Mass., Sept. 13, 1839; m. *Sarah R. Iowa Vol. Infantry; marched to Vicksburg, Miss., in 1863; fought in several engagements, and in the bloody assault on the Rebel breastworks at Vicksburg, May 22d, was fatally wounded. A minnie ball pierced his left leg just below the knee, and two others tore their way through his left shoulder into his throat, mangling the adjacent parts incurably. He was conveyed to Memphis, Tenn., where he d. of his wounds June 8, 1863, a. 32 yrs. 3 mos. and 1 d. Such are the fruits of war. His bereaved wife returned with her child to Union Co. She has taken great pains to help us in this undertaking, by furnishing very full data relating to the descendants of her grand father, Martin Ballou⁶.

George W. Ballou⁹ is a farmer of reputable character. He served his country in the civil war faithfully from 1862 to 1865, and was honorably discharged. He belonged to the 13th Regt. It seems he emigrated to Kansas, somewhere in Cowley Co., not far from 1870. But we are not advised of his exact locality. We suppose his family home is now in that State.

Mrs. Amey Ann⁷ and husband deserve a more specific memorial than our space allows. Their son Ezra Edgar⁷ took great pains to furnish us a biographical sketch replete with interesting events and incidents of their life career, inspired by the most reverent filial affection, and expressing his desire for his children's sake, that we should insert as much of it as convenience would permit. The unexpected amount and pressure of our incoming matter obliges us greatly to abridge his communication. But we will give a respectful synopsis. Mrs. Amey Ann was remarkable, from childhood down to old age, for intelligence, energy, decision and firmness of purpose. She had strong cravings for educational privileges, but was restricted to few. Of these she made the most, and supplemented them by persistent self-discipline. She was brought up from early girlhood an Ohio pioneer toiler, and was thoroughly trained to all the hard*work and stringent economies of a new settler. There was nothing indoors or out that she could not execute with dispatch and turn to good account. Thus she became the most practically competent of daughters, wives, mothers and neighbors—able as well as willing to serve and bless all. And she had abundant opportunities all her life long. As a wife, she became the mistress of several successive large farms, and the mother of 10 chn., with cares thickening around her at every stage of her experience. So she earned and received the love, confidence and veneration of all around her. She held a high moral and social tone from early days onward, and at length became profoundly religious, united with the Regular Baptist Church, and came down an exemplary Christian to a happy death bed. She d. on the family homestead in Milford Centre, O., Mar. 27, 1883, a. 72 yrs. 9 mos. and 17 ds. And funeral blessings clustered richly around her burial. Her husband was worthy of her. He had a good family ancestry behind him, and was intelligent, enterprising and upright—owned successively three large farms—the first two in Madison Co., O., and the third in Milford Centre, Union Co.—the last being the one on which Martin Ballou, his father-in-law, lived and died. He too, we believe, was a pious and exemplary Baptist. He d. Feb. 8, 1886, a. 78 yrs. 10 mos. and 11 ds.

Next in order come the chn. and descendants of Amey Ballou⁶ dr. of David⁵, who m. John W. Adams of Medfield, Mass. See [1100.] She had 7 chn. We strove hard to trace those chn. and obtain their respective family records. But our pains and expense brought us only a few fragments of information relating to one or two of them. One of these was John Jay Adams, since an enterprising merchant of New York City, b. in Medfield, Mass., May 31, 1812, but some years ago deceased. We found him to have been twice married, to have had at least 3 chn., and to have left his 2d wife a widow. All our inquiries elicited only poor results. We have therefore concluded to leave the whole 7 chn. of Amey (Ballou) Adams without further notice. See Nos. [3328] to [3334] inclusive overleaped.

Belong to the manufacturing, mercantile and financial class. Family residence in Norwich, Ct. Mrs. Amelia d. quite suddenly July 1, 1887, aged 59 yrs. and 4 ds. She was greatly loved and lamented. Her death was noticed in justly eulogistic terms in one of the Norwich, Ct., journals as follows.--

"THE DEATH OF MRS. A. H. ALMY.—In the death of Mrs. Amelia Almy, wife of Mr. A. H. Almy, which took place yesterday at 1 o'clock, there falls upon a wide circle of friends a sense of personal bereavement and loss which is irreparable, if not inconsolable. Taken away in the fulness of life and in the full maturity of what has been to those who knew her a superb, albeit an ideal womanhood, she leaves a place in the social life of the city and in the hearts of her friends which cannot be filled. The daughter of the late Leonard Ballou, she came by inheritance into a heritage of rare advantage and refining influences, which assured to her culture of a high order; and yet these alone were insufficient to account for the rare and rounded completeness of her character, for the gracious and winning courtesy of her manners, which won and charmed all who came in her presence, or for the wealth of womanly virtues which would give her eminence among the best and truest of her sex. Those who knew her well, her zest for and interest in life, her unfailing good cheer, her facile ease and grace of conversation, her love for and exact knowledge of art, and the rare charm of her generous hospitality, will bear testimony to the difficulty of speaking of her except in seeming terms of extravagance. She was a Christian, a faithful and valued member of Park church on which falls a sense of sore bereavement in her death."

Oren Aldrich Ballou was constitutionally well endowed with physical and mental capabilities. He was prepared for college in the Select Seminary of Rev. Barton Ballou, who was a Classical Preceptor in Cumberland, R. I. He graduated from Brown University in 1832, at the head of his Class—enjoying the highest esteem of his tutors and fellow students. He taught school for a brief period in Woonsocket, and cherished quite a literary taste; but circumstances drew him into business life under his father, who greatly needed his services. In 1842 he became copartner with his father in the manufacture of cotton fabrics, in which he continued till his father's death in 1847. Then he and his younger brother Hosea went on together with the same manufacture till Hosea died in 1852. Then the proprietorship was merged in the "Social Mfg Co." With this Company he remained in connection to the close of life. His home was in Woonsocket, R. I., till 1866, when he removed to Providence, where he thenceforth dwelt, excepting during the winter months, which he generally spent in Florida, especially in Jacksonville. While in the South he was frequently an interesting correspondent of the newspaper press in his native vicinity, for which he also often wrote on the topics of the day. He seems not to have been much of an aspirant for political honors, yet consented to represent the city of Providence in the State Legislature during the years 1867 and '68. He also served the State as a member of the Board of Commissioners for the erection of a new State Prison from 1875 until his death. He was a very competent judge and counsellor on all manufacturing affairs, and respected accordingly. He is credited with a temperament uniformly bright and cheerful, and with being urbane and companionable. He and his wives won eminent esteem for their talents, culture and excellent character. Their social standing was correspondingly reputable. He d. Feb. 21, 1877, a. 63 yrs. and 6 mos. His estimable widow and three promising chn. latterly for some time resided in Claremont Park, Boston, Mass., where she was endeavoring to insure them a suitable education. But her work was suddenly terminated. She died there June 26, 1886, a. 50 yrs. 9 mos. and 7 ds.

Professor Bushee received a classical education, and has been an eminent Academic Preceptor, first for many years in charge of the Smithfield Union Village Academy, and later as a Professor in the Worcester Oread Institute. We understand him to have retired latterly to restful private life, and to have his family home in North Smithfield, R. I. He is a gentleman highly respected for his intellectual, moral and social qualities. Mrs. Bushee is not less so in her sphere. She has a history behind her full of precious memories. Her good mother died while she was a tender infant. She was adopted at the age of four and a half years by her venerable grandfather, Oliver Ballou³, and grew up to womanhood in the closest and happiest intimacy with him; and they were only separated by his death. He had been some time bereft of his wife, and had no child or grandchild for help and companionship but her. As he gradually became infirm and feeble, it was her privilege to minister to his wants, by day and by night; devotedly till he departed to the higher life. They were mutually affectionate, and never an unkind word passed between them. As a final token of his regard, he left her twenty shares of bank stock, which she has taken good care to preserve as a cherished memento of his revered person and worth. She informs us that her grandfather spent the last months of his life with his dr., Polly (Ballou) Miller, on Tower Hill, in Cumberland, R. I., near his birthplace, and died there. Mrs. Bushee manifests an encouraging interest in this publication.

We have been furnished a full biographical sketch of Maj. Sullivan Ballou, copied from "Memoirs of Rhode Island Officers," said to have been written by Francis Colwell, Esq. We desired to present this sketch entire, but are so crowded with matter as to feel justified in reducing it to its essentials. But his last very affectionate and pathetic letter to his wife is appended verbatim.

MAJOR SULLIVAN BALLOU

Of the 2d Regt. R. I. Vols., who lost his life at the disastrous battle of Bull Run, was one of the most prominent men of his native State. Eloquent, able, honest and fearless, he had always won distinction at the Bar and in her Councils. Having passed his years of childhood and youth in his native town, he was attracted to the West, and spent one year in Rochester, N. Y., as clerk in a store. In 1846 he entered Philips Academy in Andover, Mass. Two years later he reached Brown University, Providence, R. I. Thence after two years study, he proceeded to the National Law School at Ballston, N. Y., and fitted himself for the legal profession. He was admitted to the R. I. bar in March, 1853. He commenced practice in his native Smithfield, and continued it there and in Providence, till he left with his Regt. for the seat of war. Few men ever relinquished more flattering prospects of success in their chosen profession than Major Ballou. He was Clerk of the R. I. House of Representatives during the years 1854, '55 and '56, and became a member thereof from Smithfield in April, 1857. He was unanimously chosen Speaker of that House twice successively, but declined his second call to the Chair. He was a very popular Speaker, and afterward rendered important services on Legislative Committees. In whatever position he was placed, he honored it, and distinguished himself. He was for some time Judge Advocate of the R. I. Militia. When the call of his country came for troops to save the national existence, he responded with his whole soul, and his eloquence and influence were powerful in behalf of the cause. The 2d R. I. Regt. was demanded. He exerted his utmost ability for its organization, and became its Major.

In that office he evinced the same superior aptitude in martial affairs that he had in civil. He won the admiration and confidence of fellow officers and of the men under his command. And so he marched to the deadly front, every inch a knightly hero—patriotic, sagacious, brave and beloved. On the day of battle his Regt. opened the action, and while leading on his men to the charge, he was struck by a cannon ball, which killed his horse and fractured his leg. He was borne from the battlefield to Sudley Church, where he expired July 21, 1861, a. 34 yrs. 3 mos. and 23 ds. Rhode Island had no dearer son to lose. His remains were committed to the unfriendly soil of Virginia, whence they were at length brought home to an honored and tear sprinkled grave. The heart-stricken widow and fatherless sons mourned, and all the people mourned with them,—comforted only by the sympathizing eulogies, and the assurances of divine mercy opening to them the vista of immortality. That widow and those sons still survive—ever cherishing the following loving farewell

LETTER.

WASHINGTON, CAMP CLARKE, July 14th, 1861.

MY VERY DEAR SARAH: The indications are very strong that we shall move in a few days—perhaps to-morrow. Lest I should not be able to write to you again, I feel impelled to write a few lines that may fall under your eye when I shall be no more. Our movement may be one of a few days' duration and full of pleasure, and it may be one of severe conflict and death to me. "Not my will, but thine, O God, be done." If it is necessary that I should fall on the battle-field for my country, I am ready. I have no misgivings about or lack of confidence in the cause in which I am engaged, and my courage does not halt or falter. I know how strongly American civilization now leans on the triumph of the Government, and how great a debt we owe to those who went before us through the blood and suffering of the Revolution. And I am willing, perfectly willing to lay down all my joys in this life to help maintain this Government and to pay that debt. But my dear wife, when I know that with my own joys I lay down nearly all of yours, and replace them in this life with cares and sorrows, when after having eaten for long years the bitter fruit of orphanage myself, I must offer it as the only sustenance to my dear little children, is it weak or dishonorable, that, while the banner of my purpose floats calmly and proudly in the breeze, underneath, my unbounded love for you, my darling wife and children, should struggle in fierce though useless contest with my love of country? I cannot describe to you my feelings on this calm summer Sabbath night, when two thousand men are sleeping around me, many of them enjoying the last, perhaps, before that of death; and I am suspicious that death is creeping behind me with his fatal dart, and communing with God, my country and thee. I have sought most closely and diligently, and often in my breast, for a wrong motive in thus hazarding the happiness of all those I loved, and I could find none. A pure love of my country and of the principles I have often advocated before the people, another name of honor that I love more than I fear death, has called upon me and I have obeyed. Sarah, my love for you is deathless: it seems to bind me with mighty cables that nothing but Omnipotence could break, and yet my love of country comes over me like a strong wind, and bears me irresistibly on, with all these chains, to the battle-field. The memories of all the blissful moments I have spent with you come creeping over me, and I feel most deeply grateful to God, and you, that I have enjoyed them so long. And how hard it is for me to give them up, and burn to ashes the hopes of future years, when, God willing, we might still have lived and loved together and seen our sons grow up to honorable manhood around us. I know I have but few and small claims upon Divine Providence; but something whispers to me—perhaps it is the wafted prayer of my little Edgar—that I shall return to my loved ones unharmed. If I do not, my dear Sarah, never forget how much I love you, and when my last breath escapes me on the battle-field, it will whisper your name. Forgive my many faults and the many pains I have caused you. How thoughtless, how foolish I have oftentimes been. How gladly would I wash out with my tears, every little spot upon your happiness, and struggle with all the misfortunes of this world to shield you and my children from harm. But I cannot. I must watch you from the spirit land, and hover near you, while you buffet the storms with your precious little freight, and wait with sad patience till we meet to part no more. But, O Sarah, if the dead can come back to this earth, and flit unseen around those they loved, I shall always be near you in the gladdest day, and in the darkest night, amidst your happiest scenes and gloomiest hours—always, always; and if there be a soft breeze upon your cheek, it shall be my breath; or the cool air cools your throbbing temple, it shall be my spirit passing by. Sarah, do not mourn me dead; think I am gone, and wait for me, for we shall meet again. As for my little boys, they will grow as I have grown, and never know a father's love and care. Little Willie is too young to remember me long. And my blue-eyed Edgar will keep my frolics with him among the dimmest memories of his childhood. Sarah, I have unlimited confidence in your maternal care and your development of their character, and feel that God will bless you in your holy work. Tell my two mothers I call God's blessing upon them. O Sarah, I wait for you there; come to me and lead thither my children.

Hon. Nathan T. Verry was a man of strong natural abilities, intelligence and enterprise. His father died, leaving him and his brother, George F., bright, active boys, with their widowed mother, to take their chances in life. Both were trained through youth in the families of kind uncles, and launched auspiciously in early manhood on the great stream of business. Nathan T. left school at seventeen, and was employed for some years by his maternal uncle, Henry G. Ballou, merchant tailor, in Woonsocket, R. I. Later he tried cloth manufacturing for a while, but finally went into the sale of ready made clothing on a small scale, and gradually expanded it with large success. Meantime he distinguished himself by a public spirited citizenship, and was honored with various responsible offices, such as Town Councillor, member of the School Board, Representative to the General Assembly, Senator in that Assembly, Col. of militia, &c. Hon. George F. Verry' transcended his brother in public distinction, and won higher fame. This will appear from the following obituary notice of a Woonsocket, R. I. newspaper.—

DEATH OF GEO. F. VERRY.

Hon. Geo. F. Verry, formerly of Woonsocket, and brother of Hon. Nathan T. Verry, of this town, died at his home in Worcester, Mass., Friday afternoon, in his 58th year. Deceased was born in Mendon, Mass., July 14, 1826. In his boyhood he lived with his uncle, the late Samuel Verry, in Blackstone, and with another uncle, the late Henry G. Ballou, of this town. His early education was acquired in the common schools, and he subsequently entered Phillips' Academy at Andover, intending to take a college course, but changed his mind and entered business in this town, afterward engaging in woolen manufacture in Grafton, Mass. A taste for the law soon developed, and his later success proved that this was his proper calling. At the age of 23 he commenced the study of law in the office of Henry D. Stone, Esq., and two years later, Sept. 8, 1851, was admitted to the bar. His pronounced aptitude and zeal in his profession was rewarded with notable success. He early secured a large and lucrative practice, and became known as one of the ablest advocates in Worcester county. Within the past dozen years he has been quite prominent in political circles in Massachusetts, his active career commencing with his election as mayor of Worcester in 1872. He was a candidate for re-election, but was defeated, and was the Democratic nominee for Congress the same year. He was a member of the State Senate in 1874 and 1875, and served as chairman of the Judiciary Committee both years. He was a Republican until 1872, when he became an Independent and since 1876 had acted with the Democratic party. Last year he was candidate for Attorney-General on the Butler ticket, and declined renomination on account of failing health. On General Butler's becoming chief executive, he appointed the deceased judge advocate general on his staff. The funeral took place in Worcester on Tuesday and was very largely attended. Gov. Butler and staff, the Worcester city government and many other prominent officials being present.

He d. in Worcester, Mass., Oct. 5, 1883, a. 57 yrs. 2 mos. and 22 ds. His respected widow is presumed to be still surviving.

Here is a stately, old-fashioned family, reported by the cordially communicative father, in one of the most lucid, orderly and complete statements of details it has been our pleasure to transcribe. We are refreshed by its excellence. Hiram Ballou^r is an intelligent and devout Methodist. Under date of Feb. 23, 1886, he wrote us.—“I became interested in the subject of religion at the age of eighteen, forty-four years ago, and soon after united with the Methodist church, of which I have been an official member and in its Sabbath School nearly all the time since. My first wife was also a member from 1842, and my present wife has been since 1852.” Most of his children belong to the same denomination. We presume he is thrifty, industrious, probably a farmer, and a trusted citizen. Reports from most of his chn. enable us to give the following records.—

Army at or before the opening of the war with England in 1812. He was a Sergeant in the Co. commanded by Capt. Thomas S. Seymour, belonging to the 25th Regt. Inf. of the regular army. His health at length fatally declined, and he made his Will at Sackets Harbor, N. Y., bearing date Jan. 26, 1815. He soon after d. there at a date not precisely specified. His Will was found by one of our researchers, Rev. Anson Titus, recorded in the Surrogate's office, New York city, Vol. 53, p. 62. We have it verbatim, but our pages are too crowded to insert it in full. It provides specially for the remuneration of Dr. Daniel Barney, his physician, and Mr. Daniel Pierce, who had kindly ministered to him in his sickness. They were to be amply compensated out of his estate, even if the whole should be required to do it; provided the Government did not pay their charges. But if Government paid them, or if anything remained beyond meeting his just indebtedness, he bequeathed all such remainder to his brother-in-law, Reuben Miller, of Cumberland, R. I.

We have scanned our letters and papers relating to this cousin, hoping to find a brief account of his youthful experiences, and especially of his medical education. But either we have overlooked it, or never received it. His letters and our correlative information all show that he is a man of good natural abilities, creditable erudition, and successful practice as a physician; also a gentleman of high toned character and reputable standing. He practiced his profession in St. Albans, Vt., from Mar. 1839, to Mar. 1859; then removed to Burlington, Vt., and practiced from Mar. 1859, till June, 1861; then left Burlington for the seat of war with the 2d Regt. Family record solicited from all these. They are all said to have chn. No response, except from Walter Ballou, Esq., and we fear we have misplaced the order of birth. We are sorry not to hear from his brother and two sisters. All we know of their parents is derived from the specification in Walter's return. His father, William Ballou¹, d. Mar. 11, 1847, which would denote his age to be 35 yrs. and 7 mos. Mrs. Harriet, his widow, is presumed to be still living. Of occupation, characteristics, &c., nothing is indicated.

WALTER BALLOU⁸, Esq., William⁷, Pelatiah⁶, Jesse⁵, Ezekiel⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Boonville, N. Y., June 21, 1839; m. Eugenia Brinkerhoff, dr. of George and Lydia (Knight) Brinkerhoff, b. in said Boonville Dec. 9, 1845; cer. there Oct. 13, 1864. Issue.—

7862—1. Harriet K.,⁹ b. May 15, 1874.

7863—2. Eugenia L.,⁹ b. Apl. 12, '76.

Walter Bailou, Esq., is a popular attorney and counsellor at law in Boonville, a man of eminent distinction among his fellow citizens, and with his family exerts an honorable influence in all social relations. He is always full of legal and various other kinds of business, and seems to have had no time, if he had the inclination, to furnish us the salient facts of his biography. We must therefore leave these to the inference and imagination of our general cousinhood.

7866—3. Edwin, b. Oct. 24, '35; d. Aug. 12, 1836.

Mrs. Matilda d. Dec. 8, 1835, a. 31 yrs. 7 mos. and 29 ds. William P.^r m. 2d Lucy Burdick, prob. a sister of his 1st wife, b. May 4, 1806; cer. Apl. 17, 1836. No issue reported. Mrs. Lucy died Mar. 15, 1868, aged 61 yrs. 10 mos. and 11 ds. William P.^r m. 3d Harriet Johnson, b. Dec. 30, 1807; cer. Aug. 16, 1868. No issue. William P.^r died in Pawtucket, R. I., May 10, 1883, aged 75 yrs. 3 mos. and 16 ds. The family record furnished us in this case is fairly exact as far as it goes, but extremely laconic and omissive in some respects. We give it as received, and have put down the eldest son as having d. u. m., finding no mention of his mge. He died at the age of 38 yrs. and 11 ds. We derive the death-date of the second son, Otis J. Ballou^r, from a newspaper notice. We understand him to have d. u. m. from hearsay. He made his Will and gave the bulk, if not all, of his property to the town of Pawtucket, in which he died, for the benefit of its poor. But we are told that his Will was invalidated. His age was 51 yrs. 6 mos. and 12 ds. William P.^r's wid. survives. Otherwise his family is extinct.

7867—1. Allen Francis, b. not given; said to have a family.

7868—2. Irene, b. not given; m. Adin B. Capron; she d. recently.

The following biographical sketch is copied from the Biographical Cyclopaedia of Rhode Island. "OTIS DEXTER BALLOU, having been left fatherless in his childhood, and motherless in his youth, had limited advantages of education, but received a valuable discipline of industry and self-reliance. After a business experience of eleven years from 1833 to 1844, he purchased a farm, which he managed successfully. Among other products, his farm yielded 1200 bushels of potatoes in one year. In 1846 Mr. B. bought a hotel in Woonsocket, which he kept for eighteen years, and conducted on strict temperance principles; no intoxicating drinks, not even cider, being allowed on his premises. After the first five years the business of the hotel became profitable. In the latter part of his life, about ten years, Mr. B. was employed in settling estates. For about thirty years he was a Director of the Cumberland Bank, of which he was President during the last six years of his life. In the Woonsocket Savings Bank he was a member of the Board of Investment. Though many times solicited to accept public office, he invariably declined. Mr. B. d. in Woonsocket, R. I., Nov. 4, 1875. He is remembered as an active, judicious, christian man, of strict integrity." Age at death 65 yrs. 9 mos. and 8 ds. For aught we have learned to the contrary, his worthy widow still survives.

7872—4. Charles H., b. Jan. 8, '48; unmarried.

7873—5. Osborn J., b. July 6, '51; m. Leonora Holley.

Warren J.⁷ was an executive, respectable farmer near Cumberland Hill, R. I. He died there a few years since, but we have not the date. Indeed, we have been poorly posted on his family record. We expected something better, but never received it. We are able to tell nothing concerning his widow, married chn., or grand chn. worth mentioning.

[3618.] ELIAS SMITH BALLOU⁷, Otis⁶, Jesse⁵, Ezekiel⁴, Obadiah³, James², Maturin¹; b. in Cumberland, R. I., Oct. 31, 1813; m.

7880—1. Milton B., b. Oct. 20, 1842; d. Sept. 20, 1843.

It seems from public record that Milton served in the U. S. Army from Oct. 25, 1837, to Oct. 25, 1840, when he was regularly mustered out. He was soon after m., and res. on Washburn St., Smith Hill, Providence, R. I. There he d. June 11, 1845, a. 28 yrs. 3 mos. and 13 ds. Nothing further communicated.

The grand chn. of Olive Ballou^c, dr. of Jesse^b, &c., who m. Capt. John Butman, come next in order, and Miss Alpha Butman, her dr. in Providence, R. But our work is assuming such huge dimensions that we feel excusable for declining to pursue the large descent further. For the same reason we feel obliged to waive further tracement of Irene Ballou's descendants. She m. Clark Jilison, and left another large descent.

A sadly bereaved family! We think a majority of these chn. were b. in So. Bellingham, Mass.; perhaps a few of the elder in So. Mendon, and of the younger in Providence, R. I. We knew the parents in our earlier manhood, as intelligent, enterprising, worthy people, and reckoned them among our estimable friends. We recollect having ministered at three of their funerals. Mr. Curtis was an executive brush manufacturer for many years. He was a popular Captain of an Independent Light Infantry Co. in Mendon, Mass., long ago, if we do not misremember, and always respected as a citizen wherever he resided. He and his wife spent their last years in Providence, R. I., where they d. at dates not furnished us. Of their married children we are told merely that James M.,^a who m. Catherine McJoy in 1838, has 4 chn., residence not given; and that Olive A.,^a who m. Jesse Boynton of West Canada, has had 8 children.

7908—2. Edwin Ruthven Trumbull Cook, Rev.; m. A. M. Swords.

We knew Noah Cook⁷ in our early life, first as a district school teacher under whose tuition we sat, and later as a Manager of Transportation between New York City and Albany, up and down the Hudson river, with extensive connections beyond. He was doing, in 1828, a large business, which we presume greatly expanded in after years. He was a man of very executive talents and indomitable push. He had the ability, tact, self-reliance and will to achieve success. He took a lively interest in public affairs, was active in politics, was sent from New York City as a representative to the State Legislature, and distinguished himself there on important committees. He exemplified humane sensibilities, benevolent sentiments, and generous impulses toward his suffering fellow creatures in the various relations of life. He adopted and educated two orphan neices, and relieved sympathetically many distressed strangers. He gave his own chn. a first class education, and enabled his only son to become a highly respected Episcopal clergyman. He d. Feb. 25, 1845, a. 46 yrs. 6 mos. and 15 ds. Of his widow no information recd.

PHILENA COOK^s, Noah⁷, &c.; b. at a date not given; is reported meagerly as a well educated, intelligent, reputable maiden lady, residing in New York City. Reported 1883.

Rev. Edwin Ruthven Trumbull Cook^s, graduated reputably from the University of New York, at the age of 19 years; studied Divinity three years, commencing in 1846; received Deacon's Orders in 1849; was ordained by prelatical authority, the same year, as first Rector of St. Thomas Church at Ravenswood, Long Island; during this Rectorship was regularly consecrated a Priest; in 1850 became Rector of Calvary Church in Brooklyn, N. Y., and subsequently accepted the Rectorship of St. John the Evangelist's Church in New York City. There he d. July 24, 1865, a. not far from 38 years. Nothing further reported concerning his family. He was evidently a man who ranked well in the Episcopal priesthood, but of a life seemingly too brief.

Here is one of our truly respectable families—parents and chn.—marked by intellectual ability, moral integrity, and lives of substantial usefulness. We have known them, as personal and religious friends, in their seasons of hymenial gladness and funeral sorrow, through long years. Arthur Cook, Jr.,⁷ was partially a cripple all his life, owing to osseous weakness in his lower limbs, but otherwise physically and mentally robust. He early mastered a good scholarship, and became a successful school teacher for 25 yrs. In mathematics he was uncommonly gifted, and delighted in abstruse problems even down to old age. He was warmly interested in public affairs, and very executive in the dispatch of all business whose duties were chiefly of a sedentary nature. He was called to many official positions of trust and responsibility, and filled them to the general satisfaction of all concerned. Among these may be mentioned over 20 yrs. service on the School Board, many as Assessor, several as Custom House functionary in New York, Justice of the Peace through several terms, Trial Justice at least one term, Deputy Marshal for taking the U. S. Census in the towns of Blackstone, Mendon and Uxbridge, &c. His principal residence was on the paternal homestead in what is now called East Blackstone, Mass., where, we think, most if not all his chn. were born. He finally retired from active labors, and took up his abode in Milford, Mass. There Mrs. Adaline, the worthy wife and mother, d. Aug. 28, 1876, a. 61 yrs. 9 mos. and 28 ds. And there, in a good old age, Arthur, Esq. ended his mortal days June 6, 1885, a. 81 yrs. 11 mos. and 12 ds.

We remember Elisha Sherman and wife as good neighbors, and him as an ingenious mechanic in the wheelwright business. Later in life he removed to Foxboro', Mass., and engaged in cloth manufacturing. Of his closing years we know little. The last 14 of them were saddened by sickness and suffering. We hoped to ascertain the death dates of himself and wife, but failed. Our information concerning the family records of their married chn. is not sufficiently definite for insertion—names and dates being too few. Their grand chn. numbered 27 in all, of whom 16 are still living—9 sons and 7 dcs. We gratefully acknowledge our indebtedness to James N. Sherman^o, without whose kind pains-taking to aid us we could not have presented the above record.

[3659.] HON. LEVI COOK^r, Thaddeus Cook and Rhoda Ballou^a, Levi, Esq.,^b Ezekiel^c, Obadiah^d, James^e, Maturin^f; b. in Bellingham, Mass., Dec. 16, 1792; m. Eliza Stevens of Detroit, Mich., belonging to a family formerly of Boston, Mass., or vicinity, ptge., birth-date, &c., not ascertained, nor date of cer. No issue, though an adoption of two nieces of Mrs. Cook. We remember Hon. Leviⁱ, some years our senior, as a promising young man of our native vicinity, and once met him in his mature years, perhaps during his last visit among his Eastern relatives. He evinced in youth marked intellectual abilities and aspiring enterprise. He had an ambition to try his fortune in the West, and selected Detroit, Mich., as the locality of his adventure. He had received a decent education for his opportunities, and taught school a short time, but was bent on mercantile pursuits. Having made some preliminary explorations, he stocked himself with a moderate amount of goods, probably in New York, and late in 1820 started for his chosen destination. He had shipped up Lake Erie, was overtaken by the cold of winter at Sandusky, O., and his vessel frozen in. He mounted a pair of skates, on which he was an expert, pushed on 125 miles to Detroit, engaged a sled-team, returned to Sandusky, transported his goods to his hired store, and opened business. He had the best of success, and in process of years accumulated a handsome fortune. Retiring from active traffic, he became occupied with social and public affairs. He was a genial society man, welcomed into the best circles, and made them all lively by his witty urbanity. He became Treasurer of the Territory till its admission as a State into the Union, a Col. of militia, a Bank President, an Alderman of the city, and for 3 years, 1834-5-6, its Mayor. In the Masonic Fraternity he rose to be Grand Master. In fine, whatever promised welfare and honor to his adopted city and State enlisted his interest. Thus he won the love and high esteem of all around him. He died Dec. 2, 1866, aged 73 yrs. 11 mos. and 17 ds. Mrs. Eliza, his worthy wife, preceded him to the immortal realm about one year and a half.

Here is a thrifty, reputable and happy family, in which good hereditary blood and mentality, well nurtured, are illustrated by their fruits. Our correspondence with Judge Taft has been cordial and refreshing. He is alive to the success of our work, and has been quite helpful in its behalf. The following is a sketch of his life-career. He spent his boyhood on a farm, privileged with a moderate amount of district schooling; went to Detroit, Mich., in 1834, and served awhile in the store of his maternal uncles, Levi and Olney Cook—living in the family of the former, and attending the public schools a portion of the time. Next he took up a line of academic education, entered Dartmouth College in Hanover, N. H., in 1839, and thence graduated in 1843. He then returned to Detroit, studied law under competent legal masters, and in 1845 was admitted to the bar by the State Supreme and Federal Circuit Court. He practiced his profession for several years as law partner in two distinguished Firms of Detroit successively. In 1848 he removed to Niles, Mich., where he joined another eminent Firm, and became Prosecuting Attorney of the County of Berrien from 1851 to 1853. He then removed to Chicago, Ill., put himself in connection with popular partners, and had a large practice, winning many victories, much fame and considerable wealth. In 1865 he removed to Lake Forest, where he was officially prominent. Overwork impaired his health, and in 1868 he removed to Pontiac, Mich., bought a large farm in the vicinity, adapted to stock-raising and general production, which he managed to good advantage and the regaining of his health. He resumed the practice of law in 1872 at Detroit, and in 1873 was appointed Judge of the Sixth Circuit, Mich. After serving out his term, he returned to Pontiac, recurred to his law practice, and superintended his farm. There he has since remained. He has long been an Elder and Trustee of the First Presbyterian Church in Pontiac. Other offices of distinction have been creditably filled by him at various times too numerous for specification. His wife is a superior woman, descended on the maternal side from Thomas and Rebecca (Holt) Grow, conspicuous early New Englanders whose progeny gradually moved Westward into New York and the later settled States, and have everywhere won a good reputation. One conspicuous branch of them held a splendid reunion at Waterford, Mich., in August, 1885, which mustered over two hundred relatives, including Judge Taft and wife, and passed off with great eclat—handsomely reported through the public press. .

[3663.] ELLIS COOK', son of Thaddeus Cook and Rhoda Ballou⁶, b. in Bellingham, Mass., May 8, 1803; was a young man of fine talents and promise, who went West to embark in trade, and died in Sandusky, O., Sept. 23, 1823, aged 20 yrs. 4 mos. and 15 ds. He was beloved and lamented by all who knew him.

[3664.] OLNEY COOK', son of Thaddeus Cook and Rhoda Ballou⁶, b. in Bellingham, Mass., Mar. 7, 1806; m. Asenath Warner, dr. of Levi and Mary (Stoughton) Warner, b. in Lewiston, N. Y., Aug. 31, 1819; cer. in Franklin, Mich., Feb. 24, 1836. Issue.—

- 7994—3. Julia Louisa Cook, b. Nov. 8, '40; d. in early infancy.

Olney Cook' shared largely in the same intelligence and commercial enterprise that characterized his brothers Levi and Ellis. He was attracted to Detroit in 1828, entered his bro. Levi's mercantile establishment, soon became permanent partner, and later its most active manager. He was a sterling business man, and applied himself indefatigably to the demands of his calling. At the end of 20 yrs. he was comparatively independent, but had impaired his health and needed relaxation. He therefore eased off, purchased a small farm in the outskirts of the city, betook himself moderately to its cultivation, and soon recruited. Outside of business he felt no great interest. He uniformly declined all political and civil offices, though often urged to accept nominations for them. He was drawn a little into martial affairs—just enough to serve as Captain of militia. In the fire department of the city, however, he was willing to watch vigilantly and work hard, and did so; as in that day there was little of system and special organization for the preservation of property from the ravages of the fire fiend. Thus Olney⁷ looked well to his own interest with that of the public, made no ostentatious display, exemplified honest economy, and lived an orderly citizen, a kind husband, father and neighbor. He died justly appreciated Aug. 13, 1876, aged 70 yrs. 5 mos. and 6 ds. Mrs. Asenath, his estimable widow, survives in good health, dwelling with her only son, reciprocating ministries of mutual affection.

An orderly, virtuous and happy family, in a pleasant home, at 30 Bugg street, Detroit, Mich., gladsome with music, and full of promise for the future. Charles Thaddeus⁸ was born to a goodly inheritance, physical, mental, social and pecuniary, which he has improved worthily and enjoys deservedly. He does not distinctly indicate his occupation, but we infer that he is a financier, and officially connected with the First National Bank of Detroit. What other positions of business, responsibility or honor he holds, we are not informed. He has manifested a commendable interest in this publication by cordially furnishing us much valuable data, by subscription in its behalf, and especially by contributing the memorial likenesses of his father and uncle to illustrate its pages. We hope the work will not disappoint his expectations.

A worthy family of honest toilers in the fields of useful industry, and sadly thinned by the arrows of death. All but the youngest 2 were b. in Woonsocket, R. I., and these 2 in Milford, Mass., which became the family home about 1845. The respected husband and father, without apparent cause, fell into a condition of mental depression, and terminated his mortal existence by drowning, at Ashland, Mass., May 1, 1877, a. 66 yrs. 10 mos. and 22 ds. Since this great grief, the heart-stricken widow has been bereaved of 3 beloved adult children, 2 married and 1 single. She still survives, a bruised and trembling reed.

Welcome D. Ballou' and 2d wife richly deserve a good memorial. She was a lineal and worthy descendant of Rev. Robert Cushman, a renowned Pilgrim leader and co-founder of Plymouth Colony, inherited the sterling qualities of her family stock, and left a life-record replete with connubial and maternal virtues. So they together did their utmost to train up and qualify their chn. for intellectual, moral and useful eminence. He was a man of large thought, faith, hope and charity,—enterprising and executive in business, but too generous and considerate of other people's interests and wants for great self accumulation. He was first manager and then owner of a considerable estate purchased by his father in Marlboro', N. H., which included a hotel. Next, after his father's death in 1824, he spent several years with his widowed mother in charge of the paternal homestead, Cumberland, R. I. While there he held several public offices, and once represented his native town in the State General Assembly. He returned to Marlboro', N. H., in 1834, remained three years, and then, about 1837, settled in Keene, N. H., as a provisionist, largely in the meat line. There, in the course of 20 years, he had a good opportunity, through leniency toward customers, to distribute $50,000 or so in uncollectable debts, but saved enough to retire, in broken health, from active business during his remaining days. He passed the last 15 yrs. of his life in the comparative quiet of home. There he died Dec. 12, 1879, a. 80 yrs. 7 mos. and 25 ds. Mrs. Eliza survived him only a short time. She died May 12, 1880, a. 79 yrs. 11 mos. and 25 ds.

A pleasant, comely and promising family. Flavius J. Ballou⁸ was born with marked capabilities, fitly improved by education, and well adapted to business pursuits. He exercised them awhile as book-keeper, but soon embarked in the lumber traffic up and down Lake Michigan. He is now prosecuting it successfully. Family home in Chicago, Ill.

ANN ELIZA BALLOU⁸, Welcome D.,⁷ &c.; b. as above; m. Cyrus L. Potter of New York City, b. in Johnstown, N. Y., Apl. 19, 1832; cer. in said city Dec. 31, 1879. No chn. reported. Mrs. Ann Eliza reed. an Academic education, and was engaged for some years in Providence, R. I., and New York City as a fashionable modiste. Mr. Potter became Principal of an Academy at the early age of 16, duly licensed by the State Supt. of Public Instruction. He afterward graduated from one of the State Colleges with degrees to be appointed Master of Civil Engineering Instruction in Cooper's Institute. After several years there he accepted a position in the largest wholesale Jewelry House in N. Y. City, where he has ever since remained. Meantime he has taken one rejuvenating outing, which he spent in a lecturing tour with good results. He is a very active and prominent church worker, especially as Supt. of large Sabbath Schools, and was, at last advices, in charge of one belonging to the Lexington Avenue M. E. Church. Standing and circumstances of this family eminently satisfactory.

Mrs. Olive^s is a woman accomplished by superior educational advantages and literary culture—of high toned moral principle, spiritual aspiration, and perpetually brimming with thought. She delights in recondite themes of mental contemplation, scientific, philosophic, metaphysical and mystical, even to astrology. She is a philanthropist, with generous heart and open hand, and deplores the semi-barbarous relics in general society which still clog the wheels of human progress. She is one of our highly valued cousins, and a helpful encourager of this work. She has an excellent husband. He was educated in Rochester University, N. Y. He studied law there and in New York City, and in 1857 was admitted to practice in the State Supreme Court, as also in the U. S. Supreme, District and Circuit Courts. His centre of activity has been in New York City, where he has honored his profession by marked ability, moral integrity and fair success. He is philanthropic and reformatory from principle, and does not allow his professional interests to swerve him from the higher dictates of conscience.

Family home in Keene, N. H. Our reporting informant speaks in the highest terms of these parents and chn. Mrs. Susan Mary^s is a fine looking, good woman, a model housekeeper, great domestic worker, and a devotee to connubial and maternal duty.

Mr. Tuttle comes from one of the best families in N. Hampshire, has an admirable physique, a wonderful memory, a vigorous understanding, and a master mind—though mostly self cultivated. He has distinguished himself for accumulated learning, church service as lay preacher, Sunday School Superintendency, and readiness for every good work. In the Masonic Fraternity he stands at the head, in degrees and competency to teach—having been Grand Lecturer of the State, and admired in all its Lodges for his instructiveness and eloquence. The eldest dr. is characterized as very handsome in person, a fine scholar, a superior teacher, and above all a saintly Christian. The second, Miss Carrie Edith, hardly through a thorough education, is described as a beauty, a charming singer, fit for the stage, and otherwise a blooming flower. And the little departed one is canonized as a "bud of Christian promise," transplanted to Christ's kingdom of heaven.

Mrs. Sarah Ann⁶ prefers to write her first name Sara. She was graduated through a full course of studies in the Keene Academy, now the Keene High School, and subsequently attended the Normal School in Providence, R. I., enjoying rich scholastic privileges of tuition there and elsewhere under several eminent Professors. The result was, that she became an accomplished scholar, not only in English learning, but in Latin, Greek, French and German, as also in Music. She is said to be noted for her classical face and mien as well as classical erudition. Thus qualified, she taught in several of the first families in New York City with much success, commanding the highest salaries at that time paid. Her husband was educated for a teacher and prepared for college, but went down South, taught awhile, then studied and practiced law—remaining in all seven years. At the earnest solicitation of Whig friends in Vermont, he next entered into journalism, and has spent 30 years or more in that profession, as editor and publisher.

The Vermont Journal, in Windsor, Vt., and the New Hampshire Sentinel in Keene, N. H., have borne the fruits of his journalistic service. In recognition of his abilities and usefulness to the public in this capacity, the University of Vermont, in 1852, conferred on him the degree of A. M. His business and family home for many years has been in Keene, N. H.

- 8171—5. Harriet Amelia Craig, b. Dec. 12, '47; d. Aug. 24, 1852.

We knew Mrs. Caroline⁷ in our native neighborhood, and as a pupil in its little school house. She was then an intelligent, estimable girl, and grew up to be a no less estimable wife and mother. Her husband started well as a farmer boy, was privileged to receive a good academic education in Rev. Barton Ballou's Seminary at W. Wrentham, Mass., taught school more or less for several seasons, and became a merchant. His family home and business were for a considerable time in Holliston, Mass., later in Woonsocket, R. I. He made up a meritorious life-record, and d. in Woonsocket Oct. 21, 1863, a. 57 yrs. 3 mos. and 10 ds. We presume Mrs. Caroline to be still surviving in Woonsocket or vicinity.

The exemplary wife and mother, Mrs. Sarah A. (Hunnewell) Ballou, d. at Woonsocket, R. I., June 24, 1879. And since then the worthy maiden dr., Miss Sarah Jane, has been the ministering priestess in her father's domestic sanctuary.

We have had more or less acquaintance with Latimer W. Ballou from his childhood to venerable age. We are between third and fourth cousins in kinship, and natives of the same Ballou neighborhood in Cumberland, R. I. He is some nine years our junior, and was one of our pupils long ago, when we taught the district school of our rural vicinage. He was then a very bright, docile, and lovable lad—a budding and auspicious promise of the superior manhood he has since illustrated. At the age of sixteen his father gave him the option of collegiate education or a mechanical trade. He chose the latter and became apprentice to a printing firm in Cambridge, Mass., near Harvard University, in which his maternal uncle, Eliab Metcalf, was a partner. That firm dissolved a few months before the expiration of his apprenticeship and released him from further service. His next two years were those of assistant foreman in the University printing office, Cambridge. He then united in partnership with three others and started the Cambridge Press, with which he remained seven years. Impaired health admonished him to leave the printing business, and in 1842 he entered into mercantile partnership with his brother-in-law, William O. Bisbee, at Woonsocket, R. I., removing his family thither. A few years' experience convinced him that merchandise was not his proper element. In 1849 the authorities of Woonsocket Falls Bank solicited him to become its cashier. His modest self-distrust led him to decline, but their repeated importunity induced him to accept in 1850. He was now the right man in the right place—becoming treasurer of the Woonsocket Institution for Savings, as well as bank cashier. He has retained these responsible positions ever since, to the great prosperity of both institutions. He has proved himself a most sagacious, judicious and prudent fiscal economist. Under his administration the bank has vastly increased its operations, and the deposits of the Institution for Savings has risen from $60,000 to over $4,000,000. Meantime, such has been the universal confidence inspired in his financial competence and fidelity, that he has been loaded with trusts from individuals and corporations to an almost insupportable amount. A single sample of the fruits he has borne in this line is sufficient for general illustration. Dr. Ezekiel Fowler died in 1863, leaving a bequest of about $5,800 in Mr. Ballou's charge for the Woonsocket Hospital. In a little over twenty years the trustee has increased that fund to more than $27,000.

Turning from finance to politics, our cousin has been no less successful. He has always taken a deep interest in public affairs of municipality, State and nation. He belonged to the progressive wing of the old Whig party, and naturally advanced into the Republican ranks. He was a prudent counsellor, eloquent speaker and popular leader—always outspoken and uncompromising, yet courteous and gentlemanly towards opponents. It is necessary to mention only some of the principal offices he has held. Presidential Elector in 1860, when Lincoln was made President and Hannibal Hamlin Vice-President; Delegate from R. I. to the National Republican Convention which nominated Grant and Wilson in 1872; and Representative in Congress from his District, elected in 1874, reelected in 1876, and again in 1878—three successive terms. All these offices he filled with honor to himself, satisfaction to his constituents, and benefit to his country. In Congress he distinguished himself as member of several important Committees by marked influence of intelligence and judgment, by able reports, and by strong, convincing speeches. He was a model Congressman, not only as a legislator, but as an exemplary moralist, being an active vice-president of that much needed organization, the Congressional Temperance Society, and in all other respects a pattern.

If we glance at his war record against the Rebellion, it is sufficient to say that he satisfied the most urgent demands of patriotism in home supplies of influence, men, means and relief. He was a highly appreciated friend of the soldiers and their families, freely sacrificing personal exertion and money as occasion called for them.

In all matters relating to the education of youth, the moral and philanthropic reforms, and the common charities everywhere needed in general community, he has been a practical devotee to human welfare.

In religion, he has ever been a staunch Universalist, without concealment or compromise, but always with toleration and charitable consideration towards others—never a bigot or censorious denunciator of opposing religionists. He has been an emphatic worker and upbuilder of his own denomination and all its internal institutions. He has been a model Sunday School teacher and superintendent, first in Cambridge, Mass., and later in Woonsocket, R. I., in the latter place especially, where he has led the school of the Universalist society with triumphant success for over forty years. In the colleges, academies, conventions, conferences and various organizations of the denomination, he has held and adorned many dignified offices, to the pleasure and profit of all concerned. He stands high among his ecclesiastical associates, is everywhere a welcomed lay speaker, and has written several able productions for their denominational press. In testimony of their elevated appreciation, their leading College (Tufts), at its annual Commencement in 1887, conferred on him the titular Degree LL. D. He says in a note to us.—“My official positions and honors have always come to me unsought, and I have only tried to do the best I could wherever placed, however humble or exalted it might be.” The title was well bestowed, and will be modestly as well as worthily worn.

We will briefly add that Hon. Latimer W. Ballou and our lamented brother, Dr. Ariel Ballou, both actuated by a laudable ambition to publish this History and Genealogy, jointly assumed, early in 1882, the financial responsibility of executing the undertaking. They made the necessary preliminary arrangements and provisions for its completion. It reflects much honor on both, and we hope will be gratefully appreciated by the whole family of their kindred. Our beloved brother's health failed, and he was gathered to his fathers without being permitted to see his heart's desire fully realized. This devolved additional responsibilities on his colleague, which we trust he is bearing manfully, and will live many years to rejoice in the consummation of his cherished object.

Henry Latimer graduated from the Woonsocket High School and the Boston Mercantile Academy. He served acceptably as Clerk of The Woonsocket Falls Bank till 1873, when he was appointed Assistant Cashier of that Bank and Assistant Treasurer of the Woonsocket Institution for Savings with full powers—his father being in Congress much of his time for six years. He won the confidence of his associates, and of the Directors and Trustees of both Institutions, as a faithful, efficient and accomplished officer. He is the Treasurer of several societies, settles many estates, and is a much trusted conciliator in healing controversies between contending parties; both implicitly relying on his judgment and fairness. So he is a rising man among his fellow citizens, who last year honored him with a seat in the State Senate, and doubtless will give him a conspicuous official future. In his religious relations he holds influential positions in the Universalist Church and Sunday School of Woonsocket.

Eminently respected in their vicinage; but the husband was suddenly cut down by death in the noonday of his usefulness and prosperity. He died at his home in Woonsocket Apl. 24, 1887, aged 39 yrs. 7 mos. and 3 ds. He was deeply lamented. Extracts from his newspaper obituary.—

"He received his education in the public schools. He came to Woonsocket about fifteen years ago, and went to work in the grocery store of George C. Wilder, at 3 Monument square, where his faithfulness to duty soon won the respect and confidence of his employer. When Wilder retired, a few years ago, he sold his business to deceased and Rollin Woodworth, who conducted it under the firm title of Ballou & Woodworth. Woodworth sold out his interest nearly one year ago, leaving deceased sole proprietor. Honest, upright, kindly in disposition, cheerful of temperament, he won public esteem in the beginning of his business career, and retained it to the end. He had a kind and encouraging word for all with whom he came in contact. In fact, he was a model representative man and good citizen. As a business man and citizen of strict integrity, as well as Christian gentleman, he will be sadly missed and his early death, ere yet the prime of manhood was reached, deeply regretted. He was a member of Eureka Lodge, I. O. O. F., and also of Palestine Encampment and Canton Woonsocket. He leaves a father, mother, wife, three children and two brothers to mourn his loss, all of whom have the sympathy of the community in this the hour of their deep affliction."

Estimable parents, sadly bereaved of their offspring. Mrs. Mary F.' is rich in hereditary good qualities of her lineage, and Mr. Pond was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was an unassuming, genial, gentlemanly man—honest, just and generous in all the intercourse of life. He was an expert accountant, a trusted business agent, and in all positions reliable. He rendered much valuable service as clerk and assistant in the Providence Post Office, in newspaper establishments, and later in Philadelphia, Pa., as Business Manager for Dennison & Co., of Boston, Mass., in their large branch house. We could expatiate elaborately in truthful eulogistic terms on this connubial pair, whose names are indelibly recorded on our book of remembrance, as choice personal friends. We knew them well, and drank the cup of sympathy with them in their seasons of affliction and funeral sorrow. Their intellectual, moral and social worth could hardly be meetly inscribed on these pages in the space at our command. But it is written justly on enduring tablets above, and we will refrain. Their years of domestic union were few. He d. Oct. 29, 1860, a. 47 yrs. 7 mos. and 28 ds. We ministered consolation to his mourners.

We arrive again at the descendants of Amey Ballou^o, Ezekiel¹, Obadiah³, &c., who married Benjamin Gaskill. Since what we gave on pages 218 and 548, on imperfect information, we have gleaned some facts which ought, perhaps, to be preserved. They are the following.—Lavina and Joanna Gaskill^o, drs. of Amey (Ballou) Gaskill^o, died in early womanhood, of canker rash, and so nearly at the same time that they were buried in the same grave. Patience Gaskill^o, the next eldest dr. of Amey^o, m. Reuben Sherman of South Bellingham, Mass., and after widowhood 2d Silas Cook, Jr. Daniel Gaskill^o, son of Amey^o, went into distant parts soon after he became of age, and was never heard from more. His bro. Hosea Gaskill^o raised a considerable family, lived in Eastern Connecticut, and has descendants scattered through that general region. The only one named of these was George Gaskill¹, who had several chn. What more we have ascertained is presented below.—

What a havoc of death in a good, quiet Quaker family on a rural homestead! Two of the drs. died the same day, and the father 4 days later. He d. Oct. 8, 1857, a. 56 yrs. 1 mo. and 11 ds. His venerable widow still survives, dutifully cherished by her only remaining child and son. He has an intelligent mind, solid common sense, a kind heart, and a moral character that commands the respectful esteem of all around him. We have found him a willing, clear-headed and helpful correspondent—imparting much of the information embodied in the family records of these Gaskill cousins. From his silence concerning any wife or children, we take for granted he remains a bachelor.

Thus much from the pen of Mrs. Eunice, in response to our written request for her family record—and no more. She is a very worthy and venerable octogenarian, who perhaps did not quite understand how much we desired, or found it difficult to write more specifically. She courteously invited us to visit her, promising, in that case, to tell us much more than she felt able to write. We could not conveniently make the visit, and so the matter was left as above. When her 1st husband died, with or without issue, or whether, as is probable, she is now a widow, we are uninformed. We learned incidentally that she has had several chn., three of whom are living, but by which husband was not indicated.

Maj. Orson C. Ballou^s is a man of sterling native abilities and energetic character. He emigrated from Madison Co., N. Y., at the age of 16, with his maternal uncle, John Pray, to northwestern Ohio—then a wilderness. There he grew up amid the rough experiences, perilous adventures and toughening toils of pioneer life. For howling wolves and whooping red men were fellow inhabitants of the region round about. Suffice it to say, he became conspicuous in the militia and in municipal citizenship, and commanded the general respect.

C. C. LEWIS, husband of Orzora Ballou decd., was a Captain in the 14th Regt. Ohio Vols. during the civil war.

ORSON GILBERT BALLOU^b, Orson⁷, Silas^c, Capt. Asa⁵, &c.; b. as above; was unmarried. He went to the great war as Lieut. of a Co. in the 100th Regt. Ohio Vols.—was taken prisoner, confined in Libby Prison, and d. there Feb. 6, 1864, a. 29 yrs. 4 mos. and 21 ds.

Jefferson Ballou⁷ removed many years ago from Ohio to Bronson, Mich. That became the family home. He is reported to us as a prominent man in his community—a member of the Congregational Ch., an honored citizen, Inspector of the Public Schools, Justice of the Peace, &c. An expression is dropped by our informant which implies that he has deceased, but he gives no death-date of him or his wife, and leaves us in some uncertainty as to whether one or both have passed away.

We promised the family record of Israel Simmons in this tier of Generations. He was a son of Joanna (Ballou) Seamans, alias Simmons. She was a dr. of Capt. Asa Ballou¹. Before we do so, we must make some corrections and additions to Joanna's record: 1st. A misprint has occurred on page 554. Lucina, 7th child, should have been Lucinda. 2d. It should have been stated that Joanna's grand chn. numbered 57. Of these, only 4 are credited below to her son Israel. Eight of the 57 served in the war for the Union.

We had intended to follow down the descent of Joanna (Ballou) Carpenter⁵, dr. of Ezekiel Ballou⁴, Obadiah⁴, &c., to the utmost extent of our communicated data, which would include a considerable number of her great-grand chn. But our pages are multiplying so enormously, that we trust those good cousins who so kindly furnished these later details at our request, will pardon their omission—even though we seem to treat some others more generously. Perhaps we ought to have been more restrictive on female descents from the beginning, and uniformly so. But infallibility is yet beyond our attainment, and our faults are many.

Next come descendants of Daniel Ballou⁶.—

We understand Dr. Knight to be a skilful and prominent practicing physician in Santa Cruz, Cal. But he has been too modestly reticent to present us one syllable of his biography beyond the above record. We wish he had given us a brief outline of his experience; for we are confident his story would have been worth reading. He has given us a good opinion of him simply by the orderly and lucid data furnished us concerning his parents and their chn.; and especially by the interest he manifests in this publication by subscribing for four copies.

Daniel R. Ballou is a lawyer by profession. He grew up in the experiences of a farmer boy, and had the ordinary privileges of the public schools. At the age of seventeen he was sent away from home by his father to a Boarding School, where he pursued the usual studies preparatory for entering College. These studies he completed at the University Grammar School in Providence, and then, in 1859, entered Brown University. There he remained one year, and emerged thence into the law office of Messrs. B. and S. S. Lapham in Providence. He was admitted to the bar in 1864. But in the meantime he felt called to serve his country in the cause of the threatened Union. He enlisted, in 1862, as private in the Nine Months 12th Regt. R. I. Vols., and soon found himself promoted to a 2d Lieutenantcy. He resigned this office in April, 1863, returned home, and was forthwith commissioned as Col. of a militia Regt. then being organized for anticipated actual service. Fortunately that service was not needed. But its Col. was wanted in the civic sphere. His native town, old Smithfield, R. I., elected him three successive terms its representative in the State Legislature, and was not disappointed in his competency. In the spring of 1867 he was elected Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas for the County of Providence, a position which he filled acceptably for eight years. Then, desiring a field of greater activity, he resumed the practice of law—his residence being in the city of Providence. In 1882 that city elected him one of its representatives in the State General Assembly. He was reelected to the same office in '83, and was renominated for 1884, but defeated, on account of having supported a plan for enlarging the terminal facilities of railroads in the city. This, however, proved only a momentary freak of popular displeasure, for in 1885 his fellow citizens recalled him to their service, and sent him again to the legislative chamber. But the duties of that position made such a draft on his professional engagements that in the autumn he felt obliged to resign. He signalized himself in the Legislature by eminent services as Chairman of the Committee on Corporations, and won a good reputation. In 1886 he was elected to a seat in the Providence City Council for one year, and would have been reelected but declined. His hands are full of professional business as a lawyer, but he will probably yet be heard of in still higher seats of official dignity. Thus he must be accorded a front rank among the influential members of our general Family. As such we register him, and all the more gladly, because he has manifested so lively and generous an interest in this Ballou History and Genealogy.

Industrious, exemplary, worthy people. They have resided in Upton, Mendon and Milford, Mass.,—latterly many years in Milford. George B.' is a machinist, Mrs. Fannie manages a boarding house, and Fred. L.' now works as a machinist at Hopedale. We think the latter has had offspring, but are not informed of exact particulars.

It may not be improper, though somewhat out of place, to supply certain dates in the family record of Daniel Ballou⁶, either not seasonably received or inadvertently overlooked when that record went to press. See said record, page 559. His 1st wife, Mary Brown, was b. Feb. 15, 1778, and d. Apl. 15, 1810, a. 32 yrs. and 2 mos. We will further say that we have felt obliged, by the pressure on our pages, to pass over the descendants of Amey Bailou⁶, who m. Philip Walden, some of whom are conspicuous in society, but were reported in fragments. We must do the same in similar cases as we proceed. The next of these that occurs embraces the descendants of Amasa Ballou⁶, son of Sylvanus⁵, and Pearly (Ballou) Bates, wife of Nahum Bates and dr. of Maj. William⁵, Rev. Abner⁴. We have items in all these cases, but they are broken and disconnected. So we come to.—

Their family record is given, among the descendants of Dr. Peter Ballou⁶, on pp. 834–5. Thus much for the descent of Eliza Ballou⁷.

Family home, since 1842, in Gloucester, R. I. Sensible, substantial, worthy people—mentally and physically alive in thought and usefulness. Mrs. Maria A.⁷ is a devoted Universalist, and we presume her husband and children sympathize in a common faith, hope and charity. Their home is a favorite resort of religious friends, and every year a conspicuous place of denominational conference gatherings. We have found Mrs. Brown a ready, frank and helpful correspondent in this work, anxious for its publication.

We now arrive again at the descendants of Rev. Abner Ballou through his dr. Abigail, who m. John Fiske. We are reminded by Fred M. Ballou, Esq., that over a year ago he sent us the ancient pedigree of John Fiske, which has remained thus far unnoticed. It was overlooked, or escaped our recollection. We therefore make the best amends in our power by inserting it here. It runs thus: "John Fiske¹², Major John¹¹, Josiah¹⁰ Samuel⁹, Dea. William⁸, Rev. John of Salem, Mass., in 1637⁷, John⁶, William⁵, Robert⁴, Richard³, William², Simon¹ of Stradhaugh parish, Saxfield, Suffolk Co., Eng., whose wife was Sarah Smyth." The reader will please remember that these Fiskes all inherit this pedigree on the paternal side, without farther mention.

[3898.] JAMES BALLOU FISKE, JR.,⁷ James B. Fiske⁶, John Fiske and Abigail Ballou⁵, Rev. Abner⁴, &c.; b. in Bangor, Me., June 15, 1816; m. Elizabeth C. Barker of said Bangor Aug. 28, 1849. No issue.

James B. Jr.,⁷ followed in the footsteps of his honored father in mercantile pursuits, for a like period of half a century, illustrated the same excellent characteristics, with the same success, and died in 1883 with the same stainless reputation.

[3899.] REBECCA MARGARET FISKE⁶, sister of the foregoing; b. in Bangor, Me., Jan. 23, 1818; m. William Sandford of said Bangor; cer. Dec. 6, 1849. Issue.—

[3900.] REV. JOHN ORR FISKE⁷, the next in age of James Ballou Fiske, Jr.'s chn.; b. in Bangor, Me., July 13, 1819; m. Mary A. Tappan, dr. of Rev. Dr. Benjamin Tappan of Augusta, Me.; cer. Sept. 19, 1848. Issue.—

8480—2. Mary McGaw Fiske, b. May 28, '60.

There was another dr., name not given, who d. young. Rev. Dr. John Orr Fiske is a talented, learned and pious man, long the faithful and revered pastor of a Congregational Church in Bath, Me. He graduated from Bowdoin College, spent two years in Vernon, Miss., as a private tutor, studied theology in the Bangor Theological Seminary, and graduated thence in 1842. He was ordained, in 1843, pastor of the Congregational Church on Winter St., Bath, Me., where he remained forty years, till feeble health necessitated his resignation Aug. 19, 1883. He has always been a diligent student, distinguished for unwearied energy, devotedness and success in his sacred calling. He has been deservedly honored by his brethren with the Presidency of the Maine Missionary Society, the titular degree of D. D., membership on the Board of Overseers or Trustees of Bowdoin College, and on its Examining Committee. These last mentioned positions he filled to general acceptance during almost the entire period of his ministry. He has meanwhile been a contributor to the public press, and published sermons on various topics. At last advices he was in delicate health, living quietly retired with his family, enjoying the love and veneration of all who knew him. The following rhythmic testimonial was tendered him on his retirement from Forty Years of Pastoral Work.—

BY MRS. SUSAN M. SPALDING, OF PHILADELPHIA.

Mourn not, O Teacher, that thy work is done;
Thine is no idle, fallow field, that lies
Unsown, unreaped, beneath the autumn skies;
But one made fair with faithful service, one
Where countless golden sheaves lie in the sun,
Thy tribute to God's harvest. The sweet right
Awhile he gives, to fold thy hands ere night;
Awhile to enjoy the rest thy toil has won.
Nor count thy work as done. For many still Shall lean upon thy heart; in grief or care
Thy consolation and thy counsel claim.
And though thy voice is hushed in praise or prayer,
Nor tongue nor speech thou'lt need to do God's will,
Still shall thy silence glorify His name.

Bath, Maine, Aug. 12, 1883.

There remain several more of Abigail (Ballou) Fiske's great grand chn. on our furnished files, whose family records we feel obliged to exclude, on account of the ponderous growth of our book. We regret disappointing expectations, but deem it excusable, if not indispensable to hold up, and omit all remaining gt. gd. chn. of Ballous in the female branches of descent. And this we shall do henceforth.

8482-2. William Herbert, b. in Blackstone, Mass., July 17, 1849; m. L. B. Broughton.

Fred. M. Ballouⁱ left the district school on Cumberland Hill, R. I., at 12 yrs. of age. In 1831, he served as an apprentice with Dr. Cullen Lamb, and as Clerk with Rev. Stephen Cutler. In the Spring of 1832 he entered the Counting Room of W. & D. D. Farnum, woolen manufacturers at (Waterford) Blackstone, Mass. While filling the position of book-keeper, in 1838, for three mills, mostly without assistance, feeling the need of a better education, he, in connection with the late George F. Wilson of East Providence, R. I., hired a vacant shoemaker's shop, and from that time till the summer of 1840 the boys gave 6 hours out of the 24 to sleep, and the remaining 18 hours to labor and study. In 1840 Darius D. Farnum, the junior partner died, and his labors like a mantle fell on the shoulders of the book-keeper, who thenceforward gave the 18 hours per day to hard labor in the office. It was a sad disappointment, as his studies preparatory to a college course were nearly completed. From this time he was confidential clerk and paymaster till 1846, when he was put in charge of the Millville Woolen Mill as Superintendent. In 1848 in company with Evans & Seagrave of Providence, he leased the Farnum Mill, No. 2, at Waterford, and carried on the manufacture of Fancy Cassimeres till 1856, when, on account of sickness, he removed to Keene, N. H. From 1857 to 1859 he was Managing Agent of the Broadbrook Woolen Mill at Broadbrook, Conn. In 1860 he removed to Providence, R. I., where he and his wife during that year became members of the Episcopal Church. He resumed his business at Waterford, Mass., with his old partners, which was continued with good results till 1872, when he retired from active business in that line. From 1850 to 1856 he was a Director in the Worcester County Bank of Blackstone, Mass., and of the Producers Bank at Woonsocket, R. I., respectively. Later also Director in the Cheshire County Bank, Keene, N. H., from 1856 to 1860 inclusive. Still later he has held the same office in the Weybosset Bank and Weybosset National Bank, Providence, R. I., from 1861 to the present time, 1888. He represented the City of Providence in the State Legislature in 1870 and 1883, and was a member of the City Council in the years 1878, '79 and '80. He was well known in the Blackstone Valley as a practical woolen manufacturer, a good financier, and systematic business man, who attended strictly to his own business.

He manifested a lively interest in the publication of this book early in 1882, by generously subscribing to its fund. This was but a prelude to what followed. The publishers, Dr. Ariel Ballou and Hon. Latimer W. Ballou, having their hands full of indispensable professional and official duties, greatly needed competent researchers and collectors of data. Frederick M.⁷ became their principal agent in this line. He had some business leisure from personal pursuits, and went to work for them—stipulating to serve gratuitously, if his cash expenses only were paid. And he has wrought diligently for the enterprise ever since. He has travelled extensively, once visiting Europe, and making laborious researches for the ascertainment of our family ancestry. He has corresponded in behalf of the work with hosts of the Ballou cousins. Then, meantime, a great misfortune overtook us in the sickness and death of the senior proprietor, Dr. Ariel Ballou. This devolved additional responsibilities on our volunteer helper, and has added largely to his labors. We trust that these valuable services, so generously rendered, will command the heartfelt appreciation of all the recipients.

William Ross Ballou^r left fatherless in early childhood, was virtually adopted by his paternal grandfather, Dennis Ballou^r, at the age of 7 years. He bore a strong physical and mental resemblance to Dennis^r, and was one of his greatest favorites. They were two of the most executive, hard workers in Rhode Island—tireless farmers. William R.^r came within a hair's breadth of death, in his youth, from a stroke of lightning. He was hoeing potatoes in a field with a young lad. A thunder shower suddenly came up, and the two took refuge under an adjacent tree. Presently an electric bolt struck the tree, laid them prostrate, tore their clothing to strings, and left them scorched and senseless. The lad first partially recovered his consciousness. The rain had fortunately quenched their burning garments, but William R. lay a seeming corpse. Half blind and stupefied, the boy groped his way to the house and announced William dead. Several helpers quickly rallied, hastened, near half a mile, to the fatal spot, found the patient a little revived, took him to the house, put him in bed, called in a doctor, and with many ministrations finally restored him. But he has ever since worn a significant scar on his back to attest the electrical danger from which he barely escaped alive. He inherits a goodly farm partly from his grandfather, is the same energetic worker, cutting a cord and a half of wood per short winter day when he chooses, is a strict economist, owes no man anything but good will, is square and upright in all his dealings, but never indulges in self-glorification.

Mrs. Emily R. is a fitting match for him in all industrial, economical, domestic good qualities and moral worth. She abounds in strong common sense, general intelligence and Christian piety. She has taken immense pains to collect for us and communicate valuable genealogical data relating to her husband's branch of the Ballous, as well as her own pedigree. She will please accept our grateful acknowledgment of her services, and excuse our omission of much she has given in the way of amplification, comment and counsel, which lack of space imperatively necessitates. We understand the family home to be in Willow Dale, No. Smithfield, R. I. If otherwise, we are sure it is not far from Woonsocket, R. I.

What a lamentable succession of bereavements! Cyrus Newell Ballou is an intelligent, energetic, patriotic citizen. He enlisted Aug. 8, 1862, at Fonda, N. Y., as a private in Co. A, 115th Regt. N. Y. Vols.; was appointed 1st Sergeant August 28th of the same month, commissioned 2d Lieut. April 6, 1864, and Capt. April 14, 1865. He was in the following battles.—Maryland Heights, Sept. 12, 1862; Harper's Ferry, 12th to 15th Sept.; Oluster, Fla., Feb. 20, '64; Chester Heights, May 7, '64; Weir Bottom Church, Proctor Creek, Drury Bluff, Bermuda Hundreds, Cold Harbor, Petersburg (including mine explosion), Strawberry Plains, and Deep Bottom. There he was taken prisoner and confined successively in Libby, Salisbury and Danville Prisons; but was at length paroled Feb. 22, 1865. He was several times seriously wounded in these battles, and his Co. and Regt. suffered heavy losses in their bloody conflicts. His Co., A, mustered into the war 101 enlisted men, of whom only 15 returned home July 2, 1865. These with their Capt. were honorably mustered out of service when the war closed. Capt. Ballou has given us interesting details of his experiences, which the pinch of our diminishing space excludes. One remarkable fact must, however, be stated. His sword, taken from him when made prisoner, was magnanimously returned to him by its captor, or rather by his instructions to its keeper. This was done soon after peace was restored. The captor sent it to a friend for safe keeping, but was himself killed in one of the latest battles of the war. He seems to have conceived a generous admiration for Capt. Ballou, and directed the custodian, if any fatality befel himself, to return the trophy to its original gallant owner, which was accordingly done. A very uncommon, noble and gratifying transaction, especially to the favored party.

Harrison Wm. Healy⁷ was a farmer before the War of the Rebellion, went patriotically into his country's service on the second call for troops, in Co. F, 4th N. Y. Artillery, was sunstruck on duty, and became a disabled soldier. He draws a pension of $30 per month, but otherwise has experienced a continuous flood of bitter adversity. The sad effect of his sunstroke worked into chronic neuralgia of the head, and finally settled in his eyes, rendering him nearly blind. He was under medical care seven years, and had his house burnt down and most of his goods consumed in 1883. Six months later his wife died, after a long sickness, and he feels himself a fated target of calamities. He eagerly craves a copy of this work, but feels too poor to pay for one, and we have assured him one as our own personal gift. His home is now in Syracuse, N. Y. We refrain from pursuing our data into the record of his chn. and gd. chn.

We have found him a ready, open handed correspondent, and a hearty well wisher to this publication. He encourages it by word and deed. He is deservedly popular among all classes of his associates. Luman Adolphus Ballou, son of Jirah and Sarah Jane (Hayleton) Ballou, has taken much pains to furnish us their family record. He gives us a full account of the living and dead—the parents and chn. It abounds with good characteristics and pathetic experiences. He speaks in the highest terms of his father and mother, as exemplars of the Christian virtues through a life of patient struggles with adversity, down to death-beds of anguish, but triumphant hope of a blissful immortality in the kingdom of their divine Redeemer. He relates many touching incidents in the short lives of his brothers and sisters who passed away in youth. Had we more space at command, we would gladly present several of these incidents, but as it is, we will refrain. Mrs. Sarah Jane (Hayleton) Ballou died in Danby, Vt., Oct. 14, 1858, a. 38 yrs. 5 mos. and 9 ds. Jirah Ballou died in the same town July 30, 1860, aged 44 yrs. 9 mos. and 2 ds.

JAMIN BALLOU⁷, Jirah⁷, b. as above; m. Florence Town, dr. of William Town, Dorset, Vt.; cer. there 1865. Issue, four children, three of whom are living. We solicited his family record, but could not obtain it. What little we can tell of him was kindly communicated by his more confiding brother, Luman A. From him we learn that Jamin⁸ served his country as a subaltern officer of a Co. in the 7th Regt. Vermont Vols., from the autumn of 1861 to Mar. 14, 1866. He went with his Regt. to Ship Island, up the Red River, &c. He was at the capture of Vicksburg and Mobile, and finally mustered out of service at Brownsville, Texas, March 14, 1866. His marriage took place in 1865 while home on a brief furlough. Present family home in Bristol, N. H.

We have found Luman Adolphus Ballou to be an intelligent, large hearted, noble minded cousin, and a cordial correspondent. He has done all he could to collect and furnish us desirable data concerning his lineage, which but for him would have remained almost blank to us. He was left by the death of his father to shift for himself at the age of 16, and with considerable fraternal responsibility for the welfare of a younger brother and sister. This he discharged generously and faithfully. When the Secession War broke out, he was ambitious to become a soldier for the Union, and offered himself as such. But he was several times rejected on account of his youth and slenderness. At length he was accepted as a recruit to Co. G, 7th Regt. Vt. Vols. He served valiantly from Dec. 16, 1863, till March 14, 1865, when he was honorably discharged. He has since applied himself to farming, and latterly to the cattle traffic—dealing successfully in horses, neat stock and sheep. He has owned farms in several towns of his native State, but finally settled down in Windham. There he and his family are in good standing. He is Constable and Tax Collector of his town, and a Deputy Sheriff of his county.

Here is a sterling and loyal cousin. He says.—“If there is anything in this world that I feel proud of it is our family name—Ballou.” Let us all give him a hailing response of congratulation. And we can also congratulate ourselves that his talents and character reflect honor on our name. He had early aspirations after knowledge and usefulness, and has attained them. After acquiring a liberal education in the scholastic institutions of the West, he chose the medical profession as the highway of his life-career, accomplished himself by the requisite courses of lectures, graduated among the foremost of his compeers, and has become a successful physician and surgeon. His home is in Burnett’s Creek, White Co., Ind., where he has established an enduring name and fame. But his genius does not confine itself to the practice of medicine and surgery. He is a scientist, and even wooes the poetic Muse. He is a Geologist and Mineralogist of rising distinction, and claims to own one of the best individual Geological and Mineralogical Collections in the State. So he heals the sick, rectifies fractured organisms, and gathers up the wonders of the crusted earth. Nor does he neglect the welfare of souls in time or eternity; for withal he is an active Methodist Christian. And we will presume that he has a helpmeet worthy of him to share his labors and joys. He hails the preparation of this volume with cheerful and encouraging greetings.

Concerning Emor Smith Ballou’s large family nothing additional to what was given on p. 658 has been received.

This Hosea Ballou is a man of superior intelligence, judgment, moral integrity, and estimable character in all the relationships of life. He is highly respected and beloved by all who know him.

He has always been a diligent and economical business man to the acquirement of a comfortable competency though not large wealth. He has never enjoyed robust health, and has suffered from some unwelcome casualties, but has discharged the duties of a useful life with commendable fidelity, fortitude and persistency. He removed from N. Y., to his present home in Sullivan, Ohio, soon after marriage, and has pursued several different lines of employment, such as the sale of drugs and medicines, various commercial agencies, and common husbandry. He has taken a deep interest from the beginning in the preparation of this History and Genealogy, was a helpful correspondent of Mr. Peck many years ago, and is renewedly so of the present compiler. We hope he will reap a harvest of enjoyment when this volume shall reach him. Family home in Sullivan, Ashland Co., O.

Major Sylvester A. Ballou' has made up a life record replete with stirring and almost romantic experiences. At the age of 11 years he was active about his father's tannery, in his shoemaking shop, and in farming affairs. His youth was ripened by these pursuits, and intervening well improved school privileges. At 19 he was an acceptable school teacher in northern Ohio, recruiting impaired health. When the California gold fever spread its contagion over the continent in 1849, he took it in company with his brother Volney, who had just sailed around the world; and they shipped themselves "before the mast" for a voyage via Cape Horn to San Francisco. Thence they made haste to the gold mines of El Dorado Co., gathered plentifully the yellow ore, and superadded the profits of lucrative traffic. When California became a State of the Union, civic honors were thrust upon him. He was sent to the Legislature at the age of 24—first to the Representatives' chamber, and later to that of the Senate. He served through several successive terms as a legislator, and became famous. He was a reform Democrat, sided with Douglas and his adherents against the temporizing policy of Pres. Buchanan, and resolutely stood up for California as a Free Union State. He was a strong personal and political friend of Senator Broderick, who lost his life in the duel with Terry. The newspapers lionized him. Returning to Illinois he was ready when the storm cloud of Secession burst to enter the Union army. He did so as a Lieutenant, became a Captain, held several special positions of important trust, and came out a Major. He commenced his perils in the rough campaign of Southeastern Missouri, and after being commissioned as Captain was made Commissary of Subsistence in the general Staff Department of the army. He participated largely in the battles, sieges and memorable achievements which opened the Mississippi, and swept the rebel forces from Tennessee, Georgia and the farther South, and which was consummated by General Sherman's triumphant march to the sea. He has given us more details than our exhausted space will hold.

At the close of the war he was honorably mustered out, with the offer of a Captaincy in the Regular Army, which he declined. He was surfeited with the crimson glories of war, and, to use his own words, "settled down to the quiet and peaceful pursuit of farming—utterly ignoring public life and preferment—happy and contented with the wife of his choice, and the tender vines growing up about them."

Daniel W. Ballou' was a capable, well educated, strong minded, upright man, greatly respected by all who knew him. He spent a considerable part of his adult life as an instructor of youth, and in that important sphere of usefulness left hallowed memorials of his excellence. Many a plastic soul, formed by him to intelligence and moral rectitude, gratefully appreciates his labors. But he was also a patriot and hero. On President Lincoln's first call for troops to save the Union, in 1861, he made himself a sacrificial offering to his country. He enlisted as a private in Co. K, of the 10th Regt. Ill. Infantry, and went at once into the Missouri department of operations. He was soon placed on the body-guard of Gen. Lyon, and was near him when he fell at the battle of Wilson's Creek. He was quickly appreciated, and made Captain of Cavalry Co. K, in the 10th Missouri Regt. Thenceforth he was kept in perilous active service, up and down the Valley of the Mississippi, during the war. He participated in no less than fifteen regular engagements and a multitude of sharp skirmishes, always leading his men, and taking the foremost positions of danger. His dash and bravery became proverbial in the army; and in the battle of Champion Hills, at the head of his single Co., they captured a whole Rebel Battery. But he came out of the war with an incurable wound received at the siege of Vicksburg, which caused him a vast amount of pain till it terminated in death. He carried an unextractable Rebel bullet in his lungs for 23 years, and finally died from its effects, in Oakland, Cal., Mar. 9, 1885, a. 47 yrs. and 13 ds. Among his other distinctions, he won public favor as a local editor. He multiplied friends in whatever position he occupied. He appears to have enjoyed the rich blessing of an intelligent, affectionate and appreciative wife; for though he was a Universalist and she a Methodist, she writes of his moral worth in the highest terms, as that noblest of God's works—"an honest man."

Morgan Ballou' was liberally endowed with the meritorious qualities which distinguished his father's large family. He was brought up a farmer boy, with fair educational privileges, which he improved to good account for executive business agencies in mature life. At the age of 19 yrs. he enlisted in Co. B, 33d Regt. Ill. Vol. Infantry, and went resolutely into the war for the Union. He participated in the heroic activities of the Southern army, and fought at Vicksburg, Jackson, Helena, Champion Hills, &c. Near the close of the war it fell to his lot to be stationed in the unhealthy regions of Louisiana and Texas, where he contracted a disease which clung to him with more or less debilitation through all his remaining years till death. But he came home, engaged in active business, generally agent or manager for organized corporations, married a good wife, cherished his children, cultivated social amenities, and by rare generosity to all around him, made hosts of personal friends. So when death overtook him, his remains went down to the grave with unusual lamentations and honors. He died May 26, 1881, a. 37 yrs. 4 mos. and 24 ds. He made no religious profession. His widow is a devout Congregationalist.

Lorenzo D. Ballou is a man of fine abilities, executive activity, high moral tone, and reputable character. He served an apprenticeship at printing in Kalamazoo and Detroit, Mich. In 1847 he sought employment in New York City, where he continued several years; working, first and last, in the most distinguished Book and Newspaper offices of that metropolis, and coming in contact occasionally with many eminent men then at the head of the public press. This gave him almost university education, and a more practical one than college graduates ordinarily obtain. In 1855 he went into the general country store business in Otsego, Mich., later bought himself a farm, and managed it awhile, and still later served seven years as Mail Route Agent between Grand Rapids, Mich., and Elkhart, Ind. Since July, 1883, he has been living a quiet life in his Otsego home, caring tenderly for his invalid wife, and profitably revolving the recollections of his past busy career.

May the afternoon sunshine of mortal life smile propitiously on him and all dear to him.

Adaline Almira (Ballou) Scoville and husband are believed to be very worthy people. They are poor but honest. They are now at Bingham Canon, Utah, a sort of mining camp, still struggling on—he in poor health. In answer to our inquiry, What is your religious faith, &c., he answers: "Honesty is the best policy"—nothing more. Gilmore of military fame. We are much disappointed at not receiving Col. Leslie's family record, which was repeatedly promised us. His war record was a brilliant one. He went into the conflict for the Union as Captain, and came out a Col. He is the father of 10 chn., whose names and birth-dates are lost to our Genealogy. The family home has been, much of the time for many years, in Northport, Mich. But Col. 8874—2. George Meade Leslie, b. in Northport, Mich., July 18, '72.

Byron O. Leslie grew up into the occupation of Joiner, Carpenter and Millwright, which he followed successfully for several years, and perhaps does still occasionally. When the war of the Rebellion broke out, he had a patriotic ambition to serve his country as a soldier. And he repeatedly tried to enlist, but was rejected again and again because of his fleshiness—he weighing 225 lbs., and seeming to be unfit for marching. But in 1864 he got accepted and went to the front. His army regimen and fatigues soon reduced his weight to 180 lbs., and he did good service. Finding him an expert mechanic, the commanding authorities detailed him to serve in the Construction Corps, where his ingenuity and skill proved him to be the right man in the right place. Some time after the war he joined his father in the purchase of a valuable farm in Northport, Mich., on which he permanently settled down. His venerable widowed mother had her home on the same jointly owned premises when we last heard from her.

[4729.] MARION ALMIRA LESLIE⁷, dr. of Eliza (Ballou) Leslie⁶; b. in Amherst, O., Apl. 14, 1838; m. Peter Kessler. They have had no chn. So we have nothing further to report concerning the descendants of Manning and Eliza (Ballou) Leslie.

EUGENE ARMSTRONG^c, b. as above; was last reported to us a policeman in Providence, R. I.

We here acknowledge our grateful indebtedness to Miss Lydia C. Armstrong of Chepachet, R. I., a niece of John Armstrong, for all the above data concerning her uncle and his descendants. She took much pains to help us, and without her kind assistance we could have written nothing of value about them.

It reports that her funeral was solemnized with unusual demonstrations of reverent affection.

A very intelligent, noble minded, high principled family. We have found Melissa (Arnold) Clark, now the widow of William Henry Clark, a willing, careful and instructive correspondent. From her we have learned what otherwise we should have had no knowledge of, that both she and her husband were descendants of Roger Williams. His maternal grandmother, the wife of Asa Ballou^a, was Roba Williams^c (Nathan Williams, Jr.,^b Nathan Williams, Sen.,^d Joseph Williams^e, James Williams^f, Roger Williams^g). Mrs. Melissa was the daughter of Abigail (Williams) Arnold^c (Nathan Williams, Jr.,^b Nathan Williams, Sen.,^d Joseph Williams^e, James Williams^f, Roger Williams^g). Thus ran this almost royal blood.

William Henry Clark and wife lived first after marriage in Woonsocket, R. I., till 1856, then 2 years in Providence, R. I., and then 22 years in Burrillville, R. I. For a time he was a dealer in dry goods, but in Burrillville was long a conspicuous butcher and farmer. His fellow citizens there appreciated him so highly that they elected him first their Representative to the General Assembly and later their Senator in that body. He died very suddenly of heart disease Jan. 3, 1880, aged 57 yrs. 4 mos. and 26 ds. We inquired of his honored widow about his religion and character, as also about her own church relationship. She belongs to Friends' Society, and we have no doubt adorns her profession as a friend of God, divine principles and mankind. Of her husband, she says.—“His name was on no church book, yet he obeyed the Christ within better than most Christians. He was a man of sterling qualities, knowing mind, and excellent judgment,—sternly just, true and noble—a kind, loving father, and a pleasant companion.” Who can desire a better testimonial? The widow's home is in Chepachet, R. I.

We have tried hard to trace the pedigree of Jared Ballou, but with no success. From the scanty traditions which have reached us, it is pretty certain that he is a descendant of James Ballou², b. out of wedlock, probably a great grandson. But who his father was we can hardly conjecture, and shall not try. Of his death-date and that of his wife there seems to be no record. Mr. Bassett, the historian of Richmond, N. H., could find only imperfect data concerning him and his descent. We have not attempted to make any research behind him, and give only what he ascertained.

Sampson, (perhaps bride's Rev. father or brother). Issue, b. in said Jacksonville.—

8944—1. Ella Elizabeth, b. Dec. 31, 1883.

John H. Ballou is one of our worthy colored cousins. But whether he is a descendant of Maturin' we are unable to determine. From the fact that his father was born in Richmond, Va., it is most probable that he sprung from the Virginia Line of Ballous, (hereafter to be noticed). However this may be, it is a pleasure to testify that he is a man of superior mind, talents and character—an able lawyer and editor. We learn that his father came long ago to Providence, R. I., where he married Anna Uchee, dr. of Amory Uchee, an Americanized Chinaman, who lived and d. a favorite ship employé of Hon. Edward Carrington. David N. Ballou was an intelligent master barber and musician. As a musician he was leader of the long famous Rhode Island Brass Band, and, in connection with his brother, John H. Ballou, published a large number of original musical compositions for bands, the piano and guitar. At the same time he was prominent in all public measures designed to elevate his race,—among others securing coequal school rights and privileges for the colored people of R. I., by legislative enactments. Of course he took care that this son, John H., should have a good education. Accordingly he enjoyed the common school advantages of Providence, and then qualified himself for a professional career. He secured two years of well drilled tuition under the select private preceptorship of C. W. Tarlton; studied law under Edward C. Ames, Esq., son of Hon. Samuel Ames, late Chief Justice of R. I. Supreme Court; and, at the age of twenty-one, was admitted to the bar, in June, 1874—the first colored man ever regularly authorized to practice law in R. I., and the only one there admitted to the forum of the U. S. Courts. He practiced seven years in Providence, and meantime edited and published the Eastern Review, a weekly newspaper devoted to the interests of the colored people—the first of its kind ever published in New England. He was conspicuously successful, in connection with Geo. T. Downing, James Jefferson, &c., in wiping from the statute book of R. I. the last old law that discriminated against the rights of the colored race. In 1881, he emigrated to Jacksonville, Fla., where he has distinguished himself in the practice of his profession, and even more in editing the Freeman's Journal, a weekly newspaper having one of the largest circulations obtained by any colored periodical in the South. May he continue to prosper in every good work and word.

BALLOUS OF LEGALIZED ORIGIN.

These are the descendants of JOHN BULLOUGH, son of Joseph, an emigrant from England, who settled in Newton, Mass., perhaps between 1740 and '50, and d. there in the spring of 1752. Among his chn. was the aforesaid John, who about fifty odd years ago, not far from 1838, petitioned the legislature of Massachusetts for a change of surname from Bullough to Ballou, that he, his children and descendants might thenceforth bear the name of Ballou. The petition was granted. He then or soon afterward resided in Newburyport, Mass., where he died not far from 1840. We have corresponded briefly with some of his descendants, none of whom seemed to expect their family records to appear in this work, though friendly to its publication. They furnished us some genealogical data, but it is too fragmentary to be of much use to them, and still less to the Ballous in general. We therefore content ourselves with this summary statement of their case.

THE VIRGINIA LINE OF BALLOUS.

There are numerous families of Ballous scattered through Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, and other Southern States, all originating in Virginia. We therefore denominate them The Virginia Line of Ballous. In 1875-6-7, Mr. Peck held an important correspondence with several heads of these families, hoping to bring the whole Line into this then incipient production. Since the compilation came into our hands, comparatively few additions have been made to the data he obtained. So much labor was evolved in our undertaking that it seemed impossible to extend our researches much beyond the descendants of Maturin Ballou¹. But it has been thought indispensable to include all we know of this Virginia Line, however incomplete, within the lids of our expanded volume. We will endeavor to do so as judiciously as possible.

We have to start in this attempt amid considerable obscurity and uncertainty. For it appears from the letters of these distant cousins that the present generation of them have no authentic documents to certify the arrival and first settlement of their forefathers in Virginia. They have a tradition that they were persecuted French Protestants, and came directly from France. Also that they were all relatives of the New England Ballous. The latter may be true, but the former is probably as groundless as the same myth so long cherished here. See our Introduction. There are reliable records that Col. William Ballou, a veteran English military officer, who, after a long struggle, obtained a meagre portion of his dues for army service, secured valuable land grants in Virginia as early as 1651 and '52. There is some reason for conjecturing that he was an uncle of our ancestor Maturin¹. He may or may not have had children to inherit his lands, or if not children, nephews to patronize. But our Virginia correspondents do not refer at all to Col. William Ballou or to his heirs. They name as two of their earliest immigrant ancestors Rice Merideth Ballou and Bennett Ballou, brothers—the latter soon killed by the Indians. They also say that Rice Merideth Ballou had several nephews who settled in North Carolina; among them a Peter and William Ballou. Peter was a wealthy and distinguished man in Burke Co., N. C., and for many years its Representative in the State Legislature. This lineage is said to be numerous in North Carolina and elsewhere in the South. But we have no definite genealogical information concerning them. What we have relates chiefly to the descent of Rice Merideth Ballou. This is more or less imperfect, and comes down only to the year 1876.

8945—RICE MERIDETH BALLOU¹, birth-date and place not ascertained; m. — at a date unknown. Issue.—

Several of these drs. had husbands. Three are mentioned—a Mr. Johns, Mr. Anderson, and Mr. Higginbotham, but without definitely distinguishing their wives.

All we can deduce from the letters before us is, that this Leonard Ballou³, wife and family were pious Baptists, and very enterprising people; that sometime during the Revolutionary War Leonard² took a drove of beef cattle to Philadelphia for sale, where he was attacked by small pox and died; and that later his widow and several of her chn. emigrated to West Tennessee.

It seems strange that nothing is mentioned concerning the mother of this large family, but the same singularity is observable in their father's report of his own brothers and sisters. As we have seen, his own mother is not named. Probably this was the genealogical fashion to which he was accustomed. We have before us a small pamphlet commemorating briefly his life and public services. It purports to have been written by his widowed sister, Mrs. Virginia Frances (Ballou) Davis of Petersburg, Va., whose husband fell among the slain braves of the South in their war for Secession Independence. It indicates clearly that her brother, Dr. James T. Ballou, deprecated the Secession movement, and foreboded evil results from it; but felt sacredly bound, as a patriot, to stand by his State, and go into the war with all his heart and energies. She ascribes to him a character of the highest personal, professional and martial excellence. In religion he was from early youth a devoted Methodist—always zealous for his faith, and always self-sacrificing for its propagation. Yet at the same time the most humane sympathizer with all the unfortunate classes. As a surgeon in the army he became the idol of the soldiers, by his untiring exertions in behalf of the wounded, the dying and their bereaved families. In fine, he was a model in exemplifying the noblest virtues. We have no space for a more specific summary of her testimony to his worth. It should be added, however, that he was a poet of admirable genius. We learn from one of his daughters in Wytheville, Va., that the Dr., her father, d. Sept. 26, 1882, a. 59 yrs. 11 mos. and 4 ds. He had resided, first and last, in several different localities of his native State, besides Petersburg; Gladerville, Wise Co., in 1874, for one, one, but where he d. we do not understand.

Among our data a Miss BELLE BALLOU is referred to as a teacher in the Female College at Georgetown, Ky., but no hint is given of her relationship. There must be a large number of this Virginia Line unreported to us. They are scattered through all the Southern and Southwestern States, and we must leave them to the research of some future genealogical successor. Of the foregoing and their kindred, Rev. Joseph Ballou says.—“The Ballou family have generally followed farming and merchandizing, have sought or held few offices; and have been Baptists in religious faith, with very few exceptions.”

INDEX TO NAMES.

Many names are excluded from this Index, as too unimportant for reference to require specific mention. These are the names of localities, of persons who solemnized marriages, of deceased infants and minors under sixteen years of age, of progenitors repeated again and again in family records, and of persons more properly noticed in the General Index or only incidentally spoken of. But we have intended to include the names of all parents and their children who did not die under sixteen years of age. Many of these may be readily found by a glance at our headings of pages, running all through the book. But this Index is far more definite and reliable. It does not refer to numbers at all, but wholly to pages. The page or pages referred to in each case cover all the particulars desirable to find concerning the person named; that is his or her entire family record and biographical sketch—descent, parentage, marriage, birth, occupation, characteristics, residence, death, &c. Thus minute specifications are superseded by this simple, comprehensive form of indication. In the cases of unmarried and childless persons the pages noted give only birth and death, with the little that is said of them. In the abbreviations used, s. stands for son of, d. for daughter of, h. for husband of, w. for wife of, and where applicable B. for Ballou.

ERRATA.

It is next to impossible, in a work of this nature and magnitude, to avoid errors. Many have escaped our notice, and will only be discovered by critical readers and persons well acquainted with their own respective family records. We have noticed a considerable number, of various kinds, which seem too unimportant for specific correction. But there are a few which we regret, and which it would be inexcusable not to notice. Such are the following:—

1. A part of the reference numbers became unaccountably deranged between pages 787 and 974, varying erroneously from 1 to 12, so that they cannot be trusted without making allowance. See Elvira Frost, numbered on p. 787 as 1931, which should be 1942. The numbers come right in the case of Mary Ann Ballou¹, dr. of Dennis⁶, on p. 974.

2. We find ourselves at fault very strangely in omitting to insert several family names. One of these is Sena Ann Cook, dr. of Stephen and Miranda Cook⁶, b. in West Wrentham, Mass., Jan. 23, 1828. Her name should have appeared on p. 406. Another is the name and birth-date of Oren A. Ballou's youngest son, Sidney Miller Ballou, b. October 24, 1870, which should have appeared in the parental family record on p. 1040.

3. A few other cases must be mentioned. On p. 1165, the name of Rollin E. Ballou's wife should be Mosetta—not Rosetta Brown. On p. 347, concerning the wife of James B. Rounds, "Mrs. Rachel" should be Mrs. Elizabeth. On p. 893, "Burton" S. Bullard should be Barton S. On p. 952, James Ballou should read Henry Ballou. On p. 457, Harriet A. Taber should read H. A. Taber Brown. On p. 596, the death of Hattie Curtis should bear date 1867, not 1857. On p. 195, and numerous repetitions, the pedigree of the Browns is given: Stephen, Joseph, John, John. It should be—Stephen, Joseph, Henry, Henry. Here we refrain from specification, leaving many kindred instances to the indulgent good sense of our readers.
